Fire routed two families from bed this morning as flames gutted a shed adjoining two houses on Aylmer St. Damage was confined to the shed which contained home appliances and kitchens opening into the shed. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kent, their children, Joan 14; Walter, 13 and Wayne, eight; Jack Sanders, a roomer; Delbert Hobart, Mrs. Hobart and their sons, Bob, 19 and Jack, 18, were all forced out of the house by smoke.

The Hobart youths attempted to extinguish the fire with buckets of water but it soon spread beyond their control. Firemen, however, prevented extensive damage to the double house located at the corner of Aylmer and Townsend.

ALONG HYDRO WIRES

Flames spread along hydro wires leading to the building until they were cut by a PUC emergency crew. Power was not interrupted to other residences.

Kent had gone into his kitchen shortly before one o'clock for a drink of water when he heard a "crackling" noise from the shed adjoining the room.

He opened the door to see what was causing the noise and flames leaped out at him. He ran through the house, alerting his family, and into the adjoining half where he called the fire department.

An employee of Canada Packers, Kent said the articles in the shed were not covered by insurance. They included tires, a washing machine, table and refrigerator.

RETURNED TO DRESS

After first retreating from the house in their bed clothes, the residents returned and dressed when the fire was brought under control.

Only Hobart and his son, Jack, remained in the house overnight. Neighbours offered their homes to other members of the two families.

Fire Chief Bill Sorrie said today the blaze could be blamed on spontaneous combustion. Rags and inner-tubes had been piled in the shed, he pointed out.

Boys Spot Fire Save Rink From Being Lost

OMEMEE (ENS)—Three boys are credited today with saving the rink here last night from destruction by fire. About 8:15 they were passing the building and noticed a light through the window in the furnace room. On investigating they discovered the building was on fire.

They immediately reported the fire to William Kingsborough, the assistant fire chief, who was at his nearby garage and he turned in the alarm. Volunteers under fire chief Stevens answered the alarm and were able to keep the flames to the furnace room.

Cause of the fire is unknown, as the rink has not been opened for the season, and the caretaker had not commenced to clean up the building. The motor, pump and water pressure system were damaged, along with a number of skates.

Woman Passenger Injured In Accident

A woman was hospitalized this morning about 1 a.m. after an accident on Highway 7, just east of the Keene turn. Mrs. June Brooks, 24, of 301 Louis St. is in St. Joseph's Hospital with an injured knee. Her condition is satisfactory.

Driver of the car, William Taber, 25, of Toronto, told police he was cut off by a transport. His car hit a tree and dropped into a ditch sustaining damages of $600. OPP Constables Kenneth Barber and John Gray investigated.

Artists' Hoax

OXFORD, England (CP)—A student hoax went undiscovered by crowds visiting a university student art display. The new college art committee announced that a much-admired "conventional" painting called "descent" was a poster-paint product of three students who turned it out in less than half an hour.

Queen Drains Cocoanut Shell Of Potent Fiji Kava Brew

SUVA, Fiji Islands (AP)—Queen Elizabeth drained a cocoanut shell full of potent, soapy-tasting "kava" today, as thousands cheered her arrival in the Fiji islands.

The royal libation was a popular high spot of the opening ceremonies in the two-day visit to the Pacific island colony of the Commonwealth-touring monarch and her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh.

The Queen watched bare-chested, grass-skirted Fiji men whirl clubs and spears in war dances, and heard 200 garlanded men and women sing island songs.

Rockets went up and the local artillery set off a 21-gun salute when the royal liner Gothic entered Suva's lagoon today after a 16-day voyage from Panama.

First to greet the monarch were five major chieftains, who boarded the ship to pay homage as their ancestors did to important visitors centuries ago. "Vinaka" — very good, said the chiefs after leaving the ship. "Yes, she is very beautiful," one added.

FIRST WELCOME

The Queen's first welcome ashore came from Mei Hainona Ganilau, three-year-old daughter of a commander of the Fijian battalion.

The child presented a bouquet as big as herself, backed three paces and, in a Fijian demonstration of respect, sat down and bowed. Then she clapped her hands three times.

"How lovely," said the smiling Queen.

Thousands of excited Europeans, Fijians, Indians and Chinese cheered as the royal couple drove through Suva's crowded streets to Albert park for the welcome. The Queen wore a sleeveless frock of lemon yelow, white shoes, a white chrysanthemum petal hat, and carried a white bag.

Donning sun glasses, she watched warriors in grass skirts, palm leaves and bark cloth whirl clubs over their heads to south sea island chanting and the beat of hollow wooden instruments.

Then 200 men, women and garlanded girls sang.

Next came bare-chested men in white bark cloth skirts and green leaf garlands, whirling through the warlike spear dance.

Then all sat down in respect, clapping quietly in slow time.

WILL WATCH WELFARE

Addressing them, the Queen promised to "constantly watch over your welfare and pray for your prosperity in years to come."

"Your loyalty and devotion to the throne are well known far beyond these shores."

Then came the kava, with the chiefs clapping in time as she drank.

"Quota maca" — it's finished—they yelled, as she put down the shell.

The duke also drank the potent native brew, which three chiefs had prepared in a huge wooden bowl.

In another ceremony, the Queen was presented whales' teeth, which the Fijians prize highly. There were other gifts later, a model war dance for Prince Charles, a Fijian doll and basket for Princess Anne, a gold ring studded with grey Fijian pearls, emeralds and diamonds for the Queen, and a walking stick of Fiji wood for the duke.

Press Conference Used On Radio, TV

WASHINGTON (AP)—For the first time in White House history, a recording of an entire presidential press conference was made available Wednesday night for use by radio and television networks.

Release of the army signal corps' recording of President Eisenhower's 33-minute session with reporters Wednesday also set another precedent. It was the first time that newspapers, in their stories on such conferences, were permitted to quote an American president directly without limitation.

James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, announcing the departure from established practice, said Eisenhower called it a "Christmas present" to reporters and the public.

Hagerty himself described the move as a first step toward broadening coverage of Eisenhower's press conferences. He said it does not mean that recordings of all future conferences will be released, but that the new practice wil be followed "from time to time."

French Official Pay Lower, Senators Object

OTTAWA (CP)—A charge that salaries provided for two officials of the Senate discriminate against the French-language employee was made Wednesday in the upper chamber.

Senator Vincent Dupuis (L—Quebec), supported by Senator Cyrille Vaillancourt (L — Quebec), raised the matter during discussion of a series of pay increases recommended by the civil service commission and approved by the government. To be effective for Senate employees they must also be approved by the upper chamber.

Senator Dupuis said it is not a safe policy to allow discrimination in the salaries provided for the chief of English minutes and journals and his French counterpart. The salary was about $800 higher for the English chief than for the French chief.

(These posts involve keeping the official record of the progress of legislative matters through the Senate and its recommittees. Daily minutes also are printed in French and English.

(H. V. Attfield is the present English chief but is retiring Jan. 1. Paul LaRocque is the French chief.)

Senator Dupuis suggested that the scale of salaries be referred back to the Senate's internal economy committee which had recommended approval by the Senate of the pay raises. The committee should instruct the civil service commission to remove the "discrimination."

Senator A. L. Beaubien (L—Manitoba), acting chairman of the internal economy committee, said in reply to Senator W. Rupert Davies (L—Ontario) that the committee has no authority over the matter. The commission made its recommendations, the government had accepted them and the Senate committee approved unanimously.

He said there is a great deal more work for the English chief than for the French chief.

OBJECTIONS WITHDRAWN

Senators Dupuis and Vaillancourt withdrew their objections to immediate passage of the pay raises at the request of Senator W. Ross Macdonald, government leader, who said any delay would mean no raises would go to Senate employees until February.

Senator Macdonald said he would bring to the attention of the civil service commission the objections made by Senators Dupuis and Vaillancourt.

Later, an exchange developed between Senator Davies and Senator N. P. Lambert (L—Ontario) about another series of pay raises for temporary Senate employees. The raises, embodied in a report by the internal economy committee, outlined the daily rates for temporary employees, including char staffs.

Senator Davies, after being told by Senator Beaubien that the rates were based on a seven-day week, asked whether the employees affected worked seven days a week.

This brought a statement from Senator Lambert that the employees did not work seven days, that the committee report only confirms Finance Minister Abbott's acceptance of the raises and that "if anybody disagrees with it I would suggest that he take up the matter with the minister of finance and the government."

Senator Davies said in reply that he did not wish Senator Lambert to "have his blood pressure raised and all that sort of thing." He had merely asked a question to obtain some information.

Hastings Ladies Aid Elects Officers

The president, Mrs. Max Humphries called the meeting to order. A hymn was sung and the scripture was read by Mrs. John McMillan. Mrs. T. Kennedy led in prayer.

Christmas carols were sung while readings were contributed by: Mrs. C. Dod, Mrs. S. Fife, Mrs. H. Fife, Mrs. C. Kennedy.

Mrs. Kennedy took the chair for the election of officers resulting as follows: president, Mrs. Max Humphries; vice-president, Mrs. Harold Fife; sceond vice-president, Mrs. Stanley Fife; secretary, Mrs. Jessie Stevenson; treasurer, Mrs. Stewart Whitred; pianist, Mrs. Stanley Fife.

Refreshments were served.

Finnish Editor Jailed

HELSINKI (Reuters) — Lauri Aho, chief editor of the conservative newspaper Uusi Suomi, was sentenced Wednesday to 30 days or a fine equivalent to $40 for publishing secret documents. They were incorporated in a series of articles on the secret trial last year of a Finnish lumberjack charged with spying for the Soviet Union.

Dockers To Vote

NEW YORK (CP)—The national labor relations board Wednesday ordered a secret ballot election by next Wednesday among New York dock workers to determine whether they want the independent International Longshoremen's Association or the new AFL Longshoremen's Union to represent them in collective bargaining negotiations. The election is aimed at forestalling a threatened dock strike on Christmas Eve when an 80-day federal injunction barring a strike expires.

Say Churchill Ambitions Now Fulfilled

MUNICH (Reuters) — A German newspaper quotes Sir Winston Churchill as saying he has no further ambitions, but will earnestly follow his task of paving the way for world peace.

The independent Sueddeutsche Zeitung Wednesday quoted the British prime minister as saying: "I have no more ambitions, but a last task I see in front of me, which possibly nobody can take from me, is to ease the world tension, to pave the way for peace and freedom.

"Powerful political manoeuvres are no longer practicable. One must negotiate. But before that a barrier must be removed—the problem which touched your country most: Relations with France.

"The Western world can simply not afford Franco-German hostility. The French are sceptical—you must understand that from the historical background.

"I hope that I will still have an opportunity—perhaps from a place where both peoples can hear me well—to talk seriously to both."

RUSSIANS HUMAN, TOO

The paper said Churchill gave the interview at his country home in England to its correspondent, Wolfgang von Tirpitz, son of Admiral Alfred von Tirpitz, commander of the German Navy before the First World War.

Tirpitz quoted Churchill as saying: "The Russian question must also be taken up somehow. We must not forget there are human beings in Russia too.

"With Stalin, one could talk business. His whole nature was certainly strange to me, but there was a human corner in it—his sense of humor."

Punched Dad On Jaw Boy Held For Murder

NANAIMO, B. C. (CP) — A husky 15-year-old boy who police said killed his father with a punch on the jaw after the parent came home drunk was charged Wednesday with murder.

Roy Milton Kenny told police in a statement he killed his 45-year-old father in self defence during a fight in their farm home.

The body of George Harold Kenny was found by police after they had been called to the home at South Wellington, near here, by his wife early Wednesday.

Police said the boy, a strapping six-footer, had built up great strength by working at the farm. His mother said he was the "mainstay of the family."

The youth was remanded until Dec. 23.

Bonarlaw Bazaar Nets St. Mark's WA $180

BONARLAW (ENS)—The December meeting of St. Mark's WA was held Thursday at the home of Mrs. W. J. Barlow.

Mrs. Jennie Wellman, vice-president, presided and opened the meeting with the hymn "Oh God Our Help in Ages Past," followed by the litany and the Lord's prayer. The scripture lesson was read by Mrs. George Mumby.

The treasurer's report indicated total receipts for supper and bazaar were $180.00.

Letters from the Diocesan Board were read after the general business. Mrs. Jason was in charge of the program.

The meeting closed with the members' prayer and the hostess served lunch.

Saved After 6 Days

TOKYO (Reuters)—Four South Korean seamen who survived six days on a diet of apples while clinging to an overturned boat in the Sea of Japan were rescued by the United tates destroyer Stribling, the U.S. Navy announced today. The four were members of the crew of a small cargo ship which foundered with a load of apples aboard.

HAMILTON SEEKS IL TEAM

MONTREAL (CP) — Frank Shaughnessy, president of the International Baseball League, said Wednesday he understands a Hamilton controller has written him for information regarding possible admission of Hamilton to the league.

Shaughnessy said he has not yet received the letter but he understands one is in the mail from Controller John MacDonald. Lack of a suitable stadium and a law forbidding Sunday baseball, however, would rule out a franchise for Hamilton, he said.

No Difficulties Expected In Wheat Sales

CHICAGO (AP) — Agriculture Secretary Ezra Benson said Wednesday he is confident no difficulties will arise between the United States and Canada in competing for world wheat markets.

He made this statement in commenting on a speech by W. J. Parker, vice-president of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, before the annual convention of the American farm bureau federation.

Parker said some Canadians had become disturbed over recent decisions by Benson to offer U. S. wheat in world markets outside terms of the international wheat agreement at prices below those prevailing in the U. S. market.

Asked about this at a press conference, Benson said the United States is doing no more than what Canada has been doing—that of making wheat available on export markets, outside of wheat agreement quotas.

Asked if he thinks a "price war" might develop, the secretary replied he does not think so.

"We have good working relationships with the Canadians," Benson said. "I feel sure we will be able to work this matter out satisfactorily. We have discussed it with Canadian officials."

International Pact Stuck, Saves Seals From Extinction

WASHINGTON — The United States, Russia, Canada and Japan once negotiated in amity of one of history's most successful conservation measures, the North Pacific Sealing Convention of 1911.

By banning hunting at sea, the pact saved the Pacific fur seal (Callorhinus ursinus) from extinction, says the National Geographic Society.

Fur seals spend the winter scattered down through the North Pacific ocean, then come north in summer to bear their single pups and breed anew. The largest rookeries are on the American-owned Pribilof islands in the Bering sea 215 miles north of the Aleutians.

SOLD WITH RUSSIA

When Russia sold the islands to the United States along with Alaska in 1867, the Pribilof seals probably numbered close to 4,000,000 individuals. By 1911, the year the nations agreed, they were down to 150,000 and pelagic hunting—hunting at sea—was overwhelming responsible for the decline.

Two square-rigger mates, the brothers Alex and Dan McLean, reputedly started the grim slaughter in the cold Pacific mists around 1870. Leaving the Bluenose ships that brought them to the West Coast of America, they bought a small schooner in which they successfully pursued the Pribilof seals during their remarkable 5,000-mile migrations from the bleak Bering to southern California latitudes.

Schooner after schooner followed in the heartless business of slaughtering seals trustfully sleeping on the long ocean swells. By 1892 there were 122 sealing vessels each carrying between 15 and 50 sailors and hunters equipped with rifles and shotguns.

Not all the shooting was at seals. Jack London produced a historical novel, not fiction, when he wrote "The Sea Wolf." Sealers truly murdered each other for the precious pelts. Men died by the guns of government cutters, and of guards fighting off brazen raids on the shore rookeries.

DESTROYED BROODSTOCK

But the guards might well have saved their fire, for protection ashore meant nothing to seals that never arrived. Little caring that they were destroying the broodstock, the foundation of their prosperity, the schooner crews killed pups, breeding bulls and gravid cows alike until diplomats of four nations called a halt with the treaty.

Immediately after 1911, the Pribilof herd started to rebound. Today the government keeps its numbers at a constant, scientifically calculated 1,500,000 or so by taking 66,000 surplus bulls a year.

The smaller Russian seal herds are believed to have been stabilized. Russia has perhaps 150,000 seals in the Commander Islands (Komandorskie Ostrova) in the Bering sea, and another 50,000 on the former Japanese Robben (Tiuleni) Island in the Sea of Okhotsk.

Except for a brief lapse on the part of Japan before the second World War, none of the original signatory nations, to their credit and profit, ever has gone back to pelagic sealing.

Igor Gouzenko Incident Noisiest Trade Barriers Most Troublesome

By DON GILBERT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The Igor Gouzenko incident made the most noise in U.S.-Canadian relations in 1953, but trade barriers, and what the U.S. Congress will do about them, was a topic that lasted throughout the year.

President Eisenhower and several members of his cabinet, as well as important elements in the U.S. business world, came out for the unshackling of international trade and, in particular, lower U.S. tariffs. But what the politicians in Congress, who have the final say, would do to back them up was a big question mark.

There was uneasiness in Ottawa as declarations of good faith came from across the border at frequent intervals, when the only concrete actions were new restrictions, imposed by Washington under political pressure, to limit the quota and other means U.S. imports of Canadian dairy products, and the threat of similar action on oats and rye.

Twice during the year the Canadian embassy in Washington delivered sharp notes to the state department protesting the U. S. curbs. And as U.S. surpluses of farm products continued to pile up, there was further fear of possible dumping of these products on world markets, especially in areas where Canada has long been established.

A step interpreted by some as pointed in that direction was taken in December when Washington announced that it would subsidize a "limited quantity" of exports of surplus wheat at the same rate—about 50 cents a bushel—that it subsidizes shipments under the International Wheat Agreement.

GOUZENKO AFFAIR NOISY

While these developments in trade went on quietly, the Gouzenko incident raised more hullabaloo perhaps than any other event in U.S. - Canadian affairs since the U.S. coast guard shelled and sank the Nova Scotia rum-runner "I'm Alone" in the Gulf of Mexico during Prohibition.

Although the state department gave its backing to the congressional spy-hunters' desire to question the former Soviet embassy clerk, Ottawa took the view it was largely acting "post office" in forwarding the requests. And when Canada defined her position, the state department was quick to let it be known that it agreed entirely that any interviews or hearings must be according to Canadian methods and under Canadian control.

The congressional committee balked at first at these conditions but, failing to get further state department backing, agreed to question Gouzenko on Canada's terms.

The flare-up followed by only a few days Eisenhower's state visit to Ottawa and quickly overshadowed the important statements on trade, defence and the St. Lawrence seaway made by the President in his address to Parliament. The Eisenhower visit repaid the journey to Washington made by Prime Minister St. Laurent shortly after Eisenhower took office.

The wartime Allied commander was the third successive U.S. president to visit Ottawa, putting these journeys of state well on the way to becoming a tradition.

OTHER PROBLEMS ARISE

Apart from her fears as to U.S. trade intentions, Canada felt some apprehension during the year, particularly while the Korean war was in progress, concerning some aspects of U.S. foreign policy. Thus, in February, External Affairs Minister Pearson felt it necessary to assure Parliament of his confidence the U.S. would do nothing "rash, provocative or adventurous" in the Far East.

Another irritant was the interpretation of reciprocal air travel agreements. U.S. government officials somewhat abruptly forced abandonment of a newly-inaugurated Canadian service to Mexico by raising technicalities in connection with a necessary U.S. intermediate stop. Canada initiated retaliatory measures, and the whole matter was the subject of a mid-December conference in Washington.

But against these irritations, there were achievements, among them:

1. Establishment of a joint committee on trade and economic affairs, bringing together at periodic meetings the highest officials of the two governments.

2. Continued closest co-operation on continental defence. At Ottawa, Eisenhower said: "You of Canada and we of the United States can and will devise ways to protect our North America from any surprise attack by air."

3. Progress on the St. Lawrence. The way was practically cleared for joint development of the power phase of the project. Eisenhower undertook to attempt again to get Congress to approve joint action on the seaway before Canada undertakes the vast task by herself.

4. Continued U.S. capital investment in Canada. Confidence in the stability of the Canadian economy was reflected in the Canadian dollar which approached the end of the year at a premium over the U.S. dollar.

CANADA MAKES NEWS

An intangible but powerful contribution to U.S.-Canadian understanding was a growing realization in the U.S. that Canada is news. The American reader was getting more stories in his newspaper about Canada.

Some papers went into the story of Canadian development with thoroughness. The Baltimore Sun, one of the most influential of U.S. dailies, sent its editor, Philip Wagner, to see for himself. He wrote 16 articles. A Wisconsin newspaper man won a Pulitzer Prize for a similar series. In another field, the University of Rochester, N. Y., established a program of Canadian studies as a step toward the setting up of an institute of Canadian affairs.

National Frontiers Are Abolished In Community For Coal And Steel

By NORA BELOFF

LUXEMBOURG (OFNS) — Britain's "honourable intentions" towards Europe will be put to the test in the next few weeks when the Community for Coal and Steel submits to the British Government specific proposals for making the liaison permanent and institutional. In the minds of their authors, these proposals will take on more than a technical and commercial significance. They may offer a precedent and model for future forms of association between Britain and the continental community as economic, political and military integration proceeds.

The Community, which produces slightly more coal but almost three times as much steel as Britain, is already a going concern, with a policy of its own distinct from the policies of the six member governments. It has effectively abolished national frontiers in the coal and steel trade, and by removing duties, quotas, allocations and monetary restrictions, as well as transport and fiscal discriminations, it has subtantially enlarged the volume of inter-State movement of these basic commodities.

The agreement with Britain is exchange between the two big industrial complexes, making them complementary and allowing them both to participate in the free workings of competitive trade, instead of developing in hostile and mutually harmful isolation. Those in the coal business who remember the catastrophic coll of Britain's continental market during the crisis of the thirties, resulting from restriction of and discrimination against British products, can deduce the type of activity which the Community hopes to ban.

COMMERCIAL "FAIR PLAY"

In return for reciprocal continental concessions the British will be asked to sign a book of rules for commercial "fair play," which among other things will seek to prevent Britain treating the continent as a dumping grounds in times of surplus, and as the first place for making economies and cutting deliveries in times of scarcity.

Europeans know Britain will not enter the Community, which would mean handing over control of coal and steel to a supra-national authority. On the other hand, although the terms of the proposed association are not yet presented, it seems the leaders here are disinclined to rest content with the customary type of treaty in which Governments agree on a text and then leave the high contracting parties—in this case the High Authority and the British Government—to carry out. They argue that the problems raised by efforts to establish complementary markets and fair competition will emerge only as integration proceeds, and are evidently thinking in terms of a joint board in permanent session to deal with the problems as they arise.

A common set of rules would, presumably, also require some system of arbitration in case of difference over interpretation. This might conceivably take the form of an enlargement of the High Court which is provided for the six under the Schuman Plan. Again, if there is going to be some permanent body linking the British Government and the High Authority, and taking executive action, however limited, it may well be necessary to invite the British to co-operate also on the Ministerial, Parliamentary, expert and trade levels. Plainly, decisions effecting the two basic industries cannot be discussed in a political and economic vacuum.

STEP TOWARDS UNION

But in fact, the proferred association is much more than a matter of coal and steel. The Coal and Steel Community was never intended to be more than a first step towards the fuller European union which is considered the most hopeful way of preventing a revival of neo-nationalism in Europe, particularly in Germany and in Italy, beginning as before with autarchy and cut-throat economic warfare and ending once again in disaster.

Here in Luxembourg the notion of a European union takes a conspicuously different form from that which it has assumed in the Western capitals and in which it was doubtless being treated last week at the Three-Power conference at Bermuda—that is to say, the easiest way to rearm Germany. Here it has retained its original motive force: eminently civilian, social and economic.

Thus the president of the High Authority, M. Jean Monnet, far from deploring diplomatic contracts with Russia has told me that he sees no contradiction whatever between his job of intergrating the Western Community and the declared desire of his friend, Sir Winston Churchill, to go and talk to the Russian Premier, Mr. Malenkov. In his view, whether rearmament has to proceed or whether it can at last be slowed down, the Western European countries will still need to merge their forces and create a dynamic expanding economy—as the Russians have done in Eastern Europe, though without paying the totalitarian price.

For the time being, however, it seems to the Community leaders that the impetus towards European union looks like being dangerously halted, at the critical moment, by the French sense of insecurity and fear that amalgamation with Germany means separation from Britain.

It is against this background of urgent anxiety to get Britain to move quickly and effectively—before it is too late and the momentum is irrevocably lost—that the proposals of association have been prepared. The unexpected delay in submitting them is due perhaps to the difficulty of discovering a degree of "Europeanisation" adequate to satisfy the Community's minimum needs without being so radical as to frighten away the British.

Want Liquor Laws Revised

By DAVE STOCKAND

WINNIPEG (CP) — A growing number of Manitoba organizations stand ready to argue that the liquor laws of the province are due for revision.

Prohibition teetered out the door in Manitoba 30 years ago, but in turning on the tap the province barred women from beer parlors and banned sale of liquor by the glass.

Bottled beer for consumption off the premises is sold only in government liquor stores and suburban and rural taverns. Only liquor stores sell wine and the Liquor Control Act says a man is breaking the law if he doesn't keep his bottled liquor at home.

The demand developing now is for a review of the entire act and some organizations would ditch at least a number of the restrictions.

VARIOUS GROUPS

Some of the groups which have talked liquor in recent weeks are the Retail Merchants Association, the Manitoba Hotel Association, the Manitoba Tourist Association, the Manitoba branch of the Canadian Restaurant Association and the Young Liberal and Young Progressive Conservative organizations.

There has been speculation that the government will set up, at the next session of the legislature, a committee to look into the liquor picture. Premier D. L. Campbell's only comment has been: "All requests on this subject or any other will be given full consideration by this government."

A resolution calling on the government to set up an independent commission to study the present liquor act and related alcohol problems has been passed by the Manitoba Temperance Alliance.

NEW APPROACH

"A new and more informed approach to the question of liquor legislation will assist rather than hamper our work," an official of the alliance said.

An official of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, asked to comment on the present interest in the liquor question, said: "Our policy has never changed—total abstinence for the individual; prohibition for the state."

The merchants association is circulating a petition asking that the act be amended "so as to permit the sale of beer and wine in bottles, but not by the glass, in the retail stores throughout Manitoba." This petition will be presented at the next session of the legislature.

The Hotel Association wants mixed drinking allowed in beer parlors. It says present laws are discriminatory, with more than 100 clubs and canteens in Manitoba allowed to sell beer to both men and women.

PROVIDE COMPETITION

"In addition to this they serve food, have radio and games and when television comes they'll have that too," said C. A. Tanner, association managing director. "That is the kind of competition we are up against."

The tourist association asks the government to make an "intelligent study" of the laws with a view to amending them. It turned down a more specific resolution calling outright for the government to facilitate serving liquor with meals and to provide more outlets for beer and wine.

The restaurant association plans a meeting in January to discuss a possible brief to the government regarding changes in the liquor act.

REVIEW URGED

At their annual conventions young Liberals and young Conservatives both asked the government to take a hard look at present legislation.

One of the sections of the act frequently criticized—and one of the most difficult to enforce—says that a bottle purchased at a liquor store must be consumed at the address listed on the buyer's permit.

One Winnipeg lawyer who has defended in a number of liquor actions commented that "The spirit of prohibition permeates the act."

"If it isn't a crime to have liquor, why can't I have it in my office?" he said. "Why can't I take it to my summer cottage?"

Veterinarians urge...variety

for your dog

Nourishing, yet economical food is what every dog owner wants for his dog. Veterinary authorities agree that variety also is necessary to keep dogs happy, healthy and eating well. You get both these requirements when you feed the famous Master Dog Foods because they are a family of high quality foods formulated by experts in canine nutrition.

A diet based on Master Horse Meat and Gravy is ideal for your dog, and most dogs love it. High in food value, Master Horse Meat and Gravy contains only the best cuts of meat; no "by-products", no cereals. Here's a daily diet one leading expert recommends:

The Main Meal
—should be composed of 25% Master Horse Meat and Gravy and 75% K-9 Meal or Master Kibble, or a 50-50 mixture of Master Canned Dog Food and K-9 Meal.

The Secondary Meal
—give your dog Master Kennel Kibble mixed with a lesser amount of Master Canned Dog Food at bedtime.

The "treat"
—for those little titbits all dogs enjoy, keep Master Shapes or Mixed O-B's handy.

HMCS FUNDY, second of 20 minesweepers now under construction in Canadian yards to be launched, slid smoothly down the ways at the yard of the Saint John Drydock company last week. While hundreds of shipyard workers and spectators watched, Mrs. Milton F. Gregg, wife of the Minister of Transport, snipped the ribbon to release the bottle of champagne and declared, "I christen you Her Majesty's Canadian Ship Fundy. May God bless this ship and all who sail in her."

Woman Appointed General Manager

GALT (CP)—Margaret Hamilton, business manager of the Galt Reporter, has been appointed general manager of the newspaper, one of the first women in Canada to hold such a post.

She succeeds K. R. Thomson who has gone to Toronto to become executive vice-president of the Thomson newspapers, in charge of the Thomson Company's Canadian interests.

Miss Hamilton is a native of Galt and was educated here. She held important positions at the Banff Springs Hotel in Alberta and with Galt Maleable Iron before going to the staff of the Reporter five years ago as an accountant.

She became business manager of the newspaper three years ago.

Reduced Traffic Brings Rail Layoffs

OTTAWA (CP)—Transport Minister Chevrier told the Commons Wednesday a number of CPR employees have been laid off in the last few weeks because of reduced traffic.

Mr. Chevrier made the statement in reply to a question by Harry O. White (PC—Middlesex East). Mr. White asked whether it is true that some 500 employees of the central Ontario region of the CNR have been or are about to be laid off.

The minister said he did not know the number of men laid off in the central Ontario area.

Committed For Trial

BARRIE (CP)—Fred H. Lewis, 32, former Camp Borden provost sergeant, Wednesday was committed for trial on a manslaughter charge in connection with the level-crossing death Oct. 26 of Cpl. John Sholte, 38, of Petrolia. Evidence was that an automobile driven by Lewis collided with a slow-moving train at Camp Borden.

United States Tariffs Frustrate Exports Of British Machinery

By SUSAN STRANGE

The belief is growing in British industry that big dollar-earning business in machinery and industrial plants of all kinds could be built up in the United States if only British manufacturers were allowed to enter the American market as freely as they have been allowed to enter the Canadian.

For this reason the Randall Commission on the future foreign economic policy of the United States is being carefully watched by many British manufacturers who, though they export machinery to countries all over the world, have so far been inconspicuous in the U.S.

DEVELOP NEW EXPORT LINES

They argue that post-war experience in Canada has shown that, given the opportunity, Britain can develop new export lines to supliment and replace its traditional textiles. Machinery now tops the list of Britain's exports to Canada, whereas before the war it took fourth place. Electrical machinery has played the chief part in this expansion.

In the United States market, meanwhile, British manufacturers face a tariff on machinery of between fifteen and twenty per cent. —a heavy toll when the price of the goods concerned runs into four, five or six figures. Moreover, the biggest plums—the Government contracts for electrical generators are generally put out of reach by the American Act, even when British manufacturers in spite of tariff burden, are able to undersell its American competitors.

Thus sales of British machinery to Canada have been eighteen and a half times as great per head, as sales in the United States. The difference between the two markets is even more striking than in the market for such consumer goods as cars, woolens and cotton goods, where the average Canadian buys between six and eight times as much from Britain as the average American.

The comparison between British success in the free Canadian market and British frustration in the closed American one is not, admittedly, an absolutely fair one. There are many important differences between the two economies; and Canada gives Britain preferential treatment in the matter of import tariffs. British manufacturers are therefore somewhat protected from American and European competition there. Even if all barriers were lowered, the U.S. market would be a far tougher proposition. Whatever happened, it would be unlikely that American purchases of British machinery would be on the same scale as Canadian; if they were, they would produce for Britain more than five hundred million dollars a year—compared with the present meagre twenty-six million. Yet even a much more modest increase would make a welcome addition to Britain's dollar-earning capacity from whisky, tourists, cars and textiles.

It would also—and this is a point of great importance to Britain—be less liable to fluctuate wildly and rapidly with the spending habits of the American consumer. It would be a kind of sheet-anchor in another dollar crisis.

UNCERTAINTY OF MARKET

British manufacturers do not, on the whole, expect any spectacular results from the Randall Commission. It is recognized here that unilateral tariff reduction by the United States would be a difficult and revolutionary business, which could not be quickly effected. But they argue that the chief deterrent to British exporters in recent years has been not so much the tariff itself as the uncertainty of the market.

A tariff of even twelve per cent. (the present average duty) is easier to tolerate than the fact that, having developed and nursed an expensive American selling organization, the foreign manufacturer risks having unpredictable "peril point" legislation raise the tariff high enough to keep him out for good.

A deep distrust of even the best-intentioned American protestations of faith in free trade has grown up in Britain and in Europe, and will be hard to overcome. What is hoped for therefore, from the Randall Commission and the U.S. administration is the kind of declaration, advocated by the ex-American Ambassador, Mr. Lewis Douglas, affirming the determination of the United States to move away, steadily but surely from its outworn policies of protection. This, it is widely thought here, would do as much good as actual tariff cuts.

"Custom-made" Coffee New Breakfast Vogue

Marvellous 100% Real Coffee Made "Strong, Medium or Mild" Right in the Cup

At breakfast you could always get your toast light or dark—your bacon medium or well-done—your eggs, 2, 3 or 4-minute boiled. But your coffee? Well, you just got coffee!

The coffee might be too strong for you—it tasted bitter. Or too mild for you—it tasted weak. But if you were in the minority—too bad! After all, one pot of coffee can't satisfy everybody's taste.

But then came the revolution—the "Coffee Revolution"! Now the most forgotten "little man" can get just the cup of coffee he likes! Seriously, though, it's the women who make the coffee who brought on the revolution! It was they who discovered the wonderful new Instant Chase & Sanborn, and started serving it for breakfast.

First of all, here's 100% real coffee that really tastes like it. Chase & Sanborn scientists saw to that! They took on the job of producing an "instant" worthy of Chase & Sanborn's 100-year-old coffee reputation. They never relaxed till they had succeeded in extracting from the finest coffee beans the color and texture—the rich robust flavor and aroma of freshly ground coffee.

Next, housewives decided that this definitely superior "instant" plainly belongs whenever and wherever coffee is served. And then, everybody caught on to the other important benefit. Cups of Instant Chase & Sanborn can be "custom-made" to each person's taste. Goodbye to the old one-pot handicap!

Farewell to Grounds

For the housewife, Instant Chase & Sanborn means the end of that doleful after-meal chore of scouring a stained coffee pot and disposing of coffee grounds. Here is the modern, dainty, trouble-free way of serving fine coffee.

Budgeteers are excited about the savings on Instant Chase & Sanborn too. The regular size jar makes about the same number of cups as a pound of regular ground coffee. Yet it sells up to 40¢ less than a pound of regular coffee.

THIS REALLY IS MY COFFEE!

New Instant Chase & Sanborn is 100% real coffee—and tastes like it. Rousing, rich-flavored coffee—ready with its magical lift the moment you add the hot water.

It's your kind of coffee—made by people with nearly 100 years of coffee experience.

One sip and you'll agree—it's so good you'll make it your regular coffee!

Now!..the Flavor and Aroma of Freshly Ground Coffee Instantly!

Child In Coma 2nd Year No Happy Yuletide For Her

MONTREAL (CP)—Christmas is meant to be a happy time, but for the second successive year in the Dagenais home at nearby Ville St. Michel there will be little rejoicing.

Since an automobile accident Nov. 13, 1952, sadness has surrounded the home of 10-year-old Lise Dagenais. It was then that Lise, her body broken and battered, went into a coma. She has never recovered consciousness.

Unlike other families who have been counting the days until Christmas, Mr. and Mrs. Marcel Dagenais and their five other children have been praying for the day when little Lise will live like a normal child again.

Described by her mother as "a little gamin" at the age of nine, Lise's personality died the day she suffered a fractured skul and a brain injury. The driver of the taxi in which Lise was a passenger was killed.

NOT SUCCESSFUL

Doctors have tried unsuccessfully to bring her out of the coma. Her face never alters except for a few silent tears and a slight movement of her lips and an eye.

For months Lise was fed through a tube while in hospital. Now she can swallow canned baby foods, administered in tiny portions. A hospital authority told Mrs. Dagenais the girl eventually might recover.

The mother said that last year the family hoped Lise would awaken on time for Christmas. They did not believe she would still be unconscious this Christmas.

Does Mrs. Dagenais have hope Lise will return to her former self?

"Yes," she said. "We will never stop hoping—or praying.

"We have no special plans for Christmas. It will be like last Christmas. We will put a little tree in her room with a creche at its foot. We will give her a new doll and teddy bear, but she won't see them. She will not know that they are there."

Need Two More Cops

BARRIE (CP)—Sgt. E. L. Harris in charge of the provincial police detachment which keeps law and order in this town of nearly 15,000, said Wednesday h needs more men. In a letter to the board of police commissioners, he said the present strength of 12 men and one radio-equipped cruiser is inadequate. He asked for two additional members on permanent strength and an extra man during the summer.

OTHERS FARE—Senator R. B. Horner of Blaine Lake, Sask., has offered to pay the passage of Liliane Soudemonte, 23-year-old Belgian girl who worked her way to Canada as a seaman and was shipped back home by immigration officials. Senator Horner says he will try to get the girl a job on a farm or, if she prefers the sea, will try to get her a job on coastal ships.

End Musical Ride Need More Horsemen

OTTAWA (CP)—Justice Minister Garson said Wednesday the RCMP musical ride has been discontinued until more horsemen can be trained.

He was replying in the Commons to Don Brown (L—Essex East), who said Windsor, Ont., was anxious to have the ride for its centennial celebration next year.

Mr. Garson did not indicate when the ride would be resumed. As opposition members pressed for more information, the Liberal benches cried "whoa!"

Shipping Fever Killed 25,000 Animals

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Harold Worton, provincial veterinary, said Wednesday that shipping fever killed more than 25,000 animals in Ontario last year.

Lack of ventilation in many farm buildings was the biggest contributing cause of the disease. Tests were being made to determine the best ways of preventing shipping fever, he told th Western Ontario Veterinary Association.

Dr. John C. Dancey of Aylmer was elected president to succeed Dr. W. A. Thompson of Ripley.

Provincial Cheques Mailed After Dec. 25

TORONTO (CP)—Welfare Minister Goodfellow announced Wednesday that December provincial welfare cheques will not be mailed before Christmas.

Following the practice of the Dominion government, the Ontario welfare department will not issue cheques for mothers' allowance, disabled persons, the blind and the aged until Dec. 28.

Issuing the cheques earlier would leave too long a period before the next cheque, Mr. Goodfellow said, and might cause hardship to pensioners.

Loses Sight of Eye in Hiking Accident

Receives $5,000

While on vacation recently, a young salesman from Toronto had a bad hiking accident. Ducking his head to avoid a branch of a tree, he brushed into another branch that severely damaged his left eye. He suffered complete loss of sight in that optic.

The $10,000 Confederation Life Policy which he carries has an Accidental Death & Dismemberment Benefit. As a result, he received $5,000 for the loss of sight of his eye.

The only policy of its kind in Canada!

Confederation's Accidental Death & Dismemberment Benefit on a $10,000 Policy pays:

$10,000 if you die from natural causes

$20,000 if you die by accident

$30,000 if you die by accident while in a public vehicle (except an airplane) or in a fire in a public building.

Liberal cash payment for dismemberment accidents.

OUTSTANDING VALUES FOR CHRISTMAS SHOPPERS

Malan Moves Towards Showdown

By JOHN WORRALL

CAPE TOWN (OFNS) — The belief is growing in South Africa that events are moving towards a major showdown between the Union and the United Nations. Although not so truculent as he has been in the past, the prime minister, Dr. Daniel F. Malan, in his speech at Port Elizabeth made it clear that his famous "impatience" with the continued United Nations criticism of what he regards as South Africa's internal affairs is reaching boiling point.

"The United Nations is doing more harm than good in Africa" and "there was no unrest in Africa before the United Nations came into existence" were among his remarks.

Only a short while ago, Dr. Malan referred to the UN as "a cancer eating at the peace and tranquility of the world."

UNION RESENTFUL

Bitter resentment has been caused in the Union by the report on Apartheid (racial segregation) presented by the special UN commission, which is being debated in in the ad hoc Political Committee. The fact that so many of the findings have a basis of truth only makes South Africa's resentment stronger. There is a tacit admission of this in South Africa's argument that some of the very countries which are conducting the anti-South African campaign in the United Nations, such as India, are guilty of discrimination against their own under-privileged masses: for instance, the Untouchables.

South Africa's main argument, however, is that the United Nations has no warrant to interfere in the internal affairs of member states. This has also been its argument throughout the acrimonious debates on the Indian minority question and the issue of the South-west African mandate.

As far as the latter is concerned, it is unlikely that South Africa will recognise the nine-nations committee which the UN Trusteeship Committee proposes to set up to examine the question of South-west Africa. The proposal is that the committee should function in the same way as the former Permanent Mandates Commission of the League of Nations.

It is difficult to see how anything short of another deadlock can result. Since the question was first raised in the time of General Smuts, the Union has refused to admit the competence of the United Nations to take over the functions of the old league. The Union's view is that the mandate is still in existence, and that therefore South Africa is accountable only to the powers which issued it—Britain, France and the United States. South Africa is supported by the International Court of Justice, which ruled two years ago that the mandate was still in force.

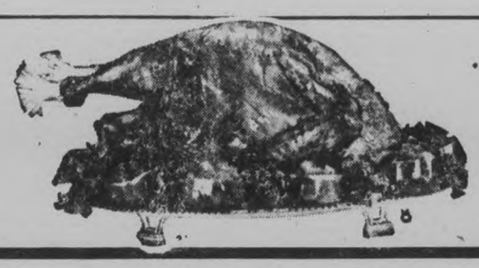
The Union has told the United Nations that it is prepared to administer this vast territory according to the terms of the mandate; but would account only to Britain, France and the United States. This offer was taken further last year when a special United Nations committee negotiated with the Union delegation, and a measure of agreement was reached. It is known that the United States has since given some support to the Union's viewpoint.

HOW TO AVOID DEADLOCK

It is difficult to see how further deadlock is to be avoided on all the issues which face South Africa at the United Nations. The main pressure on the Union to make itself accountable for its policies to the United Nations comes from the Asian bloc, led by India—which is at present not on diplomatic speaking terms with the Union. Even if South Africa permitted plain speaking from European powers, it would most certainly not permit it from the non-European nations; neither would it permit them to interfere in its administration of the South-west African native peoples.

The Malan government is, in any case, still smarting over the appearance at the United Nations of the Rev. Michael Scott last year, when he pleaded the cause of the Herero people.

Powerful nationalist groups are already urging Dr. Malan to withdraw from the United Nations; but so far he has managed to convince them that South Africa gains more from membership than it would by going into the international wilderness.



Dr. Malan is a wiser statesman than most of his cabinet, and his one bogey is isolation. He means to stay aligned with the Western Powers; and to do so he will endure the smarts and insults of the United Nations forum until they become finally unbearable.

Aviation Has Golden Anniversary Celebration

KITTY HAWK, N. C. (AP) — Aviation celebrated its golden anniversary throughout the world today—but especially here at the place of its birth.

Old friends of the Wright brothers, early-day flying students, relatives, Carolina natives who knew of the inventors, and notables of the aviation fraternity gathered around to pay tribute to Orville and Wilbur Wright, the glider-minded bicycle makers from Dayton, Ohio, who came to Kitty Hawk in quest of good and steady winds.

Other groups in other towns, and in other lands, planned similar gatherings.

MARTIN GIVES LECTURE

In Washington, aviation scientists gathered to hear pioneer airplane builder Glenn L. Martin deliver the annual "Wright lecture." Tonight President Eisenhower will join 1,200 men and women in honoring the Wright memory at a banquet.

The national committee for the 50th anniversary of powered flight said about 1,000 Wright Day luncheons and dinners are being held around the world.

For Kitty Hawk, a shrine to airmen, the armed services joined in what was planned as the mightiest air show ever staged in memory of the inventors of air power.

Request Commission Reverse Decision

TORONTO (CP)—Eamon Park, representative of the United Steel Workers of America (CIO-CCL) today urged the federal unemployment insurance commission to reverse its decision denying payments to 350 miners of the Paymaster Gold Mine at Timmins who are to be laid off today.

Officials of the mine announced Nov. 26 that the mine would close Dec. 17 due to expensive operating costs. However, the unemployment insurance commission in Ottawa ruled Wednesday that the shutdown is essentially due to a labor dispute.

In a wire to the chief claims officer at Ottawa, Mr. Park said: "In view of statements by both company and union that no industrial dispute exists at the Paymaster mines, Timmins, we ask your immediate review and reversal of your administrative decision, which denies benefits to miners. Action immediately would insure men and families of Christmas benefits."

HOPE HE DOESN'T MOVE—Joan Fowels, a circus performer in Ascot, England, demonstrates her faith in Cato, a mighty beast with good manners. She has full confidence that Cato won't hurt her, but any circus crowd would be thrilled by such a display because they don't know how tame the elephant is.

Torch-Bearers Guide Queen To State Ball

SUVA, Fiji (CP)—Five hundred skirted Fijians carrying lighted torches ran alongside tonight as the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh drove in an open car to a state ball at the Grand Pacific Hotel here.

Hundreds of other torch-bearers lined the mile-long route from Government House, then fell in behind the royal car as it passed. Thousands of Fijians lined the route, cheering with strange high-pitched cries as the Queen and her husband waved and smiled to them.

Before the ball, the royal couple sat on the hotel verandah to listen to the famous Fijian massed choir of 600, singing traditional songs.

The Queen wore a full-skirted evening gown of blue and silver lace over blue tulle, with a diamond tiara, necklace and earrings, and the star and sash of the Order of the Garter. The duke was in full evening dress, also with the garter star and riband.

The visitors also were treated to a special fireworks display.

At Government House, the royal couple had dined with Governor Sir Ronald Garvey, Lady Garvey and a number of guests before driving out into the warm night for the state ball.

Can't Bare Chests At Queen's Carnival

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—Lifesavers will not be allowed to bare their chests before the Queen when she sees a surf carnival at Sydney's Bondi beach Feb. 6.

A carnival committee edict has banned trunks for the occasion and insists that full swim suits be worn. Usually it's covered chests for parades and formal drills, trunks only for surf races and beach athletics.

Most surfmen are taking the order philosophically but some are critical. Bondi life-saver and wrestler Alf Vockler pushed out his massive chest and said, "Is there anything wrong with that? I bet I'd be a hit with the royal party."

The president of the surf lifesaving association, Judge Adrian Curlewis, said his group just wants to smarten up things by having everyone in the same kind of outfit.

Jr. Petes Take Top Spot With 6-5 Win

LINDSAY (ENS)—The young Petes took over top spot in the local junior B grouping here Wednesday night squeezing out a 6-5 win over the under-manned Lindsay squad.

Coach Red Creighton's lads ran up against a tough crew, who, though they dressed only 11 players, were in the game until the final bell. The Petes jumped into a 2-1 lead in the first, made it 3-1 in the second, then had to fight to take the win in the third, getting a big assist when a Lindsay player scored their fifth goal.

Hook opened the scoring taking Kearn's pass close in giving Kemp no chance. Coyle added the second, blasting a screen shot from 10 feet out. Hutton counted for the homesters from McGill.

In the second Kearns tallied from Gardiner and Uren late in the frame to add to the Petes' margin, while O'Neill was sitting out an elbowing sentence.

The rest of the scoring was jammed into the first four minutes of the third period. Lindsay tied the score on goals by Packer and Hutton. Paul Doris got the lead back for the Petes, but Pearson tied the count again.

A fluke goal, when Graham blasted a backhander past a startled Kemp, put the Petes in front again. Credit for the tally went to Hook. Twist's score which turned out to be the winner at the 3:45 mark but McGill kept the gang alive by scoring the seventh goal of the period, and the final one of the game at 4:14. The homesters had six forwards up during the final half minute, but a close call, across the goal-mouth behind O'Brien, was their nearest threat.

O'Brien and Kemp played starring roles in the free-wheeling game. Kearns, Morrow, Heffernan, Byrne, Ball and Doris turned in good efforts for the Petes, while Hutton, Truax, Packer, Pearson, Crawford and McGill led the short-staffed losers.

Except for the rough second frame, the game was cleanly played, only one penalty called in the first, and three in the third. The middle frame had five minor sentences.

Peterborough—Goal, O'Brien; defence, Ball, Pue; forwards, Morrow, Gardiner, Doris; alternates, Coyle, Heffernan, Twist, Frizelle, Byrne, Hook, Kearns, Uren, Ferguson.

Lindsay — Goal, Kemp; defence, O'Neill, McGill, Crawford; forwards, Hutton, Truax, Packer, Graham, Growden, Pearson, Teel.

Referees—Jim Crombie, Bowmanville; linesman, Sixty Coombs, Lindsay.

CAPETOWN (Reuters)—A British Canberra jet bomber flew here from London today in the record-smashing time of 12 hours 25 minutes. The previous record was 21 hours, 31½ minutes.

The 6,000-mile flight was timed to coincide with the half-century observances of Orville and Wilbur Wright's first flight at Kitty Hawk, N. C., Dec. 17, 1903.

Gatineau MP Dies In Quebec

MANIWAKI, Que. (CP)—J. C. Nadon, Liberal member of Parliament for Gatineau, died in hospital here early today. He was 54.

Mr. Nadon, who has been member for Gatineau since Oct. 24, 1949, was admitted to hospital Sunday with a coronary thrombosis.

Born at Ste. Famille d'Aumond, Mr. Nadon, a jeweler, was active in municipal politics and was elected to the Quebec legislature in 1939 and 1944.

His election to the House of Commons came in 1949 in a by-election. He was re-elected in the general elections last August.

His death leaves two vacancies in the Commons. The other was caused by the death of Gordon Graydon, Progressive Conservative member for Peel. Party standing in the 265-seat House now is: Liberals, 169; Progressive Conservatives, 50; CCF, 23; Social Credit 15, Independent, three, Independent Liberal, two; Liberal-Labor, one; vacant, two.

Pakistan Holding Talks With U.S.

KARACHI, Pakistan (Reuters)—Premier Mohammed Ali today announced that Pakistan is holding informal talks with the United States on obtaining military equipment, but "nothing has been finalized."

His statement to a press conference confirmed persistent reports in the last month that negotiations for military aid were going on. India, Russia and Communist China have already made official protests against U. S. military aid to Pakistan.

All denied that the question of U. S. bases in Pakistan had entered into the talks.

Body Dismembered

SOISSONS, France (Reuters)—Police opened a murder hunt here today following discovery of a naked woman's body, one-armed and headless. "The head and arm were severed in an expert manner by somebody who knew something about anatomy," a police officer said. The body was found in a former German army blockhouse.

Moscow Plans Spectacle With Beria Purge Trial

By TOM WHITNEY

NEW YORK (AP)—The world—Russians included—soon will be treated to the spectacle of one more Communist purge trial in which the defendants abjectly confess to treason.

This time the accused are seven men, four of them from Stalin's homeland of Georgia and all veteran police and inteligence executives. Heading them is Lavrenty Beria, who for 15 years ran the dread Soviet secret police and other security organs.

The government gave them power of life and death over the millions of Soviet citizens and they used it—as every Russian knows—to send many to exile or death. How many, the world may never know.

Soon they themselves will stand up in court and declare that all along they were taking instructions from foreign intelligence services and exercising their extraordinary powers to sabotage the Soviet Union.

This is the meaning of the document published today in Moscow on Beria and his henchmen.

REPEAT PERFORMANCE

Most of Moscow's latest document is not new. It repeats the accusations made in July that Beria plotted to seize power, sabotaged government agricultural plans, attempted to undermine the Soviet policy on nationalities, that he was a foreign spy.

What is new is the list of men accused of plotting with Beria. On it is one new name of importance—Army Gen. Vsevolod Merkulov, former minister of state security and later minister of state control until Sept. 17, nearly three months after the Beria arrest. It was not previously known that Merkulov had been arrested.

SPECIFIC CHARGES

Also new in the Beria document are the specific charges that he was an agent for 34 years with trans-Caucasian anti-Soviet organizations, one of which allegedly associated with British intelligence. No involvement with Americans is yet charged, though it is certainly possible that some such charges will be made at the trial.

That the Soviet government has decided to make a fairly big thing of the trial seems to indicate that the Malenkov government feels it can use the show to gain popularity with the Russian people.

Forgot Tags Two Men Fined

LINDSAY (ENS)—Two Oshawa hunters, John Crooke and Ray MacKay, were convicted in Lindsay police court Wednesday of transporting deer without tags, contrary to the provisions of the Fish and Game Law, and one was fined, while the other was placed on a year's probation.

The men were charged by Conservation Officer Simpson of Bobcaygeon, when their car was noticed on the main street of the village November 7th, with two unflagged deer on the fenders.

The men told the court they had left their hunting camp in Galway township in a rush during the heavy snowfall of the day. They had dragged their two deer through two and one half miles of bush, and were tired enough to forget to tag them when they arrived at their car to start back to Oshawa.

In Bobcaygeon, they stopped for a meal, and remembered their neglect during the dinner. Crooke and MacKay rushed out to their car to tag the deer, but found that Officer Simpson had arrived before them, and had seized the deer.

Magistrate Gee expressed the sympathy of the court for the plight of the men, and instead of registering a fine against both, levied the $50 minimum against Crooke, along with costs of $2.50. MacKay was placed on a year's probabtion on payment of costs of $12.50. The men were instructed to inquire at the Department of lands and forests office regarding the repossession of their deer.

Man Shot In Chest While Telling Time

LEAMINGTON (CP)—One man died and another was seriously injured in accidents in this district Tuesday.

Rudolph Milani, 49, of Amherstburg was killed by falling drilling gear which he was helping erect at Bruner Mond quarry.

Libora Manais, 47, driver of a heavy tractor for a construction company, was shot in the chest when a fellow worker climbed on the tread of his tractor to ask the time.

Bruno Costa brought his gun to work to shoot some rabbits because things were slow on the job. As Manais leaned back to reach for his watch, the gun went off. He is reported resting comfortably in hospital.

Judgment Reserved In Bond Fraud Case

PERTH (CP) — A 71-year-old bankrupt Toronto bond dealer will learn Jan. 5 whether the crown feels there is sufficient evidence against him to try him on 33 charges of fraud and theft.

At the end of Walter L. McKinnon's hearing Wednesday, Magistrate D. C. Smith reserved judgment until that time to study the large amount of evidence. The Perth-born dealer was released in $10,000 bail.

During the hearing, seven district residents who lost some $44,000 when Mr. McKinnon's firm went bankrupt in 1951 testified of their dealings with the former Perth school teacher.

Mr. McKinnon has pleaded not guilty to the charges against him.

Fined $50

STRATFORD (CP) — Donald Worth of nearby Monkton was fined $50 and costs Wednesday for giving three police officers $1 for free games they won on his pinball machine. Worth pleaded guilty to keeping a common gaming house in his lunch bar. A provincial police officer testified he spent 75 cents to win the 20 free games.

No Bargains In Yule Turkeys This Year

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

There will be no bargains in turkeys for Christmas dinner this year.

Consequently, the Canadian housewife has resigned herself to higher prices and is letting the grocer do the cleaning and preparing of the bird, all she will do is stuff, cook and serve.

A Canadian Press survey shows that turkey prices this season are up as much as 10 per cent in most provinces. And the housewife is showing an increasing interest in eviscerated birds—the bird already cleaned and packaged—weighing 10-12 pounds.

Despite the importation of 2,500,000 birds from the United States into Ontario and Quebec, prices have risen. Alberta, which normally supplies eastern Canadian markets, reduced production by 40 per cent this year.

HIGH AND LOW

Housewives in New Brunswick will be paying the highest price—90 cents a pound for grade A drawn—and Saskatchewan the lowest at 57 cents.

The New Brunswick price is up 10 cents over last year. Turkeys weighing 10-12 pounds are preferred but these smaller birds will be insufficient to fill the demand. Chickens are available at 75 and ducks 69 cents a pound.

Turkeys weighing 14 pounds and up are in good supply in Nova Scotia but the demand for smaller birds cannot be met. Retailers expect the price to be 75 cents a pound, six to eight cents higher than last year. Chickens are selling at 65, geese 55, ducks 50 and fowl 45.

QUEBEC PRODUCTION DOWN

The local supply is running out in Prince Edward Island and housewives are buying western birds. The popular lighter weights, from 8-14 pounds, are selling from 65-70 cents, the heavier from 53-58 cents.

Production in Quebec is down approximately 80 per cent but there is enough to meet the demand. The price is expected to rise a few days before Christmas. Quebec City prices are up 10 per cent at 70-72 cents for hens and 60 cents for toms. There is no demand for ducks and geese.

Montrealers are paying 69 - 79 cents for small birds, compared with 43-53 cents last year. However, officials predict the current price will come down before Christmas. Other fowl is in good supply.

The supply is down and the price is up in Ottawa. Grade A turkeys weighing 18-20 pounds, will sell for 75 cents and grade B at 68. Grade A birds 18 pounds and up are expected to retail at 61 cents and grade B 49. Ready-to-cook turkeys from 10-16 pounds should sell for 85 cents. Fowl is scarce but not much in demand.

U.S. IMPORTS

Toronto retailers expect grade A turkeys under 18 pounds to sell for 63-68 cents and over 18 pounds for 50-55 cents. Turkey sales are expected to be adequate for firm demand due to heavy U.S. imports, mostly lightweight drawn hens.

Turkey trade in southwestern Ontario is reported off 10-15 per cent from last year due to increased imports. Prices are up 5-6 cents.

In Winnipeg, retail prices for grade A turkeys under 18 pounds are 58-59 cents, compared with 55 cents last year. Birds over 18 pounds are selling for 46 cents. There is ample supply of chickens, geese and ducks.

EDMONTON PRICES UP

The supply in Saskatchewan is down 25 per cent from last year. In Regina, prices are averaging 57 cents for turkeys under 18 pounds, an increase of 10 cents, and 48 cents for those over 18 pounds. Roasting chickens are selling for 50 cents, fowl 40, ducks and geese 35.

Prices in Edmonton have been rising lately. Government sources indicated the price spread is about 14 cents a pound to producers and a little lower to consumers. In Calgary, one large wholesaler said the turkey supply might not be as strong as last year since many farmers devoted their time to grain production.

One Man's Fight Against Leprosy

By DENNIS BLOODWORTH

A Frenchman of whom Paris is justifiably proud has returned here after a world tour of mercy. Raoul Follereau, known as "the vagabond of charity," has for twenty-five years travelled over the globe, mainly on behalf of the Charles De Foucald Foundation, fighting leprosy wherever he found it. He is just back from a twenty five thousand mile trip, during which he distributed, throughout Africa, Diamino-Diphenyl-Suphon, the new wonder remedy which has been tested out for four years by the Hospital St. Louis. He also gave lectures, handed out funds, studied conditions in each country and formed committees everywhere to fight against the "social excommunication" that has in the past been the leper's fate.

Freely signing copies of his book, "My World Tour of Lepers," in a Paris store, Follereau was confident, almost happy. His African tour had closely followed two other voyages to lebrosy-ridden areas—the Middle East and Central America. "We now know," he said, "that leprosy, while less contagious than tuberculosis, is just as curable." No human, he added, was condemned for life by the scourge; leprosy had been conquered.

In Abyssinia, where there are 150,000 lepers, the Emperor personally asked Follereau to organise a national campaign against the disease. In Reunion, said Follereau, twenty-five per cent of the lepers had already been cured and returned to their homes. In inaccessible parts of Africa he found the modern methods of cure that he advocates being used. Everywhere, as confidence develops in the new drug, lepers are coming forward, admitting to the disease and being treated for it. But it is estimated that there are still seven million of them in the world.

The problem, said Follereau, has now changed. It was no longer a matter of curing, but of seeing that lepers were readmitted to a society—for "leper colonies in the Middle East are still little better than concentration camps." He hoped that he would not see in future, as in the past, lepers torn from their families and marooned on small islands, to be visited once a week by terrified boat crews who threw them a few stores and then fled.

Follereau has little time to relax in Paris. Shortly he will be off again on another visit to French West Africa, on his tireless crusade to consign to history for ever that most terrifying of all inscriptions: "Abandon all hope ye who enter here."

THE TURKEY, the traditional Christmas fowl, will be made ready for the oven one week from tonight. Mary Moore, the Examiner's cookery editor, gives to the readers today the way to prepare, stuff and roast a turkey.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Preparing Christmas Turkey 15 Pounds Is Average Bird

A week from today will be Christmas Eve and I hope your minds and hearts will be at peace.

If I'm to do my microscopic share in giving your minds peace in the food department I had better include the directions for roasting that turkey.

The average-sized bird weighs—dressed—15 lbs. I am told by a turkey raiser and by a produce manager.

So I will proceed on the assumption that your turkey will weigh around 15 lbs., and I hope Hazel L. M. sees this:

TO ROAST THE TURKEY

DO'S: Roast the turkey in an open pan; roast without water; roast without cover; roast with skin brushed with unsalted fat and covered only with a cloth dipped in unsalted fat or better still, foil.

Most of you will have the butcher dress the bird, and those who do not must know how to do it. I always cut myself doing it so I've quit wrestling with the monsters.

Wash bird inside and out. It is a slick trick to moist-scrub the skin using baking soda as a very gentle abrasive to make the skin take on a white clean pureness.

Dry bird well, and sprinkle inside with salt. Put stuffing (you need 14 to 15 cups—see below) in neck cavity first and fold neck skin back to hold it in and skewer in place. Fill large cavity but do not pack, for it swells. Fasten shut with skewers, then draw it very close by lacing in double figure eight around 3 or 4 skewers. Tie legs to tail and crisscross the twine over back around base of wings, and tie. Force wing tips over back. Brush bird all over with unsalted fat—lard or salad oil. Place on rack in roasting pan. Cover with cloth dipped in melted unsalted fat or cover carefully with foil.

A 15-lb. bird requires 4 hours at 325 deg. Fahr. Do not overcook or legs and wings will fall away.

A 16 to 20-lb. bird requires 4½ to 5½ hours at 300 deg. Fahr.

STUFFING FOR 15-LB. TURKEY

Fourteen cups fresh breadcrumbs (use white breadcrumbs preferably—and you know how I hate to say that—but grand dressing may be made with ½ and ½ white and whole wheat bread crumbs.) One cup melted fat which is ½ butter and ½ rendered out poultry fat or margarine, or good vegetable shortening or fresh bacon drippings; ¾ cup grated onion, 1½ cups finely chopped celery stalks and leaves, 2 tablespoons salt, 1 teaspoon black pepper, 1 to 3 teaspoons finely crumbled sage OR thyme or marjoram or poultry dressing. Gently melt the fat and add onions to it and cook them until they are yellow but not one bit brown. The crumbs are the longest job so call in your young members to help and sing rounds or tell stories while you crumb the bread. Mix all ingredients.

NOTE: If you want to use giblets, or sausage or mushrooms they may be chopped finely and used either slightly cooked or raw in stuffing—do not use any more than 1 or 2 cups of any of these.

I promised Vera of Whitehorse some pudding sauce recipes.

HARD SAUCE

One-third cup butter, 1 cup fruit, icing or light brown sugar, 1-3 teaspoon fresh lemon juice, 2-3 teaspoon vanilla or almond or rum flavoring. Cream the butter well, and add sugar very gradually. Add flavoring and chill overnight. It is attractive to score the top with a fork, and sprinkle with freshly grated nutmeg.

ORANGE SAUCE

Beat the whites of 3 eggs until stiff then gradually beat in ¾ cup fruit sugar, until very stiff, then fold in grated rind 1 orange, and slowly ½ cup orange juice and 2 or 3 tablespoons lemon juice.

Household Hints

MENDING WORN PAINT

Woodwork or furniture which has been painted white may be mended by covering with white shoe polish. Of course, this is a temporary measure.

✧ ✧ ✧

WATER PROOF APRON

A water resistant apron can easily be made with table oilcloth. Bind with tape, then wax. This will help keep it neat and clean.

✧ ✧ ✧

CLEANING TUB

Kerosene will remove stains from kitchen sinks or bath tub. Rub small amount of liquid on stain with soft cloth. When used in tub, rinse carefully, as oil will make tub slippery.

✧ ✧ ✧

TAKING PAPER FROM WALLS

Add a cup of vinegar to a pail of water and soak paper and it will come off easily.

✧ ✧ ✧

CLOGGED DRAINS

One tablespoon of soda and a cup of vinegar poured down the sink will clean most stubborn clogged drains.

✧ ✧ ✧

TO SMOTHER OIL FIRES

Gasoline and coal oil or other types of oil fires can be quickly extinguished with milk, which forms an emulsion with the oil.

✧ ✧ ✧

KEEPS PLASTIC SOFT

To keep plastic soft and pliable put a little vinegar in water when washing them. They will not become so brittle.

HANDS ACROSS THE TABLE—Little Charles Stone got the scare of his life the other day when he peeked into a museum case and saw the mummified hands of a king and queen from an ancient tomb in Egypt, while visiting the Witte Museum in San Antonio, Texas. Charles was touring the museum with his fellow students of the Sojourner Truth Elementary School. His teacher settled his nerves by showing him an ancient car.

Filling Sauces For Christmas Cooking

MARSHMALLOW SAUCE

½ cup sugar
½ cup water
¼ tsp. cream
12 cut marshmallows
1 egg white

Place sugar, water and cream in saucepan and stir until sugar is dissolved. Boil to 230 degrees or exteremely soft ball stage. Remove from heat and add marshmallows. Let stand until marshmallows are melted. Pour slowly over stiffly beaten egg white, beating all the time. As soon as all syrup is added, pour into jar and cool at room temperature. Use as garnish for ice cream or other desserts.

✧ ✧ ✧

LEMON CHEESE FILLING

1 cup seedless raisins
2 eggs
1 cup granulated sugar
1 tablespoon flour
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
2 tablespoons lemon juice
¼ cup milk
⅛ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
½ cup chopped nuts
Pastry for tarts

Rinse and drain raisins. Beat eggs and gradually beat in sugar. Blend in flour, lemon rind and juice, milk, salt, butter, raisins and nuts. Turn into pastry-lined tart tins and bake in a hot oven (425 deg. F.) 12 to 15 minutes. This also makes an excellent filling for an eight-inch pie.

✧ ✧ ✧

10-MINUTE CRANBERRY

2 cups water
2 cups sugar
4 cups Eatmor cranberries (one bag or box)

Boil sugar and water together 5 minutes. Add cranberries and boil, without stirring, until all the skins pop open—about 5 minutes. Remove from heat and cool in saucepan. Makes one quart sauce.

Queen Elizabeth Has Enhanced Royal Family's Popularity

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Britain's "woman of the year" is of course the Queen. From her Coronation last June until she left England late in November on her world tour to Australia and New Zealand, Elizabeth held first place in the news.

Each public appearance during her post-Coronation tours of the United Kingdom enhanced the Royal Family's popularity. The loyalty of Britons in general to a royal wife and mother with two lovely children was evident on all sides.

Women had special pride in the slender sovereign who walked down the aisle of Westminster Abbey last June 2 for her crowning ceremony. She wore a shining white gown decorated with the emblems of all her territories including the maple leaf of Canada.

Married women felt kinship with a royal mother who had to be parted from her children for six months, and who must fit her married life into a heavy schedule of royal engagements.

WOMEN AT COURT

The predominance of women in royal circles added point the the feeling that this is a reign for the distaff side. Princess Margaret, as a counsellor of state, took on important duties. Princess Alexandra, daughter of the Duchess of Kent and developing into a 'teen-age beauty, took increasing prominence in 1953 as a prelude to her "coming out" in 1954.

Many women, other than the Royal Family, made news at Coronation time. One of the most popular personalities was Queen Salote of Tonga. Riding in an open carriage to and from Westminster Abbey, grinning broadly despite heavy rain, she delighted the drenched crowds.

The Coronation maids of honor included Lady Mary Baillye-Hamilton, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Cook of Montreal and daughter of the Montreal-born Countess of Haddington. Lady Mary later announced her engagement to J. Adrian Bailey, son of a well-known London business man.

A Canadian girl guide, Joyce Douglas, 18, of Flin Flon, Man., hit the news by winning a seat for Westminster Abbey in a draw. Canadian women were also in the Abbey choir on Coronation day, including sopranos Simone Flibotte and Clare Duchesneau of Montreal, mezzo-soprano Dorothy Allen, Sackville, N.B., and contralto Jean Watson, formerly of Toronto.

MUSICAL TRIUMPH

In the music field, Betty-Jean Hagen, 23-year-old Toronto violinist, captured one of the most coveted awards—the Carl Flesch Medal. Edmonton-born Miss Hagen topped a field of 10 competitors from South Africa, France, Britain, Hungary, Yugoslavia, Italy and the United States.

Women worked to help cope with disastrous floods on the east coast of England and the coast of The Netherlands late in January and early in February. Jane Gray, radio commentator from Hamilton, Ont., visited the British flood areas and was impressed by the courage and optimism of families who had lost home and all their belongings. Some of these later emigrated to Canada.

Margaret Wilson, executive secretary of the Canadian Red Cross, made an observation tour of Holland's flood areas in February and found a devastation she said compared with the Fraser river and Manitoba floods.

AIDED FLOOD RELIEF

Countess Alexander, wife of Canada's former governor-general, Field Marshal Earl Alexander, and a member of the Women's Institutes, took an active part in the organizing of flood relief. Earlier Countess Alexander was in the news on her own account. The all-electric kitchen presented to her by the women of Canada for her services during her husband's term as governor-general, was installed in January.

The female touch was noted even at the time of the September earthquakes in the islands off Grece. First western woman on the scene was Countess Mountbatten. With her husband, Admiral Earl Mountbatten of Burma, commander-in-chief, Mediterranean, she visited the stricken areas by warship, as commander-in-chief of Britain's St. John Ambulance Brigade.

In the sports field, Marlene Stewart of Fonthill, Ont., made news by winning the British women's amateur open golf title at Porthcawl, Wales. She was the first woman to win the title.

Canadian women took a prominent part in British show business, notably Barbara Kelly of Vancouver, mother of three children and star in television, radio and films. Miss Kelly was seen weekly in the British TV program, "What's My Line," and with her husband, Bernard Braden, also of Vancouver, in the weekly radio show "Bedtime with Braden."

Personals and Social

Gift from the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Canadian Legion to the Louis Braille Society, presented at their Christmas dinner Tuesday evening, was a cheque in the amount of $25.

✧ ✧ ✧

Mayor and Mrs. Hugh F. Waddell entertained civic and county officials and their wives for afternoon tea on Wednesday, at their home, 488 Hunter Street West.

✧ ✧ ✧

Mr. and Mrs. Eric Hartshorn, of 633 Park Street South, opened their home Wednesday evening to members of the Dominion Woollens office staff for a Christmas party. Mr. Bill Todd entertained with films. After an exchange of gifts, Mrs. Hartshorn and Miss Ruby Johnson served a delicious lunch.

✧ ✧ ✧

Thirteen members of the Overseas Club enjoyed a pot-luck supper and Christmas party at the YWCA Wednesday evening. They exchanged gifts and sang carols during the evening and a letter from Miss Marion Foster, now in Dutch Guiana, telling of a tropical Christmas, was read by Mrs. Harry Smith. Club president Mrs. May Grant was chairman of the evening.

The Firemen's Ball is the first big dance of the Christmas season and is being held this Friday evening at the Club Aragon. Arrangements under the chairmanship of Fireman W. Bloom, provide a silver tray as the door prize and about 20 other valuable prizes which have been donated. Patrons and patronesses to the dance will be Mayor and Mrs. Hugh Waddell, Alderman and Mrs. Harold Rehill, the Hon. Harold R. Scott and Mrs. Scott, Fire Chief and Mrs. W. D. Sorrie, Mr. Gordon K. Gives Decorating Suggestions

Suggestions for making simple and effective decorations for the doorways and Christmas table were given by Miss Ann Jamieson, guest at the meeting of the '38 Club at the YWCA Wednesday evening. She also directed the members on making Christmas corsages for themselves and place cards. This Christmas meeting arranged by Miss Aileen Patton, opened with carol singing with Miss Betty Ferguson at the piano. The Christmas Story was read by Misses Helen Edmison, Marion Pound, Muriel Ball and Nellie Tinney while slides were shown on the screen by Miss Hazel Wilson. Miss Jamieson, who also told of some unusual Christmas customs, was introduced by Miss Jean Hammond and thanked by Miss Hazel Mutton. Exchange gifts were distributed by Santa and lunch was then served by Misses Ruby Leach, Marie Gibson, Alice Whitred and Janet McArthur. President Roma Brindle extended the greetings of the season.

Gift To Eldest Member

The Christmas party of St. John's Anglican Women's Club was held at the home of Mrs. H. Bassett, 461 Bolivar St. on Tuesday evening. A sing-song of Christmas carols opened the activities, with Mrs. A. Whyte at the piano. There were two contests and winners were Mrs. G. Walton and Mrs. L. Parton. A box of candy was presented to Mrs. G. Groombridge, eldest member of the club, in appreciation of her work for the club done at home. The presentation was made by president Mrs. H. Howell. After an exchange of gifts, lunch was served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. O. Dawson, and Mrs. Parton. The entertainment was arranged by Mrs. W. McLarnon and Mrs. A. Ball.

Crazy Hat Contest

A Christmas party which featured a crazy hat and corsage contest was enjoyed by the Civic Hospital Alumnae members on Tuesday evening at the nurses' residence. Winner of this contest was Miss Evelyn Taylor. Another contest, conducted by Mrs. E. Roberts, was won by Mrs. Gordon Wainwright. Miss Taylor entertained with a recitation and carol singing was led by Mrs. F. Fisher, with Miss Mae Renwick at the piano. A short business period was held by the president, Mrs. Phyllis Kingdon. Santa distributed the gifts, and afterward a lovely Christmas lunch was served by Mrs. Erle Wellman and committee.

Tells Story Of Carols

Evening Auxiliary of the George St. Church WMS held a Christmas meeting Tuesday evening. Worship was in charge of Mrs. Quirt McKinney's group and was led by Mrs. W. H. Frise and Miss E. Clysdale. The story of three Christmas carols was told by Mrs. Charles Allen and the carols were sung by Mrs. Chester Carson, accompanied by Mrs. Ross Moore at the piano. Mrs. Moore then rendered "Silent Night" as she has arranged it herself. A film strip "Christmas Around the World" was shown by Mrs. McKinney. President Mrs. C. D. Munro held a short business session which included the report of the nominating committee presented by Mrs. E. W. Jones. The meeting closed with carol singing by the Chirstmas tree and refreshments.

Police Ladies' Party

The Ladies' Police Association enjoyed a Christmas party at the home of Mrs. Andre Dalton, Hunter St. East, on Wednesday evening. Thirty ladies were present and the evening began with all singing "Hark the Herald Angels," followed by reading of the Christmas Story from the Bible by Mrs. W. G. Scott. Prayer was offered by Mrs. W. G. Morrow, and then the carol "Silent Night". President Mrs. Ernie Beatty held a brief business session during which she welcomed two new members, Mrs. F. G. Pollitt and Mrs. Williams. There were games conducted by Mrs. B. Howden and Mrs. W. Perry and the winners were Mrs. G. Emmons, Mrs. Pollitt, Mrs. Dalton, Mrs. G. Trennum, Mrs. Williams, Mrs. Bruce Tilson and Mrs. John Gray. Mrs. Marie Battle presented a timely demonstration of gift wrapping. A delicious supper was served by Mrs. Dalton and her committee to end the happy evening. Next meeting will be at Mrs. J. Morrow's home, 225 Euclid Ave., on January 13.

New President Grace WA

Retiring president Mrs. Eric McKinstry held a very short business session of the Grace Church WA on Tuesday evening, prior to the Christmas program. Mrs. I. G. Pollock reported 15 Christmas calls made on members and also presided for the election of officers. The proposed slate, read by Mrs. Roy Knight, names Mrs. Pollock honorary president; Mrs. W. J. Waldie as president, Mrs. J. Bailey and Mrs. W. H. Gerow as vice-presidents, Mrs. G. Stewart secretary; Mrs. H. Walker, treasurer; Mrs. G. Close social convener; Mrs. W. M. Thompson press secretary; Mrs. M. H. Mitchell and Mrs. H. Pickell, pianists. The program was arranged by Mrs. D. Montgomery and Mrs. H. Lambert and opened with favorite Christmas hymns. Scripture on the Nativity of Christ was read by Mrs. Close and prayer offered by Mrs. E. Partington. "The Innkeeper's Excuses" was read by Mrs. F. Sanders and a Christmas story was told by Mrs. Waldie. Mrs. H. Porter read a poem titled "Bethlehem". Presentation of a figurine was made to Mrs. McKinstry with expression of appreciation of her fine work for the past two years. Contests with prizes and an exchange of gifts from the big Christmas tree were carried out by Mrs. H. McMahon and Mrs. W. Turner and then a very lovely Christmas lunch was enjoyed.

Former Members Ill

In the church parlour beautifully decorated with boughs, red candles and figures, St. Andrew's WMS members met Tuesday afternoon for the Christmas meeting. Mrs. A. A. Munro, president, red for the opening a poem, "Is This the Road Bethlehem". Annual reports were presented and it was felt this had been an encouraging year. The serious illness of Mrs. Porteous and Miss Moir, former members now living in Kitchener, was reported and cards are to be sent. Also a letter of sympathy to Mrs. E. W. Young of Windsor. Theme for the worship was, "The word became flesh and dwelt among us" and those taking part were Mrs. Munro, Mrs. E. F. Reid, Mrs. E. Kitchen, Mrs. F. Gillespie and Mrs. F. W. K. Harris. Presbyterial president, Mrs. A. E. Metcalfe of Hastings spoke and installed the new slate of officers, as follows: honorary president, Mrs. Henry Cotton; president, Mrs. A. A. Munro; vice-presidents, Mrs. R. Jones, Mrs. T. Skinner and Mrs. J. Levell; recording secretary, Mrs. E. Baggs; corresponding secretary, Mrs. H. R. Davis; treasurer, Mrs. R. Bullock; christian stewardship, Mrs. R. Y. Kenny; christian citizenship, Miss M. Ferguson; associate members, Mrs. R. Jones and Miss E. Preston; community friendship Mrs. E. Hawley; literature, Mrs. H. Tremaine; supply, Mrs. E. F. Reid; Missionary Monthly, Mrs. E. Kitchen; press, Mrs. F. W. K. Harris; pianist, Mrs. Cotton, assisted by Mrs. F. Dawson and Miss E. Scott. A social hour followed, with the executive acting as tea hostesses.

FESTIVE BLOUSE and matching pleated skirt are right for the round of gay holiday parties. Both are in orlon and wool, are light-weight and washable. Tiered skirt has fine pleats; blouse has self ruching.

Games, Dancing Follow Dinner Of George St. YPU

Fifty members of George St. YPU met Monday evening for the annual Christmas banquet, always one of the highlights of the year. A delicious turkey dinner was served by the WA of the church. A lively sing song of Christmas carols was led by Lloyd Starke.

Report from the nominating committee was given by the Rev. Arnold Mathews, and the following slate of officers for 1954 was accepted by the union.

Honorary presidents, Rev. Arnold Mathews and Rev. E. W. Rowland; president, Coburn McLaggan succeeding Miss Marion Brown; vice-president, Miss Betty Scollard; secretary, Miss Beverly Watkiss; assistant secretary, Miss Velma Powers; treasurer, Bruce Annis; faith and evangelism convener, Miss Isabel Cruikshank; stewardship and training convener, Miss Shirley Starke; citizenship and community convener, Miss Edith Walker; missions and world outreach convener Bob Gillespie; recreation conveners, Gordon Bradfield and Wellie Reynolds; publicity convener, Bill Sheppard, social conveners, Misses Lorraine Bradfield and Marjorie Brown; song leader, Miss Margaret McKinley; pianist, Miss Shirley Starke; welfare convener, Miss Jean Montgomery.

The young people proceeded to the YMCA where the remainder of the evening was spent in dancing and party games.

Spot dances and novelty dances were won by Reg. Peters and Jean Rich, Barbara Pratt, Bill Sheppard and Velma Powers, Marjory Brown, John Webster and Jean Montgomery.

Santa Claus arrived during the evening and every one received a gift from the tree.

The evening closed with more serious thought when Lloyd Starke assisted by Wellie Reynolds conducted a short worship service on the real meaning of Christmas. An offering was received to help in the white gift services.

The committee in charge of arrangements for the evening were Kelly Metcafe, Gordon Bradfield, Misses Beverly Watkiss and Shirley Starke.

KING EDWARD SCHOOL

The Christmas theme was much in evidence at the meeting of King Edward Home and School Association Monday evening. A splendid crowd blended voices in the singing of several Christmas carols, led by the school choir under the leadership of Principal Mr. J. Telford, accompanied by Mr. W. Downes at the piano. The choir also rendered several numbers. Beverley Weatherstone, a Grade 8 pupil, favored with a piano solo entitled "Christmastide," and Bobby Ritchie, a former pupil, sang two vocal solos, "Dear Little Stranger" and "Glory to God in the Highest," accompanied by his mother Mrs. E. Richey.

Mrs. A. Warner introduced the speaker, the Rev. H. J. Scuse of St. George's Anglican church, who gave a thought-provoking talk on religious education. He described this as the one subject that ties all subjects up and relates them to God. He spoke of the untold possibilities in the child and illustrated various practical ways to build the faith of children, thus giving them a foundation for the life that lies ahead. He admonished parents, as the real teachers of religious education, reminding them of their responsibility, and stated that the only illustration of religion a child has is in his parents.

Mrs. C. Hobbs rendered a vocal solo entitled "Nazareth." She was accompanied by Mrs. H. Hardle.

A brief business period was presided over by president Mrs. J. Dunkerley. Mrs. L. Webb gave an outline of the weekly home and school broadcasts for the remainder of the month. Mrs. A. Ferguson announced that a panel discussion is being arranged for the parent-education meeting being held in January, and gave the names of panel members who will be taking part. A report on the recent meeting of the Peterborough Council for Retarded Children was given by Mrs. K. Wesenberg.

Attendance prize was won by Mr. Telford's classroom.

Mrs. R. Stanlick voiced appreciation to those taking part in the program.

Lunch was served by the grade mothers, under supervision of Mrs. E. Adkinson and Mrs. B. Syvertsen.

Graduation And Christmas Party Parkhill School

Parkhill Home and School Association met at the school Tuesday for the annual graduation exercises and Christmas party. More than 200 were present. President Mrs. R. Parnell and principal Miss Cora Bailey received.

Mrs. Parnell conducted business and Mrs. Christopher Gledhill the devotions. Miss Bailey's room won the attendance prize.

Pupils from Miss Bailey's room, units 4, 5 and 6, put on a program of choruses, recitation, folk dances, drills, novelty number and a presentation by the Rhythm Band.

Forty-nine children were graduated from the school last June, and 41 were present at the party. Miss Bailey spoke to the graduates urging them to always look for the "best" and to continue in their good work. She called them her "Coronation Class" because of their work on the coronation last June. Crests, which had been donated by the Home and School, and certificates were then presented by Miss Bailey.

The following were in the 1953 graduating class:

Paul Holloway, Sharon Ferguson, Hester Gledhill, Leroy Lake, Bernie Montgomery, Garfield Wilson, Grant Weaver, Billie Rowan, Bobbie Gibson, Tracey Reynolds, Janice Jones, Betty Ann Hughey, Kenneth Boyd, Shorells Seifried, Donnie Heitzman, Dann Prince, Karen White, Warren Ferguson, Alan Williamson, Gregory Fenn, John Seifried, Gary Llewellyn, Barbara Jory, David Fort, Barbara Thorburn, Leslie Parnell, Sharon Whatley, Sylvia Cookman, Sandra Tilling, Maureen Duncan, Marilyn Hallick, Joe Yule, Joan Lister, David Cross, David Johnson, Joe McIlhagga, Dickie Garside, Michael Cassidy, Gary Hetherington, Colleen Jarvis, Michael Vollans, George Dearing, Warren Lehigh, Sharon Hill, George Barringer, Gary Thomas, Karen Reynolds.

A huge graduation cake had been made and decorated in the school colors, heliotrope and blue. The children of both classes were served cake, sandwiches, ice cream and chocolate milk in one room and the parents were served in another room. Mrs. B. Goulding was in charge of social arrangements and she was assisted by Mrs. B. Holloway, Mrs. C. Gledhill, Mrs. A. Fort, Mrs. J. Johnson, Mrs. W. Griffin, Mrs. G. Morrow and Mrs. F. Barker.

Mrs. W. Griffin thanked Miss Bailey on behalf of all present for the splendid program which she had arranged, and also the children who had put on a grand performance.

Cover-Up Look In Shoes Set New Trend For Winter

By PEGGY MASSIN

PARIS (Reuters) — The "covered-up look" in shoes sets a trend for winter. Styles veer away from low-cut pumps toward higher vamp effects worked well up over the arch of the foot.

Christian Dior's new pump illustrates the trend. The squared vamp is counter-balanced by a medium, squarish heel, and narrow, pointed toe. For dress wear, interest is centred on this same style, in draped effects across the front of the shoe.

Heels are definitely lower. Cuban and Louis XV styles are shown for streetwear, and thin spindles or champagne glass stems for more formal occasions.

Combined with the trends towards sharply pointed toes, and higher vamps, these styles recall the long, narrow, Patrician foot of the 1930s. Trimming is restrained, restricted to bandings, incrustations of contrasting leathers, or two-colored trims. Jet and bronze ornaments are favored for dresswear.

SPINNING GLOBE SANDAL

Among novelty ideas is one shown by Codre, who last summer produced a plastic heel which encaged a live mouse. This winter he shows "universe," a satin evening sandal with a small revolving world globe set in the centre of the heel. The metal globe, lightly traced with world contours, is the size of the golf ball, and turns slowly on the axis of the heel.

Other stunts, which may be the forerunner of a minor trend, include exaggerated Persian toes. These slightly upturned, pointed toes which were created by Mancini for Hubert de Givenchy, have been adapted in modified versions by other shoemakers.

DOROTHY DIX

Woman Allows Husband To Dictate

DEAR MISS DIX: Four years ago I married for the second time. My husband has two children by a former marriage. I have four. His children live with us, getting everything they want and giving nothing in return. They are completely undisciplined. They are both in high school. My children don't live with us. In fact, I'm not allowed to see them, they can't come into the house and I have to sneak out to visit them. Right after we were married, my 16-year-old daughter had to leave home because my husband didn't like her. Then, as each of the children reached 15 or 16, they had to leave. All are now with distant relatives who were kind enough to take them in. If I mention going to see my children, my husband beats me.

P. P.

BRUTAL HUSBAND

ANSWER: What manner of woman are you that you permit your own children to be turned into the streets, to satisfy the whim of a brutal man? Haven't you heard that the days of slavery are over? You're a wife, not a chattel to be "forced" to do what one man wants. Your husband needed a housekeeper, and someone to look after his children. He wanted no competition, no one to take up even a part of your time; he wanted exclusive rights to your work, and you gave into him. You need have no worry that he'll ever turn you out; free household help isn't too prevalent today.

You're 38, with two good feet to stand on. Why not try using them? You're worth a darn sight more to your husband—in value of services received—than he is to you. What would you lose if you insisted on seeing your youngsters? Nothing! And you might gain the respect of your family. You don't have to stay around and take the beatings, either. Thank God we have laws to protect women against that sort of treatment, if they have sense enough to use them. When I think of you letting teen-age girls be put out of the only home they knew by such a man, my blood runs cold. I hope the girls, and your son, have acquired gumption.

DEAR MISS DIX: My daughter is 15. Occasionally, she dates boys we don't know, and when she brings them home, or they meet her here, I always ask their full names and addresses, also some information about their families. My daughter resents this. How can I convince her it's for her own good?

MRS. B.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: While I fully appreciate your interest in the young lady's dates, there's really no reason to go into a full investigation at a first meeting. Can't you be a little subtle about getting this data without embarrassing the girl and her date?

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Two years age I married a man of 60, who had never been married before, but had an affair 35 years ago and had a son by the woman. I knew of it before I married him, but didn't think it would affect us. However, it has. The woman is dead now, but I simply cannot get the affair out of my mind. I am so jealous of her it almost makes me ill and, whenever we have words, I bring up the subject of this old romance.

GRACE D.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You simply must learn to control yourself, and let the past die, or you'll never have any peace at home, in fact, you won't have a husband much longer. What possible difference does it make what the man did so many years before he even met you? Stop being so naive and accept the blessings of the present with gratefulness.

VARIATIONS

Cranberry-Ambrosia — pour sauce over thinly sliced oranges, and top with shredded cocoanut.

Minted Cranberry Sauce—Stir in 1 tsp. chopped fresh mint or a few drops of mint extract.

Cranberry Apricot Delight — Add 1 cup cooked sweetened apricots.

Cranberry-Ruby Pears — Spoon sauce over cooked or canned pear halves.

✧ ✧ ✧

WORCESTERSHIRE SAUCE

1 pint Indian black molasses
1 oz. ground black pepper
½ oz. powdered mace
½ oz. bruised cloves

Cranberry-Chiquita—Fold in 3 bananas cut in ½-inch slices.

½ oz. shallots or onions
2 quarts malt vinegar

Put mixture in large crock and let stand for two weeks closely covered. Stir daily. Boil for 20 minutes and train through muslin or two thicknesses of cheesecloth. Bottle.

✧ ✧ ✧

CRANBERRY ORANGE RELISH

NO COOKING

2 cups of sugar
4 cups of cranberries
2 oranges

Put cranberries through the food chopper. Quarter whole oranges, remove seeds put through the chopper and add sugar. Mix well. Chill in refrigerator a few hours before serving. Makes 1 quart of relish and will keep in the refrigerator for several weeks.

✧ ✧ ✧

FRUIT FRENCH DRESSING

½ c. salad oil.
¼ c. lemon juice.
¼ c. canned plum, sweet or maraschino cherry juice.
2 tsps sugar.
½ tsp. salt.
½ tsp. paprika.

Measure all ingredients into a bottle or jar. Cover tightly and shake well. Chill several hours. Shake well before serving. Makes 1 cup.

✧ ✧ ✧

SAUCE

½ c. brown sugar.
1½ tbsps. flour.
⅛ tsp. salt.
1 c. boiling water.
1 tbsp. butter.
½ tsp vanilla.

Combine flour, salt, sugar in saucepan. Add water gradually, stirring constantly. Cook till thick and smooth. Remove from heat and add butter and vanilla. (We have used this recipe for Christmas pudding for 40 years. It is easy to make and good).

✧ ✧ ✧

WORCESTER SAUCE

1 pint black molasses.
1 oz. ground black pepper.
1 oz. ground cloves.
½ oz. mace ground.
½ oz. cayenne pepper.
Salt to taste.
16 onions ground fine.
2 qts. vinegar.
½ lb. sugar if desired.

Put chopped onions and ingredients in a stone jar. Let stand for a week stirring every day. At the end of the week boil slowly for 20 minutes. Strain through muslin and bottle.

Special Christmas Recipes

CRANBERRY ICE

(To serve with cold turkey)

2 cups cranberries
1 cup water
1 cup apple juice OR ½ cup orange juice
½ cup sugar
⅛ teaspoon salt.

Bring cranberries and water to a boil and boil for 5 minutes or until skins pop, stirring to prevent sticking. Put through a food mill or sieve to remove skins. Add fruit juice, sugar and salt and blend well. Pour into freezing tray and freeze until quite firm. Break into chunks and place in a bowl. Crush with a fork until mixture is a smooth mush. If mixture is allowed to melt, the "ice" will have coarse crystals. Quickly beat for a few seconds, immediately pour mixture back into freezing tray and allow to freeze until firm. Yield: 3 to 3½ cups.

This ice is perfect to serve with cold roast turkey in place of a side salad.

✧ ✧ ✧

CRANBERRY PUNCH

2 cups cranberries
1 cup water
⅓ cup sugar
2 20-ounce tins apple juice

Bring cranberries and water to a boil and boil for 5 minutes or until skins pop, stirring to prevent sticking. Put through a food mill or sieve to remove skins. Add sugar and apple juice and stir until well blended. Chill before serving. Yield: 6 cups. Note: The cranberry juice may be made ahead of time and mixed with the apple juice just before serving.

✧ ✧ ✧

CRANBERRY AND ORANGE SHERBET

2 cups cranberries
1 cup water
½ envelope gelatine
¼ cup cold water
½ cup orange juice
½ cup sugar (increase as required)
⅛ teaspoon salt
1 egg white
2 tablespoons sugar

Prepare cranberry puree according to directions given in above recipes. Meanwhile soak gelatine in cold water. If puree has cooled too much, dissolve gelatine over hot water, otherwise add it directly to hot puree. Add orange juice, sugar and salt and blend well. Pour into freezing tray and freeze until quite firm. Beat egg white until stiff. Add the two tablespoons sugar to form a meringue. Remove frozen mixture from freezer, break it into chunks and place in a bowl. Crush with a fork until mixture is a smooth frozen mush. Immediately fold in meringue and quickly return to freezer. Yield: six servings.

A SCARF may be anything at all this year, sparkling headband, fringe-trimmed stole, confetti-dotted shoulder cape or narrow neckband. They're all classified as scarves.

For Christmas giving, the scarf is ideal.

Here are two scarves, both versatile, both ideal gifts. Cap (left) is in wool jersey, narrowly striped in red-and-black. It ties on and is further secured to the head by a concealed clip. Companion piece is the narrow pull-through neckband with tips tied in wool yarn and finished with giant sequins. Sequin trim is repeated on cap.

White wool jersey cape stole (right) is collared in black braid and trimmed with a row of black braid and long, black silk fringe.

fended by Mr. Davis at the Court of Revision, he announced.

Of the 21 appeals against the assessment of industrial property, 11 consist of properties in which errors have been found in the measurements taken by the Charles Warnock Co. of Hamilton, who contracted to assess the city's industrial property.

In accordance with the terms of their contract with the city, the Warnock company will defend the other 10 appeals against the assessment of industrial property.

APPEALING

Companies which have filed notices of appeal are: CGE, Quaker Oats, Outboard Marine and Manufacturing, CNR (freight shed and station, Peterborough Lumber, Brinton-Peterborough Carpet, Martin-Hewitt Containers, Canadian Ventilating Shades, Great West Saddlery, G. Whitaker & Co.

In all cases, the appellants have stated that their properties are over-assessed or that the assessment is excessive.

Youth, Father To Get $1,800 In Court Action

A young Peterborough motorcyclist and his father will receive a total of $1,800 in damages as a result of an accident in which the youth was injured, October 1, 1952.

Payment of this amount was agreed on between the parties and the minutes of settlement were endorsed Wednesday by Mr. Justice Treleaven at the non-jury sittings of Supreme Court.

The youth, Robert Hobart, 19, of 118 Aylmer St., received a puncture wound in his right leg, torn thigh muscles, and cuts on his face and head when he was in collision with a half-ton truck, driven by Bruce Wright of RR 3, Peterborough. The facial injuries also affected his left eye.

Wright was pulling out of a driveway on the south side of Albert St. when he was in collision with Hobart's westbound motorcycle. Both Hobart and his passenger, Harvey Duck, 22, of 647 Gilchrist St. were injured. He was temporarily pinned between his motorcycle and the rear of a parked car.

Delbert Hobart, the youth's father, gets $787.50 for his out-of-pocket expenses. And $1,012.50 will be paid into court until Robert Hobart becomes 21 years of age.

W. J. Arthur Fair, QC, was counsel for the Hobarts.

Bus Drivers Get 5-Cent Increase 2-Year Contract

Their new two-year agreement with Peterborough Bus Lines provides a pre-Christmas cheque of about $45 to the local bus drivers payable next Wednesday.

This is the amount of retroactive pay at five cents an hour from September 1st.

Final settlement with the company was arranged on Monday. The main provision is the five-cent increase from Sept. 1 this year to the end of next August when a further increase of four cents an hour comes into effect on Sept. 1, 1954 for the second year of the agreement.

The bus drivers are members of Division No. 1320 of the Amalgamated Association of Street Electric Railways and Motor Coach Employees of America.

Negotiations for a new contract were begun early in July. Failing agreement during the following four months, the bus drivers applied for conciliation to the Ontario Department of Labor. Their case was taken up by R. V. Bradbury of the provincial department. Negotiations gradually arrived at conditions which were accepted by the company and the operators.

The snow storm Monday prevented Mr. Bradbury from coming to Peterborough for the final details.

CONTRACT SIGNED

One of the bus drivers informed the Examiner that their committee was instructed to complete the negotiations themselves. The contract was signed on Monday.

"Mr. Bradbury paved the way to settlement," the men's representative said. "We had asked for a shorter week, but to help in bringing the discussions to completion we agreed to continue on the basis of the 48-hour week. Details of fringe benefits such as statutory holidays, overtime and so on, remain in effect.

"The top rate by the new agreement is $1.40 an hour regular time from Sept. 1 this year to Sept. next year when that wage is increased to $1.44. One of the points gained is that this is an agreement for two years."

FBI Issued 80 Warnings

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate investigators were informed Wednesday that the Federal Bureau of Investigation issued more than 80 warnings about eight men in responsible government positions whose loyalty was suspected.

Although all eight are out of the government now, Robert Morris, counsel for the Senate's internal security sub-committee, said there is evidence that they were retained in their jobs for some time after derogatory information had been received about them.

The sub-committee said one of the men, Irving Kaplan, an economist, was allowed to leave federal employment in 1947 with a "clean bill of health," although the FBI had questioned his activities in 20 reports to senior government officials.

Kaplan later joined the staff of the United Nations, but he was separated from the UN in 1952, shortly after he refused to tell the sub-committee whether he was a Soviet espionage agent.

In addition to Kaplan, names mentioned were Solomon Adler, V. Frank Coe, Harold Glasser, Maurice Halperin, Victor Perlo, A. George Silverman, Nathan Gregory Silvermaster, William H. Taylor and William Ullman.

WOKING, England (CP) — Tom Bagley, retiring as an inspector of the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, estimates he was called on to destroy an average of 2,000 animals each year for 33 years. "I hated doing every one" he said.

House Adjourns After Hearing Housing Law

OTTAWA (CP) — Members of Parliament can sit by their Christmas firesides mulling over the government's new housing legislation.

A bill amending the National Housing Act was introduced in the Commons Wednesday night by Works Minister Winters shortly before Parliament adjourned for the Christmas recess. The Commons adjourned to Jan. 12; the Senate to Jan. 19.

The legislation provides for lower down payments—10 per cent instead of 20—on the first $8,000 of the lending value of a house. Down payment on the portion above 8,000 will be 30 per cent.

Monthly repayments will be reduced by extending the life of mortgage loans from the current 20 years to 25 years.

ENTER MORTGAGE FIELD

Chartered banks and Quebec savings banks will be able to enter the mortgage lending field for the first time. This will tap Canada's bank savings account for home-building.

The borrower will have to bear the cost of the mortgage insurance premium. It will be two per cent of the loan in case of home ownership and 2½ per cent on property constructed for renting.

In reply to a question, Mr. Winters said the mortgage interest rate will be set by the cabinet after the bill is proclaimed. The interest rate now is 5½ per cent.

Mr. Winters said the rate will be related to that on long-term government bonds at the time.

Stanley Knowles (CCF — Winnipeg North Centre) said the cabinet should not have the power to set interest rates. The Commons could not know how much it will cost persons to buy a house.

NO GREAT UPSURGE

A government housing expert said the new legislation is not expected to create any great upsurge in house building in Canada next year.

The legislation, if approved by Parliament, would mean some—but not any major—increase in home building. The expert suggested that without the new legislation housing starts might decrease in 1954.

Mr. Winters estimated that housing starts in 1953 will number about 105,000 compared to 84,000 in 1952, 74,000 in 1951 and 95,000 in 1950.

TO OPERATE MARCH 1

Officials said they hope to have the new plan in operation by March 1.

Donald Fleming (PC — Toronto Eglinton) said Canada's annual building capacity is 125,000 or 130,000 houses.

Between 1946 and 1952, the country did not keep up with housing needs. At the end of this year, it was likely there would be as large a backlog as the end of 1945.

Joseph W. Noseworthy (CCF—York South) said if the government wanted to make housing cheaper and available to persons in the $3,000-a-year income bracket it must lower the interest rate on loans to two per cent.

Appoint Applewhaite Committee Chairman

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons Wednesday appointed Edward T. Applewhaite (L—Skeena) as deputy chairman of the committee of the whole House.

He will act, in the absence of the chairman, W. A. Robinson, as chairman of the Commons when it goes into committee to study legislation.

His appointment, made on the motion of Prime Minister St. Laurent, is for the present session only.

Highway Deaths Up

TORONTO (CP) — Traffic accidents killed 623 persons in Ontario from January to September this year, the Ontario highways department said Wednesday. During the same period last year, the toll was 610. Accidents during the seven months totalled 46,636. Level-crossing crashes claimed 36 lives.

Got Relief From Weak, Nervous, Upset Stomach

"Am Surprised How Quickly Syntona Helped Me," Says This Woman. Now Also Relieved of Headaches and Dizzy Spells. "Backache Gone, Sleep Well, More Energy."

"A few weeks ago when I was feeling very miserable a friend advised me to try Syntona and I can't begin to tell you how pleased I am with the way it helped me," said Mrs. Mary Beal, 4 Oak Street, St. Thomas, Ontario, in a recent interview.

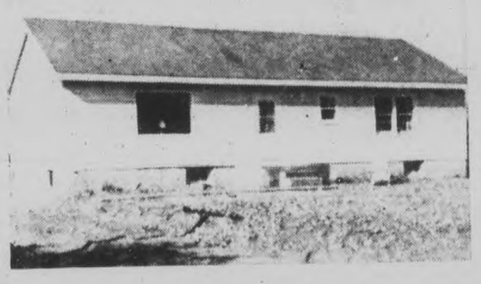
Stomach Very Bad

"I was troubled so much with stomach disorders that day after day I didn't care whether I ate or not. In fact, after taking even the lightest food it would sour in my stomach, give me a distressed full, heavy feeling, shortness of breath and heartburn. I would get awful dizzy spells and sick headaches. Spots danced before my eyes, my tongue was coated and my nerves were so on edge that I couldn't sleep at night. I even had backache and aches and pains in my limbs, joints and muscles.

Syntona Acted Quickly

"After I started using Syntona it wasn't very long until I noticed an improvement and as I kept on taking it, all the upset condition of my stomach gradually cleared up. Now I enjoy my meals, have practically no distress afterwards and I am rid of that terribly headachy, dizzy feeling.

"My nerves are calmed down, too, and the aches and pains have let up, so you can imagine how pleased I am to feel so well again. I have already told several people about Syntona and will recommend it to any one."



May Help You, Too

Syntona has helped so many people in this way that any one suffering from similiar troubles would make a mistake not to try it. It is pleasant to take, contains no harmful drugs and many people are completely surprised with the results it gives.

Syntona is sold and recommended in Peterborough by Elliott's Drug Store. (Advt.)

U.S. Bomber Wreckage On Glacier

Some Survivors Among Crew First Reports Say

LONDON (AP)—Wreckage of a missing U.S. Navy patrol bomber was sighted today on a bleak Iceland glacier. First reports said there are survivors among the nine-man crew.

U. S. Air Force headquarters in London said an Icelandic ground rescue party will be rushed by plane to a small airfield at the foot of the glacier.

An American air rescue plane from Iceland reported sighting the "badly broken up" wreckage this afternoon after a 24-hour search by 10 planes and at least two Danby 10 planes and at least two Danish ships. The spotter plane said the wreckage was sighted on Myrdalsjokull glacier on the south coast about 110 miles southeast of Reykjavik. It reported "presumed" survivors.

ON TRAINING MISSION

The P-2V bomber was on a round-robin training mission from Keflavik airfield, near Reykjavik, when it disappeared. It last made contact with its home base by radio Thursday afternoon. It was then some 100 miles south of Iceland. All aboard were Navy fliers.

The weather was vicious, with heavy rain and snow cutting visibility to near zero during the early part of the day, but was improving later.

RECORD-BREAKING MAILS are daily being reported by the Peterborough post office as Christmas cards, letters and parcelts pour in. In fact, Postmaster Claire Stewart, said today that 175,000 cards and letters were handled on Thursday; the previous high being 169,000. Despite the heavy flow the staff is keeping pace, clearing out in-coming and out-going mail quickly. The cards and letters are handled at the office while most of the parcels are sorted at the temporary post office at the armouries. This weekend's mail is expected to be even heavier Extra workers, such as George Walton (foreground above) help by sorting and carrying mail.

Hoping U.S. Will Change Mind On EDC

Pearson Anxious Military Aid Continued To Europe

PARIS—(AP)—L. B. Pearson, Canada's external affairs minister, today expressed hope that, even if the European defence Community plan fails, the U.S. Congress will change its mind and continue to give its European allies military aid.

Pearson told newspaper men Canada hopes a solution can be found, either in Washington or in Paris, on the application of U. S. military aid legislation.

The law now provides that military aid be withheld, as of Jan. 1, from countries involved in the projected European Army plan if the EDC treaty is not ratified. The countries are France, Italy, West Germany, Luxembourg, Belgium and The Netherlands.

Earlier this week, State Secretary John Foster Dulles said that if EDC is not soon ratified the U. S. will be forced to make "an agonizing re-appraisal" of its foreign policy.

GERMANY ESSENTIAL

Today Pearson indicated that Canada will also be obliged tot revise its position along with other NATO nations if EDC is not ratified. But he added assurances that Canada would still not change the general lines of political collaboration with its European alies.

"It's necessary to find a way to bring Germany into an organization for the defence of the Western world," Pearson said, urging French approval of the European Army plan.

But, he added, if the plan is not approved, then it would be his hope that the U. S. law would be changed to permit military aid to continue flowing into Europe, helping maintain the system of security for the North Atlantic nations.

30-Cent Increase

WINDSOR—(CP)—A 30-cent per hour increase for all Ford of Canada workers is included in the list of contract change proposals made by Local 200 (UAW-CIO) to Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited, today. The present contract expires next Feb. 19.

Laniel Tops Third Ballot In French Vote

VERSAILLES, France (CP) — Premier Joseph Laniel today topped a third ballot in elections for a new French president but failed to get the required absolute majority. A fourth ballot will be held at 8:30 p. m. (2:30 p. m. EST).

Both houses of Parliament, meeting jointly at Versailles Palace, gave Laniel 358 votes to 313 for Socialist candidate Marcel Naegelen and 225 for Radical Socialist Yvon Delbos in the official count.

Laniel's chances to become president had been rising steadily since he trailed on the first ballot Thursday. Before today's voting, Foreign Minister Georges Bidault withdrew his candidacy. Most of his votes apparently went to Laniel.

RECORD SET

The number of ballots required was unprecedented. Never before since the legislators began electing the chief of state after the Franco-Prussian war, had more than two ballots been required.

Each voting session requires about four hours since each member of Parliament must walk to the rostrum and drop his secret ballot into the urn. A majority of the votes cast is necessary for election.

On the scond ballot, Thursday, Naegelen, former governor-general of Algeria, had led with 299 votes cast by the 923 members of the National Assembly and Senate.

Trailing Naegelen on the second vote were Premier Laniel, a rightist Independent, 276; Yvon Delbos, a Radical Socialist (moderate) and pre-war cabinet minister, 185; and Foreign Minister Bidault, of the Catholic - dominated Mouvement Republicain Populaire, 143.

The other 10 candidates on the first ballot were out of the running, though 20 votes were scattered among them in the second poll.

Though the presidency is largely a ceremonial post with almost no power, the candidates' views and beliefs played a big part in the corridor politics accompanying the race for the sought-after post.

The Communists after the first ballot threw their support to Naegelen because he and the Socialists oppose the European army.

Survive 11 Days In Wilderness In Frigid Weather

SEPT ILES, Que.—(CP)—Planes landed today at isolated Lake Manouane to rescue six men missing for 11 days after their plane disappeared in rugged northern Quebec during a heavy snowstorm. Two ski-equipped Beaver aircraft put down near the lake and took off shortly after to bring the men to this iron ore centre, 360 miles northeast of Quebec City. The first of the planes was expected to land here about noon. Details still were lacking on how the men managed to survive in the bleak, frigid terrain. Thursday, they walked into the Department of Transport weather station at Lake Manouane, 150 miles west of here. A radio message said they were all in good condition.

One report reaching here said their twin-engine Anson aircraft had landed on a hill about 20 miles from Lake Manouane and that they had gradually made their way to the weather station.

However, veteran bushmen said it was hard to believe that a plane could put down on a hill and all aboard walk away unhurt.

Aboard the plane when it disappeared Dec. 6 on a 224-mile flight from Ross Bay, Labrador, to Sept Iles, were George Stapley of Sept Iles; Doug Dolby, Clint Burley, and Garnett Mooney, all of Toronto; Wilmer Tubman of Thessalon, Ont., and Joe MacKinnon of Middleton, N. S.

CLOUDY WEATHER

The weather was cloudy and a light snow was falling as the rescue planes took off from here at 9 a. m.

The men were to be given medical examinations on their arrival here and, if found fit, allowed to continue to their homes.

They had been lost since Dec. 6 when their plane, a twin-engine Anson, disappeared during a raging snowstorm on a flight from Ross Bay, Labrador, to Sept Iles. The flight normally takes 90 minutes.

MOST REMARKABLE

The fact that all made the hazardous journey unscathed was all the more remarkable as it was only slightly more than two months ago that seven men were rescued after being missing 39 days after setting their plane down on a lake when it ran out of fuel.

That was Oct. 2 and 100 miles away from the spot where the men turned up Thursday. They are construction company employees who were building a small railroad in the area.

NEWS RADIOED

When the men reached the weather outpost Thursday, the news was radioed to Sept Iles and plans got under way for their removal.

When the men started they had provisions for about a week. It was believed they rationed their food to make it last longer and probably augmented their supply by eating edible roots.

No word had been heard from the men since they set out on a routine flight transferring workers employed on railway construction until they turned up. The plane was owned by CMMK Construction Company.

Dunbar Orders Inquiry At Oakville

TORONTO (CP) — An official inquiry into finances of the town of Oakville was ordered Thursday by Municipal Affairs Minister Dunbar.

John S. Entwistle, head of a Toronto auditing firm, was appointed to conduct the investigation.

"Although I see by the newspapers that the Oakville council held a meeting and decided they would ask me to order an enquiry, I still haven't heard from them," Mr. Dunbar said.

"I am ordering this inquiry on my own initiative under the powers conferred on this department by the statutes."

This is believed to be the first time a municipal affairs minister has ordered an audit of a municipality's finances except on formal application from its council.

Oakville was criticized by Lorne Cumming, chairman of the Ontario municipal board, early this month for spending $458,000 on works that had not received municipal board approval.

Bandit Kills Bank Manager

NOTRE DAME DE STANBRIDGE, Que. (CP) — Police said a heroic bank manager, in the throes of death, telephoned them today after being shot by a lone gunman in the local branch of the Banque Canadienne Nationale.

The bank manager, Ovila Courville, was believed alone in the small branch when the masked man entered. Details were scanty but police reported the dying man managed to telephone them about the holdup.

Mr. Courville died about 30 minutes after being shot. One report said he also called his brother before collapsing.

Notre Dame de Stanbridge is about 50 miles southeast of Montreal.

Missing Cranes Reach Texas

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP)—Three whooping cranes, long overdue on their migration from far northern Canada, were feeding contentedly on the Arkansas wildlife refuge near here Thursday.

Julian A. Howard, manager of the U. S. fish and wildlife service refuge on Blackjack peninsula, said a thorough count of the whooper population was made Wednesday. Officials criss-crossed the refuge in a plane three times to verify the number and found 24 whoopers.

Previous counts had shown 21.

The count of 24 shows a gain of three compared with last year. At one time the cou t has been as low as 14.

Where the missing whoopers had been is anybody's guess, Howard said.

The whoopers here are the only known ones in the world.

Smash Big Numbers Racket

MONTREAL—(CP)—A Montreal paper says today in a newspage story that a numbers racket, operating in Montreal for two months, is believed smashed as a result of a police raid Thursday on a Dorchester Street West apartment. The story says police are searching for a Detroit man identified only as Nick, believed to have been the "brains" behind the racket. A six-man morality squad, seized thousands of numbers tickets, the newspaper says, but no arrests were made. "The two-room apartment, police believe, was the combine's latest headquarters, and morality agents said there were indications that syndicate men vanished because they knew police were hot on their trail.

Police would not comment on how far investigation or search for the man called Nick has progressed.

"The numbers racket, a multi-million dollar business in the United States, thrives on small bets—wagers of nickels, dimes and quarters," the story says. "Locally, in fact, the organization refused to take any bet over $2, apparently fearing that a "hit"—or win—on any larger amount would put the syndicate out of business.

"To get a 'hit,' the bettor had to choose the correct last three numbers of the total pari mutuel handle of a major race track."

Guided Missile Battery Will Protect Washington

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The army announced Thursday night the first "nike" anti-aircraft guided missile battery is being installed at Ft. Meade, Md.—obviously to provide protection for Washington, Baltimore and industrial-military targets in the surrounding area. It also discussed officially for the first time some details of the faster-than-sound weapon designed to track down and destroy, "regardless of evasive action," invading enemy aircraft.

It said the nike system, to be extended to other vital areas of the east and west coasts and the northern half of the country, "will provide defended areas with a far greater degree of anti-aircraft protection than was ever before possible with the more limited ranges and altitudes of conventional anti-aircraft guns."

An official motion picture of the nike showed it hitting and destroying a radio-controlled B-17 bomber 23 seconds after the missile left the launcher.

DISTANCE UNKNOWN

The distance to the target was not disclosed in the film. However, it is believed the speed of the nike is approximately 1,900 miles an hour and that the distance, in this particular demonstration, might have been about eight to 10 miles.

The film brought questions from reporters about whether the nike could hit targets faster than the relatively slow B-17—a Second World War bomber with a speed of about 250 miles an hour—and at greater distance.

The answer given by the army as affirmative in both cases, a spokesman declaring that the nike can "knock down a jet-powered aircraft of any known capacity."

Gordon To Be Patron Of Festival Foundation

STRATFORD (CP) — Donald Gordon, president of Canadian National Railways, has accepted an invitation to become a patron of the Shakespearian Festival of Canada Foundation, it was announced today.

Dr. Harry Showalter, president of the foundation, said "Canadian National Railways is the largest industry in Stratford and its people have for almost a century contributed a great deal to the life of our city."

Russian Ambassador Has Some Troubles

PLYMOUTH, England (AP) — Russia's ambassador to Britain, Jacob Malik, arrived today by ship from UN headquarters in New York but his Soviet welcoming party got fouled up in the fog and missed the boat.

As if that wasn't enough, the Soviet diplomat sat by mistake in the ladies' saloon of the launch carrying passengers ashore from the French liner Liberte. A crew member asked him to move.

On shore, Malik finally made contact with the six-man welcome delegation from the embassy in London. Before entering a black American-made limousine for the trip to London, Malik was asked by a reporter if he had anything to say.

"Certainly not," he replied.

Scattered Blizzards

TORONTO (CP) — Scattered blizzards dumped up to six inches of snow over much of southern Ontario today.

It knocked 87 telephone poles down near Sarnia, putting 400 telephones in the district out of order.

Department of highways crews were busy sanding almost all southern Ontario's main roads. Although weather officials expected skies to clear later today, the province's four-day cold snap was forecast to continue Saturday.

Picket Line At Big Stores

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A noisy mass picketing demonstration Thursday night at one of five big Pittsburgh department stores hit by a Yule strike brought the arrest of an AFL local union president and nine other persons on disorderly conduct charges.

Between 100 and 150 pickets circled chain-fashion about the entrances to Gimbels. Crowds of Christmas shoppers gathered to watch as police moved in to keep order. The demonstration lasted two hours.

Thomas L. Fagan, president of the AFL General Teamsters' Local 249, was arrested by officers who said he tried to interfere with police.

The demonstration was the first at Gimbels since the teamsters touched off the strike Nov. 27. Two other stores, Horne's and Kaufmann's, experienced mass picketing last Monday night.

The other stores struck are Frank and Seder, and Rosenbaum's. Six other unions besides the teamsters local are out in contract disputes reported to centre around wages and working conditions.

Fire On Deck

PORT WELLER (CP) — Sparks from a welder's torch Thursday night caused a fire on the deck of the 690-foot Scott Misener, grain carrier being constructed here. Workmen trampled out the blaze before firemen arrived.

Allow Civil Servants To Transfer Benefits

OTTAWA (CP) — Federal civil servants transferred to crown corporations will be able to take their civil service superannuation benefits with them, under new legislation planned by the government.

Finance Minister Abbott announced today the measure will be introduced after the Christmas recess. It will permit civil service pension benefits to be transferred to the pension plans of the crown companies, whenever employment transfers occur.

The legislation, which will be made retroactive to Jan. 1, 1954, also applies to employees of government boards, commissions and other corporations covered by the new Public Service uperannuation Act should they become employees of crown companies which are not covered by the Superannuation Act.

The employees transferring to crown companies would be entitled to superannuation benefits related to their service up to that time, and then would become members of the company pension plan. At the present time they simply continue paying into the civil service superannuation fund.

Holdup Alarm At Hamilton

HAMILTON (CP) — Local police were alerted late this morning and squad cars with armed men were dispatched through the city.

Police chief Len Lawrence said that the action stemmed from information received on a possible payroll holdup.

"We don't know where or when this is likely to happen if it happens at all. From information received and from holdups of this nature in the vicinity we decided to alert the force. It could be any one of six places."

Extra Planes, Trains For Yule

TORONTO (CP)—Extra trains and planes will be ordered out next week to handle the Christmas rush of travellers.

Trans-Canada Air Lines has announced two extra flights to Tampa Fla., one extra trip to Bermuda and another from Montreal to London.

Canadian Pacific Railway said extra coaches will be on all its trains two days before the holiday. Canadian National Railways said a special train will leave Toronto at 1.10 p.m., the day before Christmas for Guelph, Kitchener, Stratford and London.

Outbound trains will run normally on Christmas Day but the CPR's overnight train from Montreal will arrive in three sections. The CPR said reserved space to Ottawa and Montreal is virtually filled up.

Besides the extra flights to Tampa, Bermuda and London, TCA will fly nine extra planes to New York between Dec. 23 and Jan. 3. It will also make five extra trips to Ottawa, four extra to Windsor, three to Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., and one to Cleveland, O.

Fog Settles Over Britain

LONDON (AP) — Thick fog settled on Britain today and the weather man warned that it might stay. Trains and buses ran late right across the country. All flying stopped at London airport.

Worst-affected areas were London, southern England and Glasgow and Edinburgh. Forecasters said the sun might break through in patches during the afternoon, but the fog would thicken again by nightfall.

Most of continental Europe reported weather approaching normal after the early-winter mild spell. Italy however, still basked today in June-like sunshine.

A cold snap hit northern Germany. Slight fog covered the German coast and shipping tied up in the Elbe and Weser estuaries.

U.S. Will Return Islands To Japan

TOKYO (AP) — The Japanese government announced today that the United States will return the Amami Oshima islands to Japan on Christmas Day.

The move touched off wild celebrations among the islands' 200,000 Japanese, who have staged hunger strikes and demonstrations against U.S. rule for the last three years.

The islands, lying midway between the southernmost Japanese island of Kyushu and Okinawa, have been under jurisdiction of the U. S. trusteeship administration since the Second World War.

Kyodo news service said arrangements to hand back Amami Oshima were held up since last August because of a dispute over the disposal of about $1,500,000 in military payment certificates circulating on the island.

Magistrate Angers Village With Delinquency Blame

ST. CLEMENTS, Ont. (CP) — Residents of this village 12 miles northwest of Kitchener object to a magistrate's charge that they are collectively responsible for the recent delinquency of three village youths.

The youths pleaded guilty earlier this week to breaking, entering and theft of $145.

Magistrate J. R. H. Kirkpatrick, in sentencing them, addressed some remarks to St. Clements residents in the Kitchener courtroom.

"What has happened to these boys is your fault and not the boys' fault," he said.

He urged either more group activity or a return to the old social pattern which had the church as its centre.

"I feel that the magistrate is perhaps jumping to conclusions," said Ed Lobsinger, St. Clements merchant. "We have been operating hockey and softball teams in the community for several years . . . St. Clements has as much or more activity of this kind as other communities in the area."

Modern entertainment media which feature detailed stories of crime got most of the blame.

Msgr. William Becker, parish priest for 30 years at St. Clements Roman Catholic church, said there are too many movies which use crime as their themes.

Discover New Pyramid 6,500 Years Old

By GILBERT SEDBON

CAIRO (Reuters) — Egypt today announced the discovery of the oldest dressed-stone building in the world, a pyramid dating back some 6,500 years.

The discovery was made by Dr. Zakaria Goneim, 40, an archaeologist of the Egyptian department of antiquities, at Sakkara, 16 miles south of Cairo.

The pyramid belongs to the second dynasty of Egyptian pharaohs. Hitherto the nearby pyramid of King Zoser of the third dynasty was always considered to have been the oldest dressed-stone pyramid.

The outsize tomb which Zoser built for himself is 200 feet high and is graduated in a series of deep steps.

SPEED UP WORK

Goneim said the work of clearing the earth covering the newly-discovered pyramid is being accelerated. He is anxious to reach the underground burial chambers inside it, as they might throw light on the hidden story of the pharaohs.

Goneim has been digging in the area for some years and had always held that discoveries would be made which would give the world a new look into ancient times.

BURIED UNDER HILL

The new pyramid was discovered buried under a hill. The department of antiquities said its base covers about 15,600 square yards. This makes it a bit smaller than the Great Pyramid of Gizeh, the pyramid best known to tourists, which covers 23,100 square yards.

Today's announcement did not make it clear, but it was assumed that only the foundations of the pyramid have been discovered. Superstructures of most of Egypt's many hundred pyramids have been carried off throughout the ages for use as building stone.

Cheops' Great Pyramid, dating from the fourth dynasty, about 4,000 B. C., is one of the best maintained, and was restored several times by later pharaohs. It is 481 feet high and contains 6,000,000 tons of dressed stone in blocks.

Canadian Dollar At 3% Premium

NEW YORK (CP)—The Canadian dollar, continuing its gradual climb, today reached a premium of more than three per cent over the U.S. dollar for the second time this week.

The dollar opened at a premium of 3 1-16 per cent in terms of U.S. funds today, a point it had reached previously Monday.

It was well above the 5-16 of a cent premium of last May 16 but below the 4 5-16 cents of August 1952—highest point since the Canadian dollar was freed in December, 1951.

Allow Ships Transferred To UK Listing

Cabinet Eases Law Slightly For Ship Owners

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's deep-sea ship owners have been given the cabinet's permission to transfer more of their already-depleted fleet to British registry.

But Transport Minister Chevrier, in a letter to M. G. Angus, president of the Canadian Shipowners Association, turned down the owners' request for freedom to dispose of their vessels where they wish.

The letter also made it clear that no general subsidy will be made to the economically-crippled industry. The cabinet would, however, consider granting special aid to particular services from time to time.

The shipowners were hardly keen on the action, revealed Thursday when Mr. Chevrier's letter was made public. "The decisions leave us with no guidance for the future," said W. J. Fisher, manager of the shipowners association. "The future looks extremely bleak."

Mr. Chevrier said he has been in touch with British officials and is "hopeful" that arrangements for the transfers can be made soon.

ACTION ONLY TEMPORARY

Mr. Fisher said transferring Canadian deep-sea ships to British registry would be merely a "temporary expedient."

The owners have told the government they cannot compete with foreign vessels because of high operating costs, which they attribute to the world's second-highest standards of pay and living conditions for crews.

The association originally asked for a government subsidy. Refused that, the owners asked to be released from a covenant which bars them from selling the ships abroad unless the money goes into a government-supervised fund for the construction of new shipping.

Mr. Chevrier reminded the owners that they had entered into the agreement voluntarily and without protest and Mr. Fisher agreed. But, Mr. Fisher said, the government then appeared to be interested in doing everything possible to maintain a Canadian merchant fleet. Now it was not apparent that the government wanted to do so.

FACE INSOLVENCY

Mr. Fisher said the industry faces insolvency because of the curbs on where the operators may dispose of their vessels.

About 40 ships under the Canadian flag are affected by the covenant. Mr. Fisher said the Canadian-flag fleet, a peak 175 ships after the war, likely will drop to about 10 when more transfers are arranged. Ninety-two ships were transferred to British registry in 1950, their ownerships remaining in Canada.

IMPORTANT CONFERENCE—John Foster Dulles, left, United States secretary of state, is shown with Konrad Adenauer, West German Chancellor, following their arrival in Paris for the NATO conference which opened Monday. Dulles angered France and Britain by an unexpected threat to shift U.S. troops.

U.S. Rail Dispute Has Been Settled

CHICAGO (AP)—Settlement of a wage dispute between the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and the U.S. railroads was announced Thursday night in a joint union-management statement.

Reached after seven days of negotiations, the agreement adds five cents an hour to present wage rates and ends the cost-of-living escalator clause provision which has been in effect since April 1, 1951.

Wage increases totalling 13 cents an hour which have resulted from the escalator clause now become part of the basic wage rates.

The brotherhood estimated that about 200,000 of its members are affected by the new wage rates.

Stock Exchanges Close For Yule Holiday

TORONTO (CP) — The Toronto and Montreal stock exchanges and Winnipeg grain exchange will close at noon Thursday, Dec. 24, for the Christmas holiday, and will remain closed until Monday, Dec. 28.

Winnipeg will close at noon on Dec. 31, remaining closed until Jan. 4, but Toronto and Montreal will operate a full day Dec. 31.

U.S. Dollar At Discount

MONTREAL (CP) — The U.S. dollar was at a discount of 2 15-16 per cent in terms of Canadian funds at noon today. Thursday's noon rate was 97 3-16 cents. Pound sterling $2.72 13-16, against $2.73⅜.

Police Appeal To Blonde For Information

TORONTO (CP) — Police have appealed to a "strawberry or platinum blonde" and her escort to come forward and tell what they saw the night of Dec. 6 when Marion McDowell disappeared from a lonely lover's lane in suburban Scarborough township.

Police were told the blonde and a boy friend were parked close by at the time. The information came from a man who said he drove through the area about 9:40 p.m. the night the 17-year-old blonde typist disappeared.

It was at about this time that James Wilson, 19, said the McDowell girl was taken from his car by a masked gunman. Wilson himself was slugged.

GIVE DESCRIPTION

Police said their informant accurately described Wilson's automobile and said there was another car parked 200 yards away, facing Wilson's. It was in this automobile that the other girl and her companion were seen.

Police said the couple may have seen the kidnapping which Wilson described.

At the same time Toronto police entered the search with their quarry a youth with Marion's initials carved on his forearm. They said they learned from a co-worker of the girl that Marion had his initials — "K.M." — carved on her arm a few days before her disappearance. He in turn had Marion's name sliced into his arm.

Scarborough township police, however, said they have no information to support this story and it is described as "utter rot" by the girl's father, Ross McDowell.

Noted Literary Figure Dr. H. E. Lewis Dies

PENARTH, Wales (AP) — Dr. Howell Elvet Lewis, for 70 years a leading figure in Welsh literature and music and a former archdruid, died recently at his home here.

Dr. Lewis, 93, known generally by his bardic title "Elfed," was one of Wales' most popular contemporary poets, author of some 50 books and composer of several hundred hymns.

Although blind for many years he continued preaching and writing. In 1948 he was made a Companion of Honor by the late King George VI.

Your Cab Driver Wants No Talk In Paris

A great many things about France have been reported before I became a great international figure, so I may mention an item or two that has already been covered, writes John Gould from Paris to The Christian Science Monitor.

Ah! Paris! The thing about Paris that surprises me is the quality of the French spoken here. Hardly anybody has been able to understand me, and I have had to shout several times. This isn't exactly an attempt at a joke. For instance, I hailed a taxi and gave the driver the address of my abode here, a private residence on one of the outer boulevards, and away we went after the custom. The driver had no trouble at all understanding me, and since the address was as long as Gettysburg's, I thought I had done well, particularly on the number of the street.

LIKE KIDDY-CAR

All went well. The driver told me he was low on oil, which made his motor howl like a Californian in a draft, and we bowed at people we passed, and so on. All at once I asked him the name of a large and beautiful building we were passing saying it as it should be said, and putting a refined "la" on the end. Presto, he turned his greaseless cab about like a small boy reversing his kiddy-car, and we hauled up in front of the building where he bowed for me to come out.

An experienced Parisian, I'm sure, would have alighted, paid his shot, and waited to call another cab to finish the trip, but I didn't just sense the implications. I was weary after the somewhat arduous sea trip—not because of the trip but because the sea had been so unkind that we were virtually confined to quarters and I had nothing whatever to do except sit and wait for meals. So I tried to get my taxi man to continue on. This collected a little gathering, including a policeman, and led to an extensive witan that, as far as I know, is still going on.

It wasn't a question of my French. The policeman understood me, and most of the crowd. I had simply made the mistake of inserting an extraneous thought at a time when singlemindedness was imperative. I finally crept away, found my address, and slept like a congressman for 13 hours. Since then, during this visit, I have been careful to take up only one subject at a time, and stay with it to a conclusion. In this way my Yankee-French fares much better.

The French method seems to be all right basically, but not for us to understand. I saw a motorist bump a bicyclist, resulting in the bicyclist getting a ticket from the policeman. In the discussion which ensued the traffic on that policeman's corner got into a hopeless snarl, the beeping mounting at times to the cackle of a starling warren. Some people sided with the bicyclist, some with the motorist, and a few (including me) with the policeman. I doubt if the eventual settlement of the Korean affair will develop any finer oratory, logic, or spirit. The bicyclist was particularly fluent.

After a time the motorist and bicyclist went home, leaving the policeman to settle a dispute among those collected by the event. I think the bicyclist had more followers, but the policeman was a close second.

1,100 Children Expected Outboard Party

Some lucky employee of Outboard Marine & Manufacturing Co. will be the winner of an Evinrude light-twin 3 h.p. outboard motor at the Christmas party sponsored by the Social and Athletic Club of the Monaghan Rd. plant at the Brock Ballroom Saturday afternoon.

This is one of the gifts offered by the company for Christmas celebration.

Eight of the employees will receive watches from the firm in recognition of their attaining fifteen years of service. They are: C. H. Boulter, A. W. Watkins Jr., T. D. Moore, C. M. Munro, H. L. Kendry, W. G. A. Matthews, H. G. Schrum, S. C. Gibbs.

Those details are only incidental to the visit of Santa Claus with toys and mixtures of candies, nuts and oranges for employees' children from infants to 15 years.

SERIES OF DRAWS

The club is also including a series of draws such as a turkey and goose for the employees; two sets of cradles and chairs for girls up to eight years; toys for boys in the same age brackets. For girls and boys from 9 to 11, four five dollar bills will be handed out by the draw procedure.

The watches to the fifteen-year service men will be presented by President C. B. Neal and Bruce L. Payne.

The Christmas tree party program opens at 1:42 with Mr. R. Johnson at the piano for carol singing. At 2 p.m. Lou Durkin takes over as MC.

Welcome to the employees and the members of their families has been assigned to Leonard Martin. Mr. Neal will greet the eight long-service employees and extend to them appreciation of the years they have been with Outboard Marine.

After a film for the children, Vice-president L. L. Tremblay will draw the name of the winner of the Evinrude. Fred Burrett of the United Steel Workers Union in the plant will pick out the name of the employee who takes home the turkey, and W. Edgar of the office union will dig for the name of the winner of the goose.

SANTA CLAUS

The Chime Busters, a vocal group at Outboard, contribute a couple of numbers, and then Santa Claus arrives greeted by a chorus Here Comes Santa. Part of his duty is to conduct the draw for the cradles and chairs and the toys and the four five-dollar bills.

It is expected that there will be between 1,020 and 1,100 children in the line for his load of toys and bags of candies and nuts. One of the SAC executive of Outboard said today they expect a big afternoon particularly for the children who have been the inspiration of this annual event at Christmas time.

Total attendance of the employees, their wives and families is estimated at close to 2,500.

OBITUARIES

WILLIAM GEORGE SAGE

LAKEFIELD (ENS).— William G. Sage, 82, died, after a lingering illness, in his home near Buckhorn Thursday. His wife, the former Louise Williamson, survives him.

Born in Smith township, son of Patrick Sage and Lydia Jewell, he was educated in Lakefield where he lived for 44 years. He spent some time in Saskatchewan, and the past 25 years near Buckhorn. Mr. Sage was a farmer and lumberman until his retirement six years ago.

Beside his wife, he is survived by daughters: Mrs. Thorten Logan (Gladys) of Regina, Mrs. Russell Martin (Edith), Mrs. John Livingston (Ida), Mrs. George Downer (Dorothy), all of Peterborough, Mrs. Carmen Coons (Helen) of Lakefield, and Mrs. Gordon Bunneville (Olive) of Toronto; sons William of Peterborough and Victor and Nelson at home, and one sister, Mrs. Annie Graham of Peterborough. Also 28 grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

A member of St. Matthew's church, Buckhorn, Mr. Sage's funeral service will be from the Hendren funeral home, Sunday at 3 p.m. for burial in Lakefield cemetery. The Rev. Bevan Monks of St. Aidan's Anglican church will officiate.

FREDERICK J. LAJOIE

Frederick J. LaJoie of 112 Princess St., a resident of Peterborough for 40 years, died early today in Peterborough of a heart attack.

Mr. LaJoie was born in Hastings, son of the late Edward LaJoie and Adaline Oakes. He was educated in Hastings and moved to Peterborough 40 years ago. He was employed as a carpenter at the Brinton-Peterborough Carpet Co.

He leaves his widow, the former Genevieve O'Heron; two sisters, Mrs. Louis Jennijohn (Carrie) of Rochester, N.Y., and Mrs. Thomas McGuire (Rose) of Hastings; another sister, Mrs. M. Kelleher (Louise) of Delhi, Ont., died less than a month ago.

Mr. LaJoie was a member of Sacred Heart Roman Catholic church, a member of the Holy Name Society, Altar Society, and the Catholic Order of Foresters for 20 years.

He was a veteran of the First World War.

The funeral will be Monday from his Princess St. home to Sacred Heart church for requiem mass at 9 a.m. Burial will be in St. Peter's cemetery.

Cave Dwellers Of Italy End 3,000 Years Of Misery

WASHINGTON — Escape is at hand after 3,000 years for the cave dwellers of Matera in southern Italy's economically desolate Lucania.

With American aid, the post-war government has already moved 50 families out of Matera's "Sassi" district — sassi means "stones," and in classical Italian, "tomb" as well—to the new model village of La Martella a few miles north.

CAVES TO BE SEALED

Eventually, all 15,000 once-despairing troglodytes are to go to La Martella or similar modern communities. The 2,142 dank, gloomy caverns, in which for 30 centuries childhood mortality was 50 per cent, are to be sealed forever.

War and malaria have been the twin curses of Lucania since it was part of ancient "Magna Graecia." Along its swampy seacoasts, so near the gardens of Sorrento, and in its gloomy Apennine gorges, cousin fought cousin in the ferocious warfare between the Greek city-states.

Through once-magnificent oak forests swept the hordes of Alaris the Goth with the spoils of Rome. Hannibal's elephants trampled the olive groves and the vineyards that grew in the volcanic soil.

Normans, Byzantines and Saracens of Algiers in turn laid waste the land, along with the brigand allies of the Spanish Bourbons who ruled the Kingdom of the Two Sicilies. Earthquakes completed the destruction begun by armies.

RIVERS RAMPAGE

Rivers rampaged through despoiled forests, building new swamps from which arose more swarms of deadly mosquitoes. Wolves foraged literally to the doors of hovels where embittered people lay burning and shivering with malaria.

Long after Garibaldi helped unify Italy in 1860, Lucania and neighboring Calabria to the south were scarcely more known to northern Italians than New York to a Greenland Eskimo. Tax collectors were the only regular visitors from Rome. The citizens were abandoned to illiteracy, superstition and barbarism.

Mussolini's government drained a few Lucanian swamps, hoping to stem a tide of emigration to America and North Italy that threatened to depopulate the whole south. During the Second World War, fighting between the retreating Germans and Lord Montgomery's 8th Army wrecked the few improvements.

When hostilities ceased, the Italian government first rebuilt the million or more Italian homes destroyed in the fighting. Then it turned to the age-old "Question of the South." Matera is among the first beneficiaries in the long-neglected areas.

Most Price Groups Lower On Market

TORONTO (CP) — Most price groups were lower in light early afternoon trading on today's stock market.

Papers, steels, refining oils and textiles led the industrials lower. Foods, manufactures and banks were strong. Utilities and liquors were unchanged.

Senior golds and holding companies were unchanged in light trading and juniors led the group downward. Consolidated Discovery's seven-cent loss was the greatest change.

Senior base metals led their group lower as International Nickel was down 25 cents. Sherritt-Gordon rose five cents. Juniors were slightly lower as losses and gains ranged to Anacon's 10-cent gain and Barvue's 10-cent loss.

Uraniums were slightly ahead. Gunnar showed a 10-cent rise. Bathurst-area base metals were mixed in light trading with little variation.

Western oils slipped. The larger changes were gains, however, and a wide list of penny losses had to outweigh a 20-cent gain by Canadian Collieries and a 10-cent one by Merrill.

Canadian Pleads Not Guilty To Smuggling

MANILA (CP) — William Ernest Jolliffe, 37-year-old China-born Canadian, today pleaded not guilty to a charge of attempting to smuggle gold bullion from the Philippines to New York. Trial was set for Monday.

Jolliffe, a former assistant to the Canadian government trade commission in Shanghai, was arrested by customs agents Dec. 7 as he was about to board a plane for Hong Kong. The agents said they seized 22 gold bars, worth about $17,500, strapped around his waist.

Jolliffe, who served part of the Second World War on the Atlantic with the Royal Canadian Navy, took the trade commission post in Shanghai after the war. In 1948 he was posted to Hong Kong, where he resigned to go into business for himself.

His wife and three children arrived in Hong Kong from Toronto about six weeks ago.

200 Reds Hold Conference

MONTREAL (CP) — Some 200 Montreal Communist leaders held an abortive meeting Thursday night at the downtown headquarters of the Labor-Progressive party.

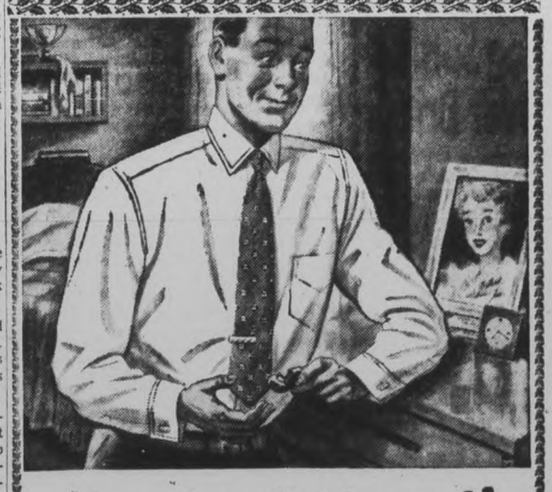
The meeting disbanded shortly after members of the anti-subversive squad were spotted in the audience.

Calls to have the uninvited guests ejected were countered by the arrival of uniformed police.

Harry Binder, chairman of the meeting, told members to leave the hall. They disbanded quietly.

Cabinet Reshuffle Predicted For Ont.

TORONTO — (CP) — A Toronto paper said today that William J. Noden, Progressive Conservative member of the Ontario legislature for Rainy River, may be given a cabinet post in a cabinet reshuffle in the new year.



The paper also reiterated previous reports that James N. Allen, member for Haldimand-Norfolk and now chairman of the legislature's special committee on cemeteries, may become minister of welfare.

The paper said the present welfare minister, Hon. W. A. Goodfellow, is expected to switch to the agriculture portfolio, replacing Agriculture Minister Thomas, whose health has been precarious.

The item also speculated that Arthur Welsh may relinquish his post as chairman of the Ontario liquor control board to become minister of lands and forests.

Judge Sees Extinction If Apathy Continues

"It is a better thing that nine guilty people go free than one innocent person be convicted."

Judge John De N. Kennedy addressed Kiwanians Thursday, explaining why criminals go free. Criminal law in this country, he said, is the result of hundreds of years of trial and error effort by men who have tried to establish judicial principles befitting a free and democratic country.

The results of these efforts are two basic rules: (1) An accused person, guilty or not guilty, is entitled to be tried according to law; (2) the burden is on the Crown to prove the guilt of the accused and never shifts; the accused does not have to prove his innocence.

The Crown must prove beyond reasonable doubt the accused is guilty. If there is any ambiguity in the evidence submitted, the conclusion must be in the accused's favor. If there is any doubt as to the guilt of the accused, he is acquitted.

The civilization we know, based on these principles, is threatened by extinction because of the apathy of the people, said Judge Kennedy.

"For some 30 years there has been a cold war of ideology between Russia and the democracies. Year by year we have been losing this war, and if this apathy continues in the future as it has in the past, it may very well end with our extinction as an independent civilization."

Judge Kennedy pointed out that this statement was not an exaggeration. He qualified it by referring his audience to the history of great civilizations of the past which were destroyed, because of apathy on the part of citizens.

"Communism has a great appeal with its positive, alluring, aggressive philosophy. I am not suggesting that witch hunts be formed, for that is foolish, but everyone can fight this threat best by arousing the interest of the people. The people must take an active interest in the bulwarks of our civilization, particularly the government and judicial administration."

Using a man accused of theft as an example, Judge Kennedy explained how the legal procedure of this country safeguards the individual's rights to the utmost.

The accused may choose three types of trial: (1) He may elect trial before a magistrate, which usually entails swift procedure; (2) he may elect trial before a judge, without jury, which may take some time, depending on circumstances; (3) if the accused feels that he will be proven guilty, he may elect trial by judge and jury depending on the jury for leniency.

If the accused chooses the latter, the Crown must prepare a bil of indictment clearly stating the circumstances of the offence and the specific charge. A copy of this indictment is given to a jury of 13 people. This Grand Jury sits in secret, hearing only the evidence of the Crown witnesses. If the jury decides the accused may be guilty, a true bill is returned and the accused will appear before a judge and petit jury. If the Grand Jury decides there is no bill, the accused is immediately discharged.

Should a true bill be returned, a jury of 12 is picked by the lottery system from a number of responsible citizens. The accused and Crown may object to the choice of a certain number of jurymen.

Proceedings continue with the examination and cross-examination of Crown and defence witnesses. At all times the onus is on the Crown to prove the accused guilyt. The accused may or may not give evidente, as defence counsel chooses.

Evidence is divided into two brackets, direct and circumstantial. Direct evidence is the personal witnessing of an act. Circumstantial evidence is the witnessing of fact and factors which indicate that a specific person committed a specific act. Direct evidence contains only the fallibility of human observance; circumstantial evidence also includes the fallibility of inference.

Hearsay evidence is rarely used.

In a court of justice a much higher degree of proof is required than in actual life.

After all the evidence has been submitted and examined, the Crown and defence counsel address the jury. The jury then retires, and using the evidence submitted in court, makes a decision of guilty or not guilty.

"It is plain the dice are heavily loaded in favor of the accused, but it is a better thing that nine guilty people go free than one innocent person be convicted."

BOOKED ON ATTEMPTED MURDER—Roque Castro, Jr. (right), is booked by San Francisco police on charges of attempted murder. The 13-year-old boy allegedly beat Linda Frey, 14-year-old high school student, with a lead pipe. The girl is recovering in the hospital from serious injuries. Describing the crime, young Castro said, "Something just came over me. I wasn't mad at her."

BEATEN — Linda Frey, a 14-year-old high school student of San Francisco, was found in the garage of her home unconscious, suffering from serious cuts and loss of blood. Police are holding 13-year-old Roque Castro, Jr., who allegedly beat the girl with a lead pipe.

Outdoor Rinks For The City

At the end of November the Parks Department of the city announced its plans for a dozen natural ice rinks. They are to be at Riverside, Inverlea, King Edward, Turner, Hamilton and McKellar parks, on Hastings playground and the grounds of St. Vincent's orphanage. There may be some minor changes in siting. The young people and their parents will note, in each of these districts, how well advanced the rinks are. The cold weather has come suddenly and so has the snow. Both together make skaters impatient to get out on the ice. The season is short and gappy; therefore the best must be made of the best times when they come—as now.

* * *

At that meeting of the Council's Park Committee a proposal to operate an artificial ice rink was rejected. We have not studied the specific proposition, but suggest that the Council, Recreation Commission and Parks Committee might give more thought to putting an open air artificial ice rink in one of the parks, to be used both for hockey and for pleasure skating. Such a rink has been operated in a Toronto district successfully for several years—and by success we mean, good ice, good skating, and no financial loss. (Fees are charged for the rink.) The rink is in operation from the middle of the autumn to Easter. Jackson Park used to be the centre of winter sports in Peterborough. It is a beautiful and protected spot, well served by roads and buses. This seems to be an ideal spot for an artificial ice rink in the open air. Such a rink would take the overflow from the Civic Arena, and geographically would be well placed. The Civic Arena is in the south end, Jackson Park in the north. Young people of school age and beyond it would be conveniently served by the two.

* * *

The estimate cost of the artificial rink privately proposed at the end of November was $20,000; this did not include the ice-making plant. The proposed site was next door to an existing plant. As has been pointed out. Hamilton has recently built four outdoor artificial rinks. Their usefulness is evident, their stability equally so. Here in Peterborough skaters and hockey players are poorly served when winters as mild (as last year) by the outdoor, flooded rinks. Last year the city's investment in their erection and maintenance was almost completely wasted. There will be other such years. Further, there are always midwinter thaws. Outdoor artificial ice rinks are proof against even the mildest winter.

* * *

We bring up the subject again now, when the natural article does wonderfully well because, when a thaw comes, city officials, parents and school authorities may remember it and give it more adequate consideration than they seem to have done this autumn.

Sedate And Leisurely

We are always amused by people who think that life today is a much more terrible thing than life a generation ago, and consequently we got a good laugh out of this morsel of nostalgia from the Sault Ste. Marie Star:

Some people start the day with two aspirins and some baking soda. Others have a cup of coffee and some wafer thin toast. Few can stomach the type of breakfast indulged in when the century was young, and life a more sedate and leisurely affair.

When the century was young . . . about 1905, let us say? Now what would have been the sedate and leisurely program of an inhabitant of Sault Ste. Marie in that year? At a guess we would say that he was roused at 7 a.m. and struggled out of bed about 7:20. He then washed in a basin in cold water out of a jug, on which dust had settled from the day before. If he was lucky he got a small quantity of hot water to shave in, or perhaps he skipped his shave that morning. He huddled into his long underwear and other clothing, and if he could not find the button-hook he buttoned his boots with his fingers, breaking two nails. He then went downstairs, and had breakfast in the kitchen, because the stove in the other part of the house had not been lit; he tried to sneak off without shaking down this stove and removing its ashes, but his wife was too quick for him. If he had no children he then went to the woodpile and lugged in enough wood to keep the kitchen range going till noon. If the pump happened to be frozen he helped to thaw it. His breakfast was eaten without fruit or juice, because nobody thought of such things at that time, and he was lucky if it didn't include fried salt pork and doughnuts which, swimming in coffee, formed a molten mass in his stomach. Then he either put on his goloshes and waded to work, or he hitched up a horse that insisted on stepping on his feet, and drove like a gentleman.

Sedate and leisurely? No, very much like life today, with a different set of worries, if worry happens to be one of your hobbies.

Beaver In Trouble

The adoption of animals as national emblems is risky. There are likely to be some back-lashes and kicks over the traces. Often their vices are more notable than their virtues, their appearance no credit to people claiming them. Who wants a kangaroo as a national emblem?. And consider what the bear had done for Russia's reputation—or the Bull (even if anthropomorphized into John Bull) for Britain. Canada has a seemingly harmless animal on its shield—the beaver. Yet there is no animal, wild or domestic, in lower repute in these parts right now than the beaver.

Beaver have been damaging cottages and their sites, flooding roads, felling ornamental and useful shade trees on the lake shores. They have become a pest, and any trapper who can be persuaded to go to this or that area of conspicuous beaver depredation and kill them off, is hailed as a hero by the owner of the resort property. Have beaver had too much protection? (One cannot shoot them, and only licensed trappers can go after them. Even then, the permitted bag is strictly limited.) Have beaver had too much veneration?

What are the beaver's good qualities? Even its skin has lost its former value. Mazo de la Roche, the novelist, deplores both the appearance and habits of beaver. "Who wants to work like a beaver, look like a beaver, delve continually into the mud?" she asks. Work itself is not a virtue; it is a necessity—and a bad habit if it is overindulged or if the product is as useless and damaging as the beaver's fabrications. A good beaver is a dead beaver, not a working one. If Canada is to use a beaver as a national emblem, let it be a beaver passant rather than rampant.

Canadian Wings For NATO

Mr. Lester Pearson is in Paris leading Canada's delegation to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization meetings. He can speak strongly and be heard with favour by the other NATO national representatives, for Canada is the only country in the alliance to have completely fulfilled its military commitments to NATO.

Canada's ground forces in Europe are limited, but up to the limit of her commitments—one brigade with brigade troops. It is in her contribution to the air defences that Canada excels. General Gruenther reported last week that NATO now commands about 4,400 aircraft. In number this is the equal of Russia's air strength in the European theatre. In quality, however, it is inferior to the Russian equipment.

It is here that Canada's four wings are important, for the RCAF's Sabre jets are the only NATO aircraft able to match or outmanoeuvre the Russian MiG. The British and American planes in NATO are their second-string, outdated machines. The four Canadian wings, one in England, one in France and two in Germany, have been the core of NATO air defence. The Montreal Gazette recalls that last spring when British and American aircraft were shot down by Russian MiG patrols over central Europe, the 75 Canadian Sabre jets at Gros Tenquin were the only first-line NATO aircraft on the Continent.

Before the end of the war in Korea the U.S. began sharing its production of Sabres with its own air forces in Europe. Now all U.S. wings in Europe are gradually being equipped with Sabres.

What Do You Laugh At?

We do not attach much importance to such sayings as 'Tell me what you eat, and I will tell you what you are'. They savour of that easy wisdom which imposes only on people who never think for themselves. But we think that there is a crumb of truth in the notion that what a man considers funny gives some clue to the quality of his mind. For instance, we have just come across a joke which was, we are told, a great favourite with the late Al Capone. Here it is:

"Sorry to hear Smiler's dead. What happened to him?"

"He fell off a scaffold".

"What was he doing up there?"

"Getting hanged".

NOTES AND COMMENT

A grandmother at Blind River, Ont., has earned a reputation as a wolf-killer. A grandmother who attracts wolves is in need of some protection.

Firemen were recently barred from boarding a Canadian destroyer by a gangway marked 'Officers Only'. That's not the Nelson touch; that's the Louis XIV touch.

We read of a tribe in New Guinea in which "the women wear no clothes and enslave their men". If the two facts are related, the beauty of these savage females should be enough to start an immigration rush.

U.S. Army In Korea

By PATRICK O'DONOVAN (in Seoul)

AT A TIME like this, when the journalists have stopped picking over the bones of the war, the generals begin. Four months ago a war petered out in Korea which is unlikely to start again. Somewhere the generals are writing their despatches, and one or two will write careful memoirs for publication.

But there is one fact that we may never learn from this imminent outpouring of military writing: what was the United States Army really like in Korea? Did it fight well? For non-Americans the question has been obscured by the inevitable heroics which accompany a war, and also by the things which made it hard to judge a stronger ally dispassionately: single-minded loyalty for one's own group, and the application of political prejudice to a purely military problem.

YET if one drops the concept that the Chinese are inferior soldiers—and no one believes that they are—and accepts the fact that they are the equal of any infantry in the world, with reserves of faith and hatred and powers of improvisation which we have not shown for many years, then the achievement of the small U.S. Army in Korea becomes a dignified one, and one to inspire confidence in those whose future may depend in part on the United States. The fact that this war ended indecisively is no reflection on the courage of the American soldier, or his ability to fight.

✧ ✧ ✧

THIS APPALLING war was carried on under crippling disadvantages. It was not merely that the United Nations fought at the end of lines of communication some eight thousand miles long, while the enemy's extended only two hundred and fifty miles, to Manchuria. By the peculiar limitations imposed in this war, the Americans were inhibited from properly using the two major arms in which the enemy could not compete—naval and air. As a result, when for political reasons in the autumn of 1951 United Nations forces halted for the last time at the 38th Parallel, the Communists proceeded to build up their forces until they had an overwhelming preponderance well-armed and experienced infantry. They had more guns at their disposal, and they developed brilliant techniques of night supply and cave storage which rendered United Nations air attacks on the North Korean supply lines of doubtful value.

✧ ✧ ✧

DESPITE the fact that the Korean war seems to have had for many American leaders almost the sort of emotional significance that the Spanish civil war had for European intellectuals, from Washington the leaders fought it in a curiously tentative way. For example, they hamstrung themselves with a "rotation" system which might have been designed to lower unit morale and fighting efficiency. Men returned home one by one as soon as they had served their year in a fighting unit, and as a result the units were in a continual state of change. The British rotated by complete units, and the Communists did not even have a leave system. Moreover, in the American divisions, company and battalion commanders were so often changed that it sometimes seemed as if they were aiming to give a maximum number of officers a taste of junior command rather than produce an immediate maximum efficiency.

✧ ✧ ✧

AGAIN, for the last two years the Korean war was as static as the Somme in the First World War. It became the sort of war which is utterly alien to the American temperment and tradition—a massive defensive war where the object is, or should be, to hold essential ground with a minimum of casualties. The result was a notable frustration among senior officers. The special virtues of American arms, which were seen in Europe in the Second World War, went underground. Junior initiative seemed almost purposely discouraged, and the old compulsion to be up and doing, which, against the established rules, drove Patton across France, here led to senior officers usurping the functions of junior commanders; to a close and over-weighted supervision of every tactical incident, and to an unusual domination by a huge staff which was never content to do nothing when there was nothing to do.

✧ ✧ ✧

IF this is a criticism, it is hard to see how it will apply to any future war. This was essentially an exotic and unnatural war. The pattern became simple. The rival infantry forces sat tight; the rival gunners fired every day at the infantry, and the infantry had to take it. The infantry patrolled at night for the conventional reasons: only towards the end did the Chinese attack, to excise United States positions which were advanced and dangerously exposed; and finally, for political reasons, to dent the line where it was held by three South Korean divisions.

✧ ✧ ✧

THERE WAS at the end no doubt about the superiority of the United Nations gunnery, although the Chinese were able to produce accurate barrages of such a size that the sound of individual explosions was lost in the uproar. With the exception of the Commonwealth batteries, United Nations artillery meant American artillery. American infantry is certainly the best armed in the world, and there now seems little doubt the Americans possess the world's finest range of field pieces. They are of a beautiful simplicity. The United States eight inch howitzer is certainly the most accurate gunnery instrument that exists and the 240 millimetre gun proved more effective against fortified positions than aerial attack. The Commonwealth gunners in Korea have been left with a profound respect for the professional skill for the U.S. artilleryman on whom they had often to depend.

✧ ✧ ✧

IT IS, however, true that the British could usually bring their guns into action more quickly. The British set few checks on their young forward observation officers whose job it is to call for fire. And the British used radio where the Americans insisted on line telephone.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE HIGHER direction of the Korean war is still a matter for controversy. But in criticising America's political generals, a surprising amount of malice has been directed at the achievements of the U.S. soldiers themselves. Little of it has been based on careful appraisal. From a United Nations point of view, the Americans managed their relations with a wildly assorted team of allies with less friction than any other nations would have contrived—one did not find malice among the allies in Korea while the fighting continued.

Amercian methods were profoundly different from those of the British. U.S. soldiers have a different sort of courage, more angry and more individual. The officers are more consciously professional towards their jobs. The result is a very different sort of army, perhaps even more different from the British than it was in the second world war. But if the stilted fighting in Korea proved anything, it is that the U.S. is capable of fielding an army that is worth the confidence of the West.

An American Opinion:
WHY NOT ACT ON THIS QUESTION BEFORE IT HAPPENS?

Canadians A Messy People

(MOOSE JAW TIMES-HERALD)

CANADIANS are a messy people. Go to any city between the beaches of the Atlantic and those of the Pacific and, while there may be the exceptional one or two, the street will be strewn with debris of various kind. Go to the parks, the business or residential section streets and see the mess of paper, cigarette butts, and the pasteboard packages, fruit peel, candy bar wrappers, the ends of ice cream cones and frequently broken glass of milk bottles or the brown glass of beer bottles.

Take this city for instance. The trash that accumulates on the streets and lies on the gutters come to life when a slightly better than gentle breeze sways the trees and makes the flags float. Then watch the average citizen removing the last cigarette from a package and see whether, if on Main street, he carries it to the waste box at the corner of the block. Keep an eye on scuh a container and count the number of citizens who, with something to dispose of, drop it in the box. It may be the wrapper off a candy bar, a brown paper bag, the contents of which have been removed and stuffed into a pocket. Then watch adults and young people toss the things they are through with—a tissue kerchief, almost anything—on the street. Take a look at the gutters in the residential area and you'll see the same messy sight, plus the accumulation of leaves in the fall of the year.

Drive on any of the main highways outside the cities, towns and villages and note the same condition plus empty beer bottle cartons, and broken bottles strewing the surface.

Sir Hugh Casson, British architect and director of the Coronation decorations in the City of Westminster, speaking to an Ottawa Canadian Club recently, commented on the "border of clu'ter and mess" on our highways. He stated that such a situation in Britain would suggest a lack of community pride on the part of the inhabitants.

A writer in "Items," published by the Canadian Citizenship Council, tells of visiting Bristol, England, and being taken for a ride to see the sights. He says: "We were about to toss out the window our cigarette when our host stopped us and asked that we put it in the car's ash tray. 'Is there a law against it?' we asked jokingly. 'No,' replied our friend, 'we just don't do that. Someone would have to clean it up.'"

The article is concluded with the following paragraph: "We North Americans certainly seem to be in spite of, or perhaps because of our boasted high standard of living, messier than anybody. What can we do about it—in our neighborhood, in our organizations, in our homes, yes, with ourselves?"

Cortisone And Competition

(WALL STREET JOURNAL)

WHEN cortisone, the miracle drug for the arthritic and the asthmatic, was first put on the market some three years ago its price was fantastic—$200 a gram—and there was very little of it even at that price.

This made cortisone a blessing for the few while arthritis and asthma remained an affliction of the many. And this in turn made cortisone a prize example for those who argued that medicines belonged only to the rich and the privileged. There was a suggestion made in Washington that the production of cortisone ought to be put under government control, with its production cost subsidized and its supply rationed.

Fortunately there was no government subsidy to underwrite its high production cost and no controls to ration its scarcity. Fortunately, because this week two of the producers announced the latest in a long series of price reductions. The price of cortisone today averages $5 a gram.

What happened is perhaps best explained by the president of one chemical company which has just abandoned the production of cortisone. Said President Joyce of the Glidden Company: "'We found the field complicated by a number of influences, principally competition."

Competition meant first of all that Merck & Co., the original producers, were not long the sole producers. The list of companies either producing or researching cortisone is a roll-call of some of the leading drug names in America: Upjohn, Schering, Squibb, Pfizer, Lederle and many others.

Competition meant that the executive and production men of each of these companies were in a race to enlarge facilities, improve also competition in the laboratory as the plant techniques and sales methods. It meant scientists sought ways of extracting cortisone from new raw materials and in greater quantity from old ones.

The result of this competition is something more than a reduction to one-fortieth of the original price. The result is a growing plenty instead of a rationing scarcity.

And this will not be the last result of competition. Now that the price has been brought down and the supply increased, there has sprung up a new kind of competition. The drug makers are now trying to find new uses for the drug to build up a wider market for that growing plenty.

Cortisone is called a miracle drug. But competition has provided its little miracle, too. And of all those who had cause to be thankful yesterday, the arthritic and asthmatic could give thanks for a twin blessing.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And God said, Let the waters bring forth abundantly the moving creature that hath life, and fowl that may fly above the earth in the open firmament of heaven. And God created great whales, and every living creature that moveth, which the waters brought forth abundantly, after their kind, and every winged fowl after his kind: and God saw that it was good. And God blessed them, saying Be fruitful, and multiply, and fill the waters in the seas, and let fowl multiply in the earth. And the evening and the morning were the fifth day. (Gen. 1:20-23.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Not unto us, O Lord, not unto us, but unto thy name give glory, for thy mercy, and for thy truth's sake. (Ps. 115:1.)

For the invisible things of him from the creation of the world are clearly seen, being understood by the things that are made, even his eternal power and Godhead. (Rom. 1:20.)

Unfair to Totem Poles

(Windsor Star)

If Canada has a peacetime industry older than totem pole carving, where is it? Long before the paleface brought his crafts and production methods to this country, native artisans were working at this totem pole business. But in this age of protection, how well is it being protected?

The national revenue minister admits that foreign-made totem poles, for sale as souvenirs, can be brought into Canada without having a mark on them to show their country of origin. So the Canadian buyer, indulging his long-felt desire to own a home-made totem pole, can be tricked into purchasing a spurious article.

The unfair competition also is disturbing to our native totem pole carvers, as can well be imagined.

The Indians, mind you, are not asking for higher duties on the imported stuff. They're too rugged for that. But they have a right to be protected against imitators in Brooklyn, Tokyo, or wherever else that unfair competition arises.

If inferior grades of booze, maple sugar, flour, or other products were being brought into Canada, and allowed to pass as home-produced products, strong lobbies soon would appear in Ottawa to insist on corrective measures. Perhaps that suggests a way for the totem pole men to get redress. Things must be done in the conventional way nowadays, or governments just won't listen.

For Public Safety

(La Patrie, Montreal)

A Vaudreuil farmer was driving his wagon on the Montreal-Ottawa highway. It was dusk, at the end of the afternoon, and his vehicle carried no reflector, no red light. A truck going in the same direction struck him accidentally and the 56-year-old farmer was killed instantly. Everything indicated that it was physically impossible for the driver to see his victim and his wagon at a sufficient distance to stop or swerve. It was not the first case of the kind. Not a year passes that we have not to deplore similar and equally inexcusable accidents, involving numerous loss of life . . . But there is resistance (among farmers to carrying lights). Rural dwellers hold hard to their independence and liberty of action, even contrary to their own interests, since they are most frequently the victims . . . A law is required . . . but nothing has come of it. Why? Because the electoral map of our province shows a crushing majority of rural counties . . . It is a pity and it is high time to correct this situation. It should be comparatively simple, as a matter of public safety, without involving any material interest, to get unanimity in the Assembly.

Color Television Plan Approved In Washington

WASHINGTON (AP)—The federal communications commission has formally approved a color television system which can be received in black-and-white by existing TV sets.

The action made final the proposal announced Thursday by the commission earlier this year to adopt the color telecasting standards proposed by the National Television System Committee.

The committee is an industry group in which virtually all major manufacturers co-operated in contributing the best of their color devices for combination use.

The NTSC color plan will become available for commercial use 30 days after publication of the order in the Federal Register, the government's bulletin, probably sometime next week.

FORMALLY SUBSTITUTED

The new color system standards will then be formally substituted for the Columbia Broadcasting System color plan which the commission approved for general use in 1950.

CBS color was eventually folded up. It failed to get general acceptance because it involved the use of a mechanical revolving color wheel inside of receivers.

The NTSC system is all-electronic—that is, without moving equipment.

Campbellford YPU Christmas Meeting

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS) — The regular meeting of St. John's YPU was held this week with the worship service in charge of Joyce Rowe and Phyllis Fisher. Anne Palliser read the scripture lesson, and Joyce Rose led in prayer. Phyllis Fisher read a short story, and a hymn closed the worship service.

On the program, Joyce played a medley of Christmas carols and winter songs on the piano. The guest of the evening, Manson Labrash, showed colored slides of the Kenora district as well as many local scenes.

Following a short business period, the meeting was turned over to the convenors for games and the meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction.

Norwood Fair Congratulated On Improvement

Norwood Fair Board has received the compliments of the provincial and federal governments on the capital investment this year which greatly changed the area, appearance and accomodation of the exhibition grounds.

In acknowledging receipt of the statement of expenditures of $35,042.55 by the board, Wm. S. McMullen, Toronto, fieldman for the livestock division of the Dominion government, wrote to G. A. Brethen, president as follows:

"I wish to compliment you on your endeavors and achievements in connection with your Thanksgiving Day Fair. I am confident that the work carried on by your organization will continue in the future, as in the past, to set up a worth while pattern which will be reflected in a better agriculture throughout the part of Ontario served by Norwood Fair."

COMPLETE RENOVATION

In forwarding his report and approval to E. F. Pineau, of the federal department of agriculture, Ottawa, Mr. McMullen made this complimentary reference to the Norwood expansion work, quoted in part: "I consider the East Peterborough Agricultural Society should be highly commended for a complete renovation of buildings and grounds which will provide equipment and accomodation of a most practical and worthwhile nature. In instances such as this, the assistance afforded under the Dominion Fairs Policy is a definite asset and a real contribution in the interest of an improved agriculture."

M. McMullen's report recommended the maximum payment to the Norwood Board as provided by the policy. The expenditure on the fair property was $35,042.55.

As another little stroke of publicity, the fair board has motion picture in color taken of their show and crowd on Thanksgiving Day. They were shown last week to F. A. Lashley, Toronto, Ontario superintendent of fairs, and members of his staff. This film will also be presented at the convention of the Ontario Fairs Association in February.

It is available and will be used in other publicity opportunities.

Norwood Fair was used this year as the subject of a CBC radio description of a typical Ontario fall fair, for broadcast to Great Britain, an international service.

Order 3rd Trial For Youth 21

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Court of Appeal has ordered a third trial for Paul Cachia, 21, who has already spent two years in custody after conviction on a charge of armed robbery of a Swansea service station two years ago.

The court's decision Thursday was based on testimony of a new witness whom defense counsel said he could not get in touch with before.

Testimony of the witness supported testimony given at the second trial last June 16 that Cachia was not a participant in the robbery.

The robbery took place Sept. 20, 1951, and Cachia was sentenced to four years in Kingston penitentiary.

Murder Hearing Jan. 20

BARRIE (CP) — Two Toronto men, William Stephen Kingsley, 19, and Francis Ian Robertson, 21, will appear in Barrie court Jan. 20 for preliminary hearing on a charge of murder. Police have charged the pair with the slaying of Fred (Scotty) Cameron, 57, a Toronto stock brokerage messenger. Cameron's body was found Oct. 30 in a water-filled ditch at nearby Stroud. He had been shot to death.

Winter Fleet Grows

SARNIA (CP) — Three former Imperial Oil tankers, the Collingwood, the Cornwall and the Windsor, arrived here Thursday to tie up for the winter. Imperial London and Imperial Simcoe are expected to follow Saturday. The Imperial Leduc, only one of the tankers unsold, is expected today. The other ships have been sold to be refitted for carrying bulk cargoes.

Triplet Dies

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—One of the triplets born to Mrs. John Ashcroft, 27, Tuesday died in hospital Thursday. The child was the smallest of the trio and the only boy.

Orillia Keeps Riding High With A 6 To 4 Victory Over Petes In Senior Tilt

ORILLIA—(Special)—Orillia Pontiacs edged the Petes 6-4 last night before 600 fans at the Orillia arena. The teams seemed to be feeling each other out in the first period, as each team went scoreless. Two penalties were handed out in the period, both going to Orillia. Prentice of Petes notched the first goal of the game at 3.57 of the second period from Peterson. Rusty Aiken, who had only scored two goals all season, broke out of his slump to score two in a row. His first came from MacDonald and his second at 13.18 from L. Shewchuk.

Big Ab Bowen banged one in from Dan MacDonald with 17 seconds left (19:43) as the Pontiacs started off with a three to one lead. Orillia gathered in two of the three penalties during the period. Petes narrowed the margin to one goal when Montgomery scored early in the third period.

WENT AHEAD

John Wood scored his third goal of the season from McCrone and Desroches to make it 4-2, for Orillia. The Petes came back to tie it up at 4-4 on goals by Hill and Fryia from Redmond.

Muzz Richardson put Orillia into a five to four lead, assisted by Vic Grigg. Clary Payne slapped home a pass from Ab Bowen to clinch the game for Orillia. Orillia picked up four of the six penalties in the third period. Bowen Aiken and McCrone were outstanding for Orillia with Montgomery, McMaster, Leonard, Redmond and Hill the pick of the Petes' crew.

Petes: Goal, Donlevy; defence, Redmond, McMaster; centre, Leonard; wings, Fryia, Greenlaw; alternates, Hill, Crowley, Collips, Prentice, Belisle, Peterson, Munroe, Montgomery, Garvey.

Orillia: Goal, Shropshire; defence, Pearsall, Grigg; centre, Payne; wings, Aiken, Favero; alternates, Bowen, Richardson, McDonald, Nelson, McCrone, Wood, Vaisey, Desroches, Shewchuk.

Referees, Fevereau and Bellemer.

Chicken Roll Victors

In the Mercantile Bowling League chicken roll, these winners were listed: Marg Parker, Elsie Penrose, Blanche Eggleton, Barb Siddall, Thelma Dorrington, Joe Doran, Ted Crowe, Jim Hamilton, George Gimblett, Jack Martell. Turkeys for high scores were: Vera Page 247 single, Gladys Hamilton 790 triple, Guido DeCarlo 298 men's single, Harold Page 728 three. Dot McAuliffe won the turkey draw. Chickens and turkeys can be picked up at East City Market, or phone 5943.

The chicken roll in this league at Duffus' is an interesting annual affair. A chicken is won by one member of each team. Blind scores are given out and the lucky bowlers get the prize.

A. Caccavelli High

A. Caccavelli led in singles with 328 and J. Barnes in triples with 825 this week in the men's City Bowling League. Leading team was McGillis with a mark of 3,508 as Payne's led squads in singles with a 1,255 score. The 6-0 wins went to McGillis, Parkhill and Golfers over Ferguson, McBride & Anderson, and Stopawhile; the 4-2 victories were taken by Edward's, MacDonald, Cookie's, Sunocos and Payne's against Primeau, Monumental, Family Credit, Novelty and Royal York. Bowlers are asked to remember the eight p.m. date next Monday.

Good triples: V. Ferguson 820, A. Caccavelli 700, P. Pryde 722, J. Forst 735, B. Nicholls 706, G. Walton 713, W. Stanbury 747, T. Basciano 748, G. LaPlante 774, R. Lewis 707, J. Wade 700, W. Boon 739, A. Mattucci 819, D. Abraham 702; good singles: V. Ferguson 304, J. Frost 305, W. Stanbury 318, W. Brown 302, D. Vyse 314, J. Watson 310, and R. Lewis 300.

A LESSON TO HIS ELDERS — Jack Playford, Jr., son of Jack Playford, well-known bowler in Peterborough, is showing his elders how to bowl this year in the city league. The 13-year-old boy last week rolled a 401, 49 points short of a perfect game, and then finished the night with 922 for three. This bowling wasn't just a fluke night; his average is about 235, up with the best in the league.

Talbert Helps Team Carve Tennis Win

By WILL GRIMSLEY

BRISBANE, Australia (AP) — Billy Talbert, United States Davis Cup captain, gambled and won today when he teamed up with his young protege, Tony Trabert, and helped to carve out a 6-3, 6-2, 4-6, 9-7 victory over Belgium's Philippe Washer and Jacques Brichant in the doubles match of the Davis Cup interzone finals.

Talbert substituted himself for Vic Seixas, his slumping star. The 35-year-old veteran, who has been playing little competitive tennis in recent years, was superb for two sets, then held on for the last two when the pace began to get him.

Now Talbert's operatives need only to split Saturday's two final singles matches to enter the challenge round against Australia at the end of the month.

REVERSE OPPONENTS

Talbert said he will send Seixas back into action Saturday against Washer and Trabert against Brichant, a reversal of the first two singles opponents. Thursday Brichant upset Seixas and had Talbert worrying over just what course of action to take.

Bill used himself reluctantly and only after talking the matter over with the players and Dr. S. E. Davenport, manager of the team and a power in the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association.

The Talbert of today was a far cry from the happy-go-lucky Billy of the past. He teamed with Trabert because, no doubt, he thought he could instill confidence into the young University of Cincinnati student. Trabert and Seixas had not been going well in practice. Trabert had made no secret of the fact that he did not want to team with Seixas.

GRANT'S SPORT CORNER

By DON GRANT

It's a minor sports today with emphasis on the Peterborough Boys' Work Board.

Working with the young lads and gals is in many ways more rewarding than actually playing a sport. To that many former athletes, now coaching minor league teams, will agree.

While working from the bench, either as coach or as manager, you get the same thrills, disappointments and glory as in playing days, but this time all is shared with the youngsters.

But coaching isn't just one big happy round of practices and games. Like old mother hen, the coaches and managers have their troubles looking after their "chicks". They're like a combination of mom-dad, disciplining, protecting and teaching.

The shortage of minor coaches and managers indicates that the jobs aren't all fun. Complaints from parents and the trouble of keeping track of players for practices and games are the coaches' biggest headaches.

Peterborough is fortunate in having a number of enthusiasts of minor sports. They are gradually increasing interest in others. This is resulting in strong programs beginning within the schools, and then out in the hockey, lacrosse and baseball. In recent years the lacrosse and hockey programs in Peterborough have become so advanced that many other cities are green with envy.

One of the reasons why minor hockey is flourishing is the early age at which Peterborough children are taught hockey. The schools and the Peterborough Boys' Work Board both have organized hockey for boys of peewee age, under 10 years. These extra years give the youths a good, sound foundation in the game.

The boys' work board at present makes its church hockey league its main undertaking. The board was re-organized two years ago after a lapse of 10 years.

It is quite an undertaking. The board through the Protestant churches has organized 15 teams, averaging about 15 boys to a team. They play every Saturday morning, the first game beginning at 8 o'clock and finishing up at 1 p.m. The schedule strecthes from November to March.

Besides arranging schedules, grouping teams, arranging for sticks and pucks, securing qualified referees and linesmen, and generally organizing play, the board is also faced with paying for ice time. That's only a "little" matter of $10 an hour or $1,000 a season.

Financing for this ice time for games is a problem for most minor league, but the board seems to have solved it as well as any have.

First Minors, Then Seniors

For each team entered, the churches give $50. In addition to this players sell season tickets at a dollar each.

This system worked well last year; in fact, so well that the league had a deficit of only $146. The board wrote off that debt, thanks to the sale of shares in boys' work in the city.

Another good thing about this league is the rule prohibiting boys who play in the Peterborough Minor Hockey Association leagues to play in the church leagues. This gives the boys who can't play well enough a chance to develop, rather than just let them drop out of sport altogether.

Of course an equally good feature is that the lads must attend the church they play for and have an ABOVE-AVERAGE attendance in church and Sunday school.

The board, headed by Garnet Dainard, president; Merv Williamson, vice-president; Stu Laing, treasurer, and Howie Roluffs, secretary, have other activities besides hockey. It plans to discuss basketball as another winter feature, possibly playing games at Kenner, St. Peter's, PCVS and the YMCA gyms.

Like the public schools the board is also concentrating on teaching the young lads, eight to 14 years, softball, a sport which could have more minor leagues for boys between 14 and 21 years. Last summer there were more than 300 boys playing in the church leagues.

Through these sports, the board hopes to form a firm foundation for increased boys' activities. At the same time they're helping various sports become stronger by developing the young lads. It's a project well worth the time spent.

Aces And IOOF Gets Wins Over Norwood

Norwood juveniles dropped two decisions in PMHA play last night, falling before Aces 11-3, and being beaten 4-1 by Oddfellows. Ferren scored two in the first period for Aces, with Brooks and Kane getting one each, the latter having two assists and Floyd one. Next heat saw Doris, Brooks and McFadden tally, with Floyd aiding on a pair. Pearson got two that period for Norwood, while Smith scored one and helped on another. Doris, Kane, Floyd and Brooks hit the mark for Aces in the third, Brooks also getting an assist. Aces had five of the six penalties.

In the other juvenile joust, Hunt got the first one in the second stanza for IOOF, and he, Jones and Roy scored in the third, Renwick aiding on one. Pearson counted in the third for Norwood. The winners were handed all five penalties.

AN EASY WIN

Aces downed the midget Norwood squad 13-2 in a clean game, each team drawing but two penalties. Byers counted from Hannivan for Norwood in the first frame and he got one more next time out. Naish, Ferguson and Robinson scored in the first for Aces, Murphy, Parnell and Garvey got an assist each. O'Connel clicked for two in the second, and Ferguson and Towns one each, as Murphy and Brown earned an assist. In the third, O'Connel and Towns tallied twice each, and Brown and Murphy got one apiece. Murphy earned two assists, and Naish and Towns each helped on one.

Shamrocks took a 4-2 verdict over the midget Aces. McCarthy, Heron and Baker lit the lamp in the first for the winners, Coombs, McCarthy and Stewart each having an assist. Murphy tallied for Aces from Naish and Stewart. In the middle heat, Baker scored on Mahoney's pass for Shamrocks and Kinlin counted for Aces. Each side got four penalties, including a minor, a misconduct and a match misconduct to McCarthy of Shamrocks for tangling with Referee E. Woodcock.

The bantam Aces won 8-1 over Optimists. Fitzgerald got three and an assist in the first for Aces, Billingsley had a goal and an assist, while Julian got a marker. In the second, McIntosh tallied from Fitzgerald. The latter and Allen scored in the third, with McIntosh getting an assist. For the losers, Morley counted on a pass from Trude in the third.

Give Conditional Franchise To Richmond And Havana

WASHINGTON (AP)—The International League Thursday awarded conditional franchises to Richmond Va., and Havana, Cuba.

The award carried the contingency that the new Richmond club owner, Harry C. Seibold, come up with a ball park that meets International League requirements by Jan. 5.

Seibold said he has no doubt that this requirement can be met. He said Mayor Edward E. Haddock of Richmond had assured him that if he could get the franchise, the mayor would provide him with a ball park.

The Havana entry into the International League is dependent on the Richmond Ball park, too. If Richmond fails to meet the requirement, the league will revert to a six-club circuit without either Richmond or Havana.

Frank Shaughnessy, International League president, said that he had assured the Havana people at the minor league meeting earlier this month it could have the eighth franchise if Richmond were admitted.

SECOND BID

Richmond had entered a serious bid at the minor league meeting, but it failed when Edwin M. Mooers, owner of the Richmond franchise in the class-B Piedmont League, refused to sell. George Trautman, minor league commissioner, said he called Thursday's meeting because of the "uproar in Richmond" and that officials of both leagues were invited to iron things out.

Trautman, Shaughnessy and the others including representatives of Mayor Haddock, argued with Mooers for more than eight hours in conferences in an effort to get him to sell his territorial rights.

In the end, Mooers sold his franchise to Seibold for a figure said to be $25,000. Mooers, however, retained possession of the ball park in which the Piedmont League club played.

Red Wings Bounce Hawks 5-1, Skov Scores Twice

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Glen Skov never figured he would take big time hockey by storm. He didn't. But he has perseverance and that's why Detroit Red Wings pay him a National Hockey League salary. The strapping 22-year-old centre, a fellow coach Tommy Ivan is counting on for a "brilliant future" has found some scoring punch. He scored two goals Thursday night to lead the Red Wings to a 5-1 victory over the last-place Chicago Black Hawks.

In the only other game, Boston Bruins beat the third-place Toronto Maple Leafs 3-2.

Skov wasn't sensational. He was steady; all that Ivan asks for.

Those two goals gave him five for the season, four of them coming in the last four games. At that rate the six-foot-one forward will surpass the 12-goal total he had last year, the highest since he joined the Red Wings as a regular in 1950.

The victory gave the Wings a total of 40 points and a tie for first place with Montreal Canadiens, idle Thursday night.

Skov scored at 10:23 of the second period on a pass from left-winger Marty Pavelich and tallied the other at 14:51 of the third session. Howe, Alex Delvecchio and defenceman Red Kelly counted the others.

NEVER IN GAME

The Black Hawks, who were never in the running, tallied their goal when centre George Gee beat goalkeeper Terry Sawchuk at 13:01 of the third period.

Another two-goal performer was big George Armstrong. He scored the only two Leaf goals as the fourth-place Bruins gained their 13th victory in 29 starts.

The Bruins stood off a last-period Leaf rally for the 6,722 hometown fans, the smallest NHL crowd at Boston Garden this year.

WINNING GAME

Rightwinger Fleming Mackell tallied what turned out to be the winning goal at 6:58 of the third period.

The other Boston marksmen were Porky Dumart and Ed Sandford.

In the only game tonight, Red Wings travel to Chicago for a return match against the Black Hawks.

Will Retain Frontenacs Name In League

QUEBEC (CP)—The name Quebec Frontenacs will be retained by the city's entry in the Quebec Junior Hockey League, Hon. Gerald Martineau, honorary president, said Thursday night.

Martineau told a press conference the club executive voted 13-2 to drop the name of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A club, Quebec Citadelles, following purchase of that club from Frank Byrne.

However, by using the name Citadelles, Frontenacs would lose the right to line up four imports permitted to a first-year, junior A club.

Another reason was that under a proposed interlocking schedule with the junior A clubs of the OHA, the club would have had to post a $25,000 guarantee with the OHA to complete the schedule.

Citadelles posted a similar guarantee to operate in the OHA, but it was refunded earlier this week.

COACH'S HOPES SLIM

Mr. Martineau said he is "satisfied to give a chance to coach Phil Watson of the Citadelles," to coach Frontenacs.

However, the QJHL adopted a resolution last year not to allow Watson in the league.

"It looks very much as if the chances are small that he will be accepted in the league."

Watson is under a one-game suspension and was sentenced by the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association to post a $500 good conduct bond.

The QAHA order resulted from a fracas last spring between fans and Watson at the Montreal Forum in a league play-off with the junior Canadiens.

Solomons Hoping To Sign Three Men

LONDON (AP) — British boxing promoter Jack Solomons is on his way to New York with hopes of signing heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano, middleweight champion Carl (Bobo) Olson and heavyweight contender Roland LaStarza for fights in London.

The prospects are that he'll sign LaStarza, No. 2 contender from New York, for a March 30 bout against British heavyweight champion Don Cockell in London's Earls Court. Negotiations for the Cockell-LaStarza fight have been going on for two months.

Solomons said he would like to sign Olson to defend his crown in London against either Randy Turpin or Trinidad's Yolande Pompee, and Marciano to meet Cockell for the title if the Briton beats LaStarza.

Yankee Stadium Sold For $6,500,000

NEW YORK (AP)—Ownership of Yankee Stadium—the "house that Ruth built"—passed out of the hands of New York Yankees Thursday in a $6,500,000 deal.

But co-owners Del E. Webb and Dan R. Topping of the Yankees said there will be no change in the operation of the baseball club. It was strictly a real estate deal, they explained, and will enable them to concentrate more on baseball.

In a three-cornered transaction, Webb and Topping sold Yankee Stadium and Blues Stadium in Kansas City, to the Arnold Johnson Corporation, headed by Arnold Johnson, a Chicagoan who specializes in big real estate purchases.

Johnson in turn sold the land under Yankee Stadium and the adjacent parking areas to the Knights of Columbus for $2,500,000.

Then, by means of long term leases, Johnson rented the land from the K of C and rented the entire property back to the Yankees.

The effect of the deal was that the Yankee baseball club now becomes the tenant instead of the owner of both ball parks. Webb and Topping received a fat profit on the property they bought, along with Larry MacPhail, for $2,800,000 in 1945 and still own the two ball clubs.

HOCKEY CONNECTION

Johnson, 46-year-old industrialist, had one other formal contract with sports prior to his purchase with associates of Yankee Stadium.

Johnson was a vice-president and treasurer of Chicago Black Hawks and still serves as a director on the National Hockey League team. He was associated with Bill Tobin, current Black Hawk vice-president and general manager, when a syndicate was formed to buy the Hawks from the estate of the late Maj. Frederic McLaughlin.

The Kansas City park was not involved in Johnson's transaction with the Knights of Columbus.

Although none of the parties would say what the Yankees will have to pay in annual rental for the stadium, Johnson said he felt he was getting "a very good return on my money and is a fair deal to Del and Dan."

Johnson's lease with the Knights of Columbus, who own many other valuable pieces of real estate, is similar. The original lease is for 28 years, at an annual rental or "amortization payment" of $182,500. Johnson has options of renewal which could extend the lease as long as 70 years. He also has the option of repurchasing the land for $3,000,000 at the end of 15 years. The Yankees have no repurchase clause in their lease with Johnson.

Smythe Favors Chicago Dropping Out

TORONTO (CP)—Conn Smythe, general manager of Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, commenting on rumors that Chicago Black Hawks may fold, said Thursday "Let them quit."

"I personally am in favor of lessening the number of teams if necessary and having fewer but stronger teams."

He said he knew nothing about the rumor "but where there is much smoke there may be fire."

He suggested, in the event of the Hawks departure, New York Rangers be given first call on Chicago players, and a 10-per-cent increase in admission prices be introduced.

"We would be justified in charging 10 per cent more because we would be offering 25 per cent better merchandise."

20,000 Greet Queen, Duke On Flower-Decked Pacific Island Paradise

LAUTOKA, Fiji Islands—(CP)—The Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh flew today to what correspondents have called "a flower-decked paradise". Some 20,000 people waited in the streets of this town on the north coast of the main island of the Fiji group to greet their Queen, who was flown from Suva, the capital, in a flying boat. The Queen and the Duke were received by H. G. R. McAlpine, district commissioner. They had lunch in the Lautoka house owned by the Fiji governor, with a breath-taking view of the nearby coral islands. The house was built beneath green Fijian mountains, and is surrounded by tropical flowers.

As the royal couple approached the house, men dressed in bark cloth and palm leaves hammered out a native rhythm on tree-trunk drums on a nearby hilltop.

At the entrance to the house's compound, 20 warriors carrying war clubs and looking fierce in their war paint formed a "guard of honor."

The luncheon menu included Fijian crabs, and prawns cooked in cocoanut milk.

GREETED BY CHILDREN

After lunch the Queen and the duke drove along avenues where giant shady acacia trees formed a green tunnel. At one part of the drive, 6,000 school children waited beside the sugar-cane fields.

Here the Queen kept up her usual habit of letting the youngsters have the best view, the car slowing almost to walking pace.

Further on, arches of plaited palm leaves and scarlet flowers curved overhead along the road.

Before coming to Lautoka, the Queen visited Suva's new Anglican cathedral, where Rt. Rev. L. S. Kempthorne, Bishop of Polynesia, met them.

The Queen appeared tired after Thursday's tremendous reception on their arrival in Fiji in the hot sunshine.

Snider Wins Batting Race

NEW YORK (AP) — Brooklyn's Duke Snider is the official winner of the National League's slugging championship, edging Eddie Mathews, Milwaukee's slugging third-baseman, by two-tenths of a percentage point.

Snider, 27-year-old outfielder, slugged for an average of .6271 to .6269 for Mathews, official statistics released today by the baseball loop's service bureau show.

The Duke put together 370 total bases in 590 at bats, including 38 doubles, four triples and 42 homers. Mathews, with 363 total bases in 579 trips, had 31 doubles, eight three-baggers and 47 home runs—most in the league.

Averages compiled by The Associated Press and released last October also listed Snider as the slugging leader with .6271 and Mathews as the runner-up at .6269.

Roy Campanella of Brooklyn finished third at .610.

Plan Investigation Into Medicine Prices

MONTREAL (CP) — The Montreal Trades and Labor Council said Thursday night it plans to start an investigation into the prices of medicine.

Some of the delegates claimed druggists are taking advantage of patients who come to them with doctors' prescriptions. The patient has no way of knowing what the medicine he buys is worth, they said.

Betty Pogue Tops

Betty Pogue took high single of 301 this week in the YMCA senior girls' bowling circuit, as Ethel Stanbury's 727 triple was best. Tigers, Aces, Corvettes and Commandos took four points each from lucky Strikes, Bombers, Hurricanes and Glens.

Good threes were: B. Pogue 640, G. Mann 632, Mary Hepburn 620 and Mary Morton 607. Neat singles: Shirley Beatty 296, E. Stanbury 284, I. Penrose and G. Mann 261, Mary Flaherty 236 and M. Hepburn 232.

Chickens were won by E. Stanbury, G. Mann, B. Pogue, S. Beatty, G. Hamilton, M. Simmons, V. Lee, D. Martin, A. Curtin, M. Hepburn, M. Woods and Z. Bell.

Fire Halts Rehearsal

KINGSTON, N.Y. (AP)—Eight children rehearsing for a Christmas program fled to safety Thursday night when fire burned out the roof of the St. Anne's Convent children's dormitory. The youngsters had been rehearsing in the basement of the structure, and after a sister noticed smoke and fire, the children were marched quickly out of the building.

Hart's School Presents Concert

MARMORA (ENS) — Hart's School in Madoc township whose teacher is Mrs. W. M. Regan of Marmora had its seating capacity well taxed on Wednesday evening as its scholars took par' in their annual Christmas entertainment.

To start the concert the school sang "Winter Wonderland" and enacted "The Shepherds". Three boys, Donnie Sherrow, David Herrington and Billie Baker, next sang "Christmas in Killarney."

After "Christmas Candles" had been presented as a playlet by the school, little Margaret Feeney received much applause for her tap dancing number.

The school then put on a comedy skit "The Night after Christmas" and most of the scholars were in the succeeding instrumental number "The Rhythm Band", which Miss Olga Wirm, music teacher, conducted as she did also the vocal numbers.

"Christmas Rabbit" a playlet was enacted by Barbara Quinlan, David Harrington, Bobby McCaffrey and Margaret Feeney.

Twenty scholars next took part in "The Truth Machine."

The school sang two more songs "Me and my Teddy Bear" and "Too fat for the Chimney."

Wanda Sherrow gave a recitation after which Santa Claus was welcomed by the singing of "Here Comes Santa Claus." He made his usual good impression on the children and passed out the gifts from the trees.

Here And There In Sports

DEFENCE EMPHASIZED

NEW YORK (AP) — United States college football turned conservative in 1953, swinging away from a forward passing game to running and down-the-middle power football, putting more emphasis on defence.

That was the season's principal trend reflected by the sports writers and broadcasters in an Associated Press season-end poll.

Eighty-nine of about 300 who returned questionnaires observed the trend toward tighter, more conservative play. Many others listed trends associated with the main one.

The swing toward the running game and away from wide-open ball-throwing football was listed by 54. A number called it "ultra-conservative" or "dull" football; others like the change and a good many saw it as the result of the change from two-platoon to two-way football.

Twenty-nine others indicated that the trend was toward giving defensive play more attention with resulting tighter, better play. More than a dozen noted more emphasis on kicking—both punting and place kicking—with more frequent attempts for field goals.

The increase in the popularity of the split-T formation, noted by many last year, continued to be the principal trend of 1953 in the opinions of 18 observers.

SIGNS U.K. CONTRACT

VANCOUVER (CP) — Erroll Crossan, star wing forward with the New Westminster Royals of the Pacific Coast Soccer League, has signed with Manchester City of the English League first division.

The 23-year-old native of England, who came to Canada four years ago, jumped at Manchester's offer after having negotiated with Liverpool.

Crossan, who leaves immediately to join his new club, accepted Manchester's offer of £13 a week from the date of his arrival until the end of the current season, next May 1.

Crossan was also guaranteed return transportation.

WEINMEISTER SOUGHT

REGINA (CP) — Bob Kramer, president of Saskatchewan Roughriders, said Thursday that the Western Interprovincial Football Union team has been "dickering" with New York Giants tackle Arnie Weinmeister and has placed him on the team's negotiation list.

Kramer said Roughriders talked to Weinmeister Wednesday by telephone and because he was on their negotiation list Weinmeister was told he couldn't play with any other team in western Canada except Saskatchewan.

British Columbia Lions said Wednesday they would definitely be interested in making Weinmeister an offer. The 30-year-old, 235-pound tackle, born in Rhein, Sask., also was reported considering an offer from Ottawa Rough Riders of the Big Four.

Kramer said Saskatchewan would like to have Weinmeister but he intimated in the telephone conversation that he would like to play in the United States for another year.

A'S MAKE MORE SWAPS

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore Orioles Thursday announced a trade of southpaw pitcher Bob Cain for two hurlers of Philadelphia Athletics, Joe Coleman and Frank Fanovich.

The Orioles said it was a straight swap with no money changing hands. Coleman is a right-handed pitcher and Fanovich throws left.

Kitchener Defenceman Has Sprained Wrist

KITCHENER (CP) — Clare Martin, defenceman for Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A league, suffered a severe sprain in Tuesday's game with Stratford Indians. It was first feared the wrist was broken.

Martin was rammed into the boards and will be out of the lineup for about three games, leaving the Dutchmen with only three defencemen.

D. Martin Leads

Dorothy Martin had high single of 309 and Bea Morrow best double of 513 (including 279 and 234 games) in the Girls' City Bowling League this week. Betty Pogue's 412 took the blind score of 414. The 3-0 wins went to Sevennaires, Marines and Curtin's over Davis, Cards and Collis in that order, as Bassel's and Black's won 2-1 counts against Austin's and Aces.

Good doubles were: D. Martin 462, D. Beatty 451, M. Hawthorne 421, B. Pogue 412, M. Morton 403; better singles: D. Beatty 263, M. Morton 245, D. Mason 238, M. Hawthorne 236, M. Cunningham 233, B. Castle 230, B. Pogue 228 and M. Richie 223.

Obeck Resigns From McGill

MONTREAL (CP) — Vic Obeck, football coach of the McGill Redmen in the Intercollegiate league for the last seven years, will not coach the team next year, it was announced Thursday night.

The announcement was made by Dr. L. C. Montgomery, president of the McGill Football Club, at a footbal award gathering. No successor was named.

Obeck, whose teams have won 21 games and lost 20, exclusive of playoffs, will remain next season only as a director of athletics, a post he held concurrently with his coaching duties.

Obeck announced his intention to resign at the close of a dismal 1953 season. McGill ended in a third-place tie with Queen's University, four points behind the champion University of Toronto squad.

Marmora Triumphs Twice In Minor League

MARMORA — (ENS)—Minor hockey took over in the Marmora arena Wednesday evening. Four games were played. Marmora bantams played Madoc, winning 9-2. Then Marmora midgets whipped Norwood midgets by the comfortable margin of 6-1.

The other games were in the juvenile section. Norwood defeated Coe Hill 6-2 and Stirling managed to beat Havelock by 3-2.

Stampeders Sign Half Frank Deeks

CALGARY (CP)—Calgary Stampeders of the Western Interprovincial Football Union said Thursday they have signed half Frank Dilks, with Hamilton Junior Tiger-Cats last season.

Dilks, a 175-pound offensive and defensive half, has been a member of the Tiger-Cat organization for four years.

Wheat Surplus Halts Starvation

MONTREAL (CP) — Despite hardship imposed on Western farmers, Canada's huge wheat surplus this year will act as a guarantee against world starvation, a Montreal university professor said Thursday.

Commenting on year-end wheat figures, Prof. David L. MacFarlane of Macdonald College, McGill University school of agriculture, said the reserves also will act as a buffer for Western farmers if a crop failure occurs within the next few years.

Farmers had been unable to market more than one-sixth of the total crop of 590,000,000 bushels—second largest in Canadian wheat harvesting history—due to a surplus of 365,000,000 bushels at the end of 1952, but there was little reason for pessimism on the world wheat situation.

Prof. MacFarland said Canada cannot export in a normal year at the level maintained during recent large-crop years. A normal crop next year would cut the surplus.

Drivers' View Blocked At 45 Spots In City

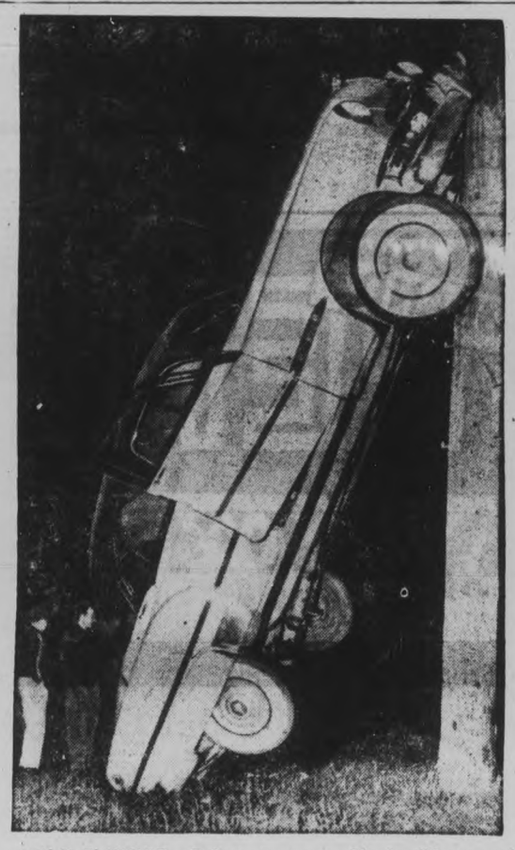
Parks Superintendent Armar Butcher has compiled a list of 45 points in the city where shrubbery or other bushes block the view of motorists at street intersections.

The superintendent was recently directed to make a survey of the city when W. J. Arthur Fair, Q.C. wrote city council to the effect that there were a number of situations in the city where such obstructions constituted traffic hazards.

Mr. Butcher recommended that in some cases the hedges should be trimmed because they were too high and in others that some shrubs should be trimmed or taken out altogether. At other intersections, he said, these was brush growing that should be removed.

ON CITY PROPERTY

In his letter to council, Mr. Butcher pointed out that it had been impossible for him to determine accurately how many of the obstructions were growing on city property and how many on private property. This would have to be determined, he suggested, by consulting the various plans in the city engineer's office, in order to ascertain the street lines.



When the report was discussed at the meeting of the finance committee this week, it was suggested that the superintendent should interview the property-owners concerned and personally ask their co-operation in permitting removal of shrubs and hedges which obstructed the view of motorists.

Ald. Gordon Farquharhon was of the opinion that, even in cases where shrubs growing on city property formed obstructions, adjacent owners ought to be consulted, because they often took a personal interest in surrounding growth.

City Solicitor W. F. Huycke, QC, pointed out that shrubs and hedges were considered in law as appurtenances to the property on which they grew and the city couldn't force owners to cut them down unless there was a bylaw authorizing them to do so. There is no such bylaw on the city's books at present, he said.

"Without a bylaw, you just get along by peace and goodwill towards all men," the solicitor advised.

Consequently, City Clerk E. A. Outram was directed to write other municipalities to find out if they had such bylaws or other suggestions to make as to what should be included in a Peterborough bylaw.

POLE CLIMBER—Believe it or not, Charles Weaver, of Syracuse, N.Y., only suffered bruises when his car slip up this light-pole guy wire. Only the rear bumper rests on the ground after the freak accident. Witnesses said Weaver bounced three times when he fell from the car.

Farm Properties In City To Be Exempt Some Charges

A city bylaw will be prepared exempting farm properties in the land assembly area from assessment for city services which they do not receive, such as water, garbage collection, street lighting and street repairs.

A recent amendment to the assessment act provides that blocks of more than five acres of farm land within city limits are to be exempted from taxes for expenditures on services which they do not receive. Services specifically mentioned in the amendment are waterworks, fire protection, garbage collection, pavements or sewers, street lighting and street repairs.

The amendment applies to farm land in the land assembly area in the north end of the city which was annexed from Smith township. The land is owned jointly by the federal and provincial governments in partnership, who lease it to the present governments. Under the agreement with the government, the tenants are required to pay taxes to the city but the city is not a partner in the ownership.

ASSESSMENTS UP

In a letter to city council, J. W. Wocker, branch manager of the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, who administered the land for the partnership, pointed out that the assessments on the property had increased considerably over last year. As a result, he said, the corporation properties because of the taxes which had to be paid by the lessees.

City Clerk E. A. Outram pointed out to the finance committee of council the need for passage of a bylaw exempting the properties from assessment for services they didn't receive. He said the owners would be required, under the bylaw, to apply to council for exemption. Council would then instruct the clerk not to tax the properties for the specific services included in the bylaw.

He explained that if the bylaw were not passed, the owners could apply to the municipal board, who would order the city to remit that portion of the taxes to the tenants.

Want To Study Pupils Strike

ABBEVILLE, France (Reuters) All the children of the village school at Le Boisle are on strike because their teacher lets them play when they want to study. They aren't learning anything.

He dozes to sleep when he should be giving them lessons.

The strike, called last Monday, is supported by 21 parents who say that the teacher, Charles Lagon, 57, should be replaced by a sterner disciplinarian.

One parent protested that his 11-year-old son could not work out the simple sum—678 divided by one. Another reported that his daughter, aged 10, could hardly read.

The children are tired of fighting with rulers and flying paper airplanes round the classroom.

Their parents are awaiting the result of a meeting between the mayor and a ministry of education inspector.

Stormy Struggle For World Markets Among Free Nations Expected In 1954

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's economy set a record pace in 1953, but as the year ends there are signs of a stormy struggle for world markets in 1954.

Some Canadian industries are beginning to feel the impact of a growing competition for markets that may bring lower prices.

Sales of farm machinery, textiles and electrical appliances began to slip in 1953. Federal economists say that as the struggle continues it will spread into other commodities, including agriculture.

COMPETITION KEENER

The reason is that world production is rising, and although Western markets are still strong, the big powers are unable to overcome trading barriers between the sterling and dollar-area countries.

The Iron Curtain, too, has ringed off a big slice of the world market, reducing the global marketing area that must be shared by the major Western exporters, including Canada.

Nevertheless, Canada made great strides in 1953. Her huge resources development program, coupled with a growing domestic consumer market, povides a strong prosperity base for 1954.

Growth of the economy in 1953 exceeded expectations. The country, as a whole, earned more and spent more than any time in history. And yet the savings rate was maintained at the 1952 figure of nine per cent of disposable income.

RECORD PRODUCTION

The Gross national product, sum total of all goods and services produced, rose to a record $24,200,000,000 — up $1,200,000,000 from 1952.

National income swelled to an estimated record of $19,000,000,000, up from $18,135,000,000 in 1952. In this bracket labor income soared to almost $12,000,000,000, a gain of 11 per cent from the previous year.

Consumer spending kept pace with the general advance, rising to another high of an estimated $15,000,000,000 from $14,334,000,000 in 1952.

And as the country resounded to increased mine, forest and factory production, the total money poured into capital investment reached $5,600,000,000—up nine per cent from 1952.

FOREIGN INFLUX

Foreign capital—some visible and some invisible—continued to enter the country, countering the influence of a decline in exports and maintaining the Canadian dollar as the world's strongest currency, roughly two per cent higher than the American dollar.

Canadians imported more goods than at any time in history. Exports however, dropped lightly from the 1952 high of $4,350,000,000.

This heavy buying, contrasting with lower exports, produced a trade deficit roughly about $200,000,000, compared with a surplus of $326,000,000 in 1952.

German People Become Creditor Nation

NEW YORK—"You just can't keep EPU happy," the business editor of a leading West German newspaper sighed in his column the other day, "no matter what you do, you're always wrong," writes Joachim Joesten in Montreal Star.

Western Germany, in particular, this writer pointed out, was being regarded by its partners in the 15-nation clearing group as a real "enfant terrible," always committing deplorable excesses.

"Not so long ago, we (the Germans) were in debt up to our ears with the Union. In all the capitals of Europe, they said we were going bankkrupt, that we were threatening to wreck the organization. Finally, they allowed us an extra credit of $180,000,000 to tide us over. With that, we got a bundle of good advice on how to mend our ways. We were told to cut our imports down—or else.

DEBTS ARE PAID

"This we did with our traditional thoroughness. Having paid our debts in no time, we kept going in the same direction until we became the biggest creditor in the Union. Now we've put our foot in it again. They say we're wrecking the organization. We are told to jack up our imports—or else."

I have freely translated his remarks, which were larded with a few technicalities, but in substance this is exactly what he had to say. And, indeed, this is exactly what happened. Germany, in the space of two and a half years, has moved from one extreme to the other, each time puttinng EPU in jeopardy with its economic weight.

Ever since the European Payments Union was organized and began operations in July 1950, there have been "structural" creditor and debtor countries, while others have been coasting up and down from one year to the next. Belgium, for one, has been a squatter on the credit side since the first days of the Union; after one year, she had piled up a surplus of such dimensions that the Council of the Organization for European Economic Co-operation (parent organization of EPU) called on her to stimulate imports from other member nations while switching as much as possible of her own exports from EPU countries to the outside dollar area. Although Belgium followed these suggestions and thereby kept her surplus in the Union within manageable proportions, she remained the leading creditor country—until Germany came up a few months ago.

France and Great Britain are, structurally, the biggest deficit countries and at this time they are deeper in the red than ever. Turkey is another heavy debtor, as are Greece (whose position has recently improved, though), Italy, Denmark, Norway and Iceland in varying measures.

On the opposite side of the ledger, Portugal, Switzerland and Sweden have maintained moderate but steady surpluses, while The Netherlands, like Germany, has worked its way up from the bottom to a comfortable credit position.

But there has been nothing to match the spectacular ride the Germans have taken on the economic roller-coaster called EPU. At the beginning it was not clear whether Germany was, structurally, a deficit or a surplus country, or whether maybe it was apt to be both.

In the spring of 1951, i.e., at a time when Belgium was running away with its credit quota, Germany was deep in the red. In retrospect, it has become quite clear why that was so. As a result of Korea, the West Germany industry was swamped with orders as never before. In order to be able to manufacture these goods, the Ruhr industrialists had to lay in supplies of raw materials from abroad. That's what they did in the fall of 1950 and spring of 1951. Accordingly, at that time, Germany's imports ran way ahead of her exports and her deficit in EPU grew by leaps and bounds.

Then the finished products began pouring off the German assembly lines, while the Korea buying boom ebbed. As a result, Bonn's balance of payments quickly reversed itself, and so did the country's position in EPU. By the end of 1951, Germany had wiped out her large deficit and entered the creditors' group. From that time on, almost without interruption, she has been piling surplus upon surplus, making several adjustments of her credit quota necessary.

Early this year, Germany achieved what is called an "extreme creditor position" within the Union and a number of steps were taken to balance the books. But in spite of a 90 percent liberalization of German imports, and substantial payments in gold already effected by the other member nations, Bonn's surplus kep t going up month after month. It reached $620,000,000 at the end of August, $660,000,000 at the end of September and has now passed the $700 million mark, exceeding that of Belgium by a substantial margin.

QUOTA EXHAUSTED

As Germany's credit quota is fully exhausted, in spite of three successive extensions, she now is entitled to a 60 percent settlement in gold of any further surpluses. When this point is reached, the other members of the payments club usually start to grumble and Bonn has been hearing plenty of late.

The problem, however, is not easily solved. It was a simple enough matter for the West German Government to cut down on imports in 1951, as requested: all it had to do was issue a few decrees restricting further importations of this item or that. But you can't boost imports by government edict, at least not in a democratic country. Even if the last few import controls are lifted, as they undoubtedly will be, no power on earth can force the German importers to buy more than they want, or can expect to sell.

The only way out would be a restriction of exports, but few governments are willing to take such a step. And, indeed, would not the Bonn government look rather silly, in the eyes of the Germans, if it now clamped down on exports after launching an all out "export-or-die" drive just over two years ago?

Seymour Township Releases Snow Policy

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS)— Seymour township council announced recently their policy regarding snowplowing of township roads this winter. In the event the township's total expenditure for snowplowing does not exceed $500, each snowplow operator employed by the township will receive a retaining fee of $100.

Oil Men Declare 1954 Can't Be Harder Than '53

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — United States oil men have one happy thought about 1954. It would be difficult for the new year to present a wider variety of problems than those faced in 1953.

A small, though below normal, increase in demand for petroleum is expected in 1954, but the industry will start the new year with a holdover from 1953's irritations.

There were bright spots in 1953 despite a year-end flood of surplus crude and products and a prolonged production cutback trend.

It was certain 1953 would prove to be the United States' fourth 2,000,000,000-barrel crude production year. The final figure might even reach record proportions approximating 2,300,000,000 barrels.

MORE WELLS COMPLETED

Well completions also were certain to set a record of about 47,000, compared to last year's record 45,895. The year's government-set goal, however, had been 55,000 compared with 50,000 a year earlier.

The first general increase in crude prices since 1947 was posted in June. Products price increases quickly followed but by early fall had become shaky in isolated areas. Despite the cutbacks in crude output, products inventories continued to climb.

The sharp drop in crude production dominated 1953's gloomy side and was aggravated by a growing feud over imports of oil.

Domestic crude production dropped from a record 6,633,700 barrels daily last December to 6,027,000 at the end of October. Early in December daily output still was below 6,200,000, and Texas allowables alone were 715,346 barrels a day below the record level of November 1952.

IMPORTS RUNNING HIGH

Imports, meanwhile, had climed to record levels and were expected to average about 1,060,000 barrels a day for 1953, compared with 957,100 last year, 645,3 in 1949 and 311,000 in 1945.

By early December, spokesmen for independent oil operators were issuing almost daily warnings that Congress will be asked next year to limit oil imports unless importers effect sharp voluntary cutbacks. Major companies announcing substantial cuts in their import schedules toward the end of the year included Gulf and Standard Oil Co. of California.

Preliminary estimates of 1954 demand for crude and products anticipate increases ranging from 2.5 to five per cent above 1953. The average increase the last 20 years has been six per cent.

War In Bread Price

WATFORD (CP)—A "price war" in bread that started six weeks ago in this town 35 miles west of London is still going on. A chain store first lowered its price from 19 cents to 14 cents and other merchants followed with smaller cuts. Some have since gone back to the old price but other dealers are carrying on the war at 16 cents.

Slow But Visible Progress In Britain Towards Recovery

By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Britain labored on the treadmill of economy recovery in 1953, making slow but visible progress towards the distant goal of convertibility of the pound sterling.

In a year of increasing economic freedoms, exports remained the key to recovery and the major problem.

R. A. Butler, chancellor of the exchequer, could say in mid-October that the country was steering a "fairly even course between the primrose path and the waste land." One hopeful sign was the breaking of the two-year cycle of crisis, marked by slumps in 1947, 1949 and 1951.

There was no "crisis" as such in 1953, but there were grounds for caution.

BOLSTER RESERVES

The good news toward year's end of record production and mounting gold and dollar reserves —the latter indicating an easier trend in the battle of the dollar gap—was tempered by tougher foreign export competition.

Production exceeded the peak post-war year of 1951. But concern was expressed whether the export drive had necessarily profited. Building absorbed a large portion and home consumption, up due to tax concessions, might have blunted the export punch.

On an old theme, Butler warned anew in November that British exporters must become more competitive in meeting price reductions. Britain had, in fact, been losing ground "pretty steadily" for the last two years in many important non-sterling markets, although Butler paid tribute to British salesmanship and enterprise in the Canadian and United States markets.

LABOR UNREST

Employment remained high and wages fairly stable. But there were disquieting signs on the labor front. Between 1,500,000 and 2,000,000 workers downed tools Dec. 2 in the biggest walkout since the 1926 general strike. The one-day stoppage, called by the Confederation of Shipbuilding and Engineering Unions to stress a demand for a 15-per-cent wage increase, struck shipyards, aviation and engineering plants, key units in the export situation.

Despite improvement in the gold and dollar situation, Britain's adverse balance of trade totalled £500,000,000 ($1,400,000,000) by Oct. 31, although import prices dropped more than her export rates.

However, the internal economic position showed "remarkable improvement," Butler said.

BUDGET INCENTIVES

After 1952's restrictive adjustments at home and abroad, the chancellor set the pattern in his "incentive" budget last April with income and purchase tax cuts costing the treasury £169,000,000 ($373,000,000) for the 1953-54 fiscal year. Concessions to industry included restoration of the initial tax allowance on capital outlay for new industrial equipment and buildings. He abolished the 30-per-cent excess profits tax.

The list of restored economic freedoms was lengthy.

The government quit the grain buying business Sept. 12 as part of a gradual lifting of controls aimed at ultimately ending rationing. Private grain trading began to tick in earnest Dec 1 when the Liverpool wheat futures market re-opened after 14 years.

Steel allocation ended. Copper, sugar, rice, starch, linseed oil, coffee and bananas were freed. So were eggs, sweets, softwood timber, petroleum products and most metals, although dollar restrictions still applied.

REDUCE U.S. AID

The treasury schedule was for a 50-per-cent reduction in direct U.S. aid during 1953-54—during which period direct aid would total about $200,000,000.

Convertibility plans remained unfulfilled, although the Commonwealth plan to that end moved a step forward in discussions with principal European countries. Most gave a cool reception to the intermediate stage suggested for the plan—in which sterling would be convertible and Britain would withdraw from the European Payments Union while dollar restrictions continued.

Liberalized trade would be pursued on a European scale through the organization for European Economic Co-operation.

The final stage would be freeing of trade through the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade and removal of dollar restrictions. Fulfillment depended largely on U.S. decisions on international economic policy, expected in mid-1954.

TEAR GAS ENDS SIEGE — Charles Eldon McLaughlin, a 28-year-old paper factory worker, stands by his trailer with one of his small sons (left) after surrendering to Columbus, O., police. McLaughlin had locked himself and his two sons in the trailer when constables tried to arrest him on an assault and battery charge for beating his wife. He threatened to shoot the boys if the charge was not dropped. Sheriff's deputies (right), after being held off for 16 hours, fired two tear gas shells through a window and McLaughlin came stumbling out.

Your Children's Aid Society

A Weekly Column Written in the Interest of the Peterborough Children's Aid Society

The Douglas' had heard of the services of the Children's Aid Society, and Mrs. Douglas made an appointment to come to the society's office at the corner of Brock and Sheridan Streets.

She arrived a few minutes early for her appointment, feeling nervous and upset. She wondered how she could ever tell this stranger all the things that were troubling her. Gradually under the sympathetic encouragement of the worker, Mrs. Douglas unfolded her story.

The Douglas' had 9 children, ranging in age from 11 months to 15 years. Their home was small and always seemed crowded and cluttered. Each day was jammed with things which had to be done. The children seemed to have so many vital problems which needed immediate attention that Mrs. Douglas found herself being constantly interrupted.

She thought she might have been able to cope with these difficulties if only her husband would show some interest. She realized he had to work hard to support his large family, but that seemed to take all his time, energy and interest. When they did have a few moments together they usually quarreled.

They argued about money or the lack of money, and they quarreled about the children. The children copied their parents and fought among themselves. The only thing the whole family could agree upon was that life was much more pleasant away from home. Consequently they all endeavored to stay away as much as possible; all except Mrs. Douglas, that is, and she could never get away so her resentment was even greater.

Mrs. Douglas wanted to make one more effort to work things out. She responded well to practical suggestions made to her. She was able to enlist her children's co-operation with some of the household responsibilities. She and the worker planned a more effective daily schedule which saved many precious moments. Most important, however, was Mrs. Douglas' ability to recognize that her constant nagging and complaining were wearing her down more than anything else.

Mr. Douglas soon noticed the efforts his wife was making and co-operated by responding to requests that he talk to the Children's Aid worker too. He readily discussed the situation as he saw it and he was encouraged to make suggestions. It was not long before he realized that he was at fault, too, and had not been offering companionship or assistance to his wife.

The Children's Aid worker was just as pleased as the Douglas' when eventually a solution of co-operation and understanding was worked out. It took time and there were many discouragements but a "happy ending" was possible to a great extent because the Douglas' wanted to help themselves.

Lily Lake WA Holds Christmas Meeting

LILY LAKE (ENS)—The annual Christmas meeting of the Lily Lake WA was held at the home of Mrs. W. C. Steinkrauss recently when 17 members and five visitors attended.

The president, Mrs. Arthur Hancock welcomed those present and conducted the meeting which opened with the singing of Christmas carols. The scripture reading based on the Christmas story was read by Mrs. Evans McConkey.

The Roll Call was answered with a demonstration of a Christmas project and a reading based on the life of Kate Aiken. "That was a real Christmas", was given by Mrs. Clarence Hancock.

The secretary's report was given by Mrs. Everett Tully and the treasurer Mrs. Ackison reported a balance on hand of $1239.41.

It was decided to hold card parties after Christmas and a committee composed of Mrs. Beardsmore, Mrs. Arthur Hancock and Mrs. William Steinkrauss were nominated to look after purchasing card tables.

Rich Farm Lands In Argentina Near Exhaustion

By CROMARTY BLOOM

BUENOS AIRES (Reuters)—Argentina's rich plains area, which produces the exports on which the country's economy depends, may become a "dust bowl" unless action is taken against creeping desert, say agricultural experts.

About 93 per cent of Argentinas exports are farm products.

Intensive deforestation which started in 1914 has led to big changes in the semi-arid zone lying immediately to the west of the rich plains.

The newspaper La Nacion says. "We have created in the heart of Argentina the germ of a desert which, like a cancer, threatens the whole country unless it is removed in time.

"We are confronted by a fait accompli. The dry climate with its well balanced rainfall formerly enjoyed by the centre of the Republic has been changed by the action of man.

REFORESTATION NEEDED

"The profits made by abusive deforestation and by overstocking degenerating pastures are a mere fraction of what it will cost to repair the damage."

Reforestation on a vast scale, it said, is the only remedy.

The "Review of the River Plate" published statistics showing that in the Ameghino area, lying between the spreading "dust bowl" and the productive Pampas, rainfall has declined in the last 25 years from an average of 28.8 inches in 1927-36 to 19.6 inches in 1937-46.

The Argentine Rural Society says that even the Pampas, not yet threatened by the growing desert to their west, are in urgent need of soil conservation.

The society said intensive farming during 60 years or more has brought the soil to a state of outright exhaustion.

SAFE AT NORTHERN OUTPOST—A brief radio message from the Arctic has brought word that Rev. Joseph Buliard (left), 39-year-old missionary, is safe at a northern outpost after being unreported for several months. Concern was felt for the Oblate missionary after plans to send supplies to his mission 1,200 miles north of Winnipeg did not work out. Father Buliard is shown with bush pilot Gunnar Inglebrightson in 1949 after he flew him out of the north for treatment of severe frostbite. That time Father Buliard was unreported for seven months.

Liner Crosses Ocean Without A Rudder

OSLO (CP) — The Norwegian America liner Stavangerfjord—the first big passenger ship known to have crossed the greater part of the Atlantic without a rudder—arrived in Oslo Thursday night. She came in only two days behind schedule.

Capt. Olaf Bjoernstad, a sailor since 1914, described the rudderless crossing as "the worst experience I've ever had at sea."

The 13,334-ton Stavangerfjord lost her rudder in a hurricane Dec. 8 about 500 miles off Newfoundland, three days out of New York.

She travelled 2,050 miles in nine days without a rudder, steering with her twin screws. In this technique one screw alternately is used for giving her forward speed, the other for navigation.

3rd Division Veterans Plan Normandy Visit

TORONTO (CP)—Veterans of the 3rd Canadian Infantry Division of the Second World War are planning to visit the beaches of Normandy on the 10th anniversary of D-day next June 6.

About 300 including wives are expected to make the trip. The group will also include members of the 2nd Armored Division and other attached units.

They will gather in England a few days before the anniversary and will go to France June 5. They will spend the anniversary on the landing spots. Before returning home they will visit other areas where the Canadians fought, including Caen, Calais, Boulogne, Cap Gris Nez, Ghent and the Schelde estuary.

Clare Millar of Kitchener, a paraplegic who was hit by a sniper's bullet, is transport officer for the tour. He was formerly a lieutenant with the Highland Light Infantry.

2-Headed Girl Born In Brazil Town

BELO HORIZONTE, Brazil (AP) A two-headed baby girl was born four days ago, it was disclosed Thursday when she received medical attention at Sao Vicente Hospital.

Doctors said she has four perfectly shaped arms and three legs. Examination showed the child has two completely separate heart and respiratory systems but a common digestive system.

The child was born to Mrs. Geralda Francisca de Jesus, 25, wife of a rural storekeeper. Authorities said the birth took two hours with a midwife in attendance. The mother previously had four normal children.

Rude Parrot

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (CP)—Authorities of the Wellington zoo were embarrassed when a parrot received in a consignment of birds turned out to have had a nautical education. The parrot was heard squawking to other parrots, a few pheasants and the domestic mothering hen "fly, you ——, fly." They got a louder parrot to drown him out.

B.C. Builders See Little Help In New Housing Proposals

VANCOUVER (CP)—Buyers will have to be satisfied with fewer frills if builders in Vancouver undertake to construct $8,000 homes.

Spokesmen for the builders said today property values will have to come down and the buyers must settle for "less house" if advantage is to be taken of the new federal housing legislation.

"A terrific clientele exists in the $8,000 price range," said Dean Buzzelle, honorary president of the Vancouver Contractors' Association "but so far it seems unwilling to face the fact that $8,000 will only buy a 'minimum' home."

MUST LOWER DEMANDS

The new housing legislation was introduced in Ottawa Wednesday by Works Minister Winters and its major stipulation is for a 90 per cent mortgage on the first $8,000 of a home's cost.

Mr. Buzzelle said buyers would have to lower their demands.

If buyers would forego fireplaces, fancy exteriors, garages where carports will do, hardwood floors and elaborate electrical systems, it might be possible to build even a three-bedroom, non-basement home for $8,000.

"But again," he said, "that's only in the unlikely event that a lot can be found for $1,000 or less."

ARCHITECTS AGREE

The architects agreed, C. J. Thompson, member of a leading firm, said:

"I don't think the government has studied the problem sufficiently to help most individuals."

The new plan might help some low-income buyers, but few low-priced lots are available in greater Vancouver.

"If you could find a lot for not more than $300, you might be able to do it," he added. "With the remaining $7,700 you could probably build a living-dining room, kitchen, two-bedrooms-and-bath home without a basement."

Few lots are for sale under $1,200, and at a building cost of $8.75 a square foot, it takes up to $10,000 for a 1,000-square-foot home.

Red Paper Libels 322 British MPs

LONDON (AP)—A House of Commons committee decided Thursday that the Communist Daily Worker libelled all 322 of Britain's Conservative members of Parliament. But the committee said the newspaper's story was not "worthy of occupying the time of the House."

The paper said Dec. 9 that Conservatives who voted for a bill to raise some controlled rents had voted "money into their own pockets," adding:

"Raising rents benefits the whole class that tory MPs represent in Parliament."

Asked by a Labor member if this was not a breach of privilege, the committee of privileges found the story "defamatory" and a breach, but suggested the House should not worry about it anymore.

Lumber Man Dies

TORONTO (CP)—William Harold Leak, 57, past president of the Ontario Wholesale Lumber Dealers' Association, died here Thursday. A lifelong resident of Toronto, Mr. Leak was also past president of the Wholesale and Export Bureau and a director of the Canadian Lumbermen's Association.

Burns Fatal

SIMCOE (CP)—Mrs. Margaret Anne Miller, 88, died Thursday night from burns after a hotplate ignited her clothing as she tried to keep warm. She was found semi-conscious on the floor of the small farm house 11 miles northeast of here where she lived alone. She died a few hours after being taken to hospital.

Color Of Lights Uncertain, Case Dismissed

"While I am quite prepared to believe that all parties concerned have been honest in their evidence, I am not satisfied as to the situation of the lights, and on the evidence I must give Mrs. Thompson the benefit of the doubt andd ismiss the charge."

This was the finding of Magistrate R. B. Baxter when Mrs. May Thompson, Peterborough, was charged in magistrate's court on Thursday with having driven without due consideration for other users of the road. Defence lawyer G. H. T. Farquharson represented Mrs. Thompson.

The charge arose from an accident involving cars driven by Mr. Thompson and Mrs. Muriel Levine at Reid and Charlotte Streets on November 13. Both vehicles were extensively damaged.

Mrs. Levine remembered approaching the intersection with the light green in her favor. When halfway across the intersection, she had had a fleeting glimpse of an oncoming vehicle before the collision occurred.

Afterwards, she alleged, Mrs. Thompson had approached her, saying: "I am terribly sorry — it was my fault; I was day dreaming; I had forgotten about the lights."

Traffic patrol officer Donald Mackay related the positions and conditions of cars shortly after the accident. He had not heard accused make the statement alleged by Mrs. Levine.

SAW ACCIDENT

Called for the defence as an independent witness, Miss Jean Webb said she observed the accident from the window of an office close by the intersection. She had seen the light green in favor of Mrs. Thompson just before the collision and it had still been green immediately after the accident.

Magistrate Baxter observed: "I think you are endeavoring to tell the truth, but it is more natural that you followed the course of the Thompson car, which came to rest against the rear of a parked truck, than to have glanced immediately at the lights. However to the best of your knowledge the light was green in favor of the accused."

Mrs. Thompson, under cross-examination by Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw, QC, admitted that she could not recall how the accident occurred, or whether the light was green or red. She had not realized that she had been in an accident until some time after.

Mrs. Thompson suffered a broken rib and leg injuries in the acicdent.

OLDEST AND YOUNGEST MPs.—Jean Boucher (left), bachelor notary from Laprairie, Que., who was elected in the Quebec riding of Chateauguay-Huntingdon-Laprairie in the the August 10 federal election, is the youngest member of the Commons at 27. He is shown with the oldest member, Rev. Dan McIvor, Liberal member for Fort William since 1935, who will be 81 next February 14.

1 Killed, 3 Injured In Car Accident

CLARKSON (CP)—One man was killed and three persons injured Thursday night when a car struck two pedestrians and crashed into two trees near here.

Dead is Arthur Uriew of Toronto, a passenger in a car driven by Van Rubinoff, also of Toronto.

Rubinoff and the two pedestrians, Mrs. Mary Ghent, 33, and her daughter, Donalda, 13, were taken to hospital in Toronto. Mrs. Ghent and Donalda suffered cuts and bruises.

Prices Close Lower At Stockyards

TORONTO (CP)—Prices opened steady to strong on choice steers but closed lower at the Ontario stockyards this week. Prices were about steady on other classes. Calves, sheep and lambs were steady and hogs gained $1.

A light cattle run of 5,308 head, including 1,030 westerns was added to 700 head carried from last week. Brandable steers and heifers were cleared but several hundred plainer killers and stockers were unsold. Choice weighty steers $20-20.50, a few $21 and three full loads $20.65; good steers $19-20, mediums downward to $17; plain steers and heifers downward to $12; boners as low as $9; good heifers $17-17.50, a few $18. Good to choice fed yearlings $20-22; mediums $16-18.50. Good cows $10.50-11.50, a few heifery cows $13; mediums $8.50-10; canners and cutters mostly $6-8. Good heavy bulls $12-13; plain $10-11.50. Good stockers and stock calves $18-18.50; one lot calves $19; plain to medium stockers $13-17.

Calves totaled 1,626 head including 500 westerns. Choice vealers were steady to $24-26; a few $27; medium to good calves $17-23; plain downward to $12; grassers mostly $10-10.50.

Hogs totalled 2,567 head. Prices were $1 higher at $33.50 for grade A; dressed sows $23.

Sheep and lambs were 1,445 head. Good lambs $22.50-23; a few choice southdowns $24; bucks $1 discount; heavies $2-4 discount, according to weight; culls downward to $4. Good light sheep $8-10; culls downward to $4.

Judge Gives Warning To Liquor Outlets

TORONTO (CP)—Judge W. T. Robb, chairman of the Ontario liquor license board, Thursday warned liquor outlets with dining room licences "not to drum up a cheese and cracker business" but to encourage patrons to buy adequate meals.

Judge Robb made the statement when he cut the closing hours of the Bermuda Tavern here from 2 a.m. to midnight. He said "four crackers and a little cheese" doesn't constitute food as defined by the dining room licence act.

Telephone Lines Said Repaired

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Bell Telephone officials said Thursday that long - distance lines to Sarnia, knocked out by snow and winds Monday, now have been repaired but will be in constant danger until warmer weather arrives.

R. G. Dillane, Bell manager, said some lines have up to four inches of ice on them.

"There is still very great danger until that ice melts. The wires may break anywhere under weight of ice, and if a strong wind developed there would be a lot of breaks," he said.

Local circuits in Sarnia still were being repaired and "it will be quite a long job to get them back in service."

Nearly 4,000 telephones were cut off originally.

Report McGill Radar Device Been Tested Successfully

OTTAWA (CP)—The defence research board said today that the "McGill fence," the Canadian-designed early-warning radar device to detect enemy planes striking across the Canadian North, has been tested successfully.

The board's annual review said the hush-hush barrier, which eventually will supplement joint Canadian-American radar chains in the far north, was the outstanding accomplishment of the board in 1953. Its details are secret.

"Summer trials confirmed the value of the device as a warning system that can be installed economically in terms of money, materials and manpower, and all component parts can be manufactured in Canada," the review said. "Development work and further trials are proceeding."

The project was developed by DRB with the assistance of the Eaton electronics research laboratory of McGill University, Montreal, and the national research council. Experimental equipment was manufactured by the RCA Victor Co., Montreal, which also supplied installations to the United States for additional tests.

OTHER ACHIEVEMENTS

Other major accomplishments by the board in 1953 include:

1. Firing of a working model of Canada's air-to-air guided missile.
2. Development of a gas mask for northern operations which will not cloud over in extreme cold.
3. Development of a self-propelled diving bell for under-water operations.

The air-to-air guided missile is being developed by the board for the RCAF. The missile received its first tests in the summer.

Dr. O. M. Solandt, chairman of the board, said details of the firing are secret. However, he said the tests were conducted near Winchester, Ont., 35 miles southeast of Ottawa.

Dr. Solandt said the project progresses in stages, trials following the completion of each stage. As the missile had not been perfected, further trials could be expected.

BETTER GAS MASK

Development of the new-type gas mask for the northland was carried out in conjunction with research on protective clothing and equipment for the armed services. The respirator received major attention during the year because of the necessity of increased comfort, reduced weight and better vision for men on northern operations.

The new respirator prevents misting of eye-pieces during intense cold. The breath inside the mask is turned into water before it can cloud the eye-piece and is discharged by a special valve.

Research on the submersible exploration craft, or diving bell, is being conducted by the board at the Royal Military College, Kingston. It is designed for undersea repair work, as an aid in finding equipment lost overboard from ships and as a water-taxi for divers.

TWO NEW LABS

The review said the board's construction program neared completion during the year. New laboratories were opened at Shirley Bay, 10 miles west of Ottawa, and at Kingston. So was a new wing at the Churchill, Man., laboratory.

Current studies at Churchill include the design of special northern military equipment, studies of loads that can be carried by troops, and testing of equipment for survival operations.

During the year, scientists discovered relics of previous Arctic expeditions at the tip of Ellesmere island, most northerly land mass in North America. The relics were left in 1906 by U. S. explorer Admiral R. E. Peary, in 1875-76 by the Royal Navy expedition commanded by Capt. Sir George Nares and in 1920 by Danish explorer Godfred Hansen.

Steps were taken during the year to provide for long-term co-ordination of DRB projects. Dr. Frederick H. Sanders, superintendent of the Pacific naval laboratory, Esquimalt, B. C., was placed in charge of the work.

In 1953, the board provided about $1,000,000 to 21 universities and colleges in aid of fundamental research. The grants are designed to aid specific research projects and to help overcome the shortage of experienced scientists.

4 Actors, 2 Artists Awarded Scholarships

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Minister Abbott announced Thursday that gold exporters no longer will have to debase their product in selling to the so-called free world markets.

He announced also that mine operators who elect to sell on the free market, and thereby forego the government's gold subsidy, can switch back to the subsidy after six months instead of a year.

Experts believe the changes will be of some benefit to one large gold mine, Kerr-Addison, and a few smaller ones, but will have little impact on the bulk of the industry which obtains the subsidy.

Prices on the free markets, which at one time reached a high of some $69 an ounce, recently have dropped. They currently are less than a dollar more than the official price of $35 (United States funds) an ounce.

STATELY HALL

The picturesque town hall of The Hague, capital of The Netherlands, was built in 1565.

Ease Regulation For Gold Mines

OTTAWA (CP)—Four young actors and two artists have won this year's Canadian Amateur Hockey Association scholarships for cultural studies abroad.

Walter Kaasa, 28, of Edmonton; Shirley MacIntyre, 20, of Toronto; Joanna Vanterpool, 23, of Saskatoon; Larry Hoodekoff, 23, of Kylemore, Sask.; Louis Carrier, 26, and Stanley Lewis, 23, both of Montreal, will share a total of $4,000 in CAHA scholarships.

The awards were announced Thursday by the Canada Foundation, which manages the hockey scholarship plan. The scheme has been in operation for five years and now has assisted 19 young Canadians in studies abroad.

Red Party Founder Beckie Buhay Dies

TORONTO (CP)—Beckie Buhay, 75, one of the founders of the Communist party in Canada in 1921 and a founder of the Labor-Progressive party in 1943, will be buried Sunday.

Miss Buhay, a former head of the LPP's national education department, died Wednesday.

Born in London, she came to Canada in 1913. She had held various posts with the party and since 1921 had been a member of the National committees of the Communist party and the LPP party.

Two Workmen Injured

GUELPH (CP)—Two men suffered broken legs Thursday when an elevator in which they were riding dropped two storeys in a furniture plant at nearby Elora. Russell Duncan, 64, is reported to have suffered one broken leg. Charles Obright, 48, a fellow worker, had both legs broken below the knees. Thee 'levator' crashed to the ground when its control drums broke.

Bevan Takes On Churchill In Quick Battle Of Words

LONDON (AP)—Aneurin Bevan, the left-wing Welsh Labor leader, took on the doughty old warrior, Prime Minister Churchill in a battle of words Thursday night to the amusement of Parliament.

Bevan was defending himself against Conservative charges of "betrayal" for a syndicated article he wrote saying that British troops should get out of the Suez canal zone. The article appeared in an Egyptian newspaper.

Bevan recalled that Churchill had written syndicated news articles before he became prime minister and that Churchill had been highly critical of Conservative governments that held power before the Second World War.

QUOTES CHURCHILL

Bevan quoted from an article Churchill wrote in March, 1937, and said Churchill described Jawaharlal Nehru, now prime minister of India, as a Communist.

Churchill interjected:

"He admits he has intellectually Communist ideas."

Bevan had taunted Churchill with the remark: "I think the prime minister has asked for it today and he is going to get it."

At one point Bevan remarked that Churchill's father, the late Lord Randolph Churchill, had been critical of British policy in Egypt "when there was fighting in Egypt."

The prime minister retorted that Bevan "hitherto has been trying to hide behind me. Now I gather he is endeavouring to hide behind my father. I am sure we both can take care of ourselves."

Gas Commission May Be Set Up Like Ont. Hydro

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario government officials said Thursday night a natural gas commission, with powers similar to that of the Ontario hydro power commission, is under consideration.

Officials disclosed that an eight-man committee that includes four cabinet ministers and three of Ontario Hydro's top officials has been appointed to study the question.

It is believed the committee will recommend establishment of a commission which will undertake transmission of natural gas on a wholesale basis and also build pipelines to serve Ontario communities where gas now is not available.

The committee will also decide whether the proposed commission will have its own chairman or operate with the hydro body under one chairman.

OF GREAT IMPORTANCE

Surveys now under way by the committee and the decisions it will reach within the next two or three weeks are described by Queen's Park officials as "of tremendous importance to the future of the province."

The officials said Ontario is the key to the whole question of importing natural gas from Alberta and can find a market to make an all-Canadian pipeline a financial success.

Should the commission be set up, private companies now in operation would buy their gas from it.

Judge Reserves Decision On Permission For Man Wed Divorced Wife's Sister

TORONTO (CP) — Mr. Justice W. F. Spence of the Ontario Supreme Court Thursday reserved decision on the question: "Should a man be permitted to marry his divorced wife's sister."

The government of Ontario says no, but Harry Helmet Schepull and Eva Bekeschus say there is no law in Canada forbidding them.

Through their counsel, Edwin A. Goodman, they are applying for a writ to force the provincial secretary to issue a marriage licence which he has so far refused.

Mr. Goodman argued that for a man to marry his wife's sister is not forbidden under the "degrees of consanguinity and affinity," in Canadian law.

"In fact," Mr. Goodman said, "there is no legislation in Canada covering the degrees of relationship which bar marriage outside of the provisions of the Criminal Code forbidding incest."

"It may be a situation which will require the attention of Parliament," he added.

E. H. Silk of the attorney-general's department argued that the provincial secretary is entrusted with discretionary powers in such cases. He said that although the Ontario Marriage Act does not specifically grant these powers, they are implied.

Bounty Put On 'Cats'

DURHAM (CP)—Glenelg township council Thursday night put a $25 bounty on wildcats. Council hopes to get only one—an animal that has carried off several sheep and eaten a calf recently.

Fire Destroys Old Hotel

COMBER (CP)—The fire brigade in this town 20 miles south of Windsor fought its second fire in two days Wednesday night when an old hotel burned to the ground.

The Aubin House, a 75-year-old structure located on the old stage coach route to Chatham, was razed by flames which started in a chimney and were fanned by a north wind.

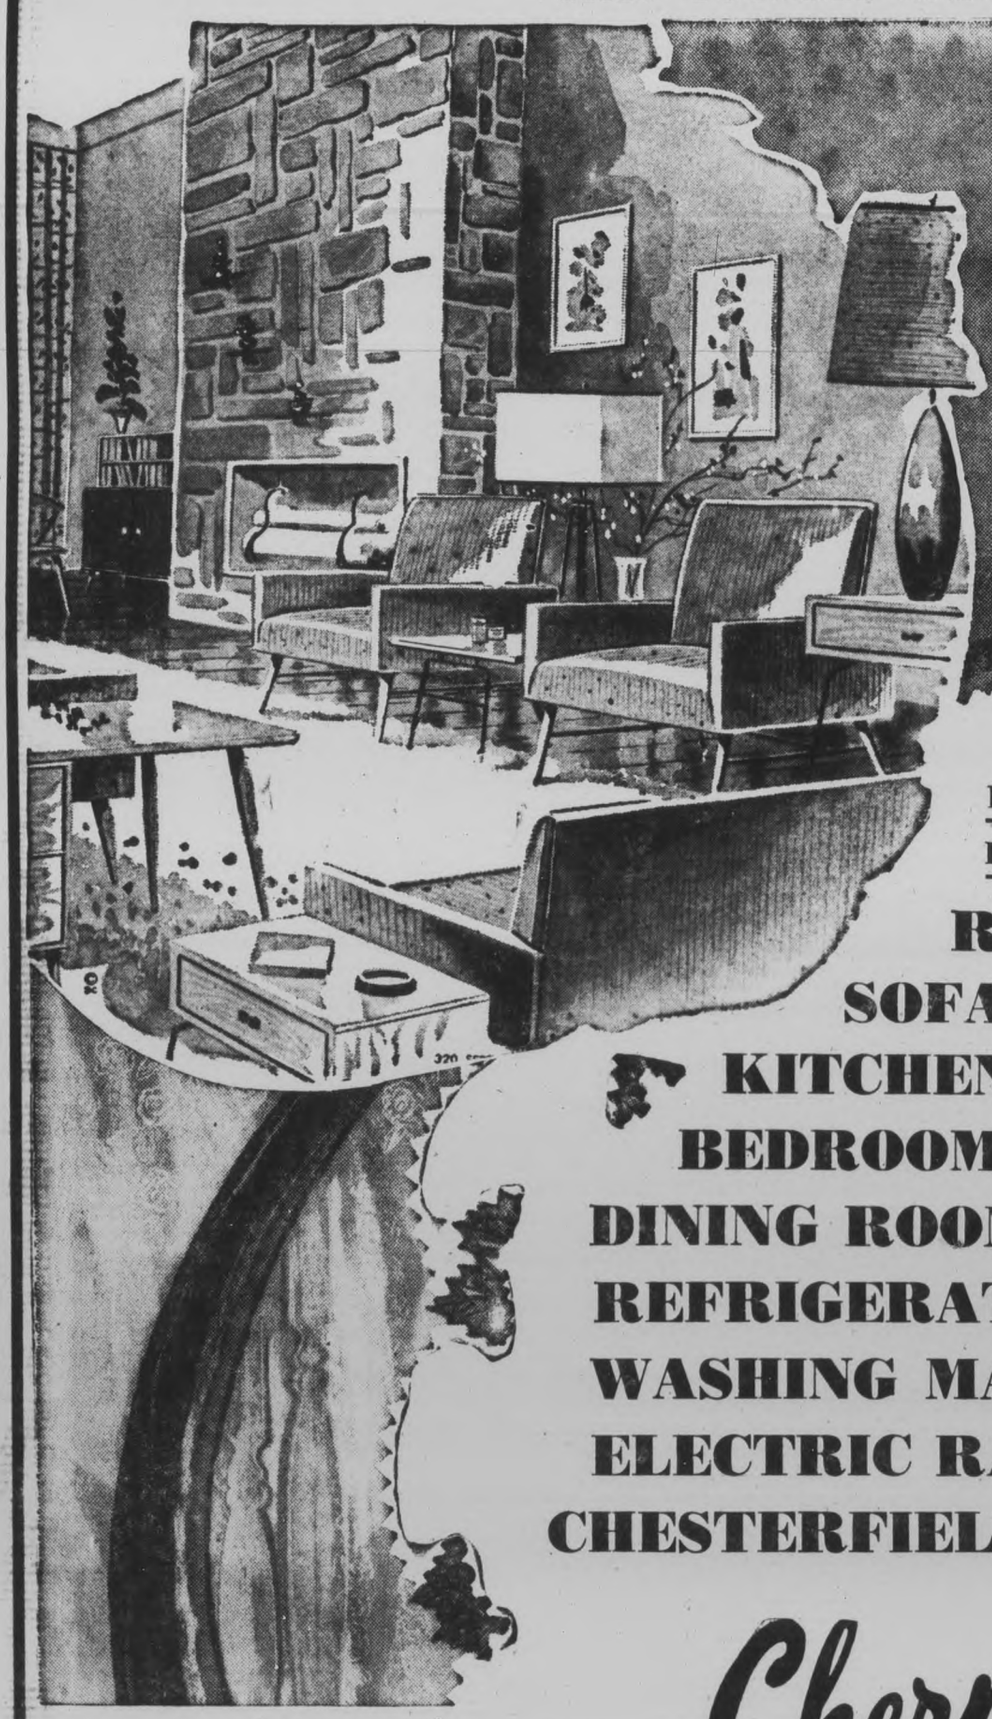
Firemen, hindered by lack of water, could only protect nearby buildings.

Tuesday night, the local 10-cent store was burned out.

Ships Still On Move

PORT COLBORNE (CP) — Although the Welland canal officially closed at midnight Dec. 15, four more ships are scheduled to pass through. They are the oil tankers Britamoco and Cedarbranch, due to arrive Friday, and the Oil Transporter and Britamolene, expected Saturday. All are downbound with oil cargoes.

Accident Fatal



HAMILTON (CP) — Mrs. Julio Karpenko, 56, of Winona, was killed Thursday night when she was struck by a car while walking on the highway near her home.

Twelve students quit going to secondary school in November, board of education records show. Seven of them were at PCVS where the enrolment at the end of the month was 1,044. The other five were at Kenner collegiate where the enrolment at the end of the month was 450.

Workers Vote Accept Offer By Westclox

2-Cent Pay Increase Work Week Cut To 41½ Hours

In secret ballot taken Thursday at the Western Clock Co. plant the production workers voted to accept the company offer rather than go to conciliation.

Chief provisions of the one-year contract are a general increase of two cents an hour to some 535 production workers, and a reduction of the work week by one hour—from 42½ hours to 41½—with no loss of take-home pay.

Local 570, International Union of Electrical Radio and Machine Workers (CIO-CCL), originally asked for a six-cent increase and a 40-hour week.

JOINT STATEMENT

In a statement issued jointly today, the parties agreed that "the 'overall package' more than meets the union demands of six cents an hour because the hours of work were reduced from 42½ to 41½, a third week of vacations with pay . . . reduced from 20 years continuous service to 15 years, and a general increase of two cents an hour was agreed upon across the board."

The statement continued: "The union and management agreed that a ballot might be taken, the IUE being a democratic union which wishes only to carry out the orders of its membership."

Other items were also agreed on, such as adjustment of inequities, and liberalization of smoking privileges.

Recently the Western Clock Co. have been forced onto short time because of loss of export business.

The new, one-year contract will run from Dec. 1, 1953, to Dec. 1, 1954.

Shock Treatment Recovery Room Started At Civic

First reports on two new services initiated by the Civic Hospital during November were presented by Superintendent John Hornal Thursday night. He seemed optimistic on the chances of success of the new operation recovery room and shock therapy department.

Since opened mid-way through the month, the recovery room saw 111 patients brought in for periods of 15 minutes to five hours following operations.

Referring to the staff of a head nurse and two general duty nurses Mr. Hornal admitted it might look like an "expensive" situation but contended "care is now much improved by removing patients to the recovery room following operations."

He was certain it would "pay off in the stabilization of patients and staff."

Since opened November 25 the shock therapy room, manned part-time by two nurses and two orderlies, saw four treatments administered in the last days of month. Treatments are now up to 11 a week.

FIRST CANADIAN CHRISTMAS will be celebrated this year by a number of new Canadians who have arrived during the past 11 months from European countries. For some the Yuletide season began Thursday night when the PCVS Home and School Association held a party for these Dutch, Greek, German, Swiss, Italian, Austrian and Norwegian people who form the basic English class at night school. Five countries are represented as Lammert Dyk of Holland, Anne Marie Opsal of Norway, John Riedl of Germany, Susie Lipinski of Switzerland and Maria Caravaggio of Italy chat in their now common language, English. PUC Clamps Down On Evaders

Did you forget to pay your water and light bill?

Better watch out or you'll be cut off.

Business-Manager James Turnbull of the utilities commission has designed a new form of notice to be sent out to consumers who have gotten too far behind in their payment of accounts. Here's how it works:

Ten days before your account is due for payment, the utilities office sends you a bill. If you haven't paid it 15 days after the due date, they'll send you a notice to the effect that, if you don't pay up, they'll cut off your service. That gives you 25 days in which to pay your bill. Fair enough?

OLD SYSTEM

It used to be that if you didn't pay your bill, you were given 30 days to fork over. If you didn't pay up, another notice was sent out, and finally a third. Why the tightening up?

Actually, the number of consumers who don't take advantage of the discount for prompt payment of utilities bills form a very small percentage of the total. But the minority constitute a headache for the office staff.

Mr. Turnbull points out that a good many of them are people who have moved from the city. With a 90-day period of grace, they are able to get away before they have squared accounts with the commission. The result has often been a series of fruitless letters and telephone calls in an unsuccessful effort to discover their whereabouts and, finally, an accumulation of bad debts that have had to be written off.

But if you think you can move to a new address and obtain service without paying the bill you incurred at your previous address, think twice. The utilities office have developed an elaborate system for tracking down old unpaid accounts.

It is hoped that by shortening the period of grace, the commission can cut down on the number of bad debts that have to be written off each year.

Defends Americans

LONDON (AP) — Home Secretary Sir David Maxwell Fyfe Thursday said the presence of American airmen in Britain has not contributed to any increase in sex crimes. He was replying in the House of Commons to Labor member Emrys Hughes, who wanted to know what steps were being taken to counteract a reported increase of sex crimes near United States Air Force camps.

Students Learn One Thing "Jah" They Like Canada

What's it like to be a new Canadian? Well, it's sort of difficult to say except being is a whole lot better than not being a new Canadian. What's Canada like after Europe? Here again it's difficult, but most of the credit in a vast issue of differences seems to pile up on the Canadian side.

What's the main reason for people wanting to become new Canadians? Europeans need an avenue of escape from none-too-pleasant conditions and Canada is one of the few countries to hold the door wide open.

These were the average answers to questions when The Examiner paid a visit to a group of new Canadians who held a Christmas party in the PCVS gymnasium Thursday night. The party, which was organized by the Home and School Teachers' Association, was for members of the basic English class which takes a night school course at the collegiate.

MANY REPRESENTED

Present were representatives from many European countries, including Germany, Holland, Norway, Italy, Greece and Austria.

For all, the language barrier has been, or still is, the greatest obstacle in the preliminary experience of new Canadians. It is their unanimous opinion, however, that the basic English course available at the collegiate is a "must" for those who want to take their place in the Dominion as quickly as possible.

It might be thought that this same barrier might prevent a new arrival from finding suitable employment. The case of shy, diminutive Maria Carravaggio, who hails from Italy and has been here only a month, proves that nothing is too difficult. Maria, who as yet knows nothing of the English language, explained through her brother, Rocco, that she works as a tailor in a downtown clothing store. Her father and brother work with her and they can supply enough English for the three to get along in business. She hopes to master the language at night school.

AUSTRIAN BUTCHER

Although he has been in the country over a year, Sebastian Asheber, of Austria, cannot yet speak English well enough to serve a customer in the butcher shop where he is employed. However, there is enough work in the back of the store to keep him busy and in time he will no doubt be able to take his place behind the counter. Meantime he is concentrating on the night classes and his big dream to become a Canadian citizen.

Tall, attractive Norwegian Anne Maria Opsal, has been in Canada 14 months. Now, her tutors consider that she speaks English almost perfectly.

FIVE-MONTH RESIDENT

Switzerland's Susie Lipinski, whose husband is an engineer in the city, has spent only five months in Canada. Her English comes in halting phrases, but there was no mistaking her liking for the new country when she came out with a spontaneous "Oh jah—sure!" in reply to the Examiner's query.

After some carol singing at the beginning of the evening, immigrants took over to provide their own entertainment with national dances and musical numbers.

Wes Switzer, night school director, considered the average new Canadian took about two years to satisfactorily master the language. After the basic 800 words had been learned, the rest usually followed easily. In most cases the students showed a remarkable aptitude for learning.

Civic To Buy New Respirator

Steps will be taken toward the purchase of a new respirator at Civic Hospital, the board decided Thursday night. Action follows a Medical and Surgical Advisory committee report which recommended the purchase.

On the suggestion of Alderman Douglas Miller prices of the various respirators will be obtained before any purchase is made.

After approving this move the board then began to wonder if the purchase should be made immediately because the medical committee had branded the present respirator as "unsatisfactory."

Although he agreed the respirator in use at present is unsatisfactory, Dr. R. M. Matthews, president of the medical staff thought it "unlikely" there had been any situations where the presence of a new respirator might have made the difference between life and death.

"The ice has been thin at times, though."

"Besides," interjected Alderman Miller, "the fire department has two respirators which could be brought up here at a moment's notice if they were needed."

This led into a discussion by Superintendent John Hornal on the differences in respirators and he disclosed the hospital type was more an iron lung than a portable set.

Dr. Matthews ended the discussion when he indicated the medical committee would like to look any proposed unit over before a purchase was made. This took purchase of the equipment out of the emergency category and board members decided to follow their original idea.

Cost might be in the neighborhood of $1,800.

ENROLMENT UP

Thirty-seven new pupils who's parents moved in the city were added to the public school roll during November. As K. S. Wightman, superintendent of schools, pointed out, if all were in one school this would establish the need for an extra room and, an extra teacher. There are now 5,258 pupils enrolled. In November, 1952, the number was 4,861.

Classrooms Sought For Retarded

Officials of the group who have voluntarily undertaken to provide education for retarded children in Peterborough are looking for classroom accommodation.

At present, classes are held five mornings a week i nthe YWCA. But it is hoped to obtain first-floor quarters where it will be unnecessary to remove the instructional equipment after each class.

City council are seeking co-operation of the local ministerial association in the hope that accommodation may be available in a church or Sunday school building. School buildings are considered out of the question as it is desirable to keep retarded children segregated from school pupils, whose normal activities they are unable to share.

ONLY FEW ATTENDING

Ald. T. D. Miller, who has taken considerable interest in the work, reports that similar groups in other communities are operating in Sunday school basements. One city put an unoccupied house at the disposal of the group in charge.

At present, only a few children are attending the classes in Peterborough. It is thought more would attend if a ground-floor classroom could be obtained. Use of Dixon house was suggested but it was pointed out that a nursery school is conducted there both morning and afternoon.

Ald. Miller said that classes were being conducted with remarkable success. The organization had qualified for a government grant of $25. a month for each child for each month the class is conducted. The group is not in need of financial assistance but requires proper accommodation. Tuition fees are paid by the parents.

Christmas Mail Hits Record Volume Aims Higher Yet

The post office is going letter-crazy. Conceivably 1,000,000 extra letters will have passed through its swollen staff's hands before the Christmas season concludes. Extensive mathematical calculations based on this figure and the city's population means every man, woman and child sends 12 Christmas Cards. Though most people would ask in a shocked voice: "What, mine?" when told their 12 cards are a contributing factor, the knowledge that 105 extra men work in three shifts around the clock wouldn't discourage the practice. It's here to stay.

The fact that Monday, following a card-sending weekend, will probably see some 300,000 cards flocking into Peterborough's old post office building, doesn't bother Postmaster Claire Stuart. He sat calmly in his office Thursday prophesying staggering mail tonnage in the next few days.

This came at a time when a large, but neatly stacked, pile of several thousand Christmas cards sat idle downstairs. "Those," he had waved, "will all be gone by tomorrow."

MOST INEXPERIENCED

Disposing of these should be somewhat of a problem in itself, in view of the fact 105 of the 165 men who will help in its distribu- have none, or next to none, postal experience.

Nevertheless, a highly organized system which must have come only after bitter experience, sees clerks and carriers working out of two bases, the post office and the armory. Ordinary mail goes through the office; parcels are handled out of the armory.

To aid in the latter's distribution, five trucks, each manned by two men, are kept on the run all day, picking up and delivering.

In the case of the former, an assistant goes the round with each regular mailman. The remaining extra help, some 50 strong, work at sorting racks in the two buildings.

Mr. Stuart traced the increasingly heavy load since earlier in the month. Around December 5, the normal amount of mail, about 5,000 letters, was handled.

By December 12, the figures were up to 23,000 letters a day and two days later were almost three times that, 67,000. It doubled again overnight, up 121,000 on December 15, and by Wednesday had reached the staggering total of 169,000.

Thursday the number reached 175,000 to set a new record for the post office. But even that figure palls before Mr. Stuart's prediction that the number would leap to 300,000 as a peak Monday.

PARCELS TOO

In the same period, parcels handled by the Peterborough post office leaped from an average 350 a day to 1,150 at present.

Turning his thoughts away from the present situation to future Christmas deliveries, Mr. Stuart happily visualized the new post office. No need to expand operations to the armory then, he said. "The new building will handle the Christmas rush with ease."

This should be true, not only for the next five or 10 or 15 years, but for 50 years, the postmaster thought.

In the meantime, however, delivery this year has even surpassed the maximum 1952 load and is still climbing. With that in mind and looking to the future when more records will be broken, perhaps the architects might start now in planning a sort of Christmas annex to the new post office to handle two or three million greetings.

9 Shopkeepers Leave Doors Unlocked

It is hard to believe, but nevertheless true, that nine shopkeepers in the last two nights have gone home leaving either back or front doors unlocked.

Wednesday evening burglars had to break into a warehouse to get goods. Had they but looked a little farther they could have just walked into any of the nine business houses left wide open.

City police Chief John Thompson today expressed concern at the number of shop doors and windows left unlocked. Not only did it entail extra work and worry for police, but it was also an incentive to crime. Especially during the Christmas season he warned shopkeepers to make a double check of all locks before leaving each day.

He added that so far this year police had found 309 shop doors and windows left unlocked. In many instances keys had been left in locks and padlocks or had been found lying on top of a till, or on a conspicuous shelf.

Hospital Shows $20,000 Surplus

Civic hospital showed a surplus of nearly $20,000 up to the end of November, thanks to the grants made from city's treasury.

Expenditures over the past 11 months have totalled $923,948.42 whole revenue totalled $737,133.61. The city's appropriation, however, makes up the difference and leaves a surplus of $19,985.74.

Salaries of $707,422.44 comprised the largest item during 1953 while housekeeping and kitchen costs have totalled $114,172.76.

County Farm Notes

By HARRY THEOBALD

President of Manitoba Farmers' Union Claims 32,000 Members....Says Federation of Agriculture a Ridiculous Luxury in the West....Forums Suspended Until Jan. 4....Three Junior Farmers Elected to Senior Office This Week.

The Federation of Agriculture is "a ridiculous luxury" in the estimate of Jake Schulz of Grandview, president of the Manitoba Farmers' Union.

He was addressing more than 700 delegates at the recent MFU annual meeting in Winnipeg. Progress of his organization would be slow he said, as long as farmers "can afford the ridiculous luxury of paying for one organization to do something and then turn around and pay another to oppose it."

Mr. Shulz said that when the Farmers' Union sent a delegation to Ottawa to ask Trade Minister Howe for advance payment on grain stored on the farm a contradictory telegram was received by the Minister.

"One day before our delegation arrived, Mr. Howe read a telegram in the House of Commons from Roy Marler, president of the Alberta Federation of Agriculture and chairman of the western section of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture which said: 'I do not think farmers should be in a hurry to borrow. Examination of complaints will show that the first interest of those who are complaining will be other than on behalf of the farmers' best interests.'"

Mr. Shulz predicted that by next spring 60% of the farmers in Manitoba wil have joined the Union. He said 32,000 were already paid up.

RURAL HOUSE DIVIDED

Quite plainly Mr. Shulz is telling the farmers of Manitoba they should cut adrift from the Federation of Agriculture. From that evidence the Canadian farm community is a house dividing, if not already divided.

At the same time, the Saskatchewan Farmers' Union at their fourth annual convention in Regina December 2-3, were told by President J. L. Phelps that the organization had arrived and was taking its rightful place in the agricultural scene. "The foundation has been well laid, and we can now proceed to build with reasonable confidence."

Similiar Union activity is reported from Alberta, and apparently the interprovincial union has now developed to the stage at which it must be causing concern to the Ontario Federation. "The spade work of provincial organization from which the Canadian Federation has been built up, and with it the spirit of rural unity, was done here in Ontario. Peterborough farmers should be sensitive about that accomplishment, because the first of the county units of the OFA was formed here.

The westerners are no pikers. If the SFU is to do the job required "we should think in terms of a budget of at least $500,000 or more and an annual financial reserve of an equivalent or larger amount." They also need $100,000 for a SFU headquarters office to be raised during the winter preliminary to building in the spring.

To Control Surpluses

Establishment of a fund to control surplus in any one field of the milk industry was advocated by Wilton Honey, second vice-president of the Ontario Concentrated Milk Producers at the annual meeting of the Aylmer branch last week.

"If we find there is too much powdered milk we will have to buy it and take it off the market, and the same with condensed milk and butter. Butter was held at 58 cents, but the price of eight cents a pound paid by the government for powdered milk was dirt cheap."

Without the Federal government's purchase of 10 million pounds of powdered milk, that was sold outside the country, and floor on butter, "goodness knows where the price would have stopped this year", said James Jenkins, provincial president.

✦ ✦ ✦

Two Convention Dates

Two conventions of more than ordinary interest to many farmers are: Ontario Federation of Agriculture, King Edward Hotel, Toronto, beginning Tuesday, January 5; Ontario Crop Improvement Association and the Farm Implement Dealers, Coliseum, Toronto, January 26-29. Another date is the annual meeting of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture in London, Ont., opening Monday, January 25.

✦ ✦ ✦

Pooling Not Feasible

In the opinion of Gordon Greer, Ottawa, president of the Ontario Fluid Milk Producers League, the "pooling of milk is not feasible", and the fluid milk producers had no intention of advocating it. He was the speaker at the annual meeting of Kingston Fluid Milk producers.

Forums Resume Jan. 4

The Farm Forum broadcasts have reached the end of their Nov.-Dec. series of subjects. Monday night is optional for a Fourth Night feature. The Forums resume their program on Monday, January 4 with the subject "What is the ideal farm organization?"

✦ ✦ ✦

FROM "STILLMEADOW"

"The world rolls on its course, and Christmas comes, and we keep faith in God in spite of any troubles we are heir to. Christmas is gay and bright, but Christmas is also renewing our belief that the Christ Child was not born in vain."

✦ ✦ ✦

Juniors In Office

The election of two Junior Farmers, Lorne Pimmett and George Shoniker, as president and 1st vice president of the Peterborough Shorthorn Breeders this week, is locally the most ecently pertinent answer to the Farm Forum subject: "The Citizens of Tomorrow." It was broadcast Monday, December 7.

Reg. Ferguson is another. He was elected presiden tof the Plowmen Thursday.

The subject discussed the question of the contribution of 4-H Club; Mr. Shoniker began his into rural community leadership. Ontario Forums were unanimous in their tributes to the junior departments.

Mr. Pimmett has taken time for several years to be Leader of the Peterborough 4-H Beef Calf Club, and Shoniker began his interest as swine club leader here, and switched to Norwood when both the rural junior groups were set up in East Peterborough within the last year or a little longer period. The emphasis in this example is on the phrase "most recent" and linked with it are the qualifying words willing and promotive.

Junior Farmers of Peterborough are the sponsors of the 4-H Clubs.

Hog Marketing Agency

"Many of the farmers who raise hogs have received this year in price benefits through the Ontario hog marketing board more money than they will contribute to their own farm organizations all the rest of their lives."

This was a statement by Lloyd Jasper, 2nd vice-president of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture, at the Norwood meeting of the Peterborough Federation.

Roy Jewell in the London Free Press recalls that the marketing board, appointed by the provincial producers, engaged a selling agency known as United Livestock Sales Limited. "This was one instance when a farmer-appointed board realized they were not qualified marketing specialists.

"So, they went to the people who were qualified . . . made them a fair offer for the services needed, and secured excellent returns. We trust this same good sense will govern that board's action when they make their plans for the 1954 selling job.

"No one does, or should, expect such an agency to get a higher price than supply and demand will permit. This agency has secured in some instances more than producers would have received had a bunch of amateurs been in charge . . . This system of selling hogs is a pioneering venture. Its success could mean much to the whole farm marketing picture. Its failure could set the marketing program back ten years."

✦ ✦ ✦

Producing Leaders

Testimony of Northumberland county Forums recognizes the values of 4-H Clubs in providing commuuity leadership.

Glourourim Forum mentions ten young men and women who have come up from the younger groups to leadership in various organizations of their township. Plainville cited examples of similar graduation to executive positions in the province. Bethesda South Forum reported three members of the Federation in a neighboring county received their training as Junior Farmers.

Forums agreed that the 4-H Clubs need more adult support, and their projects should be enlarged to include marketing.

From their exeperience in organized efforts, Forum members are also in agreement that a "good farmer" must contribute something helpful in community affairs to be worthy of the name.

Northumberland consensus was: "He should be ready to do his part in farm and community endeavors, sharing his own knowledge and experience with his neighbors, and, so doing, he is bound to learn more himself and be practically a better citizen."

Some of the suggestions were: "Teach more current events and not so much past history, because youth knowledge of present day events is very poor. Show films of interesting subjects of current events, and try to arrange an exchange of Junior Farmers' visits across our country and abroad..."

"Youth needs encouragement at home to develop self-reliance... Interest in public affairs and international relations can be stimulated by Farm Forum discussion groups in which the young people are encouraged to express their opinions.

There should be more reading of newspapers and farm magazines; more public speaking contests on worth while community projects and questions."

$3,500 'Barnone' Half Interest

M. H. Pimmett & Sons of Indian River have sold a half interest in their champion Shorthorn herd sire, Louada Barnone for $3,500, to Mervin Miller & Sons of Glasgow Station in the Renfrew district.

On the basis of a half-interest, Lorne Pimmitt told the Examiner this week, that would be equivalent to $7,000 if sold outright.

"At $7,000 Barnone would be the second highest priced Shorthorn bull sold in Canada this year," he said.

"The Millers saw two crops of Barnone calves at our place about the first of November, and that convinced them of his quality as a sire."

Louada Barnone is by Cadesky's Louada Marshall out of Aberfeldy Butterfly. The dam was 1947 grand champion Shorthorn female in Toronto.

"She had been undefeated in Canada since 1945, and her previous calf was the grand champion bull at the 1950 CNE for Law Construction Co.," Mr. Pimmett recalled.

The Pimmett sire will be with the Miller herd for six months, and it was understood that he would probably be leaving the Pimmett farm about the end of this week.

Increasing Populations In U.S. And Canada Challenge To Agriculture

"The farmer needs the support, understanding and sympathy of his fellow urban citizens if the latter are willing to pay fair prices for the products of agriculture," said R. K. Bennett, chief of the livestock marketing service, federal Department of Agriculture, at the dinner December 3 of the Dundas County Holstein Breeders Club. Some 300 farmers attended at Morrisburg.

"Fifty years ago, half the population of Canada was engaged in farming. Today it is less than 20 per cent. Many city people know virtually nothing about farming, as they have no contact with farmers and the rural industry.

CONSUMER NOT INFORMED

"Based on the misconceptions of my neighbors in Ottawa, city consumers believe four things: The price of farm products are too high; farmers make too much profit; farmers have more control over prices than is actually the case. City people do not understand the essential nature of the farmer's business—that of producing food."

Mr. Bennett said the Canadian public was not an unkind judge of anyone if the public was informed of what goes on.

"Farmers should follow the example of other industries in public relations. The latter offer an explanation when prices go up. They encourage visitors to plants so that consumers will understand manufacturing problems.

"Something in the nature of a Farm Festival Week might be the answer . . . choose some good dairy farm and announce that visitors from the city will be welcome during some particular week. If consumers see a farm in operation, they will understand that milk does not come out of a bottle, and that it cost money to produce."

To the young man attracted by the lure of the city, Mr. Bennett said: "There are 14 million people and 240,000 businesses in Canada, so the chances are that the farm boy will end up as a working man in the city, whereas he is leaving a farm business to trade space, neighbors, green acres, and purebred livestock, with reasonable leisure in season, for the rat-race and ulcer-making goose step of our big cities. That is sheer nonsense."

FOOD DEMAND GROWS

Mr. Bennett said the ratio of cattle to people in Canada is now the lowest since Confederation.

In a survey of marketing conditions he said that beef prices have been dropping to the long time relationship—the price of live cattle about 75 per cent of live hogs; consumption has increased, jumping from 21,200 of inspected slaughter to 27,000 weekly average this year. Lower prices last week indicated that the increased runs of the last five weeks have amounted to more cattle than the Canadian public will readily absorb. "This means that some surplus will have to go to the United States, and the prices drop to the level where this is possible."

The United States is the key to our marketing situation, Mr. Bennett said. It is now the only outlet for Canada's surplus meats. The prospects are for beef prices in the U.S. to be better, to remain steady at present levels and then step up during the winter. The fed cattle are nearly all out of the feed lots, and the marketings caused by drouth are about finished. Prices of hogs in the U.S. have stepped up sharply in the last three weeks. Expectations are that the price level will be steady with last year or better until next fall, when larger marketings out of the estimated spring pig crop (5 to 8 per cent higher) may affect the price structure.

Five per cent of Canadian marketings of beef cattle this year went to the United States, totalling 69,000 head. In addition, 39,000 dairy cattle have been exported to the United States.

Mr. Bennett expressed confidence in the long term outlook for Canadian livestock producers. He quoted Dr. Darke, agricultural attache, United Kingdom High Commissioner's Office, Ottawa, at the recent Dominion-Provincial conference that the pound sterling was now stronger and the U.K. was far from self-sufficient in butter, cheese, bacon, hams and carcass meat.

In the U.S. there is an increase in population of 2,700,000 a year, about the size of Toronto and Montreal combined.

Dr. Darke estimated that in 1975 Canada will have 25 million people and the United States 190 million.

To maintain the present diet in the U.S. will require a tremendous increase in production: cattle 100 million as against 94 million; milk 54 million quarts to 68 billion; pigs from 99 million to 120 million.

By 1975 one farmer will have 20 people to feed as against 15 at present. To produce the required increase of food, the USA would need 115 million acres extra crop land. It is estimated that there are only about 45 million available. So unless scientific advances in food production are very rapid, there is bound to be an outlet for any Canadian surplus on this continent.

Louada Heifer $4,475 Record

Louada Royal Blood, a summer yearling heifer of the Louis Cadesky Shorthorn herd in Harvey township, set a new Canadian record for the breed at the Royal Winter Fair's "sale of the stars."

"I think that fact ought to be emphasized again, when we are here for the annual meeting of Peterborough Scottish Shorthorn Breeders Association," Ab Stoltz, fieldman, said here Wednesday.

"This bred heifer now about 20 months old was bought at the Royal sale by Stanley Harris of Kickapoo Farms, Kenosha, Wis., for $4,475.

"The record is particularly for Shorthorn females sold at public auction. That price may have been exceeded in private sale, we don't know. But, as for auctions, it is the biggest we can find in what we may call modern sales, and that goes a long way back.

"It is an achievement for a Peterborough country Shorthorn which I think should be mentioned at this time when we are close to the end of 1953," Mr. Stoltz said.

Reg Ferguson Heads Plowmen

Reg Ferguson of Smith township was elected president of Peterborough Plowmen's Association Thursday night, another junior farmer accepting office in senior company. He succeeds Henry Batten who requested the members to appoint one of the young farmers and relieve him of the work he has been doing for several years.

The other officers are: vice-presidents, Sam Killen of Ennismore and Wm. Robson of North Monaghan. Secretary-treasurer, F. C. Paterson.

Directors: Smith township, Robert McAdam, Harry Grant, Roger Northey and Henry Sharpe; Otonabee, Walter Thorn, Alex Huston and Don McFarlane.

North Monaghan, Wm. Robson, Clarence Laing, Henry Batten; Harvey, Andrew Irwin and Bert Weiss; Ennismore, Thomas Harrington, Leo Scollard; Drummer, Alex Carlow, Joseph Watts.

Douro, Howard Quinn, Vern Campbel, George Bradfield; Asphodel, Arnold Stevenson and Wm. Thompson; Belmont, Orland Brown.

Peterborough city directors: G. A. Gillespie, Cliff Curtis, Walter Burns, Hanlan Payne, Harold Ball, Don McIntyre, Reuben Wilson, S. Hall.

Auditor: Vincent Eastwood. Delegates to the Ontario Plowmen's Association: Mr. Ferguson and Mr. Kilen; alternates, Roger Northy and Gordon Bradfield.

Social committee: H. Payne, C. Curtis, W. Robson, S. Hall, S. Killen, V. Campbell, H. Batten, A. Stevenson and Robt. McAdam, chairman.

The meeting decided to hold the 1954 match in Smith or Ennismore. The committee to choose a location are: Mr. Ferguson, H. Quinn, G. Bradfield, C. Curtis, S. Killen, Mr. Batten and Mr. Payne.

Appreciation was expressed to Mr. Payne for his help in coaching the juniors at the International match at Cobourg. It was suggested that land suitable for contour plowing be considered in selecting the place of next year's match.

EPWORTH JOHANNA PIETJE has regained her title as the living Canadian lifetime milk producer by bringing her total to 215,539 lbs. milk containing 7490 lbs fat made in 13 lactations on official Record of Performance test. The champion made her latest yearly record as a 16 year-old giving 15,476 lbs milk and 556 lbs fat on twice-a-day milking. She was bred by G. A. McCullough, Navan, Ont. in whose herd all but her latest record were made, and is now owned by J. A. Campbell, Moose Creek, Ont.

Johanna's lifetime production totals 86,216 quarts, or enough to supply 10 families with two quarts of milk each day for approximately 12 years. In 1952, Johanna's twelve lactation lifetime total of 200,063 lbs milk made in 12 lactations gave her the living lifetime championship for milk. She was subsequently beaten, first by Mina Fayne Korndyke, owned by J. J. Jose and Sons, Newcastle, and then by Snowball Sylvia Alcardtra, owned by Gordon Smith, Milverton, Ontario. The latter raised the championship mark to 212,143 lbs milk and 8589 lbs fat, which has now been topped by Johanna. Snowball is currently on test and is making a record that will, when completed, again place her ahead of Johanna.

J. A. (Jim) Campbell is a twenty-two year-old graduate of Calf Club work, who is just starting out on his own. He bought a daughter of the Johanna cow at G. A. McCullough's dispersal sale and subseqquently returned to buy the dam herself. During the summer he has kept her staked out by herself in an apple orchard in front if his home, and milked her by hand, being assisted in the latter function by his sister, Jean Campbell. At the time she finished her latest lactation, she was still milking 18 to 19 lbs at a milking.

Possibly over the 13 lactation years Johanna's milk might have sold for an average price of $2, depending on whether it was for the bottled trade or manufactured milk. Allowance would have to be made also for the general difference in price between today and 13 years ago. At $2 per cwt. her gross earning to her owner would have been around $4,300 to $4,500.

Toronto Man Held In Smuggling Case

FORT ERIE (CP)—A 39-year-old Toronto man will appear in court here Jan. 5 in the final phase of a large-scale smuggling case cracked by the RCMP.

Charged under the customs act is Victor Taylor.

RCMP officers said they arrested him on the banks of the Niagara river at nearby Frenchman's creek after two automobiles, a boat, a trailer, 81,800 American cigarets and 100 cigars had been ferried illegally across the river from the United States.

RCMP officers lay in wait for the smuggler's boat and seized it and it's cargo when it landed on the Canadian shore.

Victor's brother Fred was also arrested at the scene.

Reluctant PoWs May Be Given One Last Chance

PANMUNJOM (AP) — The top neutral officer in Korea indicated today that reluctant war prisoners, including 22 Americans and one Briton, may get one last chance to change their mind after the explanation period ends.

Meanwhile, hopes have dwindled that Allied persuasion teams wil meet the 22 reluctant Westerners before the deadline next Wednsday midnight.

The neutral repatriation commission put off until Monday consideration of demands by pro-Communist South Korean prisoners which the Americans and the British prisoner say must be met before they will attend interviews.

Lt.-Gen. K. S. Thimayya, Indian chairman of the repatriation commission, said in answer to written questions from correspondents that he might "take up at a later date" the possibility of screening all prisoners who have refused to return to their homelands.

Although Thimayya said he has "no plan, either concrete or tentative," there has been speculation that he will give the PoWs one last chance, without any coercion. Thimayya said six weeks ago that he planned on it.

SUGGESTED PLAN

At that time, Thimayya suggested that he would station an Indian officer in a hut, have all PoWs remaining in neutral custody file through individually, and express their desire in one word—"repatriation" or "non-repatriation."

Other Indian officers offered another simple plan: Have the prisoners walk single file, at considerable distances from each other, down a narrow Y-shaped path. One arm would lead to repatriation, the other back to the Indian-guarded compound in the neutral zone.

A South Korean prisoner who fled from the pro-Communist compound Wednesday said four Americans and about 20 South Koreans might return home if given a chance.

Textile Factory Closing In Renfrew

RENFREW (CP)—Renfrew Textiles Limited Thursday announced it is closing its plant here, the second such closure in this textile-producing town in a week.

No reason was given for the closure, which throws 35 men and women out of work. At its peak, the mill employed 150 persons.

A week ago, Renfrew Woollens Limited closed its mill here putting some 300 persons out of work.

Renfrew Textiles had manufactured shirting, ladies wear and coating materials.

HOSPITAL TESTS HELICOPTERS — Two helicopters are shown on the reinforced roof of Ste. Three federal transport department helicopters, flown from Ottawa, bucked a stiff wind as they touched down on the roof of the hospital.

Testifies Soldier Knelt To Give Sister Ring

MORRISBURG, Ont. (CP) — A ring and woman's small black hat hold the spotlight in the preliminary hearing of 2nd Lieut. Peter Balcomb, who faces a charge of murder in the knife-slaying of a pretty Quebec girl.

The ring and the hat came up Thursday as the slain girl's younger sister and mother testified with six other witnesses at the hearing's opening.

The hat was among other articles of clothing exhibited by the crown as belonging to Marie Annie Carrier of Bienville, Que., whose nude, stabbed body was found in a ditch near here Oct. 15. Police found the clothing in the attic of a tourist cabin near Woodstock, a few hours after Balcombe was arrested Oct. 18 at the London, Ont., home of his wife's parents.

Crown attorney R. P. Milligan held up in turn a salmon-colored topcoat, a pair of silk panties, a garter belt, brassiere, slip, a single nylon stocking, a black silk purse and small black hat trimmed with bright sequins.

Each time from Maria Therese Carrier, the dead girl's sister, came the same words: "It belonged to Annie."

SAID BALCOMB'S RING

Therese then identified a gold ring with a square-cut white-colored stone. She said she believed it was the ring given her sister by Balcombe some time last February.

Under cross-examination by defence counsel G. M. P. Kelly, she said that on the night Annie received the ring, she had not seen Balcombe's face. From the kitchen door in the Carrier home, she had seen a man in an army unifor kneeling in front of her sister with his head bent forward, but "I could only see his back," she said.

A recess was called and she left the witness box and sat in a chair and wept for a time. At about the same time, her mother, waiting in another room to follow her daughter as a witness, fainted.

BROUGHT UP HAT

When Therese resumed her testimony in the courtroom, crowded with spectators and 14 newspaper men from Canadian and United States papers, as well as one British newspaper man, Mr. Kelly brought up the hat.

"The best you can say of this hat is that it is similar to one owned by your sister, is that not correct?" he asked.

"It was hers. I am certain of that. I was with her when she bought it," Therese replied.

The mother of the slain former CWAC sergeant, Mrs. Maria Anna Carrier told of first meeting the young officer Jan. 25.

She said Balcombe had supper at their home that night and was a visitor on a number of evenings afterward.

It was in the latter part of February or early March, she said, when Balcombe gave Annie the ring. She said he gave Annie to understand it was an engagement ring.

The last time she saw her daughter, Mrs. Carrier said, was Oct. 14. She said she last saw Balcombe the night of Oct. 12.

Church Member Santa To 250 Clergymen

TORONTO (CP)—A member of the Church of England in Canada is playing the role of Santa Claus to 250 clergyman of the church's mission service with a gift of $50,000.

A special committee of church officials decided to distribute the money to clergy in the lowest paid bracket of the mission service. Cheques ranging from $85 for unmarried men to nearly $250 were mailed Thursday to clergy serving in remote mission centres from Vancouver island to Newfoundland.

The money is for the personal use of the clergy and their families.

Fire Guts Restaurant

HARRISTON (CP)—Fire Thursday flashed through a restaurant and an upstairs apartment causing an estimated $10,000 damage. The blaze threatened nearby business buildings but firemen brought it under control in one hour. A plumbing firm suffered water damage.

Veteran Pilot Spots 'Object'

STOCKHOLM (Reuters)—A veteran Swedish pilot reported sighting a "symmetrical metal object" travelling at a "colossal speed" over southern Sweden Thursday.

The pilot's statement was released by the Swedish defence staff which said it was making a thorough investigation of the report.

The pilot who fought during the Second World War with the RAF was Capt. Ulf Christiernsson.

He said he saw the object while flying his DC-3 airliner at about 6,500 feet over Haessleholm. Visibility was good.

"As I got nearer I saw it was completely a symmetrical metal object. It is difficult to find words to describe something one has not seen before, but it looked like a robot."

Capt. Christiernsson said he was absolutely sure it was neither a meteor nor any other sort of celestial body.

Pupils Show Musical Talent

LAKEFIELD (ENS)—Lakefield United Church Sunday school rooms were filled to capacity Wednesday evening for the annual concert given by the children of the school. Superintendent Neil Wood was chairman and welcomed those attending. The Rev. H. C. Wolfraim also spoke briefly.

The following is the program: Choruses by the junior and intermediate departments; selections by the tiny tots of the beginners' department; a duet by Donna and Roddy Hendren who were accompanied on the piano by their mother, Mrs. Donald Hendren.

The pupils of Mrs. Carmen Payne's class presented an acrostic and the little girls of Mrs. Theo Down's class, with their dolls said a recitation. Three-year-old Roger Young sang a solo with guitar accompaniment by his sister Carol.

Piano solos were played by Margaret Richardson, Faye Harding and Bill Hunter. Mrs. S. Whiting's class contributed an acrostic and the girls of Mrs. D. Nichols' class a drill. "Ten Little Negro Boys" was the number given by the boys of Mr. J. Chittick's class and four boys from Mr. T. Payton's class gave a recitation. The pupils of Mr. L. G. Poole's class had an original television program and Mr. J. Harrison's class enacted a dialogue. Mrs. H. W. Yale presented the awards to successful students in the temperance examinations.

The concluding item on the program was a pageant, "The Nativity Story." Those taking part were, angels, Carolyn Down, Linda Charlton, Mollie Hall, Sandra Nicholls, Sandra McCracken and Karen Foster; Mary, Glenda Armstrong; Joseph, Elwood Farrow; shepherds, Newton Young, Douglas Sheppard, Elwood Charlton; Kings of Orient, Tam Grant, John Graham, and David Payton. Mrs. P. H. Darling was narrator. Between the scenes of the pageant were carols, sung by a choir of intermediate girls and a solo by Mrs. Donald Hendren.

Pianists for the concert were Mrs. M. Kennedy, Mrs. Ralph Millage and Miss Mary Jane Foster.

At the conclusion of the program Santa Claus arrived and distributed bags of candy, oranges and nuts to all the children.

Two-Headed Boy Doing Satisfactorily

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP)—A two-headed boy, now almost six days old, was reported still in "critical but satisfactory" condition in Riley Hospital Thursday night.

A hospital spokesman said the "critical" tag is kept on the baby only because doctors have virtually no precedents for such a malformation.

"And, at that age, anything can happen," he added.

The baby was born at Washington, Ind., last Saturday to a 28-year-old woman who has three normal children. The baby has two heads, two necks, four arms and a single body.

Half interest in their champion herd sire "Louada Barnone" has been sold by M. H. Pimmett & Sons of Indian River to Mervin Miler & Sons of Glasgow Station, Renfrew county, for $3,500. Among the ribbons to the credit of "Barnone", of Cadesky breeding, is the 1951 C.N.E. Shorthorn championship. Lorne Pimmett has been piloting the bull in his notably successful ring career, and said yesterday: "It's hard to see him leave our herd, even if it is only for six months at a time, but he is going to one of the best Shorthorn herds in eastern Ontario." Mr. Pimmett met the Millers when he was judging the regional Shorthorn show at Renfrew this fall. Their entries included: grand champion bull, reserve senior and reserve junior females and the winning herd. At $3,500 for a half-interest, Louada Barnone's full sale value would be $7,000.

Pennsylvania Farm Tour Proposed For Next July

Peterborough Crop Improvement Association's trip to Ohio last July was so profitable in farming observation that a proposal to head into Pennsylvania as a project for 1954 was unanimously approved at the annual meeting Thursday.

There was some suggestion of a Quebec tour, but it was not pressed. Bruce Graham presided wtih 2 membe... present in the office of the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

Reports of the satisfaction of those who made the Ohio trip have got around to such an extent that it may be only a question of "how many", if-when the educational expedition is announced in the coming year.

COMPLIMENT R. ARMSTRONG

The Crop Improvement farmers reviewed this year's activities in a sense of progress and accomplishment. Robert Armstrong of Cavan, former president, was warmly congratulated on winning the Maple Leaf Milling Company's all-Ontario honors in the provincial 50 Bushel Winter Wheat Clubs competition. The Peterborough-Durham twilight meeting at his farm was recalled for its big attendance and worth while program. The success of the Central Ontario Spring Show was another achievement on the crops front.

The top officers were re-elected: President Bruce Graham of Westwood; vice-presidents: Eddie Kimbal of Smith, and Carman Seymour of Cavan. Secretary-treasurer F. C. Paterson.

Directors: Smith township: Ralph Garbutt, W. C. Mann, Burritt Jopling. Cavan, Robert Armstrong, Fred McIndoo, Roger Hanbidge.

North Monaghan, Clifford Johnston and Henry Batten, South Monaghan, Roy Sanderson, Charlie Barnard and Alan Dawson.

Douro, Stanley Wood and Vern Campbell; Drummer, Hiliard Edwards and Stuart Clysdale.

Asphodel, Harold Van Volkenburg and James Moore; Otonabee, Alex Huston, Welington Sutton, Alan Eason, William Chambers and Earl Petrie; Ennismore, Leo Scollard; Emily, Henry Jackson and Harold Millen.

Delegates to the Ontario convention, Toronto, Jan. 26-29; Bruce Graham and Roy Sanderson.

FINDS NEW WEED

County Weed Inspector M. H. Johnston reported discovery of a new weed in the district. Arkansas bedstraw was found in the Hiawatha section and also on the 12th line of Cavan. Some of the worst enemies are yellow rocket, goat's beard, wild carrot, cinquefoil, burdock and various others.

"The odd farmer is going to lose his pasture if the cinquefoil weed isn't looked after," Mr. Johnston said. He appealed to the members for their support in the weed control campaign.

"We had the co-operation of the C.G.E. Co. this year against rocket and goat's beard on their property at Nassau, but there is a great deal of work to be done elsewhere to check the weeds that are a menace to our farms and crops. We are not trying to dictate to the people. We prefer the way of persuasion. In the long run it proves best, and we'll get the best results when the farmers and city people, too, realize that going after the noxious weeds is only common sense."

Ken Fallis, Toronto, of the provincial seeds and weeds branch urged the members to try to attend the convention of the Ontario Crop Improvement Association. He said it was one of the most interesting and helpful of the winter series of meetings.

F. C. Paterson siad the Association had already helped in the success of the Spring Show. He sketched the discussion panels that are now being planned.

"What we are hoping you will continue to do is assume again much of the details of the Show because you live nearest to Peterborough. But it is not a Peterborough show. We have to make it attractive to the farmers of all our central Ontario counties."

Drunk In Charge Of Car, Jailed

Convicted of being intoxicated in charge of a motor vehicle, Charles Gilson of Coboconk was sentenced to seven days in prison and had his driving license suspended for three months when he appeared before Magistrate R. B. Baxter in the magistrate's court Thursday. For having liquor in a place other than his residence he was fined $10, costs $2.50.

A second offence of intoxication by Michael John Clancy, Peterborough, cost him a $50 fine, costs $2.50.

First offender Leonard Lindsay of Peterborough, was fined $10 costs $2.50, for being intoxicated in a public place.

TTC, Union Get New Agreement

TORONTO (CP)—An agreement has been reached between the AFL Street Railway Union and the Toronto Transportation Commission, it was announced Thursday. It affects 4,300 workers.

Union members voted 2,218 to 1,463 to accept the commission's modified contract which provides at 12-cents hourly increase to 2,300 operators, the largest group in the union, over a 27-month period.

The concessions include a two-day increase in paid statutory holidays for operators, making the total six a year, and a cent-an-hour increase for a smaller group of 260 lower-paid employees.

The operators were receiving $1.51 an hour.

Missionary Club Christmas Party

LAKEFIELD—(ENS)—Mrs. H. C. Wolfraim was hostess to members of the Missionary and Service Club of the United Church at the manse on Tuesday evening.

The business period was cut to a minimum, with only the report from the recent bazaar and tea given by general convener, Mrs. Robert McCracken. In giving her report, Mrs. McCracken has a special word of praise for Mrs. W. H. Fife and Mrs. J. Kellar who had worked exceptionally well. Total proceeds for the bazaar were $272.50.

The evening was spent in games and carol singing in charge of Mrs. Fife and Mrs. George Tanner. Mrs. T. Payton was at the piano.

Mrs. Fife expressed the appreciation of the members to Mrs. Wolfraim for her hospitality and Mrs. Douglas Davis presented her with a plant.

2 Little Girls Die In Blazing House

SHAWINIGAN FALLS, Que. (CP) Two little girls were burned to death Thursday in a blaze which destroyed their isolated farm-house as their father vainly tried to battle through smoke and flames to save them.

Suzanne, 3½ and Danielle Lord, 2½, were asleep in an upper bedroom of their frame house near Shawinigan Falls when the fire broke out.

Their father and mother, who escaped through the window of a downstairs bedroom with a six-month old baby, failed to reach them.

Origin of the fire is unknown.

HONG KONG HARBOR TRAFFIC makes a pretty Oriental picture as a woman sculls her sampan up to a junk. But sailing further than the harbor is a nervous journey, with cannon trained on shiplanes from islands held by General Mao's Communists.

HONG KONG REFUGEES, who seep into the city from nearby Red China, flood the city. This child lost his parents in the shuffle, has become a child of the streets, living off garbage and collecting cigarette butts for a meagre living.

Both Ends Against Middle In Hong Kong Hot Spot

HONG KONG—(NEA)—Noted while riding a rickshaw: British Tommy white-washes barbed wire fence ringing dugout facing Red China. General Mao's Korean trained regiments are only a trolley ride away and Her Majesty's forces know they'll be swamped pronto if the Reds push. So when Tommy says: "Hope I'm in Blighty before the rice diet," he means, "Hope I've gone home before you're all prisoners of war."

There are three price scales in this town, reading from bottom to top: Chinese, British, American. This is big leave centre for U.S. forces in the Orient and easy-spending sailors average $30-a-day on a holiday howl.

Women scull small sampans around the vast harbor with tiny babies strapped to their backs, Indian papoose style. And husky coolies will carry you to the highest peak for a few cents. You sit in a cushioned chair set on poles—with a fancy canopy for rainy days.

Often you hear what sounds like a burst of burp gun fire and in nervous Asia you duck. It's an old Chinese custom celebrating the opening of a new store or signing a new contract.

The British, who can walk diplomatically on hot coals without swearing, have pulled combat troops back from a strip alongside Red China. British and Chinese "Colonial Police", stiff at Buckingham Palace guards in pleated shorts, guard the border zone.

Explained a proper border policeman: "If there were soldiers here who served in Korea they might peg a few at the Chinese and things would get sticky, don't you agree?"

A Chinese soldier on the international bridge snapped my picture. (The last Chinese soldier I saw was in front of a Marine dugout in Korea—and he was very dead.)

One of these Red Border Guards came dashing over to this side the other day cursing communism. He chose freedom.

Colonial Police check travellers to and from Red China and comb their luggage. Many try to sneak gold through inside live chickens. Strangely enough, you can open a chicken, insert a gold bar, sew him up—and he'll still flap around for hours.

Overheard: "When we want to deport some undesirable Chinese and the Communists refuse to accept them we stuff them into a junk and dump them on a lonesome stretch of coast. Very effective."

"My ship is on the 'Frisco, Yokohama, Hong Kong run. I've got a Japanese girl, a Chinese girl —and a wife in 'Frisco. Brother —does it cost!"

"He smokes five-six pipes of opium every night after dinner but won't drink coffee. Says it makes him nervous."

"When I left Shanghai 3 years ago my husband was to follow in a few days. I've been meeting every train since. The Reds are holding him as a reactionary — because his father was a wealthy landlord."

Four things I like about Hong Kong:

1. How restaurants give you a wet, perfumed towel to wipe off the grime. I need one, handling chopsticks like a three-month-old handles a spoon.

2. How many Hong Kong Chinese openly denounce neighbor Red China, even though private party eyes note their names; in case of an invasion (expected in the misty tomorrow) they'd have their brains washed—out.

3. How cute are Hong Kong's Chinese lassies, with skin flawless as an unsued soap bar and silk dresses tight as sarongs slit up one side to the hip. For them diet would be foolish; I've never seen a plump Miss here.

4. How wonderful it is to be in a "Free Port" without import taxes or tariffs. French perfumes cost merely a whit more than in Paris, American cigarettes 15 cents a pack, and Scotch $2.50 a fifth.

1. How selfish are British merchants who kept trading with nearby Red China even while their kinfolk were being shot by Red Chinese in Korea.

2. How nervous you feel sailing around Hong Kong. Strings of islands on both sides are held by General Mao's men—with cannon trained on the shiplanes.

3. How too many Americans ("Old China Hands") employed by the U.S. Government are still secretly sympathetic with the Communist Chinese "experiment". It takes many rounds of whiskey to make their lips leak opinion.

4. How easy it is to contribute to the Chinese Communist Party; hundreds of thousands do so in Honk Kong weekly. Natives play both ends against the middle — and in the middle is the U.S.A.

Some British Emigrants Adapt Selves To Canadian Ways, Others Freeze Up

It is unfortunately impossible, writes Desmond E. Henn in The Spectator, to embark on a discussion on how the English-speaking Britishers (an offensive term presently in vogue, but one apparently devoid of derogatory overtones) transplanted to Canada since the war have reacted to their new environment and on the extent to which whatever hopes they originally cherished have been either fulfilled or disappointed, without first making a definitely invidious distinction between the working classes and others—or, better still, between those who earn wages and those who receive salaries.

For though in Canada the dividing line is more an economic technicality than a social Iron Curtain fortified by differences in accent, education and dress, yet the divergent attitudes of mind brought over from the Old Country are preserved with such devoted tenacity as to impose a psychological dichotomy which cannot be ignored.

OFFERS EXAMPLES

Consider, for example, the case of Mr. X, whim we will assume to be a carpenter, a welder, an electrician or the fortunate possessor of some other skill regarded with comparable avor by modern civilization. Finding the restrictions of postwar England little to his taste, the crossed the Atlantic in the hope of obaining a larger share of life's amenities than he could reasonably aspire to at home. The transfer completed, he probably found little or no difficulty in securing a job at which he could earn between two and four times his previous wage; housing may have presented some initial difficulty, but a car, a washing machine and various other conveniences ejusdem generis were achieved in short order, together with the possibility that they would all eventually be piad for.

The Missus— that shadowy cipher with her depressingly predictable tastes — was ecstatic. On the material plane neither of them had any grievances that in their former habitat would have been worthy of the name.

Nevertheless, they were both unhappy. Whatever their natural talents for empire-building, the British are insufficiently adaptable to make good emigrants and, though the political refugee may be obliged to accept matters as he finds them, those whose exile is self-imposed consider themselves entitled, simply by virtue of having exercised an independent choce n the matter, to comment freely on any aspect of th country on which their presence has been thus generously conferred which do not meet with their full approval. Canadians, not unnaturally, are inclined to resent these uninhibited expressions of opinion, the more so since they are acutely ware that the Dominion is still very much in its formative stages, a nation in posse, rather than in esse. Moreover, immigrants as a species are no more popular in Canada than they are elsewhere.

FEEL ISOLATED

Taken together, these factors bring home to the X's a feeling of social isolation, a suspicion that they are realy out of place, and a presentiment that perhaps they may have made a Dreadful Mistake. Stifled in summer and numb in winter, they reverently treasure fugitive copies of the Sunday Pictorial and contemplate the prospect of Home through spectacles tinted so deep a shade of rose as to become finally opaque. They save their pennies and at last, after anywhere from two to five years, establish furtive contact with a travel agency.

The visit home is an unmitigated disaster. The primitive squalor of life in England comes as a nasty shock, and their former friends, stil car- and fridge-less and with only the exiguous shelter of a council house—lacking not only a furnace but even a basement to put it in—to ward off the elements, are objects of shuddering pity: wattle huts, they feel, could hardly be worse. Their stay in England is cut short, and the X's feverishly counting their plessings and uttering little cries of relief, scamper back to Canada.

The case of Y provides something of a contrast. Parents of the best type available, public school education and perhaps a university degree (Arts, of course) have led but to a stockbroker's office or to one of the smaller publishers to the marketing department of a soap company or a tobacco firm or even to a precarious toehold on the slippery crags of Broadcasting House—the exact site of his occupational cul-de-sac is not important. Y examines his prospects, finds them unpleasing and decides to take ship for Canada (alone; Amanda and the children will follow when daddy has dug himself in). Arrived, he makes known his availability and awaits the rush. Instead there is an ugly silence.

LONG DISTANCE is always "rushed" at Christmas.

So many people want to greet absent friends and families that delays on many calls are simply unavoidable.

Calls reach their peak Christmas Eve and Christmas Day. Then, even though every switchboard is manned to capacity and every operator is working at top speed, delays will occur.

That's why it's a good idea to call before the rush.

Please remember—

Long Distance Calls will go through much faster before Christmas Eve and after Christmas Day

If you can give your Long Distance operator the number you're calling, you'll save time. Calls can be put through faster when you "call by number".

Hunting Girl In Trenton Area

KINGSTON (CP)— Police continued a search today for attractive Helen Marie Joyce, missing since last Tuesday morning when she left the home of her grandmother to go to school. Failure to find any trace of the 15-year-old girl led detectives to believe she has left town.

Helen is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Joyce and was a student at Kingston Collegiate and Vocational Institute. She was last seen Tuesday morning when she left to attend classes at the secondary school. Her disappearance was not reported to police until Wednesday morning, since her parents at first believed she had spent the night at the home of her grandmother Mrs. Mary Lambert.

It has since been discovered that the girl did not attend classes.

Thursday city detectives combed both the city area and parts of Belleville where she is known to have friends. A similar search of the Trenton area is underway.

When last seen she was wearing a pale green coat over a blue plaid skirt and a cream colored sweater. She is known to have favored a pony tail-type hair-do.

Well Known In District Jack Dobson Dies

Jack Dobson of 47 Dupont St., Toronto, a businessman with a large number of friends in the Peterborough district, died suddenly today in Toronto. He was in his 30s.

He was the son of Mrs. Annie Dobson, now living in Toronto at the Dupont St. address, and the late Charles Dobson. His grandmother, Mrs. Annie Dobson, and an aunt live at 473 McDonnel St.

Mr. Dobson was particularly well known in the Lakefield district. He spent a number of summers there, as well as weekends for hunting and fishing trips.

The funeral will be Monday and burial will be in Toronto.

Chickens, Turkeys Prizes For CGE Club

Only the members of CGE Social and Athletic Club can get in for the bingo and draw for Christmas poultry at Brock Ballroom tonight.

Bingo prizes are 26 turkeys and around 100 chickens, and for the draw 60 turkeys and 30 pairs of chickens.

Approximately 3,800 to 4,000 employees are members of the club. They have received admission and draw tickets, and the committee has arranged for scrutinizing doubtful outsiders who might take a chance on "crashing the gate" in the manner of the famed One-Eyed Connolly.

This party is free to the SAC members, one of the returns for the year from the five-cent a week collection.

Probably there is a charge for the Share the Wealth stage of bingo. Members of the club do not have to be present to win. If their names come up they get a turkey or a pair of chickens.

HOW TO TAKE A CURVE

Stay in right-hand lane . . . and slow down before you enter curve!

- Enter the turn at slower speed. Then, to offset centrifugal force, accelerate slightly after you are half-way around the curve.
- Keep your foot on the accelerator all the way around. This gives you greater traction and better control.

Greenlease Kidnappers Die In Prison After Final Lingering Kiss, Cigarette

By LARRY HALL

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP)—Lips reddened by a final kiss but silent on the missing ransom mystery, Carl Austin Hall and Bonnie Brown Heady died together in the gas chamber early today for the kidnap slaying of six-year-old Bobby Greenlease.

The pair refused a final official request for a statement which might have shed light on what happened to half the record $600,000 collected from the millionaire father of the child they abducted and murdered Sept. 28.

Instead, they spent their last minutes in a brief conversation and farewell embrace, shared a final cigarette, bid their Missouri prison guards goodbye and died side by side amid swirling clouds of cyanide gas.

Mrs. Heady, 41, plump and dark-haired, mustered a parting jest at the leather straps that bound her to the death chair.

Her 34-year-old wastrel lover had words for none but her after both had prayed with two ministers who attended the midnight execution.

Hall died first, gulping in the poison fumes.

HELD HER BREATH

Mrs. Heady seemed reluctant. She appeared to hold her breath. Although she was unconscious after the first sniff, her lungs labored for two minutes and 10 seconds after Hall's body had slumped motionless.

Dr. G. Donald Shull, a prison physician, commented that her breathing lasted longer than any persons he had ever seen die in the gas chamber. No other woman has ever been executed in Missouri.

The killers' final conversation, it lasted about 10 minutes, was in a small detention cell just off the gas chamber. With them was a federal marshal, William B. Tatman. The pair were not visible to the official witnesses as they sat side by side on a cot in the cell.

As he stepped out of this cell to clamber into the death chamber, Hall's lips were reddened as if with lipstick. Tatman, after the execution, confirmed that the two had given each other a final embrace and kiss.

"You wouldn't want to deprive them of that," the marshal said.

Hall was puffing on a cigarette as they approached the gas chamber. He passed it to Mrs. Heady, who took a final puff.

FINAL QUESTION

Tatman stepped into the gas chamber with the two. After the guards had blindfolded them and strapped them to the chairs, the marshal asked: "Have you anything to tell me?"

Witnesses sensed in this question a last effort to find out if either knew what had happened to more than $300,000 of the ransom money they collected in Kansas City Oct. 4 and which was missing when they were captured in St. Louis Oct. 6.

Both shook their heads, and Mrs. Heady said aloud: "No."

As the death-chair strap was being tightened about her chest, Mrs. Heady, with a little chuckle, told the guards:

"It's tight—I'm not going anywhere."

Then she called out to Hall:

"Are you doing all right, honey?"

"Yes, mama," Hall replied.

As the official witnesses walked through the darkness of the prison courtyard, Christmas decorations made by convicts, which had sparkled on the trees and bushes, flickered out. They were turned on soon after the execution.

Elaborate security precautions had been made, with extra guards and highway patrolmen brought in for the execution. But the extra men were not needed. There was no outburst from the 2,500 convicts.

As the parade of witnesses followed the death cars down to the gas chamber, one convict shouted from his cell: "Pour it on 'em." But the prison yard was unusually quiet for execution night.

Warden Ralph N. Eidson, who tripped the lever which sent cyanide gas curling around the faces of the kidnappers in a white cloud, said the pair had been "just as normal as they could be" since they entered the prison Nov. 20.

"I don't think we've had any more normal prisoners than they were down here," Eidson said.

The Rev. George L. Evans, Episcopal rector from Kansas City who was Hall's spiritual adviser in prison, said both were "absolutely and completely reconciled" to death.

"They are prepared to meet Almight God," he said after praying with them in the death chamber.

RESCUERS WIN BATTLE—Mike Caruso, 24, is lifted out of 20-foot sewer ditch in the Toronto suburb of Scarborough after being trapped four hours by an avalanche of 100 tons of sand. His brother, Giuseppe, 42, was smothered to death six feet away. Both were pinned when shoring gave way. The tons of sand poured in on the workmen.

Unknown Murder Victim Is Buried In Montreal

MONTREAL (CP)—The unknown victim of Montreal's brutal torso murder last October was buried Wednesday in a pauper's grave at Eastend cemetery.

No priest or minister was at the graveside as the plain black coffin was lowered into grave No. 24,947 in the presence of a few city officials and newspaper men.

The funeral procession passed within a few yards of the Bourbonniere street lane where the trussed-up and dismembered torso was discovered in a canvas bag early Oct. 28.

HEAD KEPT OUT

The man's feet, found later on a lonely Laurentian highway near Joliette, Que., 40 miles north of Montreal, were placed in the coffin. The head, found in the same area, was kept by police scientists for further examination.

Investigators have failed so far to identify the man or pin-point the murder motive. At one stage, they said they believed he might be the victim of a gangland slaying.

The victim's hands are still missing.

Buried in the same cemetery, a few graves away, is the victim of another unsolved murder, an unidentified 30-year-old woman whose decomposed body was recovered from nearby Riviere des Prairies.

Dean Prepares Report On Negotiations

WASHINGTON (AP) — Special ambassador Arthur H. Dean, expressing a personal view that Korea will have peace, today prepared an official report on his so-far-fruitless negotiations for a Korean peace conference.

Dean came back from Panmunjom Thursday night. Representing all the United Nations countries which fought in Korea, he had walked out of the conference, called to set a time and place for a peace meeting, after protesting Communist charges that the United States was guilty of "perfidy."

"Based upon what I observed and as a personal opinion, I am quite sure hostilities won't be renewed," he said on arrival, but declined to go into details prior to his report to President Eisenhower and State Secretary Dulles.

BACK FROM PARIS

Dulles came home, several hours before Dean, from the North Atlantic council meeting in Paris, where he pressed for early action by France on a European army in which West Germany would be rearmed.

Also back from the Paris conference was Defence Secretary Charles E. Wilson, who was asked for comment on reports from Paris that the U. S. had "threatened" to cut off arms aid to West European countries if they refused to support plans for a united European army.

Wilson replied: "That wouldn't be my way of going about it."

But this was not interpreted at the state department as implying any split between Wilson and Dulles, who had said there might be an "agonizing reappraisal" of foreign aid policy if France did not approve the European army idea.

Thief Spoils Party

SPARROWBUSH, N.Y. (AP)—Thursday night the ladies auxiliary arrived at the local firemen's hall to trim their eight-foot Christmas tree and throw a party for 50 children. But a thief had been there before them, and made off with the tree and its decorations.

SEYMOUR WEST COUPLE, Mr. and Mrs. William MacKenzie, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Thursday. They were married in Glasgow, Scotland, but have lived in Seymour for 46 years. A family dinner Sunday marked the occasion.

195 Civic Patients Daily Average

Statistics released by the Civic Hospital board of governors Thursday night showed an average of 195 patients a day used the hospital in November, four less than October but 12 up from the 1952 monthly average.

Compared with 40 in October, patients for whom suitable accommodation could not be found totalled 29 in November. Explaining this figure, John Hornal, superintendent, said 15 went to other hospitals, five recovered at home and four were still waiting at the end of the month.

Of the remaining five, the hospital has no knowledge.

Seventy-five major operations were performed during the month and 108 minor operations.

A total of 23,503 beside nursing hours were provided, an average of 4.01 hours per patient per day. Of these hours, 3.70 were provided by hospital staff members and students and the remainder by special duty nurses.

Of patients released during November, 269 were recovered, 217 improved, four unimproved, and seven transferred.

Sentence 14 Italians For Trieste Rioting

TRIESTE (Reuters)—An Allied military court today sentenced 14 persons to prison terms ranging from 17 days to six months for taking part in pro-Italian riots Nov. 4 and 5 in which six persons were killed in clashes with police. Most of the sentences were suspended.

Seven persons were found not guilty and acquitted.

The court, presided over by Maj. Robert Grabb of the United States army, gave the heaviest sentence, six months, to a 50-year-old man found guilty of instigation.

Italian Women Hurt

ROME (AP) — Several women were injured slightly Thursday night by police who broke up a demonstration of about 200 housewives in front of the Italian Senate. The women were protesting the recent senate passage of a bill raising post-war house rents by 25 per cent.

Space Drinks Advice From Doctors

CHICAGO (AP)—The Journal of the American Medical Associati today offered advice along this line:

—If soon you have to do sharp thinking,

You'd better not do any drinking.

The article suggested that, if you have something important to do, don't drink beforehand.

"For example," it said, "the after-dinner drinks may be perfectly harmless if no important activities are undertaken at such times, whereas the drink taken before driving a car, running machinery or performing any task that demands accurate decisions or mental acuity might be dangerous.

"The drinker should observe the following rule: For every two drinks he should wait three hours before undertaking important activities."

BLOOD CONTENT TELLS TALE

The article said the effects of drinking depend largely on the amount of alcohol which accumulates in the blood. It added:

"The amount that accumulates depends on the amount ingested (taken into the stomach), the size of the person, the concentration of alcohol in the beverage, the presence of food in the stomach, the rate of oxidation and elimination of alcohol and, particularly, on the rate of drinking.

"The average person can oxidize and eliminate about six to 10 cubic centimetres of pure alcohol an hour, so that he could consume about a pint (500 cubic centimetres) of 100-proof whisky in 24 hours without ever being intoxicated if he spaced his drinks properly.

"On the other hand, a single drink consumed rapidly on an empty stomach may produce measurable symptoms of intoxication."

Rebel Leader Plans Christmas Amnesty

HONG KONG (Reuters) — Ho Chi Minh, chief of Communist forces in Indo-China, has ordered a Christmas Day "liberation for hundreds of French North African prisoners of war," Vietminh radio announced today.

French forces fighting the Communist rebels in Indo-China include a large number of African soldiers from French colonies. The action applies only to the African troops and not to any white members of the French Foreign Legion.

Early Present For Mother

CARP, Ont. (CP)—A long-distance telephone call Thursday night brought Mrs. Mary Mooney an early Christmas present.

It informed her that her son, Garnett Mooney, was among six men who walked out of the northern Quebec bush late Thursday after their plane had been missing since Dec. 6.

Allan Mooney, Garnett's brother, told a reporter he answered the phone to receive the news.

"I told mother," he said. "It took her a minute to understand what she had been told. Then, I guess, we were all overcome with joy. We were all becoming really concerned about Garnett's safety."

Mrs. Mooney now is "just relaxing" at her home in this village 15 miles west of Ottawa.

Sentences Suspended

PARIS (Reuters) — A military tribunal Thursday gave suspended sentences to two men accused of trying to sabotage a shipment of American ammunition destined for French forces in Indo-China. The two Cherbourg dockers were accused of having blocked a crane which was unloading munitions.

Wave Of Ambushes Against U.K. Troops

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaya (Reuters)—A new wave of ambushes against British troops was reported here today as the five-year-old jungle war against the Communist underground showed signs of flaring into new activity.

Two Britons were wounded and a railroad handcar derailed in the incidents.

A government statement today said it has been learned definitely that the Malayan Communist central committee made a decision to intensify the "shooting war" at a meeting some months ago.

Mme. Chiang Broadcasts

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP)—Madame Chiang Kai-shek Thursday night broadcast a message to the 14,600 Chinese prisoners at Panmunjom saying "I shall see you in Taiwan (Formosa)." Mme. Chiang told the prisoners who are resisting return to Red China that "the date when you will gain your freedom is now only a little over a month away." Under armistice terms, the prisoners are to be released to civilian status Jan. 22.

Church Of England Paper Calls Pope's Devotion To Virgin Mary Heresy

LONDON (AP)—The Church of England Newspaper today accused the Pope of "extravagant devotion to the Virgin Mary at the expense even of the Holy Trinity." The paper called it heresy.

The weekly publication is run by laymen but usually hews to the official line of the Anglican Church.

It said devotion to Mary "is what might be expected of a church under the domination of a celibate hierarchy" and added:

"The normal development of their personality through family life is forbidden them, they must perforce find a substitute to occupy the place a wife should have in their imagination."

The article cited the special prayer to the Virgin Mary composed by the Pope for the Marian Year. It prays for her to "convert the wicked, dry the tears of the afflicted and oppressed, comfort the poor and the humble, quench hatreds, sweeten harshness, safeguard the flower of purity of youth, protect the holy church."

"TRANSPLANTS FAITH"

Commented the Church of England Newspaper:

"In a speech on the occasion when he first recited this prayer the Pope spoke of the world-wide conspiracy 'too root out of men's souls faith in Christ.'

"It is relevant to ask in reply what he himself is doing by this prayer?

"What room is there for Christ if the Virgin Mary is to be the converter of souls, the protector of the church, the envoy and comforter?

"This prayer transplants faith from Christ to the Virgin Mary. And what, we may legitimately ask, is left for the holy spirit? The Virgin Mary, apparently, displaces the third person of the Trinity as well as the second."

The article concluded that "in its implications this is rank heresy."

French Farce Folding After One Night

By ALVIN STEINKOPF

LONDON (AP) — The French farce "13 for Dinner," which opened Thursday night under police guard with rowdy "first night" gallery regulars barred, is folding up after a run of one performance.

The decision to close down appeared due solely to critics who said with brutal unanimity that they didn't like the play.

The regular galleryites were frustrated by producer Emile Littler, who gave all their favorite seats to soldiers and sailors.

The first-night disturbers demonstrated, however, by howling on the sidewalk outside the Duke of York Theatre, while uniformed police shoved and heaved to clear up what they called "an obstruction."

GOES TO COURT

The performance had a police court repercussion today.

W. G. Canter, a playgoer who said his nose still ached, applied in Bow street police court for a summons charging assault against Eddie Eden, husband of Diana Decker who, according to one critic, enacted the role of a "baby-voiced nitwit" in the play.

Canter said Eden punched him on the nose in the theatre lobby. Magistrate R. H. Blundel granted the summons, and arranged for a hearing after Christmas.

Producer Littler still has a good opinion of the play, by Marc-Gilbert Sauvajon, adapted from the French. But he is furious with the galleryites who, he said, make nightmares of first nights with organized disturbances.

Cover-Girl 101

LONDON (CP) — Mrs. Emma Weeks, 101, is cover-girl on a health booklet on care of the aged issued by the council of Fulham, where she is oldest inhabitant. Four musts for old persons are listed: The giving and receiving of affection, light work, small and frequent meals, and light exercise.

HATS OFF — Paris gendarmes grapple with university students in the Latin Quarter to break up a demonstration against cuts in France's 1954 education program. Police were forced to use clubs to disperse a crowd of 2,500 students gathered in a mass meeting to call to the attention of the National Assembly their demands for a bigger national budget for education. In this scene of violence, one policeman's hat has been knocked to the street, lower right, as another officer holds a squirming student.

350 Italians Welcomed To Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — Twelve NATO brides, 350 Italian immigrants and a stampede of soldiers back from Europe and Korea, were welcomed today at Union station.

Movie cameras were on hand and Christmas decorations in the station added to the cheerful atmosphere.

The brides, mostly from the British Isles, arrived first. Regulations did not permit them to return with their Canadian husbands, most of whom returned within the last month.

GUNNER HUGS BRIDE

Gunner William Booth of Orillia, hugged his bride, Agnes, of Edinburgh. They were pen pals before he went overseas in November, 1951. It was six months before he got leave and met her for the first time. Gunner Booth served with the 79th Field Regiment RCA.

Relatives also met Italian immigrants, 700 more of whom are expected Sunday. Many of them will settle in Toronto, Hamilton, St. Catharines, Windsor, Chatham and London.

Man Who Hates To Walk Tramps 11 Days In Bush

TORONTO (CP)—Clint Burley, a man who hates to walk, reached safety Thursday after stumbling for 11 days through dense Quebec wilderness.

Mrs. Burley, overjoyed with the good news, laughed when she told friends how her husband "couldn't go from here to the corner without the car."

"He's always being teased about it," she said.

Burley and five companions staggered into a lonely bush camp on Lake Manuan, Que., after their 11-day ordeal in freezing temperatures. The men were stranded when their plane crashed Dec. 6 on a flight over northern Quebec.

Great faith in the RCAF was expressed by Mrs. Burley, who was confident that as long as planes kept searching, "there was nothing to worry about."

"It was the best Christmas present I could ever receive," she said. "I was so relieved I don't really remember just what I said or did when I got the news."

Mrs. Burley is going to take the chance of putting up a Christmas tree, but she's afraid after all that walking, her husband will "curl up under it and go to sleep."

Truck, Train Crash Three People Killed

IRMA, Alta. (CP) — Three persons were killed when a truck collided with a Canadian National Railways passenger train near this town 100 miles east of Edmonton Thursday night.

RCMP at Edmonton said they will release the names when next-of-kin are notified.

May Pay Doctors For Services To Civic Hospital

Extensive discussion Thursday night preceded a Civic hospital board of governors' decision to meet the hospital's medical staff on a question of token reimbursement for the staff's services.

Rather than go to the staff itself, the payment would be used as the doctors saw fit in the purchase of equipment. Even then the board would have veto powers.

Plotting services rendered by the doctors, Superintendent John Hornal figured they would have cost $5,500 to $5,800 if bills had been submitted.

In 1952, doctors gave 248 one-hour lectures, made 250 calls on 78 student nurses for a total of 85 hours, paid 132 visits to 61 students in offices for 40 hours, spent 180 hours on physical examinations, performed one appendetcomy, four tonsilectomies and four minor surgical procedures.

Figuring i out on an hourly basis, call basis and procedure basis, Mr. Hornal arrived at the value.

RECOMMEND $2,500

Although it was recomemnded a sum of $2,500 be given the staff for this service, members of the board dealt extensively with the question, finaly deciding to meet with the doctors for their views:

Only one member, treasurer T. T. Rodger argued against this move. He recomemnded prompt action, contending the board had already approved, in principle, payment of the staff for their services.

475 Workers To Be Laid Off

KINGSTON (CP)—About 475 employees of the nylon plant o Canadian Industries Limited here will be laid off for two weeks beginning Monday, D. R. Cooper, plant manager, said today.

Part of the plant will be closed down, he said. Those to be laid off—about half the plant's working force—would be asked to return to work about Jan. 2. They would be paid for Christmas and New Year's Day.

Mr. Cooper blamed unsettled conditions in the textile industry for the layoff. Some parts of the plant making nylon for other mills than textile mills would continue production.

Another plant of the company at Maitland, near Brockville, will continue operation, he said. It supplies raw materials to the Kingston plant.

Pair Celebrate Golden Wedding

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS)— Mr. and Mrs. William McKenzie of Seymour West are celebrating their Golden Wedding Anniversary today (Thursday). The couple were married 50 years ago in Glasgow, Scotland.

A family dinner was held at the Saymour township home of their son Alex Sunday, when the couple were presented with a mantle clock and flowers.

Veteran Santa George East Still Partying

George East in the principal role at the C.G.E. Christmas Tree Party is now playing to a second generation of applauders of Santa Claus.

"Now and then I meet young mothers on the street and they say they remember me when they were little girls at the C.G.E. party," Mr. East recalled briefly this morning.

"It must be more than 20 years since then. These young women I speak of are now taking their own children to the collegiate."

Somehow in the afairs of the Social and Athletic Club, Mr. East became Jim O'Brien's helper, fixing him up in the bright festive Santa Claus rainment.

"In the beginning the party was held at the Canadian Legion Hall, and Santa made just one appearance. I think it was in the days when Carl Salmonsen was works manager. Finally I inherited the job and now it runs all day.

"You shake hands with hundreds of youngsters, and some of the mothers get peeved if you overlook Mary or Gary. Not that I'd slight any one, but with 4,200 young folks coming at you most o the day you're almost bound to miss some. And, when it is all over for another year you're ready for the shower or tub."

"Amazing, isn't it, when you think of how this party has grown since those days at the Legion just before Christmas!"

British Exports Show Increase

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain's total exports in November were the highest for 20 months but sales to North America showed a drop in the official figures published today.

However exports to America for the first 11 months of the year rose 16 per cent over exports for the first 11 months of 1952.

This represented an increase of 10 per cent in sales to the United States and 23 per cent to Canada.

Total exports for November, in which there were only 25 working days, were worth $668,000,000 the average for the first 11 months of the year was $599,000,000.

But November imports at $762,000,000 were considerably higher than exports and revealed a trade deficit for the month of $94,000,000.

Santa Has Troubles On Chapleau Visit

CHAPLEAU (CP) — If Santa Claus wants to visit this northern Ontario railway town he'll have to rely on his reindeer instead of the airplane he has been using for the last few years.

Santa was scheduled to fly in Saturday from the White River air base. However, plans as well as the airplane went out of commission when its skis sank through the ice on Chapleau river Thursday. This left Santa without transportation.

There is a chance the Ontario department of lands and forests may supply a plane in time.

Digs Own Clay For Pottery Dries It In Homemade Kiln

FORT FRANCES, Ont. (CP)—Mrs. Frank Eeles has fascinating hobbies that provide relaxation between household chores.

In addition to weaving rugs and drapes, painting pictures and teaching art, she makes pottery from clay she digs herself and bakes in a kiln she made herself. And, soon, she plans to attend night classes in jewelry-making.

Mrs. Eeles, whose husband is a customs inspector in this town bordering the Minnesota line, started the extensive handicraft activities for amusement and relaxation and discovered they were money-makers opening up a part-time career in craftmanship.

She started making pottery a year ago and now sells her works to florists; a loom she bought in 1942 soon paid for itself and she also sells paintings. In 1945 she won a prize at the international textile exhibit at the University of North Carolina.

In her living room hang drapes she has woven and the chairs are covered with a fabric she made on her loom. Some materials are free for the picking. Mrs. Eeles says that dogwood strips, golden-rod stocks, straw or rushes can be used to weave into place mats or window shades.

As a summer project, she made an outdoor kiln to fire her pottery. She revised a book diagram to suit the materials available. The completed kiln cost $200 and she estimates the price of a similar manufactured kiln at more than $1,000.

With a gas burner for heat, it is able to produce a temperature of 2,300 degrees.

METHOD OF OPERATION

Mrs. Eeles rolls out the clay, found in her backyard, then cuts it and puts the slabs in a mould. After an hour it is removed and rough edges are smoothed.

She sets it out to dry for several days and then fires it for about eight hours. After being decorated with enamel the pottery is put in the kiln for another eight hours. Mrs. Eeles says the natural clay turns a "beautiful red" when fired.

For painting Mrs. Eeles has an attic studio where she conducts a Saturday afternoon class.

"The recreation and relaxation derived from an afternoon of painting is worth as much as a finished product," the housewife says.

Circle Purchases Light For Church

MILLBROOK (ENS) — The Golden Links Mission Circle of St. Andrew's United church held their Christmas meeting at the home of Mrs. M. E. Hobbs, the president. Mrs. David Lunn conducted the worship service. The scripture readings were taken by Miss Estella Hetherington.

Mrs. Hobbs read Christmas greetings to the circle from Miss Jean Stewart, returned missionary from China now working among the Japanese in Hamilton, who has been for many years the circles' special missionary for prayer from Mrs. W. E. Ball, the circle's honorary president who is spending the winter in Florida, and from Miss Bessie Banfill who has addressed the circle a number of times. Miss Banfill's book "Labrador Nurse" which tells of her own experiences, has had publishing rights bought by both an American and an English company.

It was decided that the circle, as their part of the church renovation plan, should buy one of the large lanterns lighting the interior and a bronze cross to be hung above the altar table, rather than lighting the vestibule as planned.

Mrs. Ernest Powell gave the stweardship report.

Mrs. David Lunn, who has acted as secretary since her daughter Betty, moved to Weston, reported 170 meetings with an average attendance of 25 held during the year. In mentioning some of the highlights of the year she included the supper meeting and sunset service held in June on the lawn of Mrs. Fred and Mrs. Lawrence Winslow's home, the giving of three life memberships to members who were about to move from Millbrook, Miss Betty Lunn, Mrs. Henry Gray and Mrs. George Sedgewick; the joint meeting with the WMS and CGIT in April; the talk of the honorary president on missionary work of the church she attends in St. Petersburg, Florida, and of some of the nearby spots of interest she visited; the successful tea held at the home of Mrs. Ernest Powell to help with church renovation and the appointment of one of the circle members, Mrs. Doris Ingram, as secretary for circles of the Bay of Quinte conference branch.

The treasurer, Mrs. Alex Gilbert reported $120 had been contributed to be sent on to the presbyterial secretary, and that with the December collection it would be over the circle's allocation of $125.

The Rev. A. M. Butler presided for the election of officers. Mrs. W. E. Ball and Miss E. Hetherington were returned as honorary and advisory presidents. Mrs. M. E. Hobbs was re-elected president. She has given successful leadership to the circle for 10 years. Miss Hetherington, Miss Jean Burnham and Mrs. Homer Quellette were appointed a nominating committee to bring in a completed slate of officers to the next meeting.

Supper hostesses were Mrs. Russell Northey, Mrs. Donald Pritchard, Mrs. Ray Nelson and Miss Jessie Lunn.

WARSAW PUBLIC SCHOOL

WARSAW (ENS)—The Home and School Association held their monthly meeting in the Women's Institute rooms Wednesday night. Mrs. Sherwood Payne, president, presided for the business and plans were made for a New Year's Eve dance to be held in the town hall.

Conveners are Mrs. Trevor Watts and Mrs. Reg. Payne. Lunch conveners are Mrs. Harold Payne, Mrs. Hilliard Ray and Mrs. George Cobb.

The meeting was adjourned and the members played euchre. Winners were Mrs. Trevor Watts for ladies and Mr. Cephas Parcels for men. Prize for the lucky chair was won by Mrs. Albert Brian.

Mrs. Sherwood Payne put out a suggestion box and asked the members for suggestions on ways to improve the association.

Lunch was served by the hostesses Mrs. Clarence Payne, Mrs. Sherwood Payne and Mrs. Trevor Watts.

EDITH CARLETON CHAPTER IODE

A buffet supper party at the home of new member Mrs. K. L. Alton, Parkhill road east, on Wednesday evening preceded the meeting of Edith Carleton Chapter, IODE. Fourteen members and one guest enjoyed the event.

Regent Mrs. G. D. Donaldson conducted business, highlight being the financial report of the Holly Tea given by treasurer Mrs. R. Mounce. The balance showed this a very profitable project. The annual money grants were then allotted.

Mrs. D. Barrett, services at home and abroad convener, read a report pertaining to articles of clothing for Korean children and it was decided afterward to make nursery and personal bags for them and each member is to fill part of a bag. Also, knitted articles are to be started as soon as possible.

A card party is to be held in the YWCA the early part of February to raise money for new projects.

An exchange of gifts took place after the meeting and also the draw for the electric steam iron on which raffle tickets have been sold this fall. The winner was Mrs. A. Quemby, 523 Bolivar St.

Captain Frank Frape is seen receiving the picture for the Officers' Mess from Regent Mrs. M. E. Clarke. Those for the Sergeants' and Gunners' Messes were presented by Mrs. C. G. Newman and Mrs. Frape, officers of the Chapter. All were formally accepted by the respective mess presidents. —(Examiner Staff Photo)

THE EXPERTS SAY:

Kinetic Sculpture Becomes Popular With Canadians

By JOAN BARBERIS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Kinetic sculpture, a form of abstract art becoming increasingly popular in Canada, is being put to practical use by an English hospital and a Japanese dentist.

Often made of brass and tin in strange shapes, the sculptures, or "mobiles" as they are sometimes called hang from wires and move as currents of air strike them. They can also be made from paper or plastic.

In the children's ward of Whittington Hospital, London, the mobiles are practically as good as medicine.

"When children are sick they need color and movement and beauty all the more," said Dr. Simon Yudkin who sponsored the idea at the hospital.

"During the day, toys and books contribute something but often it is after dusk when these are put away that home seems far away and tears are the result. It is at this time the mobiles hung on the cots have been so rewarding."

"The youngsters' imaginations are stimulated to an extraordinary degree by the twisting and shimmering shapes and the play of light and shade on the metal," he said.

Elizabeth Wyn Wood, Toronto sculptor, said this sort of art has some of its roots in the Orient. However, an American sculptor, Alexander Calder, about 1930 started kinetic sculptures as known today.

"A Japanese dentist in Toronto ordered a mobile for his office," Miss Wood said. "He saw them in cocktail bars in the United States."

Gifts Auctioned At Dinner Party Of Lady Of Fatima

Forty members attended the Christmas dinner Thursday evening of Our Lady of Fatima subdivision of the Catholic Women's League, held at the Empress Hotel.

Hightlights of this occasion was a comic auction sale with gifts being sold to the highest bidder. The sale was conducted by Mrs. Charles McCoy, Miss Lorenda Kearney and Miss Loretta Sullivan.

The program, for which Mrs. James Butler was the chairman, opened with carol singing. An Oriental recitation was given by Mrs. Wm. Gannon.

A lovely feature was songs and ballet dances by Diane and Marina Zakos. The little girls were each presented with a gift with the expression of appreciation of their entertainment.

President Miss Veronica O'Leary extended Christmas wishes. A vote of thanks to the party convener Mrs. B. LaBranche was given by Miss Vivian Sullivan.

A lucky chair prize was won by Mrs. J. Guerin.

Trinity WMS Elects New Officers

Retiring president Mrs. B. McFadden took the chair Tuesday afternoon for the final meeting of Trinity church WMS this year, and read an excerpt on "The Value of Prayer" by two United Church missionaries in Japan. She then dealt with business. Announcement of the January presbyterial meeting included a call for volunteers for the worship service. A list of callers on shut-in members was drawn from those present.

Worship service commenced with Mrs. H. T. Crosbie leading in prayer. Mrs. G. N. Moncrief contributed two Bach compositions and Mrs. H. A Mitchell sang two carols, one the older recorded "Good King Wenceslas."

Group leader Mrs. R. G. Corneil read the events in the story of the nativity as related by Matthew and introduced the theme "Christmas Carols." Interesing facs of their history were told from old records by group members Mrs. A. B. Cunningham, Mrs. A. Edmondson, Mrs. N. Andrew and Mrs. A. Legon The audience joined in singing some familiar carols mentioned, led by Mrs. Mitchell.

A vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. McFadden for her unflagging interest and service, and she, in a farewell address as president, asked for similar co-operation with the new executive as had been given her. Mrs. Gordon Maxwell took the chair for receiving the report of the nominating commttee, as follows:

Honorary president, Mrs. Maxwell; president, Mrs. A. E. Wade; vice-presidents, Mrs. J. N. Perry, Mrs. N. Elliott; secretary, Mrs. A. B. Cunningham; treasurer, Mrs. G. N. Moncrief; corresponding secretary, Mrs. G. Powell; stewardship secretary, Mrs. S. Constable; community friendship secretary, Mrs. A. Hastie; associate members, Mrs. H. Kearns; supply secretary, Mrs. J. N. Perry; literary and Missionary Monthly, Mrs. H. T. Rehill; christian citizenship, Mrs. A. Legon; press secretary, Mrs. W. T. Fanjoy; pianist, Mrs. N. Moncrief, assisted by Mrs H. A. Mitchell

Before dispersing the ladies enjoyed lunch served from a beautifully decorated table by Mrs. H. Martin, Mrs. W. E. Foley and Mrs. A. L. Callander. These ladies were also responsible for festive decorations in the hall.

Tea For Teachers

Teachers of the Queen Mary School were entertained at the annual Christmas tree Thursday afternoon by the Queen Mary Home and School Association executive. President Mrs. R. S. Hutton welcomed the guests and poured tea.

The table was decorated with red Christmas candles, pine, and silver tea things and laid with an embroidered cutwork cloth. Conveners were Mrs. C. B. Muir and Mrs. W. B. Brown.

Principal Mr. O. M. Steer thanked the ladies on behalf of the teachers.

Mrs. Isobel Hughson and Mr. Robert Scrutton were winners of the draws for presents made by Mr. K. S. Wightman, superintendent of schools.

PTA News

ST. JOHN THE BAPTIST SCHOOL

The largest attendance of parents so far this year turned out to the monthly meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association of St. John the Baptist parish on Thursday evening and enjoyed an excellent Christmas concert put on by representatives of the various grades.

The program was very capably presented by Master Vernon Gerard of grade 8 and opened with two choruses by the school choir under direction of Mr. Heribert Michel, "Here Comes Santa Claus" and "When Santa Cluas gets your letter."

Recitations were by Billy Crowley of 1A, Margaret Thorby and Jackie Thorby of 1B. Grades 2 and 3 entertained with a square dance to the tune of "Darling Nellie Gray." Four little girls from grade 4 presented a difficult playlet "Steps to Heaven". Louise Cowan of grade 5 and Anne Nadeau of grade 6 gave recitatiosn and seven girls of grade 6 sang a song.

An amusing dialogue "Buying Eggs" by three pupils of grade 7 was immensely enjoyed. Fay Nadeau of grade 8 delighted with a recitation.

Carols by the girls' choir concluded the program.

A business meeting was held with Mrs. Mary Laroque in the chair. Report on a social evening for the P-T A members with definite plans to be finalized was given by Mr. John Quirk. Mr. Alfred Daniels gave a progress report on the membership drive and it was felt this year the total will be larger than ever.

Attendance prize was won by Miss Telford's room.

Lunch was served by conveners Mrs. Ed. Curtin and Mrs. John Hodson and committee.

Golden Milers Dinner Guests Of Soroptimists

Golden Mile Club members were Christmas dinner guests at the Empress hotel Thursday evening. The delightful party arrangements for the occasion were made by their sponsors, the Soroptimists, who joined them at the tables.

Tiny red candles lighted each plate and the tables were lighted by Christmas tree shaped candles and decorated with gay baubles. A delicious turkey dinner, followed by mince pie and ice cream, was served.

Soroptimists drank a toast to their guests, proposed by president Mrs. Eva Brackenridge who also extended their Christmas greetings to the Golden Milers.

Carol singing with accompaniment by Mrs. Agnes Logan Green and Miss Musa Cox was enjoyed, and Mrs. Dorothy Sullivan entertained with a gay gypsy dance and an Irish jig, wearing attractive ballet costumes for each.

Santa failed to make his usual appearance but sent a nice letter appointing deputies to distribute gifts to each of the Golden Mile Club members.

Transportation for the elderly ladies was arranged and provided by the Soroptimists.

Readers' Friday Column By Mary Moore

QUESTION: I have heard so much about a recipe called Pineapple Sweet and Sour Spareribs. If you should have the recipe would you send it to me. Mrs. W. D.

QUESTION: . . . I am a working girl . . . cook on the weekends . . . every time I bake a cake it never rises and splits in the middle . . . can you use cold egg . . . shortening at room temperature . . . have you a good recipe for Chinese Chicken Chop Suey and Sweet and Sours . . . have you a recipe for German Strudel . . . Edna I.

ANSWER: First I will give you the Sweet and Sour Spareribs recipe you both want.

SWEET AND SOUR SPARERIBS

Sweet-Sour Sauce: ¼ cup vinegar, ½ cup pineapple juice, 1/3 cup well-packed brown sugar, 1½ tablespoons cornstarch, 2 tablespoon water, 1 teaspoon salt. Mix together the cornstarch and sugar and salt well. Stir in remaining ingredients and stir over heat until it boils.

Fritter Batter (for spareribs or lean pork): Have spareribs cut so that each rib has meat on both sides and each piece is about 2½ inches square when raw. (If you use lean boneless pork pieces should be 1½ inches square.) Dip in this batter: In a bowl mix together with beater 1 egg, 2 tablespoons milk, ¼ cup sifted bread flour, ½ teaspoon salt. Drain. Fry in peanut oil at 350 deg. Fahr. for about 5 minutes, turning once. Transfer meat pieces to casserole as they are done. Pour Sweet-sour sauce over and bake 1 hour at 350 deg. Fahr. basting 2 or 3 times. Cover if you want them soft. Bake uncovered if you want them crisp.

I have mailed you, Edna, 3 foolproof cake recipes. The recipe for Strudel is very long and other readers want Christmas cooking recipes. Would you write again after Christmas and repeat your request for Strudel and enclose stamped envelope and address"

QUESTION: Would you please advise how to make perfect meringue? W. J. M.

ANSWER:

PERFECT MERINGUE

Have 3 egg whites at room temperature and add ⅛ teaspoon salt and beat until foam is fine and forms rounded peaks when beater is lifted. Then add 6 tablespoons fine granulated or berry sugar (not icing) or Better still canned cane sugar syrup, slowly, beating constantly until meringue is very stiff and glossy but not dry. Spread on warm pie filling, being sure to touch crust all round. Bake at 425 deg. Fahr. 8 minutes. Overbaking causes "weeping". Some cooks prefer to add ¼ teaspoon cream of tartar with the salt. Both methods produce light fluffy meringues that cut easily.

QUESTION: . . . I have been a most faithful disciple . . . your printed recipe for meringues I made but baked 4 hours . . . they were lovely until I put them together with whipped cream then they seemed to melt . . . can you tell me why? . . . must you definitely put a pan of water in oven when cooking fruit cake? Noel.

ANSWER: I did not like to leave out the friendly parts of your letter—it was like a fresh spring greeze. No, waterpan is not absolutely necessary but it gives a lovely safe feeling, and when you spend $7. or more for 10 lbs. fruit cake precautions against burning are advisable — for beginners they are musts. So your meringues melted . . . Old Sherlock can't guess what the mystery is but 4 hours baking would have a very drying effect.

Try the recipe below which is the meringue method for tortes and shells.

MERINGUE SHELLS

(You can make these as large or small as you like). Beat until they hold a soft point ¾ cup egg whites, and gradually beat in 1 cup fine granulated or berry sugar (not icing). Then begin to add another cup of fine sugar alternately with 1½ teaspoons lemon juice or vinegar, beating during entire period. Meringue should be very stiff and glossy. Shape into shell shapes like nests or like meringue kisses on heavy brown paper. Bake at 275 deg. Fahr. for 40 minutes until delicately browned.

DOROTHY DIX

Girl Gets Sense Of Comfort Not Thrills From Suitor

DEAR MISS DIX: I'm a girl of 23, a highly sensitive, emotional person. My home life is happy, though my parents are very nervous, too. Two years ago I met a young man with whom I became quite friendly. I had never had many dates, and had not experienced more than a casual friendship for any boy. Marriage, as far as I was concerned, belong to a distant future. After keeping company with Ray for a while, I realized that he had marriage in mind. He did propose after we had known each other a few months, I told him I didn't really love him, and he agreed to wait. He's a wonderfully considerate person, patient, kind and thoughful. He proves his devotion to me in many ways. As to my feeling for him—I'm afraid I do love him, but only for the comfort and security he gives me. The thrills, however, are missing. He isn't a compelling personality, and I guess that's what I'm looking for, though I can't bear the thought of Ray going out of my life.

L. D.

BEAU'S A RARE FIND

ANSWER: It may comfort you to know that many happy marriages have been contracted without the thrills and chills that we've come to think (by benefit, largely, of the movies) essential to matrimony. You rightly admit you are not very mature, and your preoccupation with romantic ideals bears out your contention. Suppose you do let Ray go. There is absolutely no guarantee that you'll ever find the sort of love you seek. Perhaps no one will ever stir your emotions to the peak of a storybook idyl. Or, suppose you did meet a man who had the thrill-producing quality you want? Quite likely he'd lack the comforting security, the sympathetic understanding of Ray—and, believe me, these qualities are scarce enough.

It seems to me that you have a rare find in your beau, and you'd better think twice — and thrice — before sending him on his way. You expect too much of the lad, or too much of yourself. Don't strive for the impossible, but face your relationship with Ray as objectively as you can; figure out what you have to offer in the way of love, cooperation, wifely devotion. Balance your contribution against Ray's undoubted fine qualities, and see if you can't solve your own problem. No one, after all, can tell you whether it's wise to marry a certain individual or not. Only you can decide that.

DEAR MISS DIX: I have been engaged to Rusty for a year, and he's everything a girl could want in a husband. Recently, I had a serious operation, and he took me back and forth to the doctor, and accompanied me on any errand I wished to make. However, he absolutely refuses to let me use his car. I am a competent driver, his car is insured, and there is no reason for his refusing to lend it to me.

Diane

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: No reason, that is, except that most men will share any possession except a car. Since this seems to be Rusty's only fault, you certainly would be more than foolish to break off with him for such a silly reason.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: My name is Elizabeth, and all the boys around here have been calling me "Liz". I don't like that nickname; how can I make them stop using it?

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: The more you show your resentment, the more the boys will tease you with "Liz". Such is the perversity of males. Learn to be a good sport about things like this if you want to make and keep friends.

6—In Memoriam

DUNFORD—In loving memory of my dear wife Ida, who passed away Dec. 19, 1951.

I cannot say, and I will not say
That she is dead. She is just away.
With a cheery smile and a wave of the hand.
She has wandered into an unknown land,
And left us dreaming how very fair
It needs must be, since she lingers there.
—Lovingly remembered by her husband, Galvin.

LONG—In loving memory of Rowland George Long, who passed away 13 years ago today, Dec. 18, 1940.
—Ever remembered by his family.

PEARSON—In loving memory of my dear mother, Mrs. Amy Pearson, who passed away December 18th, 1951.

Since you've gone first and we remain,
To walk the road alone
We live in memories' garden, Mom,
With happy days we've known.
We hear your voice we see your smile,
Though blindly we may grope,
In memory of your helping hand,
Still buoys us with hope.
We've known so much happiness,
We've had our cup of joy
And memory is one gift of God,
That death cannot destroy.
Since you've gone first, and we remain,
One thing we'd have you do,
Walk slowly down the path of death,
For soon we'll follow you.
We want to know each step you take,
That we may walk the same,
For someday down that lonely road,
You'll hear us call your name.
—Ever remembered by Isabel, Claude, John and Jim Kerr.

WINNE—In loving memory of Mary Maude Winne who passed away December 16, 1950.

In my heart your memory lingers,
Always tender, fond and true,
There's not a day, dear mother,
I do not think of you.
—Ever remembered by her daughter Gladys son-in-law Walter, grandchildren Donna Marie, Terrance and Lawrence.

Trade Schools Far Too Few For Students

Israel's school system has grown enormously in the brief five years of statehood. All the more striking therefore, is the continuing lag in the field of vocational education. Despite the practically unlimited need for trained workers of every kind, trade schooling in Israel is still in its initial stage of development, writes Jacob Oleiski, director of ORT in Israel.

Israel's population today includes some 100,000 boys and girls in the 14-18 age group, but the country's existing network of vocational training institutions can accommodate only a tiny proportion of this number, about 6,000 in all. As for Israel's 76 high schools, these account for only 15,000 boys and girls.

FISCAL NEEDS

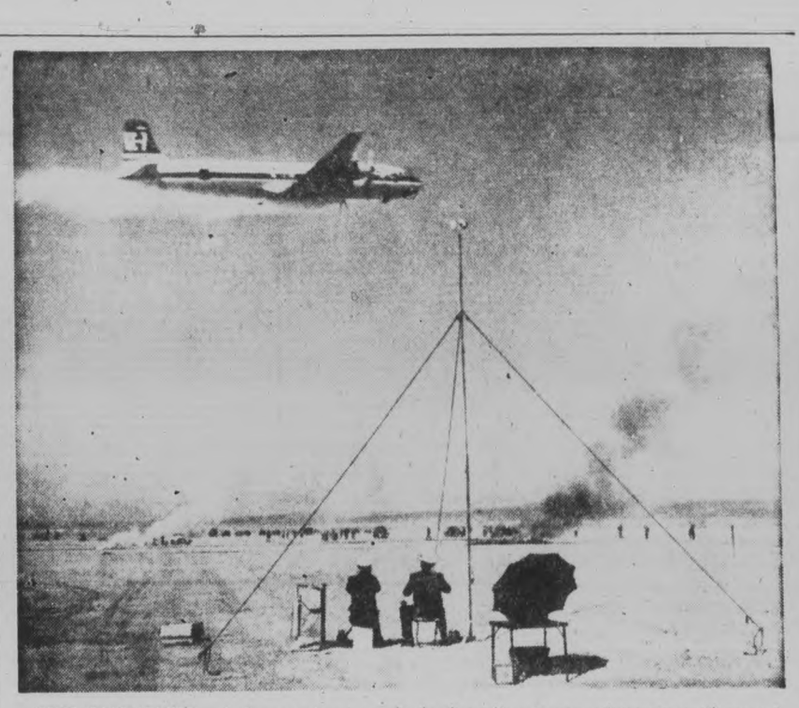
Unlike the ordinary high school, the vocational school is dependent for its very existence upon unremitting effort and abundant financial resources. Only the elementary schools in Israel benefit from the financial support of the government and municipal institutions. As for high schools, their budgets depend upon income derived from school fees, mainly forthcoming from well-to-do and middle class people interested in an all-round secondary school education for their children. The high schools in Israel are further assisted through scholarships granted by local municipal councils and the ministry of education and culture.

Vocational schools on the other hand, are dependent upon the initiative of public organizations not only for their initial establishment but for their maintenance and continuing operation.

With 18 technical education centres in operation under its wing, ORT is the foremost among these public organizations. Established four years ago, ORT has now taken first place in vocational training in Israel.

The establishment and maintenance of even a single vocational centre requires several buildings, machines and tools, laboratories and classrooms, engineers and craftsmen, technical directors and teachers. And in addition to all these it needs a well-trained administrative staff. Nor is it an easy task to discover a suitable principal for such a centre, combining qualifications of technical training, pedagogical ability and administrative talents. Years sometimes pass before a vocational centre succeeds in solving all these problems and commences to function properly.

ACUTE DEFICIENCY



We shall refrain from going into detail here about the crucial importance of technical training for the needs of Israel's industry, mechanized agriculture and the economic structure of the state as a whole, and shall merely cite a few facts to help our friends abroad understand the acute deficiency in vocational education in Israel and the extent and vital importance of the tasks ORT is called upon to fulfill in this field.

Given present educational facilities, the fact of crucial importance is that this year there will be some 18,000 boys and girls out of elementary school for whom we are duty-bound to provide further education to enable them to face the future with confidence. The importance of this responsibility will be easily appreciated since they are all in the youthful, formative years of 14-15. The high schools will have room for about 2,000 of them. The absorptive capacity of all Israel vocational schools is at the most 2,000 additional pupils each year!

GUIDE FOR YOUTH

The rest will be standing at the crossroads with no signpost to indicate what turn to take.

Hundreds of young people throng the doors of ORT institutions demanding admission. If we are to go even part way in meeting the demands of Israel's youth for acceptance into trade schools, we must expand our existing vocational training centres, and at the same time start establishing new ones without delay.

FIRE QUENCHER—A four-engine transport plane dumps 1,600 gallons of water on a simulated brush fire during a test of Rosamond Lake, near Los Angeles, Calif. Fire fighting officials, watching the demonstration, envision the method as a means of checking fires in rugged terrain until ground parties can reach the area. The purpose of the test was to determine the pattern of the water dispersal from the planes which are equipped to carry 10,000 gallons of water each.

Advised Officer To Stop Seeing Girl

MORRISBURG, Ont. (CP) — Lieut. Peter Ernest Robin Balcombe, 24, of London, Ont., was advised last March to stop seeing the girl he is charged with murdering, Lt.-Col. Val Leduc, commanding officer of the 4th Canadian Guards Regiment at Valcartier, Que., testified today.

He testified at the second day of Balcombe's preliminary hearing. Balcombe is charged with the murder of 22-year-old Marie Anne Carrier of Bienville, Que., a member of the women's reserve army. Her nude, stabbed body was found in a ditch near here Oct. 15.

Lt.-Col. Leduc said he had been informed by an officer on the staff of Brig. Frank Fleury, commander of eastern Quebec area, that Balcombe—a married man—was going out with Miss Carrier.

INTERVIEWED BALCOMBE

He said he interviewed Balcombe in his office and asked him if the information was true.

"He said yes," Lt.-Col. Leduc testified. "I then asked him if she knew he was married. He said yes."

Lt.-Col. Leduc said Balcombe told him it was "my policy to tell her I am married." He testified that Balcombe said he had not made "any secret about it."

Lt.-Col. Leduc said he told Balcombe that Miss Carrier came from a good family. He said he suggested to Balcombe that he stop seeing her. However, he said, he could not as commanding officer order Balcombe not to see the girl.

Oil Burner Explodes At Lutheran Church

NEW HAMBURG (CP)—Explosion of an oil burner at Trinity Lutheran church Thursday night shot flames to the height of the steeple, reduced the furnace rooms to a shambles and bowled over the caretaker, John Lew.

The church did not catch fire and the caretaker, who was in the adjoining auditorium, was not hurt.

Cause of the blast was not known.

Choir practice was held later as scheduled.

New Hamburg is 18 miles southeast of Kitchener.

Young Marksmen

SASKATOON (CP) — Youthful marksmen here are assured a winter of keen competition with formation of the Saskatoon Boys' Rifle Association. Various groups of cadets and the Police Boys' Rifle Club will compete on a regular schedule.

Miss Margaret Ewing

WARKWORTH (ENS) — The funeral of Miss Margaret J. E. Ewing, who died on Monday took place at St. Paul's United church, Warkworth, Thursday. The Rev. A. L. Sisco officiated at the largely attended service, and later at the burial at the Warkworth cemetery.

Pall bearers were Earl Nelson, John Wetherson, Robert Edgar, Bruce White, Don Pollock and William Wilson. Flower bearers were Percy and Hugh Campbell, Aubrey, Marvin and Lorne Lockhart, Borden Campbell, Raymond Richardson, George Broadworth Sr. George Broadworth Jr., and Fred Ward.

Plow Veterans Keep Plodding

Three of Peterborough's elders who aren't going to be pushed out of their jobs are Directors G. A. Gilespie and Alex Huston and Auditor Vincent Eastwood of the Peterborough Plowmen's Association.

There's a long span of years between the new president, Reg Ferguson, and these veterans of the furrow and counting house, but there's no question of the right and title of Huston and Gillespie to fellowship with the modern plowmen who are primarily competent tractormen.

Possibly, Mr. Eastwood, who hails from a Durham county rural family, put his hands on the plow before he decided to move into Peterborough and business including management of a bank.

G. A. Gillespie has staked off more matched lots than most people except a few like Alex Huston and Senator Duffus who helped in that preliminary. And Mr. Gillespie has collected more prize money and awards through the years than could be estimated in value.

Maybe the young plowmen are taking over the direction of their show but they're stil keeping the old plow hands.

3-Cent Increase For Lumber Workers

BLIND RIVER (CP)— About 400 employees of the J. J. McFadden Lumber Company will get a three-cent-an-hour wage increase as a result of an agreement signed Thursday.

The increase brings the hourly rate for workers, members of the Lumber and Sawmill Workers Union (AFL), to $1.08. The agreement also provides for a checkoff of union dues by the company.

The company operates one of the largest board mills in eastern Canada in this town midway between Sudbury and Sault Ste. Marie.

Say Color TV Years Away For Canada

OTTAWA (CP)—Color television is years away for Canada where black and white broadcasting is barely started.

However, sources in the industry today said the government and broadcasters are watching closely developments in the United States where a new color broadcasting system has been adopted by the federal communications commission.

Under the new system, broadcasts in color also may be seen in black and white on present television receivers. This system replaces one developed by Columbia Broadcasting System in the U. S.

The CBS color system is the one adopted by the transport department as the standard for Canadian broadcasters planning to enter the color broadcasting field. Broadcasts with this system cannot be picked up by present receivers in black and white. However, the receivers could be converted with an adapting apparatus to pick up a broadcast in color.

Department officials and broadcasters have been to New York to see the tests of the new color system and returned enthusiastic about it. But department officials said it is too early to say whether Canada will adopt the new system immediately as the Canadian standard.

TORONTO (CP) — Tom Loudon, active in Ontario sporting circles for more than 30 years, died Thursday night of a heart attack in his Toronto home following a two-year illness. He was 59.

Mr. Loudon was one of the originators of the Beaches' Major Fastball League, and had been chairman of the Canadian National Exhibition's softball committee and Canadian commissioner for the Amateur Sfotball Association of the U. S. A.

He also coached hockey teams, served as president of the Balmy Beach Football Club and was manager of the famous Malvern Grads.

Strikers Return

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — The Basra Petroleum Company reported today that striking workers have begun to return to their jobs. One man has been killed and 15 other strikers injured in clashes with police during the walkout, which began Dec. 5. The strike came over demands for better wages and working conditions, but the company announcement did not say whether any concessions had been granted.

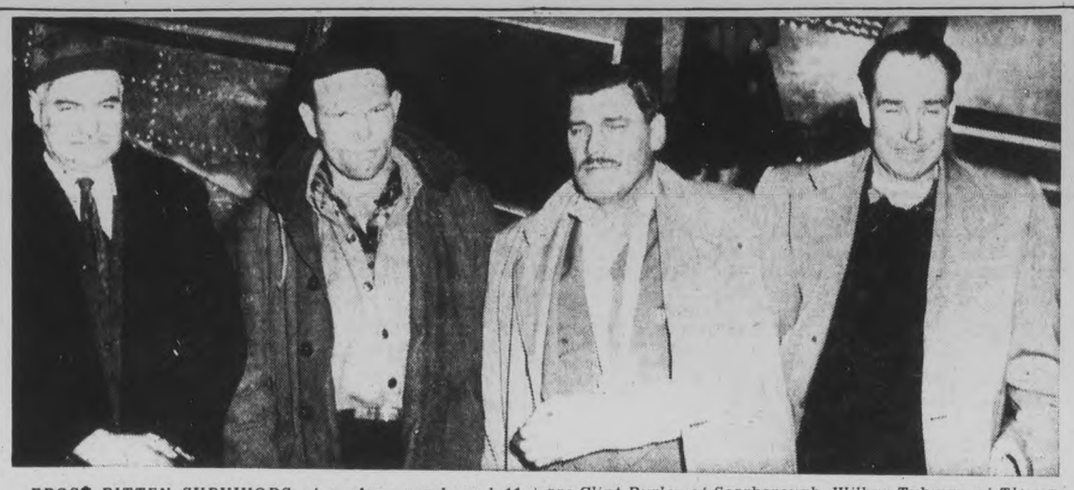
Plane Down With 9 Men In Iceland

At Least Three Reported Still Alive

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP) —United States and Icelandic rescue teams pushed up a mile-high glacier today toward the wreck of a United States Navy bomber and its reported survivors.

The smashed plane, a twin-engined Lockheed Neptune which disappeared Thursday on a patrol flight from Keflavik airport near here, was sighted Friday by a U.S. Air Force rescue plane. At least three of its nine-man crew were said to be alive.

Planes quickly dropped survival equipment and a U.S. air rescue squadron flew a ground rescue party, including Icelandic ski experts, to a small airfield at the foot of the glacier.



The glacier, near the south coast about 110 miles southeast of here, is 30 miles long and from 10 to 20 miles wide. It rises as high as 6,466 feet above sea level.

SEARCH THROUGH BLIZZARDS

The plane, described as "badly broken up," was spotted at about the 4,000-foot mark after a 24-hour search through howling blizzards by planes and ships.

Wind swept the frozen wastes early today, but there were signs the weather might improve.

The bomber took off from Keflavik airfield at 10 a.m. Thursday for a flight of approximately five hours. Its last message received at 2:17 p.m. said it was about 100 miles southeast of Keflavik and did not mention any trouble.

FROST-BITTEN SURVIVORS of a plane crash and 11 days spent in the wilderness of northern Quebec are these four men who with two other companions were rescued Friday and brought to Montreal by airplane. Pictured here are Clint Burley of Scarborough, Wilbur Tubman of Thessalon, Garnet Mooney and Douglas Dolby of Toronto. The group were on their way out from construction work in Labrador. —(Federal News Photo)

Missing Girl In Montreal

KINGSTON (CP)—Police said today that a missing 15-year-old Kingston girl is in Montreal.

Inspector of detectives Bernard Murphy said Helen Marie Joyce sent a letter from an unknown Montreal address to police telling them she is in that city. The letter was mailed Dec. 16.

A search began for her last Tuesday after she left the home of her grandparents to go to school and disappeared. Neither police nor the girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Joyce, would divulge what else was in the letter.

Dogs Don't Bite At Night–Police Chief

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton's dogs don't bite at night—they prefer broad daylight. Because of this Police Chief Leonard Lawrence suggested they should only be "taken in" during the day.

The chief told the local police commission considering a dog-control bylaw that nearly 20 Hamiltonians are bitten each week by dogs and 80 per cent of the attacks reported occur between sun-up and sundown.

Hamilton dogs also bite more in the winter, said the chief.

"They bite up to one-third less in the summer than they bite in the winter."

Cripples and children are their most frequent victims.

"They go after persons with canes. They think the canes are weapons," he said.

The commission decided to hold the matter over to the first meeting of 1954.

TIMMINS (CP) — A woman in hospital and her new baby were two of 15 persons left homeless today when fire destroyed a two-storey residence at Porquis 37 miles northeast of here.

Homeless are Mr. G. Blair and his wife, who is in hospital, and their five children and Mr. and Mrs. W. Page and their six children.

The fire started in the chimney. There was no insurance but some furniture was saved.

Master Keys Stolen

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Lansing police have crossed fingers today. Thieves took three tool boxes Friday night from a downtown key shop. One contained safe-opening tools and instructions on how to use them. Another contained a set of master keys for all General Motors cars.

Kidnapping Case Bizarre

TORONTO (CP)—"Bizarre. Fantastic. Nothing about it adds up, no matter how you look at it." That's how Detective-Inspector Harold Adamson of suburban Scarborough township describes the disappearance two weeks ago Sunday night of Marion McDowell, 17-year-old baby-faced blonde. He and fellow officers have checked and rechecked more than 200 persons, have driven more than 20,000 miles, have poked through thicket and farm, and have followed every tip, lead or suggestion, no matter how improbable. They have found nothing worthwhile. The township's 10-man detective force has worked 20 hours a day since Jim Wilson, 19, walked into the Scarborough police office dazed and bleeding and said a tall masked man forced his way into the car in which he and the girl were sitting on a lovers' lane, slugged him and the girl unconscious, then, a short time later, drove away with the girl in a car trunk.

"In practically every investigation, some concrete starting point is found," Inspector Adamson said Friday. "So far, we have turned up no such point in this case. We have considered every possible theory, yet each one is untenable in the face of the known facts."

Wilson voluntarily took a lie detector test in Buffalo Friday. An attendant said he "passed with flying colors." Wilson said he wanted to convince the police he was holding nothing back. The police said they wanted to eliminate any possible suggestion his story was untrue.

The girl's father, Ross McDowell, said the story about the initials, told by Marion's fellow office workers at a photo-engraving plant was not true. However, police checked the files in search of anyone who might fit into the case.

One theory is that the girl was kidnapped and slain—but no trace of a body has been found. Police Chief Wilfred McLellan of Scarborough said last week after a search of the township that he believes Marion McDowell left home of her own free will and still is alive.

Laniel Tops Sixth Ballot

VERSAILLES, France (CP) — Premier Joseph Laniel topped the fifth ballot for the French presidency today but failed to gain the absolute parliamentary majority needed for victory.

The deputies and senators, meeting in joint session, split their votes among three candidates, and none got enough votes for election to the post held the past seven years by Socialist Vincent Auriol.

Premier Laniel, wealthy industrialist and independent, got 374 votes, a drop of 34 from the fourth ballot. For election 461 votes were needed.

Marcel-Edmond Naegelen, a Socialist, got 312 votes, a drop of 32 from his last total. Jean Medecin, a Radical Socialist (moderate) Nice, got 197.

Medecin re-entered the race just before the fifth ballot started. He had dropped out after the first ballot on which he received 54 votes.

Never before in history have more than two ballots been needed to elect a French president.

The result of the issue is still undecided after three days of political scrambling. A sixth ballot will be held but observers see little chance of resolving the problem before Sunday at the earliest.

The search for a compromise candidate quickened when it become apparent that the key Radical Socialists (moderates) were standing firm in their opposition to Laniel. Many senators and deputies threw their votes to non-candidates in order to keep either Laniel or Naegelen from being elected. Some even cast blank ballots.

Just as the fifth ballot started, Jean Medecin, 63-year-old mayor of Nice, re-entered the race. He had dropped out after the first ballot, on which he received 54 votes. He is a Radical Socialist.

The voting took place in the legislative chamber built in 1871 in the courtyard of the palace where French kings once held court. All 946 members of the Council of the Republic—the upper house—and the National Assembly were eligible to vote.

Canberra Bomber Sets Cape Record

LONDON (Reuters)—A British twin-jet Canberra bomber landed at London airport today 13 hours and 17 minutes after it left Capetown, South Africa—a record.

The same plane set a record on the outward leg of the 6,000 mile hop Thursday—12 hours, 25 minutes, which was about nine hours better than the previous figure, made by a non-jet aircraft.

Arab Officer Shot Dead

JERUSALEM (AP) — A Jordan spokesman said today an Arab Legion medical officer was shot dead Friday night on the road south of Bethlehem while driving his civilian car back to his camp.

Maj. Mohammed Izhaq, acting senior Jordan delegate to the mixed armistice commission, said the attackers left behind them at the scene of the ambush a bottle of brandy with the mark "Made in Israel."

Izhaq alleged the medical officer was halted at a roadblock of stones and shot at short range. Jordan sources said the attackers made off with the medical officer's badges of rank, head dress and regimental buttons. Investigators said they followed the tracks to near the Israeli border where they were battled by an early morning snowfall.

Jordan has lodged a protest to the mixed armistice commission.

Police Disband Picket Line

MONTREAL (CP) — City and provincial police disbanded a picket line around the Seafarers' International Union headquarters Friday because the men did not have a permit.

The small group of pickets, most of them former crewmen of the Canadian freighter Cheticamp, carried signs denouncing the leadership of Hal C. Banks, Canadian vice-president of the SIU.

The crew of the Cheticamp has been blacklisted since last month when the men disobeyed a union order to walk off their jobs at Little Narrows on Cape Breton island during the SIU strike. The owners of the vessel said Little Narrows was not a "safe anchorage" and persuaded the crew to remain on board until the ship reached Montreal.

The sailors say they were blacklisted by the union when they got off the ship here and still have not been reinstated.

Slacks Fight Begins Again

WARRINGTON, England (Reuters)—A father's battle for the right to send his 14-year-old daughter to school in slacks flared up again here Friday when he was fined £1 for not sending her to school regularly.

Ernest Spiers, 56, already is paying off a similar 10-shilling fine at five pence a week.

His battle began last winter when Eva was sent to school wearing slacks—to safeguard her from a third bout of rheumatic fever, her parents said.

The principal sent her home and told her: "Never come to school again wearing slacks."

Spiers withdrew Eva from school and was fined 10 shillings.

"RATHER CHAOTIC"

He appealed, won, but then lost his fight again when the High Court ruled in favor of the school because it feared "rather chaotic" conditions would result if every parent was able to decide the appropriate dress for his child.

Eva went back to school, wearing slacks, and again was sent home.

Friday, the prosecution said the rule banning slacks could be waived if a medical certificate were produced.

"But," he added, "no such note has been received from Mr. and Mrs. Spiers concerning Eva."

Mrs. Spiers said later: "Eva will attend school wearing her slacks in cold weather for the sake of her health."

Says Racial Discrimination Assists Red Propaganda

TORONTO (CP) — Rabbi Abraham L. Feinberg said Friday night incidents of racial discrimination in Dresden and elsewhere furnish material for Communist propaganda in other parts of the world.

"The global war for the mind of the Chinese peasant and the Congo uranium miner will be won or lost in the public places of Dresden and countless other towns like it throughout the Western world," he said in a sermon at Holy Blossom temple.

"How Negroes and Chinese are treated on the streets of Canadian cities becomes a subject of conversation and propaganda on the streets of communism-tempted villages in Africa and the Orient. We can't successfully export the Judeo-Christian heritage of democracy through missionaries or trade missions or military aid and then expunge that heritage from our lives at home."

He said the white citizens of Dresden who refuse their Negro neighbors a cup of coffee in public are "merely symptoms of the race prejudice which has become the 'soft spot' in the spiritual armor" of Western civilization.

Royalty Attends Christmas Party

WINDSOR, England (Reuters)—The Queen Mother, Princess Margaret and more than 500 guests attended the Christmas party of the royal household staff at Windsor Castle Friday night.

Both the Queen Mother and the princess took part in the dancing, which included tangos, Boston two-steps and a Paul Jones.

At the special request of the Scottish-born princess, there also was some highland dancing.

The guests also were entertained by a cabaret including some of Britain's top entertainers.

Pilot's Action Saved Plane Burning

TORONTO (CP) — A hammering bang at the ignition switches may have prevented an explosion of an Anson aircraft which crashed in the Quebec bush Dec. 6, Douglas Dolby said today.

He told interviewers of the 11-day ordeal he and five other survivors went through in the wilds of northern Quebec before being rescued.

Dolby and three other men, Wilbur Tubman of Thessalon, Ont., Garnet Mooney of Toronto and Clint Burley of Toronto were flown here early tday. Their wives wept when the men landed at nearby Malton airport.

EXCITED AT REUNION

"Oh, God love you," said Mrs. Dolby, as she flew into her husband's arms. "I've prayed all night long every night."

More than 100 excited relatives, friends and spectators greeted them. The men survived an 80-to-100 mile tramp, reduced rations and low temperatures before finding a trapper's cabin.

The plane's pilot was George Stapley of Sept Iles and Rochester, N.Y., when it crashed into trees in a blinding snowstorm.

Dolby said they knew they were losing altitude.

"We heard the rustle of the tops of trees on the wings and underside of the plane . . . the windscreen was covered with ice. We couldn't see out. I think all of us were just hanging on waiting for the crash.

"When we first touched the tops of trees, George hit the ignition switches so hard he bruised his hand. He whacked off the switches to prevent the plane from exploding. And in that regard we were very lucky."

Stapley, in a telephone interview from Sept Iles, said: "We survived . . . because the boys didn't panic. We thought things out and got a good plan of action."

Christmas Carols Said Disturbing

CALGARY (CP)—Andrew Berglung is seeking an injunction to prevent his neighbor, Clifton Cross, from playing Christmas carols and music over an outdoor loudspeaker connected to the Cross home in suburban Springbank.

Berglund contends the music is causing a disturbance.

His application, filed in court Thursday, said he asked Cross to refrain but "the defendant has refused or neglected to refrain . . . and has stated that he intends to continue to operate said loudspeaker outside his house at all hours of the night as he may wish."

Ice Breaks Under Two Boys

Brother Escapes Icy Death Body Found Later

HASTINGS —(ENS)—Thirteen-year-old James Dugan of Hastings drowned at 10:30 a.m. today when he and his brother fell through treacherously-thin ice on the raceway entering the Breipthaupt Leather Co. His body was recovered half an hour after the accident but attempts to revive him with artificial respiration were in vain.

His 15-year-old brother, William, who was playing on the ice with him when they both plunged into the raceway, managed to scramble to safety up the slippery bank.

At 12:30 p.m. relays of volunteers were still applying artificial respiration, under the direction of Dr. William Campbell, but hope had been abandoned for his coming around.

Jimmie, as he was known to his friends, was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Dugan of Hastings. Besides his parents, he leaves three brothers and three sisters.

FATHER IN HOSPITAL

His sudden death mars the prospects for a happy Christmas among the Dugan family. They already had troubles enough. The father, Wilson Dugan, is in Kingston hospital.

Jimmie and his brother were by themselves when they ventured out on the thin ice that borders the side of the raceway for 10 feet or so. The middle of the 75-foot-wide channel of water remains clear the year round.

Where the two Dugan boys fell through, the ice is an inch to an inch and a half thick, and the water is 15 feet deep.

After struggling up the bank, William gave the alarm. Almost immediately a large group of volunteers assembled and two boats —one occupied by York Calberry, and another by Bill Emery, Howard Fairman, and Lynn Hill—put out for dragging operations.

The boy's body was recovered with a pikepole half an hour after the accident. It was then taken to Skinkle's barber shop where Everett Hess, Hastings-Norwood district hydro superintendent, tried artificial respiration. He was spelled off by York Calberry and Bob Fairman, with Dr. Campbell directing the operation.

They were still working at 12:30 p.m.

The raceway, a cutoff from the Trent Canal, supplies the power for the leather factory.

Can't Play Pipes Scotsman Complains

LONDON (AP) — The trouble with London, says Scotsman Stuart Watts, is that you can't play the bagpipes without some Englishman complaining.

"I've tried all sorts of places," he said in a letter to the town council at suburban Croydon.

"Six months ago I thought I had found the perfect spot—a common near my home.

"Each Saturday I went there with my son, who also plays, and we practised to our hearts' content. We used to get regular and appreciative audiences.

"But last week a man complained to the common keeper. So that finishes me."

He asked the council to suggest another site.

Two Queens Meet In Tonga's Friendly Islands

NUKUALOFA, Tonga (CP)—The two queens of the British Commonwealth feasted today in traditional South Sea surroundings as Queen Elizabeth and Tonga's queen Salote met for the first time since June Coronation festivities in London. Salote, popular six-foot-three ruler of these "friendly islands" of the South Pacific, is the only head of government in the Commonwealth to hold the same title as the Queen, due to a long-standing tradition in the Tonga group.

Queen Salote made herself popular with London's Coronation crowds when she rode in an open car through rain-drenched streets in the procession to Westminster abbey. Today it was the same story, but this time Queen Elizabeth rode beside her in a tropical shower with the top of their car down.

Flower-decked Tonga natives cheered.

After inspecting a local guard of honor, the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh were escorted to Tonga's assembly ground under a series of decorated arches bearing the word "welcome."

Then followed a short ceremony at the white stone Tongan war memorial, where the Queen placed a wreath of evergreens.

TONGAN FEAST

After a short rest at Queen Salote's palace, the royal couple joined their host in a feast of whole roasted suckling pigs, chickens, yams, watermelons, crayfish and Tongan puddings.

As the royal guests feasted on cushions on a dias decorated with bark cloth worked in traditional Tonga brown and black patterns, native girls waved fans to keep the air circulating.

The Queen and the duke drank cocoanut milk from the shell and, with Queen Salote, ate their feast with their fingers.

Tongan girls brought gourds and shells filled with water, used as finger bowls.

Before the royal dais stretched two long lines of roasted meats, at which the other guests, numbering 1,000, sat cross-legged on rush mats in the shade of canopies of bark cloth and palm leaves.

The Queen and the duke had risen early this morning to make a 9 a. m. start for the four-hour flight here from Fiji first South Pacific stop in the six-month round-the-world Commonwealth tour. The royal liner Gothic will

Strike Closes Paris Airports

PARIS (AP) — Paris airports were shut down at noon today by a strike of control tower and radar operators, leaving their equipment unmanned.

Planes at both Orly and Le Bourget fields were held up and incoming traffic was warned away. At Orly, passengers were already aboard a plane about to take off for New York when the strike began. They had to disembark.

The strikers are demanding an increase in pay, now fixed at a minimum 24,000 francs (about $69) monthly.

The walkout came just when both Orly, base for inter-continental flights, and Le Bourget, port for European flights, were handling a pre-holiday rush.

Civil aviation authorities said this morning that they planned to requisition the safety and control device operators if they walked out. This means that the government, as employer, could order the employees to return to their jobs or be dismissed.

Britain, Egypt Reopen Suez Discussion

CAIRO (Reuters) — Britain and Egypt today reopened informal talks on their Suez canal dispute for the first time since Oct. 21.

British ambassador Sir Ralph Stevenson met Foreign Minister Mahmoud Fawzy and reviewed developments since the negotiations became deadlocked over terms for the evacuation of more than 70,000 British troops from the Suez bastion.

Stevenson returned to Cairo Thursday after a six-month sick leveae in Britain. Egypt has recalled her ambassadors in London and Washington in anticipation of the new round of negotiations.

The informal private talks were suspended indefinitely Oct. 21 over two issues: Whether British troops would be permitted to return to the canal in case of an attack on Turkey, and whether British technicians to remain at the base after the proposed evacuation should wear uniforms.

AROUSED SUSPICIONS

British insistence on this last point aroused Egypt's suspicions on whether all troops would actually be withdrawn.

Britain and Egypt have already agreed to permit the return of British troops of an attack is made on any of the Arab states. If Turkey is attacked, Egypt wants consultations with Britain before British troops return to the canal.

A series of recent incidents involving the Canal Zone British garrison has not helped to improve the atmosphere for negotiations. Today a British military spokesman said sabotage was suspected in a truck fire which destroyed Christmas mail and packages for troops this week in the Moascar area.

Says PC Party Has Failed

WINNIPEG (CP)—Duff Roblin, Progressive Conservative member-elect for Winnipeg South in the Manitoba legislature, said Friday his party's leadership has failed from the top to the bottom of its ranks.

"The party is finished in British Columbia, Alberta and Saskatchewan—perhaps in Manitoba and as a national Canadian party," he said in an address to the annual meeting of the Conservative club.

Calling for a strong grass-roots organization supported financially on a local scale instead of from "Toronto's Bay street," Mr. Roblin, regarded as a strong contender for party leadership in Manitoba, said party policy is outmoded and has not kept up with progress.

He said the party's old foundations still are firm. But the party had to be revitalized if it was to carry on in the old tradition.

"Accept the challenge of change and adopt a progressive outlook. We can't exist without it."

At Ottawa, Hon. George Drew, the party's national leader, said he had no comment on Mr. Roblin's speech.

Possibility Color TV For Canada

Officials Decide Whether Time Ripe For Service

MONTREAL (CP)—Alphonse Ouimet, general manager of the CBC, announced Friday that officials of the department of transport, the CBC and the television industry will meet in January to examine the possibility of color TV for Canada.

Speaking at a press conference, Mr. Ouimet said the industry now will have to decide in the light of a Federal Communications Commission decision in the United States whether the time is ripe to start color TV in Canada.

In Washington, the FCC announced approval of a new color broadcasting system. Commission approval of the new system, developed by the industry, means standardization of color broadcasting systems, of which there are several.

Mr. Ouimet said "If we made a start which was premature, it would mean we would be diverting the attention of the whole industry for a luxury service serving only a small minority."

He underlined the heavy costs of color transmitting and receiving equipment and said the CBC estimates it would cost $1,000,000 to convert one of its major studios to color.

"Black and white will be the basic service for a long time to come whether color is approved or not."

Picket Line At Big Stores

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A noisy mass picketing demonstration Thursday night at one of five big Pittsburgh department stores hit by a Yule strike brought the arrest of an AFL local union president and nine other persons on disorderly conduct charges.

Between 100 and 150 pickets circled chain-fashion about the entrances to Gimbels. Crowds of Christmas shoppers gathered to watch as police moved in to keep order. The demonstration lasted two hours.

Thomas L. Fagan, president of the AFL General Teamsters' Local 249, was arrested by officers who said he tried to interfere with police.

The demonstration was the first at Gimbels since the teamsters touched off the strike Nov. 27. Two other stores, Horne's and Kaufmann's, experienced mass picketing last Monday night.

The other stores struck are Frank and Seder, and Rosenbaum's. Six other unions besides the teamsters local are out in contract disputes reported to centre around wages and working conditions.

Rev. Dr. Sisco Buried At Toronto Cemetery

TORONTO (CP)—Rev. Dr. Gordon A. Sisco, secretary of the general council of the United Church of Canada for 17 years, was buried Friday.

The 63-year-old churchman died Wednesday after suffering a heart attack the day before. He had been in his office as usual Monday. As general council secretary, he had conducted the daily administration of the church's national affairs since 1936.

The funeral service, conducted by Rt. Rev. A. A. Scott, moderator of the United Church, was held from St. George's United church. Burial was in York cemetery.

Put More Of Christ Into Christmas

TORONTO (CP) — The United Church of Canada appealed today to its ministers and members to show the lead in taking "ostentation, waste, gluttony and drunkenness" out of Christmas.

"Remove some of the commercialization of Christmas and replace it with a Christian atmosphere," church officials said in a statement. Church members are urged to eliminate drinking and "put more of Christ into Christmas."

Storm Delays Liner

NEW YORK (AP) — The liner United States docked Friday night 11 hours and 20 minutes behind schedule from Le Havre after running through an Atlantic storm with winds of up to 70 miles an hour. Commodore John W. Anderson said the huge liner took maximum rolls of about 25 degrees at the height of the storm and ran at reduced speeds.

Ship Launched

COLLINGWOOD (CP)—The keel of an oil tanker was laid here in August, 1952, but when the completed vessel, S. S. Georgian bay, took to the water Friday it was as a grain carrier. Just after the keel was laid, a decision was made to extend oil pipeline facilities direct to Sarnia. With a few modifications the ship was changed into a grain and cre carrier. Built for Canada Steamship Lines, the 620-foot vessel has a capacity of 588,000 bushels.

HELD IN CHAMPAGNE POISONING—Dennis Wepman, 23 (left), and Harlow Fraden, 20, are booked in a New York City police station on charges of allegedly poisoning Fraden's wealthy parents. An investigation by police resulted in a charge that Fraden and Wepman carefully arranged the deaths to look like a double suicide. Police reported that Wepman told them he and Fraden killed the couple by slipping cyanide into champagne and then persuading them to drink a toast to their son in celebration of his new job. Fraden stood to collect about $150,000 in insurance from his parents' death.

New Transformer For North End Operating Soon

The temporary 1,800-kilowatt electric transformer station on Bellevue St. will soon be put in service, General - Manager W. Howard Powell of the utilities commission reported.

New 2,300-volt primary circuits are being built to it and three 600-kilowatt transformers are being connected. The temporary station will be used to take some of the load off the Aylmer St. substation, which was loaded to capacity at times last month.

The peak load during November was 27,400 kilowatts, an increase of 5.4 per cent over the same month last year, while the kilowatt hour consumption increased 5.19 per cent to 11,930,400 kilowatt hours over November, 1952. The load factor decreased slightly to 60.6 per cent from last year's figure of 60.7.

During November, the second transformer kiosk was placed in the Bellaire St. subdivision, the wiring completed to 12 existing houses and the lines made alive.

Transformers were placed at the new H. B. McGinness factory at the east end of Lansdowne St. and the primary line completed to it.

LINE IN SUBDIVISION

Work continued on lines to serve houses under construction in the Queen Elizabeth subdivision and on Walkerfield Ave. Primary lines were rebuilt on Aylmer St. from Sherbrooke St. to London St. and on Sherbourne St., from Lansdowne St. Morrow St.

The electrical department last month connected 76 new three-wire services, nine new two-wire services, two new power services and 53 new water heaters. There were 10 services changed from two- to three-wire.

The meter department tested 396 electric meters in November, which were verified by the department of trade and commerce.

25% Fewer Turkeys Raised

The traditional Christmas turkey is in greater demand this season than last, retailers find. They are also finding the supply is less.

Ordinarily, western turkeys constituted a great deal of the district supply. This year the hatch was off 25 per cent, according to one local breeder.

Many turkey breeders went out of production following last Christmas when they toted up their costs and found they were too high; feed and help were the stumbling blocks. This year breeders played safe by raising fewer, some of them from 35 to 40 per cent down. The market price, too, broke just around last Christmas Eve when retailers dumped American owl on their counters, forcing the whole price structure down.

This year producers, buyers and retailers feel that the greater demand and shorter supply will keep prices firm. Some think they may even go up a little.

Current prices for top hens are from 67 to 69 cents; toms, in the 16-20 pound class, are selling from 62 to 65 cents, and the top-heavy birds are bringing from 57 to 59 cents a pound.

Holland and Beltsful Whites are a popular eating turkey in the Peterborough district, light birds going from 10 to 12 pounds. Broad-back Bronzes are the heavyweights.

Deer Leap Onto Road

FORT ERIE (CP) — "Never saw so many deer in my life in one spot," said Fred Poole of St. Catharines. Three deer leaped in front of his automobile Friday night while driving on the Sodom road near here. One deer leaped over the automobile hood, the other two swerved, grazing the car.

pick the Queen and duke up here Monday for the trip to New Zealand, their next stop.

In the speeches that followed the banquet, Crown Prince Tungi, Salote's 280-pound son, welcomed the first visit of a reigning British sovereign to Tonga.

"In a world which seems to be full of strife and intolerance, the Commonwealth of nations is a living example of how peoples of very diverse racial origins, creeds and traditions can work together for their common defence and common advancement," he said.

In a reply read by her secretary, Sir Michael Adeane, the Queen lauded the "growing common interest and understanding between our two peoples."

NAME APPROPRIATE

"Never was a more appropriate name bestowed on any land than that which Capt. Cook (who discovered Tonga in the 18th century) gave to these beautiful islands when he called them 'the Friendly Islands.'"

Island women laid a ceremonial carpet of black cloth across the grass as the Queen and duke, escorted by Queen Salote, walked after lunch to a shaded stand to watch Tongan dances.

After the dance program, the Queen rested at Salote's palace, while her husband, clad in open-necked shirt and shorts, went out to an offshore coral island for a swim.

Tonight the Queen and duke, accompanied by Queen Salote, dined at the British residency with resident minister J. E. Windrum.

RCAF Artist Has One Of Canvases Hung

LONDON (CP)—An RCAF artist, Lac. Sidney Ledson of Toronto, has had one of his canvases hung here in the current Royal Society of Portrait Painters' annual exhibition.

Ledson's portrait is of his father, David Ledson of Toronto, and is titled "Man with a Cigar."

A communications technician at Langar, RCAF material base in Nottinghamshire, Ledson has twice had his work exhibited by the Royal Canadian Academy.

He began painting during wartime service with the RCAF and after demobilization spent four years at the Ontario College of Art in Toronto. He re-enlisted this year as a communications specialist.

Ledson says he hopes to visit the Continent while here and see Europe's famous galleries.

U.S. Bomber Crashes Killing Two Of Crew

TOKYO (AP)—A United States Air Force B-29 search-and-rescue plane crashed and exploded tonight near Nagoya, killing two crew members and injuring six others, the Far East Air Force announced today.

Nagoya is 170 miles southwest of Tokyo.

The big plane, with its crew of eight, was trying to land at Komaki air base eight miles north of Nagoya after one engine failed.

One wing dipped and struck the ground. The plane cart-wheeled and exploded.

The survivors were dragged from the wreckage, three with serious injuries.

Speedy Civic Election

PORT DALHOUSIE (CP)— Port Dalhousie handled its civic elections this year in the most expeditious way possible. Mayor R.M. Johnston, Reeve Neil Christie, the six-man council and the public utilities and school board were all returned by acclamation.

High Rank

LONDON (CP)—Air Marshal Sir Basil Embry, commander of Allied air forces, central Europe, has joined the select group of those holding rank of air chief marshal. He escaped from the Germans four times during the Second World War, once strangling three guards in the process.

Gov't Spending Increased In November

OTTAWA (CP) — Government spending increased during November, but revenues more than kept pace, resulting in a $9,045,000 surplus. This compared with a $3,920,000 surplus in November last year.

Higher charges against defence, public debt and welfare accounts increased government expenditures to $329,458,000 for the month, up $11,251,000 from $318,207,000 a year ago, the monthly treasury statement showed.

This was more than balanced by higher personal and corporation tax collections and increased customs and excise revenues, boosting total revenues to $322,646,000, a $15,230,000 gain from $307,416,000.

INCREASED TOTAL

November's surplus increased the total for the first eight months of the 1953-54 fiscal year to $275,068,000, about $16,800,000 below the $291,853,00 surplus in the first eight months of the previous year.

The government has forecast a year-end surplus of about $11,000,000 by March 31, 1954, compared to last year's $24,000,000.

Brief Ceremony To Bury Kidnap-Killers

MARYVILLE, Mo. (AP)— The Greenlease kidnap - killers were buried today.

Mrs. Bonnie Brown Heady, whose last request was that she be buried beside her lover, Carl Austin Hall, was buried alone near here in a brief ceremony attended by about 15 persons.

In Pleasanton, Man., 175 miles away, Hall was put into a grave in a family plot in the city cemetery, three-quarters of a mile southwest of town.

The 10-minute ceremony for his 41-year-old paramour was held under the folds of a chapel - type cemetery tent with closed sides, in Clearmont, Mo., 15 miles north of here. Rev. D. Franklin Kohl, pastor of Maryville's First Christian Church, officiated.

Both Hall and Mrs. Heady pleaded guilty to kidnapping Bobby Greenlease and were executed in the gas chamber at the Missouri state prison early Friday morning.

About 40 persons gathered at the Pleasanton cemetery for Hall's public burial. Rev. William O. Pfeiffer, pastor of the Pleasanton Presbyterian church, conducted the brief graveside services.

With The Boy Scouts

5th PETERBOROUGH

Six uninvested cubs were presented with white neckerchiefs on Tuesday night at the cub meeting at All Saints church. These boys were: Murray Stephens, Jack Mortlock, Ronnie Carveth, Larry Rightmyer, Billie Lucas and Jack Lorne.

Baloo Lenore Grose became familiar with the job she must perform after she takes over. After taking the roll call, she led the pack in two games; one was a game called "mixtures," the other was a relay.

Knot instruction was given the cubs, by three scouts: Murray Wilson, Ron Beard and Don York.

The Red six was the honor six of the evening. They chalked up 151 points during the evening.

After scout inspection on Thursday night, a game of "British Bulldog" was played, followed by instruction. Paul Cinnamon and Bob Neal both passed tests on the flags and law and promise. Norman Muffatt passed his law and promise.

The muskrat patrol was high in points.

At the Court of Honor meeting later, it was decided that Jerry Foy should take over as A.P.L. of the Muskrat patrol.

Ticket Sales Soar

FORT ERIE (CP)—Ticket sales on pre-Christmas railway travel from this border terminal are expected to reach record proportions. There have been an unusually large number of purchasers from Buffalo here to buy tickets for United States destinations, thereby avoiding a 15-per-cent U.S. surtax.

Shah Dissolves Iranian Parliament

TEHRAN (AP) — Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi formally dissolved Iran's Majlis (parliament) today and ordered an immediate start on preparations for new elections.

A spokesman for Premier Fazollah Zahedi's government said the move, which marks an end to the 23-man rump Majlis held over from the days of ex-premier Mohammed Mossadegh's rule, is designed to clear the legislative decks for "major developments."

The spokesman said the outlawed Tudeh (Communist) party will be barred from the voting, but any other group, including Mossadegh's National Front movement, will be permitted to participate providing it refrains from a "provocative" approach to the voters.

Informed sources say the "major developments" expected by the government include a possible solution to the long dispute with Britain over nationalization of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company's properties in Iran.

ALL MOSSADEGH FOES

The rump parliament was composed entirely of members opposed to Mossadegh, who was ousted from the premiership last August by a royalist coup. Pro-Mossadegh deputies previously had resigned in a body after their opponents prevented voting on government proposals by staying away from session. Without them, the necessary quorum could not be obtained.

Mossadegh, now on trial before an army court-martial on treason charges, attempted to force dissolution of the rump group before his downfall, but the shah fled the country rather than sign the decree.

Mossadegh also is accused of attempting an "illegal" dissolution of the legislature by calling a plebiscite on the issue. The plebiscite, boycotted by the ex-dictator's opponents, gave his proposal an overwhelming majority.

The shah's order reversed a previous government plan which would have called new elections without dissolving the old Majlis. This would have left the rump to die a natural death and set up a new parliament ready to go into business in May.

Ontario Farmers In Good Shape

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario farmers are in good shape at the start of the winter season with most of their general field work, fall plowing, fence-mending and other farm chores completed.

In most regions, except northern Ontario, cattle were still out in pasture last week, believed to be a record.

The unusually mild weather up to the recent temperature drop permitted farmers to catch up on odd chores in preparation for the winter season and in most areas of the province, it is reported, they are in better shape than last year.

While some southern counties enjoyed mild weather, Rainy River reported more snow by the beginning of the week than in all of last winter.

BRISK DEMAND

Many counties report little movement in potatoes due to the depressed prices. On the other hand, young pigs are in brisk demand. In Victoria county they sold for $12 to $14 each.

Sudbury reports a "fair volume" of Christmas trees, most of which are being sold in southern Ontario.

Several counties needed more soil moisture.

Grain Elevator Burnt $100,000 Damage

HIGH RIVER, Alta. (CP)—Fire of undetermined origin destroyed the National grain elevator here early today. The loss, including the grain in crammed storage bins, was estimated at $100,000.

James Decolen, elevator agent, was taken to hospital after he collapsed in an attempt to rescue the books and records.

High River is about 30 miles south of Calgary.

70 Years Wed

CALGARY (CP)—Mr. and Mrs. William Vicary today marked the 70th anniversary of their wedding in St. Thomas, Ont. Mr. Vicary is 94, Mrs. Vicary 89.

SHORTER, LIGHTER—A new lightweight jeep, small enough to be carried in an aircraft, goes on display beside a standard army model. The bobtailed vehicle is 100 inches long and weighs 1,475 pounds—three feet shorter and 1,200 pounds lighter than the regular model. The little runabout has an aluminum body, magnesium wheels and a plastic windshield.

Premier To Spend Christmas At Home In Quebec City

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent plans to spend Christmas at home in Quebec City with his family, but will leave his cabinet ranks here well staffed.

More than half of the cabinet will celebrate the holiday in the capital, on call in case of emergency. Trade Minister Howe, the senior cabinet minister, will be acting prime minister in Mr. St. Laurent's absence.

The Prime Minister leaves Ottawa for home early this week.

Opposition Leader Drew will mark Christmas at home here, as will M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, and Solon Low, Social Credit leader.

One cabinet minister will be in mid-Atlantic Christmas Day.

Agriculture Minister Gardiner and his wife, who visited Israel last week after the Rome meeting of the United Nations Food and Agricultural Organization, were scheduled to leave Naples today aboard the S. S. Constitution bound for New York.

Two others who attended last week's NATO meeting in Paris, External Affairs Minister Pearson and Defence Minister Claxton, will be back in Canada. Mr Pearson is expected to return Wednesday in time to spend Christmas in Ottawa. Mr. Claxton returned Friday and will be in Montreal for the holiday.

Other cabinet ministers in Ottawa for the holiday will be Finance Minister Abbott, Transport Minister Chevrier, Justice Minister Garson, Labor Minister Gregg and Health Minister Martin.

Mines Minister Prudham is taking his family to Bermuda for a Christmas holiday and Fisheries Minister Sinclair, who recently returned from a 78-day tour of southern Asia, will be at home in North Vancouver.

Two ministers from Ontario will spend the holiday in their home towns, Revenue Minister McCann in Renfrew and Citizenship Minister Harris in Markdale.

Resources Minister Lesage will be at home in Quebec City and Postmaster-General Cote will be at St. Johns, Que.

Mark St. Men's Club Elects Evans Hatherley

A very delicious turkey dinner was enjoyed Friday evening by 45 members of the newly formed Men's Club of Mark St. United Church.

Ernie Lillico was chairman and Ed Butler moved a vote of thanks to the ladies of the W.A. who served the dinner.

Quirt McKinney lead the group during the sing song.

Guest speaker was the Rev. I. G. Pollock of Grace United Church. He told the members that he hoped they would not be just another club but rather a distinctive group of men, who could be destinguished by your Christian words and actions.

Mr. Lillico, chairman of the organizing and nominating committee, presented the slate of officers which was adopted for 1954.

Those elected were:

Hon. Presidents, Rev. Dr. F. D. Patterson, A. E. DeNure; President, Evans Hatherly; Vice President, Cecil Searles; Secretary, Allan Coones; Treasurer, Grant Coldwell.

Committees, Membership and Attendance, Lloyd Ash, Roy Parkin; Projects, Murray Irwin; Activities, Jack Murray, Horace Guppy; Program, George Bennett; George Brown; Publicity, George Burns; Social, Everett Payne; Recreation, Frank Sidey; Stewardship, Ken Kidd, Leonard Ireland.

Minister Returns

OTTAWA (CP)—Defence Minister Claxton returned to Ottawa Friday by RCAF plane from Paris, where he attended the North Atlantic alliance conference of defence and foreign ministers.

He declined comment on any aspect of the conference.

Wanderers Take 2-Point Lead In Soccer Group

LONDON (Reuters) — Wolverhampton Wanderers took a two-point lead in English League first division soccer with a 3-1 victory over Manchester City today.

West Bromwich Albion lost 2-1 to Bolton to drop behind into second place with 33 points after being tied with the Wolves for first place last week.

Huddersfield and Burnley tied for third place in the first division with 30 points, Burnley winning 2-0 over Charlton and Huddersfield drawing with Arsenal 2-2.

Leicester and Doncaster maintained their first-place tie in the second division with 31 points, Leicester defeating West Ham 2-1, and Doncaster winning over Lincoln 2-0. Everton stayed in second place one point behind, with a 2-1 victory over Luton. The loss dropped Luton to fourth place, one point behind Birmingham, which raised its point total to 28 with a 3-1 victory over Swansea.

No standings changed in the third division (southern), although Ipswich lengthened its lead to six points with a 2-1 victory over Colchester.

Port Vale also maintained its six-point lead in the third division (northern), with a 1-0 victory over fourth-place Barnsley.

Queen of South dropped a 3-0 decision to lowly Stirling, but kept its leadership in Scottish League Division A. In Scottish League B, Motherwell increased its leadership with a 5-0 victory over Forfar, leaving it five points ahead of Albion.

WELLAND (CP) — County judge H. E. Fuller today set Dec. 28 for a recount in the Crowland municipal election contest for the deputy reeveship in which Councillor Allan Pietz defeated Councilor Michael Perenack by 16 votes.

Mr. Perenack submitted affidavits claiming irregularities in counting the votes.

OBITUARY

MRS. ROBERT SEDGWICK

HASTINGS (ENS) — A resident of Hastings for the last six years, Mrs. Robert Sedgwick, 76, died after a short illness Friday at the home of her sister, Mrs. George Humphries.

Born in Dummer township, Christina Kingsley, she was the daughter of Paul Kingsley and Sarah Barr. Her husband, Robert Sedgwick, predeceased her.

Mrs. Sedgwick lived in Dummer and Asphodel townships until moving to Hastings six years ago. She attended the Norwood United Church and was a member of the Women's Missionary Society and the Women's Auxiliary.

Surviving are three sisters, Margaret (Mrs. Hugh Robb) of Norwood, Sarah (Mrs. James Gardner) of Los Angeles and Ethel Beatrice (Mrs. George Humphries) of Hastings.

The funeral will be held from the Humphries residence Monday at 2 p.m., the Rev. N. Cole of Hastings officiating. Burial will be in Norwood cemetery.

Do Not Plan To Renew Sugar Pact

OTTAWA (CP)—The three-year, Canada-Cuba sugar agreement will expire Dec. 31 and will not be renewed, a trade official said Friday.

He said also that Canada intends to sign the new international sugar agreement, promising to help maintain stability in world sugar markets.

Under the pact with Cuba, Canada guaranteed a Canadian market for 75,000 tons of raw Cuban sugar for each of the three years, 1951-52-53.

In return, Cuba granted Canada certain tariff concessions. These are being continued under the umbrella of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade which recently has been renewed until mid-1953.

PREFERRED TARIFF

Canada normally gets most of her raw sugar requirements from Commonwealth countries, such as the British West Indies and Australia. Supplies from these sources received preferred tariff treatment.

However, under the Cuban Pact, Cuban sugar got the same advantage through a tariff rebate system which made Canadian purchases from Cuba just as attractive as those from Commonwealth countries.

After Dec. 31, the rebates will be abolished and Commonwealth countries will again have a preferred tariff advantage.

TRAVEL: with Jean Stenton

Seeing Switzerland On Pass Saves Tourist Time, Money

Canada and the United States offer no such opportunity for pass travel as is found in Switzerland. If you want complete freedom of movement, the opportunity to change your plans to suit your mood or the weather, to stay longer where you liked, to pursue the byways as well as the highways, then Switzerland's Generalabonnement is the perfect answer.

Picture how handy it would be to have a month's pass valid on both the Canadian Pacific and the Canadian National Railways; on Canada Steamship Lines; on boats running along the B.C. coast and to Victoria. That is roughly how it operates. It also includes the saving of a few dollars.

Generalabonnement should not be confused with the Holiday-Generalabonnement good only for 15 or 30 days which gives free travel for six or 12 days, respectively, with half fare on the remaining days. Generalabonnement is designed primarily for a commercial traveller. It is good for a year and is payable in monthly instalments. The monthly rate drops 50 per cent after the first month, which costs: 360 francs ($84.96) in the first class; 240 francs ($56.64) in second class and 180 francs ($42.48) in third.

A passport photograph is required, and is pasted into the vest pocket book ticket. Generalabonnement is purchasable only in Switzreland, obviously at the first major city of the trip. Second class is preferable for several reasons, one of which is the absence of first class on many trains. Next, there is always a seat in second class, while crowding in third class is not unusual on holidays, weekends and during commuting hours. There is good upholstery in second and only wooden seats in third.

REASONABLE COST

One man's recent 23-day stay in Switzerland, using Generalabonnement cost him 250.85 francs ($58.75) with 1.50 francs for a minor railroad trip and 9.35 francs for a postal-bus excursion over the St. Bernard Pass, in addition to the 240 francs ($55.68) for the second class pass. A 50 per cent reduction in fare is available with Generalabonnement for some famous mountain ascents. There are so many different railways and steamships in Switzerland that the use of this pass saves a lot of wear and tear on the visitor and also time.

Seven small cities and towns (Sion, Locarno, Thusis, St. Gall, Solothurn, Thun and Vevey) serve as centres for two to four days each, thus reducing the need for frequent relocation and also enabling the visitor to obtain better hotel rates than for one-night stands.

The itinerary for each day can be planned only the afternoon or evening before because of weather conditions. Sometimes it is necessary to change plans at the last moment. Cities can be given preference on rainy or cloudy days, the open country when the outlook seems promising. Generalabonnement may take you to out-of-the-way places such as Zuoz in the Engadine or Stein-am-Rhein, two hours by boat down the Rhine from Constance where the facades of the old houses serve as great painted

MOUNTAIN CLIMBING MADE EASY

There's a popular theory that only lazy Canadians and Americans do their sightseeing and mountain climbing with the aid of machines while the rest of the world scales the heights by means of strength, patience and a stout rope.

It isn't so. The people who live close to the Alps—or in them — have been devising easy ways to get up mountains for years, and visitors to Europe this summer will probably visit the peaks and glaciers riding the toy-sized railway cars, the strange boxes that dangle from steel cables or the canopied chairs.

There are several different kinds of mountain transport in the Alps. And each of the kinds has various names, depending on the country and sometimes the designer. For builders of mountain railways invent more different names than the makers of magic new ingredients for toothpaste.

There is first of all the cog railway that claws its way up a toothed track between the rails. This is called a Zahnradbahn, cremaillere, ferrovia or simply cremagliera.

USE FUNICULAR

A funicular like the Davos train is a Drahtseilbahn in German. Then there is an aerial tramway or cable car—a large cabin suspended from cables, which holds 20-40 passengers. This can be called a telepherique, Seilchwebebahn, Trambahn or funivia.

There are other smaller devices —usually ski lifts pressed into summer service, like the chairlift or Sessellift. A small cable car — really a closed-in chairlift — is called a Gondelbahn.

The whole complex of alpine travel is concentrated around a mountain resort like Engleberg in Switzerland. To get there in the first place one takes a cog-wheeled Zahnradbahn. But Engleberg, up in the mountains itself, is ringed by higher mountains. So the visitor goes on up, first by a Drahtseilbahn that hoists its way up to Gerschnialp, then by telepherique out over an intervening valley and up to a small mountain lake, Trubsee. The ride in this large substantial cable car is smooth; the solidity of the big cab makes it feel almost safe until the traveller looks down at the trees below which look more like moss and then up at the crucial cables which resemble sewing thread. From Trubsee there is still a further lap, this time by chairlift.

Switzerland is truly the home of the mountain railway — its 350 miles of Bergbahn, placed end to end would extend all the way from Paris to the Jungfrau. The Jungfraubahn is the most remarkable of all, a narrow gauge cog railway which starts at Kleine Scheidegg and ascends to the Jungfraujoch, a saddle 11,333 feet high on the famous mountain. The upper 4.4 miles are tunnelled through solid rock, including three stations.

Rare Cranes Arrive In Texas

By DAVE CHEAVENS

AUSTWELL, Tex. (AP)—The arrival this week from the arctic of three whooping cranes has put the nearly extinct birds slightly ahead in their battle for survival.

Now 24 of the stately white birds are feeding in the swamps of their ancestral home, three more than left here last spring on their annual Canadian migration to the Arctic circle.

Julian A. Howard, manager of the Aransas Pass wild life refuge on Blackjack peninsula, had been watching for three or four weeks, since the birds had been reported seen in flight from western Canada.

Howard and his crew of half a dozen young scientists zealously guard the whoopers every winter at this south Texas refuge. They stand watch on shaky, 20-foot observation towers, and patrol the swamps and waterways by jeep and boats equipped with two-way radios.

One of the toughest jobs is standing between the whoopers and sight-seers who sometimes are more curious about the big birds than they are concerned whether the cranes live or die out.

The whoopers don't like to be disturbed as they prowl the shallow bay waters and shorelines of this 47,000-acre wilderness. The refuge is between San Antonio bay and St. Charles bay, over-looking wild Matagorda island and the gulf of Mexico.

This is the winter home of the huge cranes, with their brilliant white bodies and black-etched wing tips. It is the only known wintering site used by the temperamental whoopers, who hatch their young somewhere near the Arctic circle in Canada, then fly with them in snug family groups to the gulf coast.

Morganston WA Holds Christmas Meeting

WARKORTH (ENS) — The Morganstown WA met at the home of Mrs. Glenn Clarke.

The president, Mrs. H. George presided and opened the meeting with a hymn and the Lord's prayer. Mrs. Borden Carr was devotional convener. The scripture reading was given by Mrs. Gerald Dingman and Mrs. B. Carr offered prayer. Mrs. B. Fletchett and Mrs. Robert Robson gave readings.

It was decided to send $25 to missions.

It was decided to have a pot luck dinner at the next meeting in the church basement when the election of officers will be held.

Mrs. Don Mussey and Mrs. L. Palmateer, program conveners, presented a program of readings by Mrs. E. Huycke, Mrs. C. Bradley and Mrs. Harold Carr. Mrs. Lorne Darling sang a solo. A number of Christmas carols were sung.

Mrs. A. E. Harwood of Norham was guest speaker. A Christmas contest was conducted by Mrs. L. Palmateer and an exchange of Christmas gifts was made.

Following the closing prayer, a Christmas lunch was served by the hostess and lunch committee.

Gift To Natives

DON'T LET FIRE SPOIL YOUR CHRISTMAS—That's the advice the Peterborough Fire Department are giving these days as Christmas draws closer. Every year a considerable number in North America lose their lives in fires in the home, generally centred about faulty wiring of Christmas tree lights or leaving tree lights unwatched. Vic Barry, a department inspector, has arranged a float which shows just what can make a happy or sad Christmas. He has used a burned Christmas tree, parcels and ghost to show what can happen in contrast to what a Christmas tree should look like. This float (above) has been taken to the city schools and parked on George St. in an effort to urge people to be careful this year.—(Examiner Staff Photo).

Grim Reminder Shows Christmas Can Be A Tragedy

"Don't let fire spoil your Christmas" became the motto of the city fire department Thursday, when it launched a special safety drive for the Yule season.

To really impress the public with the need for extra precautions the department has decorated a truck with two Christmas trees, one gaily bedecked, the other showing the results of a fire. Beside the latter stands the grim figure of Death as an added reminder of the sometimes serious consequences of carelessness.

A placard between the two trees warns that faulty wiring, wax candles, a position too close to a stove and carelessness with cigarettes, are four of the main fire hazards.

On Thursday the department took the truck to most of the schools giving children the opportunity to see the float and to ask any questions.

Fire inspector Vic Barry and Fireman Clarence Campbell, who prepared the float, have a further motto: "If we teach the children, we've taught the parents."

TOUR TILL CHRISTMAS

Later in the day they drove through some sections of the city where people on the streets took a lively interest in the display. It is intended to keep up the tours until Christmas.

Fire chief Wm. Sorrie told the Examiner that too many families tended to regard Christmas fire hazards with a "it can't happen to us" attitude. Unfortunately, it can.

A recent nation-wide survey showed Yuletide accidents to follow such a consistent pattern that it was almost possible to predict the number of fire fatalities that would occur each year. Worse, was the fact that children were usually the greatest sufferers.

The fire chief offered some advice which he hoped might assist to avert such accidents in Peterborough this season.

For a start it was logical that the larger the tree the greater the fire hazard. The same applied to the length of time a tree is kept in the house. The tree could be kept from getting too dry by diagonally cutting the trunk and placing it in water.

Special attention should be given to artificial lighting. Bulbs should carry the approved stamp of the fire underwriters' laboratory and each wire and connection checked for fraying and other damage. Not more than four sets of lights should be allowed on a house unit and all electric decorations should be turned off before retiring or leaving the house.

TOYS INFLAMMABLE

It should also be remembered that many of the new plastic and celluloid toys on the market were highly inflammable as were models which operated with gasoline or alcohol.

"Church candle-light services have ended in funeral pyres before today," add Fire Chief Sorrie. "It is far better to use electric artificial candles."

Finally, no fireman presumed to put a damper on Christmas celebrations, but rather wished that everyone should have the opportunity to enjoy many more Christmas gatherings beyond 1953.

Patterson Honored

STRATFORD (CP)—Tom Patterson, who conceived the idea of Canada's Stratford Shakespearian festival, has received the Canadian Drama Award for 1953. Mr. Patterson was unanimously chosen by the Canadian Drama Award Council and will receive an engraved scroll. He was recently named director of planning for the Stratford Shakespearian Festival of Canada Foundation. He was informed of his award in a letter from the council in Victoria.

Our Newcomers Buy Cars And Houses

This Christmas there are some 2,500 persons in Peterborough county who came to Canada since the war. They are the "immigrants"—we prefer to say newcomers—of British, Polish, Dutch, Italian and other nationalities who emigrated from their homelands to take up a new life in Canada. Christmas is always a time of homliness; where the homelands and their hearths are three or four thousand miles away across the sea, the newcomers cannot help but cast some nostalgic looks backwards, no matter how congenial their present Peterborough surroundings and bright their future. We hope that those who have been here a couple of years will by now feel acclimatized—to our way of life if not to our winter, and that soon Canada will mean home to them, in heart as well as in physical fact.

* * *

Canadians born and bred do not have the temporal and spiritual adjustments to make which newcomers have, yet some of them have exhibited a prejudicial, unsympathetic attitude to their new and strange neighbours—even, we regret to say, some antagonism to them. These Canadians are in the minority; and they, like all of us, were at one point in our racial history, immigrants too. In fact, some of the Canadians who have been least tolerant of the newcomers are themselves the children of immigrant parents, British or European.

* * *

We should make the newcomers welcome, partly for themselves, partly because we should be mindful of our own immigrant backgrounds, and partly because the new people in our midst have been good for Canada and will continue to advance the wealth and culture of the country. An official of the Department of Immigration, Mr. John D. Sharp, recently gave some statistics which show in a narrow, material way, how advantageous post-war immigrants have been to Canada. He said that 38 per cent. have bought cars, that about forty per cent. own their own homes, and more than forty per cent. have household appliances such as refrigerators. We would not presume to deny the validity of these figures. They mean that the newcomers have been self-supporting, and, moreover, have provided jobs for other Canadians, jobs for the people who make, sell and repair their cars, who build houses, who manufacture household appliances, and of course, work and money for the growers and sellers of food, suppliers of clothing and of all things which go towards the material life of Canadians.

* * *

The newcomers have been good for us, even on the flat plane of money and substance. If 38 per cent. of the postwar adult immigrants in this county of Peterborough have bought cars, it means—at a guess—that some 500 cars have been sold to them. If forty per cent. of them own their own homes, they bought about 500 houses in the city and county. They have bought the same number of refrigerators, stoves and the like.

* * *

In a couple of weeks time Canada will admit the one-millionth immigrant to come here since the war. These million have come with their talents, their cultures, their brains, their optimism, their energy and their hopes. They have created jobs. How can they be other than good for Canada? And we would like to hope: how can Canada be other than good for them?

Soviet State of Georgia

Lavrenty P. Beria, accused of treason to the U.S.S.R., has confessed to treason. How homely and genial his first name sounds—like the pet name a mother would use—Tommy, Dicky, Charley, Lavrenty. But Lavrenty P. Beria has not been a genial and gentle man. He was head of the Russian secret police, and a chief deputy to Stalin. There his crimes lay, insofar as Westerners will judge. His Moscow judges of the new Malenkov era may put them elsewhere, because he was a Georgian.

. . . South from the Kuban Cossacks country and the foothills of the Caucasus the railway turns sharply west to the Black Sea and then again south along the coast. The landscape changes with incredible speed from the flat colourless plain of Russia to the brilliance of a Mediterranean landscape. The houses are white and clean, the foliage is lush and the trees are mostly junipers and cypress. On the third day out of Moscow the train comes into the Tibilisi valley, wilder, less Mediterranean in atmosphere. Here is the heart of Georgia.

A Canadian made the trip this summer—Robert A. D. Ford, Charge d'Affaires of the Canadian Embassy in Moscow.

"The first impression of Tibilisi is one of the grace and charm of its broad main streets lined with trees, its dark and narrow shaded side streets, and the ever present hills which completely surround the city. It is a curious combination of the new and the old. It was founded in the fifth century and some of the churches go back as far as the beginning of the sixth century. At the same time a great attempt has been made at modernizing, on the whole with good taste . . ."

Beria is a Georgian, and the Georgians are not in good repute in Moscow now that Stalin is dead. Stalin was a Georgian, too.

"The Georgians are, of course, an entirely different race from the Russians and this is immediately obvious from the swarthy skins, black eyes and hair and lithe figures of both the men and the women."

In his last years Stalin spent most of the year in Georgia; here he had his "Little White House", his Key West of Florida, his Little Kremlin.

"One is almost in the sub-tropics here, and this is reflected in the light summer dresses of the women and the linen suits of the men, many of whom also wear a very sensible and rather attractive short coat of white linen or silk. Some of the younger men wear black sport shirts."

Also charged with conspiracy against the "Great Russians" and being traitor to "The Motherland" are two former ministers of internal affairs in Georgia.

"The atmosphere on the streets is one of gaiety on the whole and wherever two or three Georgians are gathered together you can hear the ripple of conversation and laughter."

Did Beria and his deputy Morkulov, and the two Georgian Ministers Dekanozov and Goglidze ripple with laughter in the Kremlin? We cannot believe them guilty of laughter—not those men and not in the Kremlin. Their crime—a Georgian one fashioned to perfection by the Georgian Stalin—was greed and grab for power.

Izvestia, the official newspaper of the Soviet Union, has announced: "The U.S.S.R. prosecutor's office has now completed the investigation in the case of the traitor to the Motherland L. P. Beria . . . Beria and his accomplices carried out criminal measures in order to resuscitate remnants of bourgeois nationalist elements in union republics . . ."

And Mr. Ford of Canada writes:

"Before returning to Moscow I wished to see the museum of Georgian art which is now housed in the seminary where Stalin passed a short time as a student . . . We were fortunate in having as our guide Professor Songo-Olashvili, a man of about seventy who has spent his entire life studying Georgian art. He received us very politely and proceeded at once to unlock the treasure rooms. The latter were for me a revelation of the richness of Georgian medieval renaissance art . . . One large piece of beaten silver represented scenes from the life of Christ . . ."

Mr. Ford has discovered that it is good to go to Georgia, Mr. Beria and his accomplices that it is not good to have come from Georgia. As often seems to happen, semi-tropical countries are more attractive than their natives.

Mr. Low and Mr. Blackmore

Canada's most eminent admirer of Senator McCarthy at the moment appears to be Mr. J. H. Blackmore, MP for Lethbridge and a member of the Social Credit party. We were interested that the leader of that party, Mr. Solon Low, was quick to make it clear that his parliamentary group had no sympathy with McCarthyism, and that Mr. Blackmore spoke only for himself. Mr. Low said, in part:

"We have always urged, and we do now strongly urge, that every effort be made to keep Communists and Communist sympathizers out of government departments and our vital industries, but when inquiries are instituted for screening or for other security purposes in Canada, we strongly urge that they be conducted under the unabridged rule of law; that great care be taken to insure that men are not found guilty merely by association; and that the rights and freedoms of individual Canadians be fully respected and the dignity of our courts and legal processes be most carefully safeguarded."

The press of Canada was quick to ask Mr. Blackmore what he was talking about, when he went to bat for Senator McCarthy in the House of Commons; Mr. Blackmore's replies suggested great confusion of mind. For instance, he called Mr. Dean Acheson "a top-notcher of the Communist organization", which he seemed to think was quite a different thing from saying that Mr. Acheson was a member of the Communist party. This sort of thing suggests that Mr. Blackmore does not really know what he is saying. But there are people in Canada who have listened to him sympathetically, and who are apparently eager to admit McCarthyism to Canada, to work what havoc it may. We think that such people are a tiny minority, but we think that Mr. Low has been wise to make it clear that they must not attach themselves to the Social Credit party in any hope that it will further their singular desires.

NOTES AND COMMENT

We read that the U.S. Navy spends $4,000,000 a year on cleaning rags. Well, that's polish; what's their bill for spit?

The most interesting headline we have seen in years, from the London Times: "Church Inquiry Into Vice: Committee of Experts".

DOLLS 3,000 YEARS OLD

Genealogy In Toytown

By NIGEL GOSLING

WHEN is a wheelbarrow not a wheelbarrow? When, for example it is extra small and brightly painted: then it is a toy. But where does the frontier lie? To a child a toy represents, of course, something very different from what it does to an adult. In what sense can the receptacle of his emotions, the vehicle for his actions, not be "real"? The little images of primitive man, his magic rattle and sacred whistles, probably had the same significance.

✧ ✧ ✧

YET somewhere the line must be drawn. Argument runs high over the dolls found in Egyptian tombs, Were they playthings of ritual "companions"? Are the little figures snapped up by tourists in Indian bazaars toys or godlets? The truth must surely be that evolution has played its part here too—from the primitive figuring of our remote ancestors descends Michelangelo's 'Pieta' on one side and the Golliwog on the other, much as man and chimp descend from one stock.

✧ ✧ ✧

MOST of our modern playthings are undoubtedly derived from objects of religious purpose. These have even been divided into five toy archetypes—the globular (gourd or egg) from which our rattles and balls are derived; the bird-shaped, which gave rise to our whistles, pecking birds, etc.; the four-legged animal, leading to Noah's Arks and teddy bears; the mounted rider which, when placed on wheels, became the ancestor of all wheeled toys; and the human figurine.

✧ ✧ ✧

TO THE AMATEUR this genealogy must appear rather drastic: but some Darwinian theory doubtless accounts for phenomena like tiddley-winks and model spaceplanes. Certainly few original ideas seem to have been born in the last few thousand years. Kites and tops were in use in China and Japan from the earliest times; jointed dolls and whistles were made by the Egyptians at least a thousand years before Christ; while ball games seem to have been universal and timeless.

✧ ✧ ✧

A DRAUGHTSBOARD from Ur in the British Museum is dated around 2500 B.C., and games like dice and cards—strictly adult toys, these—were played by the Greeks. In Great Britain our own ancestors seem to have been uninventive. Though grown-up Gaels disported themselves with sticks, stones and blown-up goats' bladders, their children were apparently neglected; while the Saxons, it seems, were totally deficient in gamesmanship of any kind. It was not till the Normans arrived that children in those islands had their toys.

✧ ✧ ✧

SINCE THEN the variety fostered by the ordinary exchange of trade and travel, and more recently by technical inventions, has been ever increasing. These variations are fascinating to historians, who find in them culture indicators and records. True fashion-dolls, for instance, were made in France as early as the fourteenth century: in 1391 a number were sent to the Queen of England so that she could study the latest Paris modes.

✧ ✧ ✧

IF MOST TOYS impress their antiquity, others surprise by their novelty. The golliwog, for instance, now a well-known figure in the English toy scene, was invented—as the hero of a book—only in 1895 (though it had been forestalled in a Coptic woven doll of A.D. 500 remarkably similar in appearance). Teddy Bears, too, are newcomers. Up to 1903 toy bears of various kinds existed and were known as "Bruin"—but in that year a brown plush bear with moveable limbs was launched at the Leipzig Toy Fair, bearing the name of "Teddy" after a cartoon of Teddy Roosevelt (President Theodore Roosevelt) taking part in a bear-hunt in the Rockies, which had just appeared in a Washington newspaper.

THESE TWO characters have proved long-lived, by toy standards. A more ephemeral one was "Caesar," a nondescript white terrier modeled on the dog of King Edward VII which walked in his funeral procession. Felix, Bonzo and Donald Duck are recent creations derived from cartoons. Muffin The Mule is the first toy by-product of television in Britain.

Dolls' houses were introduced in Germany, traditional home of the toy trade, in the 18th Century. Beautifully made they were designed more for the drawing-room than the nursery, and for the rich at that. Not till this century were they really made for children. Tin soldiers, on the other hand, were introduced in the middle of the 18th century by a Nuremberg founder, Andreas Halpert, who thus popularised the exquisite but expensive model knights-at-arms and warriors in silver and gold made for the medieval courts. Collecting toy soldiers quickly became an adult, as well as a childish, hobby. European monarchs were enthusiasts, and today there are collectors all over the world, and even a British Model Society with its own magazine.

✧ ✧ ✧

PERHAPS it is the plaything for grown-ups that has altered most, and not much for the better. The wireless has ousted the musical box, the cinema and television set have replaced the mechanical puppet. Archytas, a contemporary of Plato, is said to have invented, besides the screw and the crane, a flying pigeon. In the first century B. C. Heron of Alexandria, using heat, air and water made, among other toys, a model of four birds and an owl: every time the owl turned his back, the birds sang. In the Middle Ages such marvels were frowned on by the Church, but they blossomed out in the 18th century with the invention of clockwork. In the 18th century a Frenchman, Jacques Vaucasson, made a six-foot classical faun which, working his fingers, lips and tongue, played twelve airs on a flute.

WITH the Industrial Revolution, the ingenuity which the Romans and Renaissance Europeans had applied to toys (and weapons) was diverted to machinery. The craft declined quickly although now, in the form of radio, cinema and television, it is having a distinct revival. But, in the sense that they are not wholy controllable, these diversions are not quite toys, even for grown-ups. How fascinating it would be to watch a model which, for instance, enacted for us the whole story of "Gone With The Wind"! Such a phenomenon is surely not beyond our technical range. Toymakers, one feels, are hardly being fair to adult children these days.

CHRISTMAS, THE SEASON OF goodwill toward all men, puts us in mind of the seasonal customs of other lands whose people have sent settlers to our country. In the picture above the Examiner staff artist, George Cobb, illustrates four Christmas customs which have been brought to Canada and are practised by people who are now Canadians but who have not forgotten the pleasant observances of the lands of their ancestors. We are all familiar with the carol singers, called 'Waits', who appear at our doors at this time of year. The Saint Lucia custom comes from Sweden, where the prettiest girl in each house is chosen to wear the crown of candles, symbolic of the saint whose light shone before the world. It is from France that the Yule Log custom comes, and though few of us now have fireplaces big enough to need a huge backlog, the Christmas fire is the family altar at this time of year. And from Norway comes the Bird's Christmas Tree, hung with suet, to please the birds who were traditionally present at the Birth of Christ.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And God said, Let us make man in our image, after our likeness: and let them have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air, and over the cattle, and over all the earth, and over every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth. So God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him; made and female he them . . . And God saw every thing that he had made, and, behold, it was very good. And the evening and the morning were the sixth day. (Gen. 1:26, 27, 31.)

✧ ✧ ✧

The people that walked in darkness have seen a great light: they that dwell in the land of the shadow of death, upon them hath the light shined . . . For unto us a child is born, unto us a son is given: and the government shall be upon his shoulder: and his name shall be called Wonderful, Counsellor, The mighty God, The everlasting Father, The Prince of Peace. (Isa. 9:2, 6.6)

✧ ✧ ✧

Behold, a virgin shall be with child, and shall bring forth a son, and they shall call his name Emmanuel, which being interpreted is, God with us. (Matt. 1:23.)

✧ ✧ ✧

And there were in the same country shepherds abiding in the field, keeping watch over their flock by night. And, lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone round about them: and they were sore afraid. And the angel said unto them, Fear not: for behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people. For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord. (Luke 2:8-11.)

Road to Atikokan

(Port Arthur News-Chronicle)

One more has been added to the sequence of milestones which mark the rather unusual history of this district.

A motor vehicle has driven through from Port Arthur to Atikokan over the new highway route, being a transport truck which made the distance of some 140 miles in six and one-half hours. Considering all the conditions and factors it was good time, for quite a lot yet has to be done to prepare the road for normal travel.

With some 5,000 people already in the area that has been given a new connection with the outside world and prospects for at least double that number before many years, the prospects are for one of the busiest roads in Northwestern Ontario.

Outsmarting the Bankers

(Commonwealth Comments)

A man who wanted to borrow $5 was told that the bank did not lend such small sums.

"But lending is your business, isn't it?" he demanded.

The banker admitted it was.

"Well, I have good security, and want to borrow $5."

Finally the banker agreed to make the loan. When the note was drawn and the interest of 30c calculated, the borrower drew from his pocket $10,000 worth of government bonds and handed them over as security.

Before the banker could recover from his astonishment, the stranger completely bowled him over with: "Now, this is something like it. At the other bank they wanted to charge me $10 just for a safety deposit box to keep these things in."

Christmas At Home In Peterborough

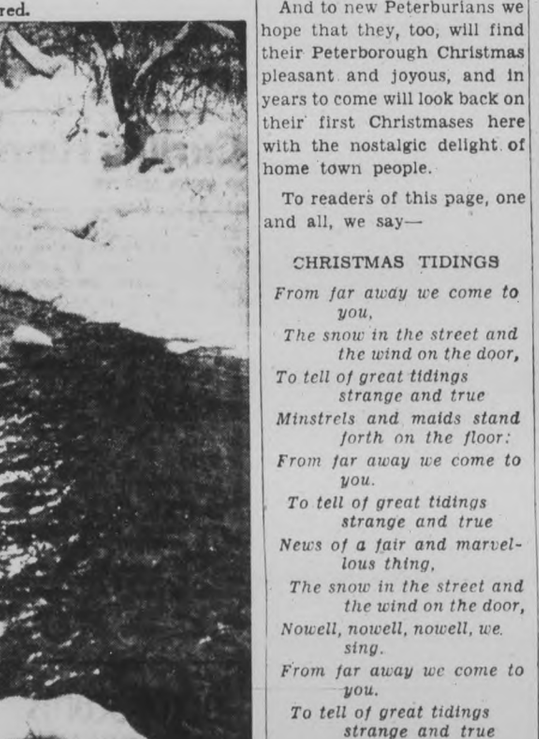
Hospital shut-ins are to be remembered.

Jackson Creek reflects beauty in winter.

The Christmas spirit seemed slow in starting this year. It took the tonic of a fine fall of clean snow and exhilarating temperatures to bring a ready smile to our faces and a cheery tone to our greetings. And it brought back the familiar old saying that "There is no place like home". This is especially true at Christmas time.

To the 40,000 people of Peterborough we bring you familiar seasonal photos, some of them taken in odd places, others more familiar. We hope some of the scenes will bring back happy memories to those who once called Peterborough "Home".

And to new Peterburians we hope that they, too, will find their Peterborough Christmas pleasant and joyous, and in years to come will look back on their first Christmases here with the nostalgic delight of home town people.



To readers of this page, one and all, we say—

CHRISTMAS TIDINGS

From far away we come to you,
The snow in the street and the wind on the door,
To tell of great tidings strange and true
Minstrels and maids stand forth on the floor:
From far away we come to you.
To tell of great tidings strange and true
News of a fair and marvellous thing,
The snow in the street and the wind on the door,
Nowell, nowell, nowell, we sing.
From far away we come to you.
To tell of great tidings strange and true

A·F·I·E·L·D with NICK NICKELS

While sitting at my typewriter the other day in one of my better moods and whistling through my teeth like a sailor conning up wind out of a dead calm, a fellow worker asked:

"What tune are you whistling?"

I didn't know but this informed fellow said it sounded something like "The Twelve Days of Christmas." Our learned editorial writer, Throckmorten, who can toss off madrigals at the wave of a finger, assured me that it was an old English carol, a simple, childish sort of thing. I left as he started to tune his pipes for a real rip-snorting Italian number to show me how simple my poor tune was in comparison.

Having heard the tune at home on the record player for past several weeks, I set the machine awhirling and took down the words, and added a few of my own.

Come, now, altogether, me-me-me-me-me-ee

——ON THE TWELFTH DAY OF CHRISTMAS
MY TRUE LOVE SAID TO ME . . .
"Now that we've had soup from the turkey bones four nights in a row, and our credit is all used up at the corner store, what'll we use for food?"

——TWELVE DRUMMERS DRUMMING . . .
"Leave me alone, good spouse, my head is thudding like all getout. I'll never touch the stuff again."

——ELEVEN PIPERS PLAYING . . .
"It sounded like eleven but it was actually two little moppets tootling under the Christmas tree at 3:30 a.m."

——TEN LORDS ALEAPING . . .
That was twenty minutes after Dogood spiked the punch at the New Year's party; (no one was trampled on, they tell me).

——NINE LADIES DANCING . . .
No, they weren't all dancing with me at once, Could be, though, I was quite a rug cutter in my day.

——EIGHT MAIDS AMILKING . . .
Now there is a ridiculous line. If you could find one maid who could run a milking machine you would be lucky and stool-sitting-and-pulling is a thing of the past.

——SEVEN SWANS A SWIMMING . . .
Reminds me of that big bronzed turkey swimming in its own juice and the gravy I dribbled down my Tatersal vest.

——SIX GEESE ALAYING . . .
And how I wish they were golden eggs, all mine. I'd quit writing this trash and take the family to Fla for the winter.

——FIVE GOLDEN RINGS . . .
If I could even find my old high school ring I would rush it to the pawnbroker's. Ben would understand; we are old, old friends.

——FOUR COLLY BIRDS . . .
Don't quite get this one. Does it mean "calling" birds, some rare specie unknown to us in the Kawarthas. A question for bird watchers to figure out.

——THREE FRENCH HENS . . .
(I used to know Madeleine, Yvonne and Marie but THEY weren't French hens. No, sir!)

——TWO TURTLE DOVES . . .
That can refer to none others but the two that occupy the living room couch until all hours. Quickly, hand me my thutty-thutty . . .

——there's A PARTRIDGE IN A PEAR TREE and even though it's out of season, we'll eat again.

Makes a fellow feel like shouting "A MERRY CHRISTMAS."

Junior Petes Earn A Win Against Midland, 3-2 In Hard-Fought OHA Fray

Gary Kearns sparked the Young Petes to a 3-2 OHA junior "B" victory over Midland here last night before a fair-sized crowd of fans in Civic Arena. He scored two of their three goals on nifty efforts, Blake Uren notching the other one. An assist each went to Murray Byrne and Jerry Frizzelle for Red Creighton's crew. The losers' goals were by Barrett and Sims, with Norrena drawing one assist. This triumph was the sixth in a row and their seventh of the season for the junior Peterborough club, keeping them atop the heap in a good race. It was a "father and sons' night" with some draw prizes but real cold weather cut down the crowd considerably. The fans on hand saw a tight tussle between the top-place Petes and the improving cellar-place Midland crew.

A LATE START

The game was half an hour late starting due to the late arrival of the Midland squad. In a pre-game ceremony, announcer Stan McBride turned over the mike to Ald. Doug. Miller, president of the junior hockey club, and he in turn (after a brief address) put Frank Buckland on the P.A. system. The first vice-president of the OHA told how the late Shrimp McDougall's medal from the CAHA for being a winning member of the 1927 Memorial Cup had been found, and said he was pleased to present it to Shrimp's son, Buddy McDougall of the junior Petes, at this time. Young Buddy, who is recovering from a shoulder injury, was on hand to accept it with thanks.

The game itself was fairly fast and generally clean, but quite often scrambly. It was tied 1-1 in the first frame and Midland led 2-1 to end the second. The Young Petes, who looked better throughout but didn't click too well over most of the route roared in for two unreturned markers in the third heat.

A FREE-FOR-ALL

There was something of a free-for-all at the end of the game; a couple of players started pushing and then swung punches. Several other minor fights broke out, but nobody seemed to be hurt too much, and police constables, arena ushers and the referee and linesman got them separated and down to their dressing rooms without any apparent damage.

Blake Uren scored for Petes from Bryne on a nice play at 7:26 as the Petes pressed hard in the first period. Frizzell was back from a boarding penalty when Barrett evened it up from Norrena on a neat combination thrust in close. Hendrickson drew a boarding penalty from Referee "Sixty" Coombs and a 10-minute misconduct went to Lizotte for arguing too much over it.

Simms put Midland ahead in the middle chapter on a breakaway goal, and then Belajac was waved over when Midland had too many men on the ice. Richie and Morrow followed him for high-sticking and Pue went later for ripping. All were back when Tripp drew a tripping penalty and than Richie got it for elbowing. However, the Petes were too disorganized to cash in on penalties and played poor hockey much of the second period.

FINISHED STRONG

They started to go a bit better in the third and they peppered Goalie Reid hard. He was tough to beat, as was the local netminder—the low score indicating this in a speedy, open fray. Finally, Gary Kearns broke away as Midland ganged up to go in very smartly on a speedy thrust and blast a hot angle shot—at an almost impossible angle—by Reid to tie it up. He was chased later for holding as Midland fought back fiercely and Frizzelle followed for boarding. Good checking while both were off saved the day. Richie then drew a penalty for hooking and Keans scored the winning goal from Frizzelle in a scramble. Webb later returned from a tripping penalty and the Midland goalie was pulled with 55 seconds to go but they couldn't equalize it. Then the fight broke out. Teams:

Midland—Goal, J. Reid; defence, L. Reid and Richie; centre, Gerow; wings, Yorke and Simms; alternates, Webb, Lizzotti, Moreau, Belojac, Norrena, Hendrickson Barrett and Quinn.

Petes—Goal O'Brien; defence, Byrne and Frizzelle; centre, Twist; wings, Heffernan and Coyle; alternates, Ball, Pue, Morrow, Doris, Gardner, Ferguson, Uren, Hook, Kearns and Delahaye.

Referee—S. Coombs. Linesman, B. Kingdon.

The summary:

FIRST PERIOD

Petes—Uren (Byrne) 7:26
Midland—Barrett (Norrena) . . . 14:10
Penalties — Frizzelle, Hendrickson.

SECOND PERIOD

Lizzotte.
Midland—Simms 0:30
Penalties—Belajac, Richie 2, Morrow, Pue, Twist.

THIRD PERIOD

Petes—Kearns 7:03
Petes—Kearns (Frizzelle) 11:40
Penalties—Kearns, Frizzelle, Richie, Webb.

SON GETS LATE DAD'S MEDAL — Just before last night's OHA senior game here, which Young Petes won 3-2 over Midland, Buddy McDougall was presented with a CAHA medal won in 1927 by the late Harold (Shrimp) McDougall as a member of the Memorial Cup championship Owen Sound Greys. The medal was lost for years. Shown above after the presentation are, left to right: Petes' club president Ald. Doug Miller, Coach Red Creighton, OHA vice-president Frank Buckland, player Bud McDougall, and Midland Coach Roy Conacher.—(Examiner Staff Photo).

Money Wanted For Rugby TV

TORONTO (CP) — The athletic board of the University of Toronto has decided Varsity football games will not be televised next year unless some sponsor comes forward with more money.

The move came following a decreased attendance in 1953, first year of televised Canadian college football. The Varsity Blues played to a total of 63,700 fans, a decrease of 27,500 from last year, representing a loss of $41,300, calculated at $1.50 a ticket. Television revenue amounted to $5,125.

Warren Stevens, Varsity athletic director, said "Unless a sponsor is prepared to pay more to offset our loss in attendance, I am certain University of Toronto games won't be televised in 1954."

CANADIANS BUY HORSES

LONDON (CP) — Canadian purchases at the Newmarket December sales included the smart two-year-old St. Vincent, it was learned Friday. The colt will be flown to California next week.

St. Vincent, by Ocean Swell out of Light of Day, was purchased for 5,100 guineas by the Anglo-Irish Agency on behalf of George Gardiner of Toronto. The two-year-old won three good races in England this year, including the Prince of Wales Nursery at Doncaster, one of the few mile races for two-year-olds.

An announcement from the Anglo-Irish Agency also said the two-year-old Correct has been acquired in Ireland for P. D. Gordon of Vancouver. Correct, which finished second recently in a big field in Ireland, will be shipped to Canada shortly.

The Anglo-Irish Agency is the company which recently sent a large shipment of thoroughbreds to the United States on behalf of Alberta Ranches, a turf syndicate controlled by trainer Vance Longden and three Calgary business men, Max Bell, Frank McMahon and Wilder Ripley. The shipment included Blue Butterfly, now in training at Santa Anita for the 90-day meeting opening Dec. 26.

Blue Butterfly was champion two-year-old fily in Ireland two years ago.

ROCKY WANTS BOUT

HONOLULU (AP)—Heavyweight boxing champion Rocky Marciano arrived by plane Friday from Manila and said he is looking forward to a possible title fight next summer in San Francisco with Ezzard Charles, the former title-holder.

"That would be a good fight," he said.

"If everything goes well we might fight Charles in San Francisco next summer," said Rocky's manager, Al Weill.

Marciano is on his way home after an exhibition tour of Manila, Guam, and Japan.

CHARLES FIGHTS JAN.13

CHICAGO (CP)—Former heavyweight champion Ezzard Charles, in hot pursuit of a shot at Rocky Marciano's crown, has signed for a 10-round bout with Chicago's Bob Satterfield at the Chicago Stadium Jan. 13.

Charles boosted his comeback hopes Wednesday night with a 10-round TKO of Coley Wallace in San Francisco.

Satterfield, an unpredictable light-heavyweight, in his last bout scored an eight-round knockout over Ray Augustus here Tuesday.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Softball is certainly unseasonable on Dec. 19, but a letter on it arrives from Secretary Frank Feaver of the OASA. Says the King and His Court (famed four-man team) will be available in '54 again for exhibitions, and booking must be done through the OASA office at 526 Maple Ave., Hamilton. Dates will be allotted on Jan. 15, so anyone interested should apply now. As this touring team is a pro outfit, the Ontario Hospitals Tax applies to these games or attractions. The King and His Court appeared here last year, under auspices of a local srevice club and, as usual, the show drew a huge crowd. Comes an item of local interest from the Kingston scrivener. He writes: "Though Peterborough has produced great players and teams down the years, the Liftlock City never had an arena with a modern touch. The structure that endured longest was privately owned. But Peterborough players thrived therein and in ye olden days often scored goals by propelling pucks that had rebounded from the end wall. It was an arena that catered to the stick-handler, now lost in the march of time, and to bodychecking worthy of the name. Fans sitting near the rails did on occasions become 'acquainted' with visiting players and referees in ways that were painful.

Up The Rickety Stairs

"Players' dressing rooms were reached by stairway and that given to visitors was to say the least very inadequate. Heat was supplied by a stove. Those Peterborough puckchasers who have carried on through so many difficult times rate the orchid for gallant endeavor . . . . It must be apparent that the arenas of the past should share responsibility for such failures. Strongly supported clubs fare better than do those who hear wolves howling at the doors. The success achieved by Kingston Community Centre venture should serve in encouraging the erection of others in hockey-conscious centres. Will Peterborough take the hint?" Don't know yet, Mike, but we're hoping so.

The up-and-down TPT Petes take off tonight for an OHA senior "B" fixture in Kingston, and they have Orillia Pontiacs here on Monday eve. Yesterday's group standing had Oshawa and Kingston tied atop with 18 points each, just one in front of the fast-climbing Ponties. Petes were down the ladder a piece with 13 points, three more than the cellar-dwelling Belleville pack. The surprises in this race recently have been supplied by Orillia and Oshawa, but for opposite reasons. Pontiacs have been surging ahead and beating 'em all the past few weeks, while Oshawa Truckmen have been taking it on the chops with great regularity. The others have been winning and losing in more or less 50-50 fashion. Should be the Petes' turn to win tonight.

Still Leading The Loop

Young Petes pulled out a 3-2 OHA junior "B" puck victory o'er the improved and scrappy Midland squad here last eve. Cold weather kept down the crowd, but those on deck saw a keen contest with a players' free-for-all after the final whistle. Lots of punches thrown but not too much damage done. Players at that age are pretty hot-headed, especially in real close fray. Gary Kearns was the Petes' triggerman with the tying and winning goals, Blake Uren getting the other, as Murray Byrne and Jerry Frizzelle each earned an assist. Barrett and Simms counted for Roy Conacher's crew. Before the tilt commenced, OHA vice-prexy Frank Buckland presented Buddy McDougall of the Creighton club with his late dad's CAHA medal.

Major Penalties Feature Junior Hockey

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

St. Catharines, Guelph and Barrie advertised junior hockey Friday night. Fans watched a three-ring circus.

Ontario Hockey Association Junior A action in those three communities produced a forward line that scored 18 points, 13 major penalties, two misconduct penalties and one match-misconduct.

Meanwhile St. Catharines Tee-Pees, the team that was lucky enough to have the 18-point forward line, climbed into a first-place tie in the standings by shellacking Galt Black Hawks 10-0.

In Guelph, where 11 major penalties were assessed during one shot, the last-place Biltmores edged the third-place Toronto Marlboros 5-4 in overtime.

Barrie Flyers dropped Kitchener-Waterloo Greenshirts 5-1 in the other attraction. This one featured the two misconducts, the match-misconduct and the two majors.

LINE GETS TEN

The Barry Cullen-Hugh Barlow-Brian Cullen line was the irresistable force against the Hawks. Barry Cullen fired four goals and assisted on two others, Barlow scored three and assisted on the same number and Brian Cullen notched two goals and four assists. Cec Hoekstra added the remaining TeePee goal.

At Guelph, captain Wally Maxwell notched his second goal of the night for the Marlboros two seconds before the end of the game to send the game into overtime.

But Ron Howell tallied at 5:03 of the extra session — just after 11 men had received majors for staging a donnybrook—to win it for the Biltmores. Guelph, incidentally, received six of the 11 five-minute sentences.

Al Larose and Mike Nykoluk were the other Toronto goal-getters. Howell preceded his winner with a counter in the first period, other goals going to Bob Forhan, Billy McCreary and Hillary Menard.

BARRIE RHUBARB

In Barrie, Jim Robertson of the Flyers and Howie Glover, just acquired by Kitchener from the Marlboros, were in the penalty box when they started a rhubarb in the second period. It cost each of them a misconduct penalty with Glover also drawing a match-misconduct.

Arnie White of the Flyers and Grieg Hicks of Kitchener had a mix-up in the third to account for another two majors.

George Raneiri, Johnny Martan, Don Cherry, Bob White and Danny Poliziani counted for the Flyers. The lone Kitchener marker went to Topoll.

Toronto St. Michael's College is at Galt tonight. In a Sunday doubleheader at Toronto Kitchener meets Marlboros while St. Michael's and St. Catharines try to decide first place.

Toronto Rinks Play In Owen Sound Match

TORONTO (CP) — Mrs. L. E. Woolley's defending champion Toronto Granite rink and Mrs. M. C. Code's Toronto High Park foursome will represent Toronto district in the Ontario ladies' tankard at Owen Sound Jan. 25-26.

Both moved into the provincial championships in regional playoffs Friday at High Park Club.

Mrs. Woolley, with the same rink that captured the tankard last year defeated Mrs. F. G. Cottle of Toronto in the B group final 13-11 while Mrs. Code whipped Mrs. S. W. Taylor of Royal Canadians 13-6 in the A group.

Skiers Ready For Season Opening On Sunday On Snowy Bethany Slopes

Skiers of the city and district are expected to be out in force this Sunday, congregating mainly at Kemp's Hill and at Bethany. Officials and members of the Peterborough Ski Club are working today on the tows and say they will be in first-rate condition for use over the weekend. The recent heavy snowfall was welcomed heartily by skiers of both sexes, though Andy Rutter remarked yesterday that it would be sort of blowy on the hills. "Bush skiing, however, will be real good," he added.

Skiing will commence this weekend, also at the Northumberland Forest Club, just north of Cobourg, with some eight inches of snow on the hills and trails. The chalet has been painted, and the trails widened and cleared out. The tow is ready for use this weekend, making it an earlier start than last winter.

POOR SEASONS

Peterborough and district experienced two poor seasons in a row the past two years, there being comparatively few good skiing weekends. However, a special rate has been given for membership this year for members of the 1952-53 season, and a large turnout is looked for in the next few weeks. Instructions for juniors and beginners will not commence immediately, but plans are being laid along these lines now.

Waddy Waterman heads the local club this year, with Jim Hooper, vice-president; Jack Sackville, secretary and Jerry Williams, treasurer. Doug Fanning looks after competitions, Ted and Joan McCaig are selling annual tickets for the club and tows, Walt Griffin and Don Earle check properties and tows, while Toby Westbye organizes the juniors. Jim and Mollie Craig take time off from the Ontario Ski Association to aid the local club, also.

SHOW FILMS

Films were shown at a recent club meeting in the YMCA, and it was announced then that Peterborough officials had agreed to stage the senior men's and the juniors' four-way meets. Cross-country, slalom and downhill competitions will be held at Bethany in January, if there is lots of snow then, with the jumping done at Nassau. Winners advance in February to the meet in Collingwood. A lot of work has been done already at Bethany on the grounds, trails, tows and chalet, and everything should be ready tomorrow.

Some fine provincial zone meets have been held in Peterborough in the past two decades, with particularly large crowds of spectators viewing spectacular leaps on the high Nassau jump. A former member of the local club, Jack Holland, served as ski instructor to army officers out west during the war, and then returned to Quebec as a professional ski instructor.

Ruth Chips Wins

TORONTO (CP) — Ruth Chips, owned by E. Barnes and Sons of Ailsa Craig, outpaced a good field of junior free for all pacers to win both heats of the featured sixth event at Dufferin Park Friday.

Dufferin Park will be closed Dec. 19-25.

U.S. Davis Cup Players Enter Challenge Round

By WILL GRIMSLEY

BRISBANE, Australia (AP)—The United States Davis Cup team today swept into the challenge round for the 11th straight year when Tony Trabert and Vic Seixas methodically ground out straight-set triumphs over the Belgian team.

Trabert, the Cincinnati youngster who has developed into the ace of the team, polished off Jacques Brichant 6-4, 6-3, 6-1 and Seixas came off the bench to whip Philippe Washer 6-2, 7-5, 8-6, for a 4-1 American margin.

So just as it's been every year since the competition was resumed after the war, the finalists will be the U.S. and Australia. In 1939, the last year before the war interruption, the Americans also played the Aussies, while the two years before that it was the U.S. vs Britain.

The challenge round this year is scheduled for Melbourne Dec. 28, 29 and 30, and there's no denying that the Aussies will be favored to beat the Yanks for the fourth year in a row.

TRABERT STEADY

Trabert, on his present performance, might defeat any amateur in the world, but Seixas still is a question mark. Tony blasted Brichant all over the court. This was the crucial match. It was the one the Americans had to win, for no one knew if Seixas would improve over the miserable performance he put up in losing to Brichant two days before.

The University of Cincinnati student took just 53 minutes to dispose of Brichant. In the nine games he served in the first two sets, Trabert lost only six points and had four aces. In the three matches covering 10 sets, he lost his service only once.

Billy Graham Wins 10-Round Fight Decision

NEW YORK (AP)—Clever Billy Graham, still a boxing master at the age of 31, elbowed into the middleweight scramble Friday night with a unanimous 10-round decision over wild, inept Paddy Young. Graham weighed 150½, Young 161.

This battle of two New York boxers turned out to be a lopsided contest. Referee Al Berl had it 9-1, judge Art Aidala 8-2 and judge Bert Grant 7-3. The AP card had Graham on top 8-1-1.

Graham outboxed his man and cut him around both eyes as he blocked and picked off most of Young's left books.

NO KNOCKDOWNS

There were no knockdowns or anything close to it as Graham opened a wide lead and held it all the way. In the seventh and ninth Billy went on his bike to backpedal away from the wild-swinging Young.

Timing his attack neatly, Graham stung Young repeatedly with his jab, startled him with a right lead and banged away at the body with his straight right.

One of Young's best blows was a hook to the jaw early in the 10th but Graham fought back strongly to grab the round.

Hawks Deny Rumor To Be Sold Out Of League

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Everybody is selling Chicago Black Hawks but the Hawks. They're only looking for hockey players. Rumors that the Hawks, who have lost games all season, were to be sold out of the National Hockey League have been around for weeks. They've been denied on all sides. Even the fact that the Hawks this season are playing some of their games in Indianapolis, to revive interest in the former American League stronghold, has been used by the finger-pointers as indicative that they want to get out of Chicago Stadium.

But Friday night, while the Hawks were taking a 3-1 beating from Detroit Red Wings in Indianapolis, 50 miles south of Chicago, there was an inkling they may get player help from the other clubs in the league.

Arthur Wirtz, boss of the Chicago organization who has repeatedly denied any sale suggestions, met with league president Clarence Campbell and Conn Smythe, managing director of the third-place Toronto Maple leafs.

The subject, naturally: players.

"We didn't get anything concrete," Wirtz said after the Chicago huddle. "But I'm a little more optimistic than I was before the meeting. Money isn't the problem."

WANTS TOP PLAYERS

Wirtz has made no bones about his views that top hockey players, virtually all Canadians, are with Montreal, Toronto, Detroit and Boston.

He suggests "some sort of equitable draft arrangement."

Smythe, who said earlier this week that he didn't care if Chicago pulled out of the big time, commented after Friday night's meeting:

"It was a cloak-and-dagger affair. It's kind of a two-way bargain. If they'll do something, we'll probably do something."

But Smythe had a big "if" attached.

DIDN'T FIZZ

"I was down there looking for players, too," he added.

The talks didn't fizz on the last-place Hawks. They disappointed 8,388 Indianapolis fans, more than they've drawn at Chicago lately, with their showing against the Wings. It was their 24th defeat in 34 games. The Red Wings took over first place with 42 points, two ahead of the idle Canadiens.

Leftwingers Tony Leswick and Ted Lindsay and rightwinger Gord Howe scored for Detroit. Rightwinger Jimmy Peters tallied the only Chicago goal.

The Wings took a 2-0 lead in the first period and stood off brief Black Hawk drives in the second and third sessions for their 18th win in 31 games.

Browns Favored To Beat Detroit Lions

DETROIT (CP) — Cleveland Browns, by virtue of their slightly better season's record and a "jinx" on repeat winners, are slim favorites to defeat Detroit Lions in the United States pro football final before an expected 50,000 fans here Sunday.

Detroit will be seeking to down the Browns for the second straight year and retain the title. But if past records are any indication, they will have a tough time.

Only twice in the 20-year history of the pro playoffs have teams won the championship two years in a row. Chicago Bears did it in 1940-41 and Philadelphia Eagles in 1948-49. Six other teams reached the playoff the year after winning the title but lost the second time.

Sunday's games in Briggs Stadium will be televised with the Michigan-Toledo area blacked out.

The game may develop into a test of defences.

Cleveland yielded only an average of two touchdowns a game during the season, allowing its opponents 162 points in 12 games, as it won the eastern conference title. Forty-two of these came in the final game, when Philadelphia Eagles rolled up a 42-27 margin and handed the Browns their only setback.

Detroit gave up 205 points—best mark in the western division—but its air defence, the vital part of any defence, was second to none.

On the offence, Cleveland outscored the Lions, 348 points to 271. The Brownies' 11-1 record was a shade better than Detroit's 10-2. But many felt the Lions had a rougher schedule.

Remember When—

Ernie Schaaf pounded out a 10-round decision over Max Baer in his first big fight in New York 23 years ago tonight. Three years later Schaaf took a terrible beating from Primo Carnera, then on his way to the heavyweight championship. Schaaf was carried to his corner and died in hospital four days later.

TOP HARNESS HORSE—Hi-Lo's Forbes, who was sold for $300 as a youngster and has earned $52,625 in taking 11 of 17 starts for his owners, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Wagner, of Lanover Hills, Md., was this week selected as the outstanding harness horse of the year in the United States. The five-year-old black stallion set a mile record over a twice-around oval when he finished in 1.58.6 last June 6 at the Roosevelt Raceway, N.Y. The turf writers' poll gave Hi-Lo's Forbes 753 points. Nearest competitor was Pronto Don, rated No. 1 in 1951, with 413. Here with Hi-Lo's Forbes is trainer-driver Henry Clukey.

Must Work With Enthusiasm For Success

Richard C. Oaks, chartered life underwriter and Kingston representative of the Canada Life Assurance Co., addressed the Peterborough Association, Friday, on "Why Selling is Fun."

He addressed the field men of the insurance business particularly and stressed the fact that they were their own manager. Their employees were the factors of time, prestige, appearance and enthusiasm, which if properly used, would give high returns.

"You must like your work, or you wouldn't be in it. But when working for yourself you must take your job even more seriously, then if you were working for someone else. You are your own manager and any blame or praise is entirely your responsibility."

"Life must be spent in such a way that tomorrow is not a cause of worry. If an accomplishment is achieved one day, it will aid in accomplishing something the next. Even a good night's sleep is an accomplishment that will aid the next day's endeavours.

"Never forget the importante of time. If you find that you are just putting in time at the office, don't remain there. It is better to play enthusiastically, han to work half-heartedly."

Gets Two Years For Series Of Offences

COBOURG (ENS) — Keith Thompson, 22, of Port Hope, was sentenced to concurrent reformatory terms of two years less a day determinate and six months indeterminate when he appeared for sentence Friday before Magistrate R. B. Baxter.

He pleaded guilty last week to theft of a car battery on November 14 from a Port Hope auto supply store, theft of an auto rug in November, owner unknown, breaking and entering the service station of A. J. Henderson, Port Hope, on November 19 with intent to commit an indictable offence, theft of gas on November 19 from A. J. Henderson and breaking and entering the premises of R. Leeson October 27 at Port Hope.

Lesley Beauclaire, 17, of Kingston, was remanded out of custody into the care of his parents to appear in court on January 15, when he appeared on seven charges of theft from cars in Port Hope. The offences were petty thefts. Beauclaire had previously lived in Port Hope.

Lawrence Boivoin of Port Hope appeared on two charges of retaining stolen goods but one of these was amended to theft and the other was dismissed. He also was remanded out of custody to appear on January 15.

RECORD 49 POINTS—Kenneth Ruttler proudly displays a 49-point deer which he killed at Hollidaysburg, Pa. The buck weighed 148 pounds and veteran hunters don't recall anyone shooting a deer with more than 20 points. It was the first deer Ruttler killed in eight years.

Win Posthumous Award

LONDON (Reuters)—Welsh poet Dylan Thomas, who died in New York last month, was awarded a poetry prize of 2,000,000 lire ($3,220) by an Italian society, his publishers announced today. The Etna-Taormina International Prize in Poetry was awarded him posthumously for his collected poems, published a few months before his death.

Troops Fall Back

VENICE (AP) — Reports from Italian military headquarters early today said Yuoslavia and Italy will have all their troops withdrawn from the borders north of Trieste by Sunday. Both countries agreed a week ago to "normalize" the frontier situation, which had become tense in the bitter dispute over Trieste's future.

Strongman May Go Back Home Town

VANCOUVER (CP)—Doug Hepburn, who won the world's heavyweight weight-lifting crown for Canada at the last Olympic games, will give his home town another chance.

It was learned Friday that Hepburn will return here soon for talks with Mayor Fred Hume and others.

Hepburn, in San Francisco considering offers to become a professional wrestler, said he would return "in the next few days" to discuss the matter. He said that he has not made up his mind, but if backers who suggested a "trust fund" to underwrite his training come through, he will probably stay an amateur.

ONLY PROMISES SO FAR

The strongman said promises to set him up in a gymnasium here "never came through." Hepburn was expected to be a big point-getter for Canada in next summer's British Empire Games.

However, he said that if past "empty promises" were not fulfilled, he would probably turn to professional wrestling, where "at least I can make a living and not a bad one."

Hepburn said in San Francisco he first decided to turn pro because "there is no future in weight-lifting," but after a week in the California city, decided to return home before making up his mind.

Maroons Beat Dutchmen 32 Win First In 11 Games

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Chatham Maroons Friday night broke a jinx that has been hanging over their heads since they entered the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series—they defeated Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen.

The Maroons 3-2 decision in Chatham was their first victory over Kitchener in 11 meetings since the Maroons entered the group last season.

Niagara Falls Cataracts pulled another upset when they tagged Stratford Indians with a 4-3 defeat in Niagara Falls.

In the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Yacker Flynn scored in overtime to give Sudbury Wolves a 4-3 victory over North Bay Trappers in Sudbury.

DICK SCORES WINNER

Ernie Dick scored the winning goal for the Maroons early in the third period. Al Plouffe and Joe Carveth notched the others for Chatham. Don Oberholtzer and Jerry Theberge were the Kitchener marksmen.

Billy Young notched the winner for the last-place Cataracts against the Indians. Norvel Olsen scored a pair for Niagara Falls with the remaining counter going to playing coach Ken Campbell. Fred Pletsch George Aitken and Mike Delich tallied for Stratford.

Sudbury's victory over North Bay moved the Wolves to within one point of the front-running Sault Ste. Marie (Ont.) Greyhounds in the NOHA.

SCORED TWO

Gord Heale scored two and Andy Milne a single before Flynn won it for Sudbury. Paul Koneczny, Gord Dwyer and Chasle tallied for North Bay.

Windsor is at Owen Sound, Chatham at Stratford and Hamilton at Kitchener tonight. Niagara Falls is at Windsor Sunday.

In the NOHA Sudbury clashes with the Greyhounds and North Bay plays the Lumber Kings in Pembroke tonight. The Wolves meet the Indians in Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Sunday.

Indo-China Struggle Enters Eighth Year

By LARRY ALLEN

HANOI, Indo-China (AP)—The French Union's struggle against the Communist-led Vietminh rebels in Indo-China rounded out its seventh year today with no end in sight. But the French are hopeful that another two years will bring victory.

Throughout the war which started Dec. 19, 1946, French Union forces have kept a strong grip on the Red river delta in northern Indo-China as the key bulwark against a possible Communist sweep through southeast Asia.

But the French and their main ally, the Indo-Chinese republic of Viet Nam, have not yet scored a decisive victory. Neither, however, has the Vietminh, led by Moscow-trained Ho Chi Minh.

On this anniversary day, rebel forces occupy most of Viet Nam, one of the three French-associated Indo-Chinese states which also include Laos and Cambodia. French sources say Ho Chi Minh's army, trained and equipped by China, is stronger than ever.

One of his crack divisions is threatening to gain more territory by overrunning the pro-French Thai "people's" country in northwestern Indo-China.

EXPECT ASSAULT

French forces expect the Vietminh to assault the fortress of Dien Bien Phu near the frontier of northern Laos. It is the last big barrier to the Vietminh in all of the thai country.

As the conflict goes into its eighth year:

The French and Indo-Chinese governments have already spent around $10,000,000,000 to fight it.

Some 2,000,000 Viet Namese have . . . I was drunk daily for months, been uprooted from their homes and forced to flee into French-controlled zones.

The Vietminh, by French estimates, have suffered 240,000 killed, 420,000 wounded and 238,000 captured. French Union losses have been estimated at 48,000 French and Vietnamese killed, 80,000 wounded and 12,000 missing.

Lions Withdraw Hockey League

MONTREAL (CP) — St. Hyacinthe Lions Friday night bowed out of the Provincial Hockey League, reducing the circuit to three teams.

It was the second withdrawal from the league this week. Lachine Rapides dropped out Wednesday because of lack of support at home games.

It was understood that the St. Hyacinthe club's finances were nearly exhausted and that there was some disagreement over allotment of Lachine players to other teams in the league.

League officials said they will hope to be able to induce the Lions to return to the circuit, but a week-end, home-and-home series against Cornwall Colts has been cancelled.

The three teams left in the loop are St. Jerome, Ste. Therese and Cornwall.

Pauline Weir Heads Evening Auxiliary

NORWOOD — (ENS) — The Christmas meeting of the Evening Auxiliary of the United church, WMS was held at the home of Mrs. F. Patterson.

The meeting opened with a hymn and prayer. A reading was given by Miss Pauline Weir.

The following officers for 1954 were chosen: President, Miss Pauline Weir; vice-president, Mrs. R. Gardner; recording secretary, Miss D. Simpson; corresponding secretary, Miss Lila Kirk; treasurer, Mrs. A. Atkinson; supply secretary, Mrs. J. Loughton; Missionary Monthly, Mrs. G. Peoples; community friendship, Mrs. G. Baker; citizens secretary, Miss B. Borland; association membership secretary, Mrs. E. Hamblin; press secretary, Mrs. D. Paxton; pianist, Mrs. H. Gyde; group leaders, Mrs. A. McNab, Miss Clara Jenkins and Mrs. R. Irwin.

The program was presented by Mrs. Reta Pakenham, Miss B. Borland, Mrs. P. Kempt and Miss Pauline Weir, with the group joining in the singing of carols. The meeting was closed with the benediction. Lunch was served.

Plan Build New Park For Richmond Club

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Mayor Ed Haddock said Friday night a new baseball park probably will be built to accommodate Richmond's projected club in the International League.

The mayor said he will meet with a "small syndicate" of Richmond business men today to lay plans for construction of such a park.

Richmond tentatively was awarded a spot in the International League on the condition it obtain a suitable park.

Theatre In Dublin Remains Vital Force In Irish Life

DUBLIN—Although the heroic years of the Irish Drama are over,—the years in which Dublin's Abbey Theatre fanned the flames of dormant Irish nationalism into a blaze which won for most of Ireland independence of British rule,—the theatre in Dublin remains a vital and valuable force in Irish life, and continues to contribute plays, actors, and managers to English-language drama throughout the world, writes Garnet Fitzgerald in Montreal Star. In the field of drama, as in that of government, Dublin is no longer a British provincial city, but has won for itself and is retaining successfully a separate cultural identity in the face of the centralising influences of London, New York and Hollywood.

The history of the Irish Drama, has, indeed, paralleled very closely that of Irish parliamentary self-government. Dublin's first theatres —apart, of course, from its many churches which in earlier centuries had been the scene of mediaval miracle plays, — appeared in the 17th century, when the old division between English Pale and Gaelic Hinterland dissolved, and the Irish Parliament first came into prominence as an all-Ireland legislature. (The 'Pale' was the area around Dublin governed directly by England in mediaeval time.)

GREAT DRAMATISTS

It was in the eighteenth century, when the Irish Parliament became a national institution instead of a mere instrument of British rule, that the Irish Theatre reached its first climax, producing great dramatists like Richard Brinsley Sheridan (who learned his trade as an actor in his father's Dublin theatre) and great actors and actresses. It was in Dublin's Music Hall that Handel's Messiah was first performed in 1741. The popularity of the theatre in Dublin two centuries ago is attested by the fact that its two main theatres were sometimes filled simultaneously by a total of almost 4,000 people, even when Parliament (then considered a first-class popular entertainment) was in session, and a concert was being held that same night in another building! In those days Dublin's total population was 50,000—compared to the present 550,000—and prices were four or five times as high as today, making due allowance for the fall in the value of money since the eighteenth century.

With the suppression of the Irish Parliament in 1800, and the consequent legislative union between Ireland and Britain, came the rapid decline of the Drama in Ireland. The great old theatres disappeared, to be replaced by music halls, and the plays of earlier ages were replaced by Victorian melodramas. In the sphere of the Theatre as well as in that of Politics, Dublin became a British provincial city.

From this cultural and political doldrums, the Abbey Theatre of fifty years ago dragged a sometimes reluctant Irish nation, and the Drama Movement of the early years of this century deserves full credit for the fact that Dublin is now a political capital, as well as a city with a thriving theatrical tradition. If the Abbey has declined from its former peaks, the acting on its stage is still of a high standard, and other first-class companies have joined it in providing Dublin with a standard of dramatic entertainment remarkable for so small a city.

Two of these companies are associated with the Gate Theatre, founded after the achievement of independence but, occupying an eighteenth century Assembly Rooms. The Gate Company became divided, two groups parting by mutual consent, on the basis that each would share the actual theatre for six months of the year. This split, which at the time seemed little short of disastrous, in time enriched Irish life, for instead of only two first-rank companies, Ireland now possessed three.

At the moment one of the Gate companies is playing Shaw's St. Joan in the Gate Theatre, with Siobhan McKenna in the lead,—a production which has received unstinting praise from Dublin critics, who rarely find anything entirely good to say about any production' Next year this Company, managed by Michael (pronounced 'Meehawl') MacLiammoir and Hilton Edwards, is undertaking an Americtan tour, with film actress Maureen O'Sullivan in the lead. (Male stars who served some of their apprenticeship at the Gate include Orson Welles and James Mason).

Edwards and MacLiammoir's specialties include Shakespeare, (their production of Richard II several years ago, with MacLiammoir in the lead, was up to the highest London standard), modern writers such as Eugene O'Neill and Thornton Wilder, and several contemporary Irish dramatists, for example Maura Laverty and MacLiammoir himself. The other Gate Company, that of the Earl of Longford, specializes rather in Shaw and Sheridan, in modern writers like Christopher Fry, and in Irish plays by Lady Longford and others. Lady Longford writes both historical plays, and satirical comedies of contemporary Irish life.

The Dublin productions of these three companies far surpass the average mediocre level of most London plays — with the result that Irish people visiting the British capital are constantly astounded by the generally uninspiring acting and production, and by the poor quality of the plays. This is a superficial judgment, however, for, naturally enough, the best in London surpasses the most impressive Dublin productions.

To add to the variety of dramatic entertainment in Dublin, many British companies visit the Irish capital both with straight plays and with musicals. Until recently these visits were limited to repertory companies, but in the last year or two many London productions have been flown over to Dublin—in some cases with up to six plane-loads of scenery and props!

OPERA POPULAR

Opera is also very popular in Dublin, and there are a number of amateur operatic societies which give performances several times each year. A new development in this field has been the appearance of the Hamburg State Opera, which is next year to make its third visit to Dublin. Its performances have to be given in one of the theatres, as Dublin is in the extraordinary position of having no concert hall. Plans are on foot to remedy this defect, and there are also plans to build a new and adequate theatre to supplement the four relatively small and ill-equipped houses now devoted to plays and operas, and the two cinemas that are equipped with stages and dressing-rooms for variety performances, pantomimes, occasional celebrity concerts, etc.

In view of Dublin's eminence in the field of drama, it has been suggested that the annual Festival instituted this year ("An Tostal") should in future concentrate on the Drama, in which it could easily rival the Edinburgh Festival which has achieved such eminence since the War.

Churchill Burns Hand When Matches Ignite

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill is nursing a burned left hand, aides announced today.

They said a box of matches he was holding ignited during a luncheon party Friday at Trinity House, headquarters of Britain's ancient maritime pilotage organization.

Lord Moran, Churchill's personal physician, called on the 79-year-old prime minister at his official 10 Downing street residence today.

Later Churchill drove off to his country home at Chartwell, Kent. His left hand was bandaged and his arm was in a sling.

Despite his injury, Churchill smiled and waved his good arm at a knot of sight-seers who saw him drive off.

Churchill is due to spend only one day at Chartwell. Then he will go to Chequers, his official country home, to spend Christmas.

Subaltern To Go On Trial Alleged Murder Of Woman

MORRISBURG (CP)—2nd Lieut. Peter Ernest Robin Balcombe goes on trial for murder next February.

The 24-year-old London, Ont., subaltern was committed late Friday at the end of a two-day preliminary hearing into the crown's charge that he was responsible for the fatal stabbing of Marie Annie Carrier of Bienville, Que.

A farm boy found Miss Carrier's naked, wounded body in a ditch near this St. Lawrence river town Oct. 15. Three days later in the home of his wife's parents at Komoka, near London, Balcombe was arrested as he dined with his wife and two young children.

At the completion of crown evidence, defence counsel J. M. P. Kelly of Ottawa moved that Balcombe be let go. "The crown . . . has succeeded only in proving that a crime was committed," Mr. Kelly said. "There is not the slightest evidence to link the accused with the crime."

EVIDENCE CIRCUMSTANTIAL

Magistrate S. M. Cass agreed that evidence was very circumstanial," but he believed there was sufficient "to place the accused upon his trial."

Before being committed for trial before the spring assizes, which open in nearby Cornwall next February, Balcombe, standing stiffly at attention, said:

NOT GUILTY

"Your worship, the only thing I can say is I am not guilty."

After committal, he said "Thank you, sir" and was led away handcuffed to two police officers who drove him to the county jail in Cornwall, where he awaits his trial.

The defence called no witness during the hearing. Among the 21 called by the crown were the dead woman's mother and a sister, Balcombe's commanding officer and company commander, a pathologist, an analyst and a tourist camp employee.

STAB WOUNDS

Dr. W. D. Hay, provincial pathologist and a professor at Queen's University, Kingston, described his autopsy on Miss Carrier's body. He said the 22-year-old CWAC reserve sergeant had been stabbed once in the eye with a tin knife apparently sharp on both edges, twice in the left breast and once under the right breast. He said there was a shallow cut on each side of the abdomen.

Capt. Charles V. Carlson, Balcombe's company commander at Valcartier Camp, Que., said a stiletto Balcombe carried during training earlier this year at Wainwright and Jasper, Alta., was missing from the accused's effects. Capt. Carlson said that in a customary check of equipment of officers on leave, he did not find the doube-edge knife in Balcombe's gear.

Dr. Hay said abrasions on Miss Carrier's neck could have been caused by a knotted silk stocking found among other women's clothing in a tourist cabin near Woodstock. Dr. Noble Sharp, analyst for the Ontario attorney-general's department who examined the clothing, said the stocking could have been used as a gag.

FOUND CLOTHING

Charles Clayton, an employee at the Beachville tourist camp near Woodstock, said he rented a cabin to a soldier for the night of Oct. 15. He pointed to Balcombe in the court room as the soldier. Clayton said he and the tourist camp owner's son, Harley Cousans, found a woman's clothing in the cabin a week later and turned it over to police.

When the hearing opened Wednesday, Maria Therese Carrier, younger sister of the slain woman identified the clothing was belonging to Annie.

Dr. Hay said bruises on Miss Carrier's thumbs could have been caused by a struggle and abrasions on her knees indicated she had been kneeling on a rough surface, probably on bare knees.

He said there were a number of internal wounds, as though the knife had been inserted, withdrawn and inserted again several times through the same cut in the skin.

Dr. Hay said the breast wounds would bring death quickly but that there must have been some life in the body when it was dumped by the roadside. He estimated Miss Carrier had been dead for 20 to 25 hours when he received her body Oct. 16 for the autopsy.

He described a 20-inch incision just piercing the skin from the base of the abdomen to the breast line as the work of someone who knew how an abdominal incision is made. Miss Carrier, he added, had never been pregnant.

Eastern Star Holds Christmas Party

WARKWORTH (ENS) — The Eastern Star entertained visitors at their Christmas party after the regular meeting.

Owen Finlay acted as chairman and gave a short address. He presided over a program which opened with carol singing, with Mrs. D. Knight at the piano.

Mrs. L. Tucker gave a Christmas reading and Mrs. Thomas Doidge gave a piano solo. A duet was sung by Mrs. James McCleary and Mrs. Don Thompson, accompanied by Mrs. D. Knight, pianist.

A Christmas contest was conducted by Mrs. Allan Buchanan with three couples all getting high points: Lorne Evans and Mrs. C. E. Meiklejohn, Glenn Hancock and Mrs. Don Thompson, Owen Finlay and Mrs. Douglas Edgar. Each couple received prizes of candy canes.

Mrs. Edna Thompson, Worthy Matron, extended a welcome to the visitors on behalf of lodge members.

As all joined in singing "Jingle Bells," Santa appeared and, with the aid of Mrs. Norma McCleary, distributed the exchange of gifts from the tree.

A draw on a pin-up lamp was won by Mr. Fred Platt and a draw on brush and comb set was won by Mrs. C. E. Meiklejohn.

Lunch, including Christmas cake, was served.

Jury Indicts Policeman On Perjury Count

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — A federal grand jury probing the missing Greenlease ransom money Friday indicted a suspended St. Louis policeman on a charge of perjury.

Action against the 25-year-old officer, Elmer Dolan, came less than 15 hours after the execution of the kidnappers he had helped arrest.

Dolan, suspended last week by the St. Louis police board pending a hearing on charges growing out of his handling of the arrest, appeared before the jury less than five minutes.

He was placed in jail, after his arraignment, in default of a $25,000 bond.

Dolan and Lieut. Louis Shoulders, since resigned from the police department, took kidnapper Carl Austin Hall into custody at a St. Louis hotel Oct. 6. Hall contended two suitcases containing the ransom money were not taken to a police station with him. Later $303,720 of the ransom money was missing.

The policeman insisted both suitcases were brought to the station.

Mrs. Lewis Hostess To Trent River Group

HAVELOCK (ENS) — The Christmas meeting of Group 4 of the Woman's Association of Trent River United church was held at the home of Mrs. Walter Lewis, Havelock, which was decorated in keeping with the Yuletide season. There was an attendance of 24.

Mrs. F. Openshaw, acting convener of the group, conducted the business session and led the worship service. Mrs. R. G. Newman read the scripture lesson and Mrs. Bert Robson led in prayer.

Two minutes silence was observed in memory of the late Mrs. Isabila Scott, a member of the WA who died suddenly at Trent River Monday.

Mrs. Lewis was convener for the program, which included vocal solos by Mrs. R. G. Newman and Mrs. Bert Robson. A reading was given by Mrs. Frank McLaughlin and Mrs. A. McKeown read a poem composed by Mrs. R. Bonney of Havelock.

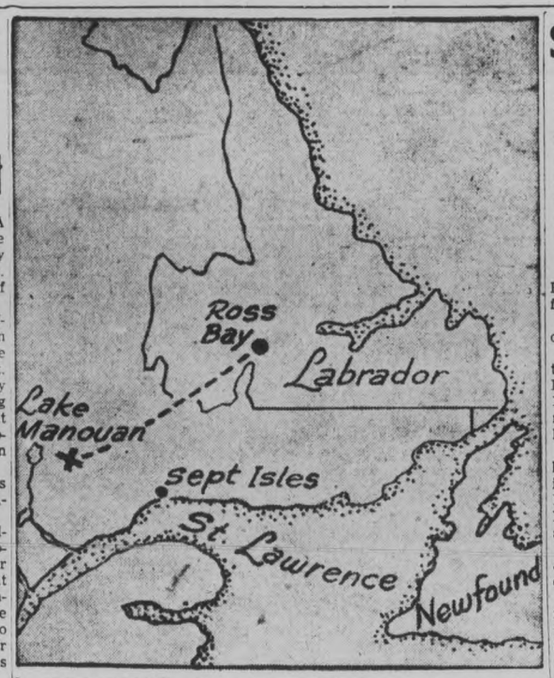
A Christmas contest was won by Mrs. Jack Henry. There was an exchange of gifts.

Hostesses for lunch were Mrs. Lewis, Mrs. F. McLaughlin and Mrs. Harold Vanvolkenburg.

Victor Morrow Named Master Of LOL 108

WARKWORTH (ENS) — LOL 108 met in the lodge rooms.

The following officers for 1954 were elected: Past Worthy Master, Douglas McVety; Master, Victor Morrow; deputy Master, Fred Skinkle; chaplain, H. Bronson; recording secretary, Jess Ireland; treasurer, Don Skinkle; financial secretary, K. Fairman; marshal, Melville Yabsley; lecturers, C. McBride, Roy Shopland; committee, G. Vesterfelt, Douglas McVety, Lou Arkils, M. McKenzie, Jess Ireland, G. McKenzie; caretaker, G. McKenzie.



Crystal Chapter Draw

HAVELOCK (ENS) — Crystal Chapter 36 held their draws for two hampers of groceries and a three-tiered Christmas cake, following the chapter meeting.

The prize winners were: Mrs. George Wright, Blairton (hamper of groceries); Dorothy Chambers, Malone (hamper of groceries); Douglas Greenley, Warkworth (Christmas cake).

Say Kidnapper Witness For Christ

(Editor's Note: The following account of the execution of Carl Austin Hall and Bonnie Brown Heady was written at the invitation of the Kansas City Star by one of the eight clergymen who saw, talked to and gave spiritual counsel to the two in preparation for their execution early today. The author insists on remaining anonymous, and has written this in an effort to point out the Christian values involved. It was made available to The Associated Press by the Star.)

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. —Carl Hall died a tremendous witness for Christ.

And it saved the lives of five others.

This he declared, for the world to know, just before he and Bonnie Brown Heady were executed at 12:12 Friday morning for the kidnap-murder of little Boby Greenlease.

"I can see good in this, father," he said to one who was ministering to him. "I only killed Bobby. If I had had just 12 hours more, I would have killed five more. God saved me from that."

Did he mean five more from among those identified with the case?

"Oh, no," said Hall, "I mean five that I've hated all my life. I'd have gotten them too, with all that money, it would have been easy. See what I mean? I killed only one, and was caught. It might have been six—five more."

He paused, and then said with emphasis:

"That's the working of Christ. It had to be. I had murder in my heart. God knew, and saved those five others."

He lit a cigarette.

"I'm glad," he added, "and you can do something for me, father, tell the world. Tell them that only God is important. I know now. And tell them that if it weren't for whisky, these penitentiaries would be closed.

"Tell the world, father. Look—if Christ could do this for me, a mean, drunken, miserable so-and-so, Christ could do it for anybody. I know.

NOT AFRAID OF DEATH

"Father, I'm an intelligent man," he said. "This isn't a conversion because I'm afraid of death. I've never been afraid of death. All my life I've been wondering, thinking. And if it made sense to intelligent men all over the world, there must be something to it."

Relaxed, poised, he repeated his wish to have the world told about it.

"Why," he demanded, "do we have to wait so long? Why do we have to be so stupid?

"Since I've been in jail, I know it was the will of Christ that I couldn't kill those other five. He stopped me after killing Bobby.

"READY FOR GOD"

"And now I'm ready for God, my judge. And I'm glad."

But what about Bonnie? Was she equally repentant?

"Sure," said Hall. "She'll tell you. She loves me and I love her. I know her better than anyone else.

"Bonnie was drunk for a year . . . I was drunk daily for months. after a while anything seems all right. I'm the guilty one. She couldn't say no to me. The only sin she's guilty of was loving me."

That was 9 p.m. (Thursday night). Three hours to go. Hall asked the time and laughed.

NO HATRED

Mrs. Heady too. She died game. In the cell, before the cyanide was dropped . . . she called to Hall. Those watching had no trouble reading her lips.

"Carl."

"Yeh."

"Carl, I love you."

"I love you, Bonnie."

And so it ended as strangely as it had begun.

Neither had any hatred or malice.

A contrast, in many ways, to some of those who witnessed their deaths.

Probably no two persons in recent history had had so much kindly attention in prison, so much ministerial care.

Two Roman Catholic priests, two Episcopal priests, four Protestant ministers saw them repeatedly.

Five divines saw them just before their execution. Three were with them at the end of their earthly existence.

GREAT PRECAUTIONS

At the prison, whose rambling walls jut heavenward on the eastern side of Jefferson City, great precautions had taken place.

Everyone entering the prison was searched—a gun, even on an officer—could be deadly, could start a riot, for it could be seized by some of the 2,500 convicts.

And the views of the convicts were positive. They hated Hall. They sympathized with Mrs. Heady. After all, as one of them expressed it, "she was just a babe, in love."

There was the report that Hall had planned to kill Mrs. Heady after he had collected the $600,000 ransom.

This he denied.

"That's absolutely false," he said. "It never entered my mind. If it had, I would have had plenty of time to do it in."

The prison yard was lighted by several fir trees. After all, this is the Christmas season.

And a traffic officer, near the prison entrance, told a visitor who asked about the blockading of several downtown streets: "The ministers. They're having a Christmas parade tonight."

And out of one cell block a radio blared "Gloria in Excelsis Deo"—glory to God in the highest and on earth peace, to men of good will.

Red PoW's Plan Celebrate Christmas Behind Barbed Wire

By STAN CARTER

PANMUNJOM (AP) — Twenty-two United States war prisoners today planned a festive Christmas behind barbed wire as the United Nations command made a last-minute appeal that they weigh carefully their decision to stay with the Reds.

A 12-page letter addressed today to each prisoner urged them to be certain that their refusal to return home was not an "irrevocable" mistake.

Copies of the letter went sent to Lt.-Gen. K. S. Thimayya, Indian chairman of the neutral nations repatriation commission, with a vote asking that they be delivered to the 22 Americans in neutral custody.

A spokesman for Thimayya indicated that the "come home" letter would have to be approved by the five-country NNRC Monday, just two days before expiration of the 90-day period for trying to woo home unrepatriated war prisoners.

There appeared little chance that face-to-face interviews with the balky Americans would be arranged before the deadline.

The letter actually is a statement Allied explainers planned to use during interviews with the prisoners.

The UN command also is reported planning loudspeaker broadcasts to the prisoners before the Wednesday deadline.

CHRISTMAS CELEBRATIONS

Both pro-Communist and anti-Communist prisoners in neutral custody are making preparations for celebrating Christmas in their compounds.

The Reds today delivered a truckload of athletic equipment to the pro-Communist camp, along with decorations and colored tissue paper. Holiday food and sporting goods also has been supplied for the Americans, the one Briton and 327 South Koreans in the camp.

Some 22,000 Chinese and North Koreans in the anti-Red camp will get Christmas delicacies from the UN command. The Indian command said it will distribute gifts from outside organizations, including several planeloads of food from Formosa.

Negotiate Food Deal

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP)—Nationalist China is negotiating with the United States for $5,000,000 worth of surplus American farm products, the official Central News Agency announced today. The Nationalist government wants $3,000,000 worth of wheat and barley and $2,000,000 in soy beans or wheat.

Two Refugees Shot

HOF, Germany (Reuters)—Two East Germans were shot at by Communist border police Friday night when they tried to escape into West Germany near here. Both were dragged back into East Germany and one of them seemed to be seriously hurt, witnesses said.

Old-Style London Bus Driver Fast Becoming Extinct Species

Among London's 45,000 bus- drivers and conductors there is still a good sprinkling of old-style cockney humorists. They were the sort who helped keep up the morale of this city during the blitz. They could crack a joke even when a bomb was whistling down on them, writes Peter Lyne in The Times of London.

Today as I take a twopenny ride from the Strand to Westminster I still sometimes hear that old chestnut as we stop outside the Houses of Parliament—"Anybody for the Westminster gas works?"

Yes, it's very corny when you've heard it for 25 years. Yet in a way it would be sad not to hear it any more. It is so characteristic of traditional cockney good humour.

But it's no use shedding tears because things don't stay the same. London's bus drivers and conductors are changing like the traffic they handle. It's only the brilliant red color of the buses themselves which seems unchanging.

Some of the older conductors of today were born and reared in the hansom cab days when travel was a far more personal and leisurely business. There was more occasion for jokes and small talk. Nowadays travel in a great metropolis has become much more of a streamlined factory process.

It could hardly be otherwise considered London's public transport system carries 12,000,000 passengers a day and does it with amazing efficiency.

But the young conductors of today seem an entirely different type. They often have serious, preoccupied faces. Mostly one can find no fault with their politeness. They are not unfriendly, yet without being friendly like the old-timers. But they don't have so much patience with chatty elderly folk. They have the same kind of preoccupation as men on a factory assembly line.

They are in fact doing a job of work which is exacting for the driver at all times on account of traffic density. And for conductors at peak rush-hour periods it's an ordeal. They get paid a weekly wage of around $24 which is a living wage but not a very high living.

B Copy

RED INFLUENCE

And that brings me to the more serious side of this story. There is a considerable Communist influence in the London section of the vast Transport and General Workers Union. This doesn't mean there are a large number of open Communists among London's bus drivers and conductors. But it does mean they are leftish and open to Communist influence.

That is one reason why there was such anxiety over the recent strike of London motor fuel truck drivers. That strike had a strong Communist backing. It was against the advice of the union. It was characteristic of the new type of Communist disruption which is reportedly being inspired by the Cominform and the Communist World Federation of Trade Unions.

This new policy is thought here to aim at less emphasis on the Communist political propaganda and more on guerrilla strikes to test out how small groups of men like the 2,000 or 3,000 motor fuel truckmen could bring the life of a huge community like London to a standstill.

At first the strike really did look as if it might bring life to a standstill. Then the government brought in troops to deliver gasoline and oil. Would the bus drivers listen to the strikers' call not to use "black" petrol?

STRIKE ENDED

Drivers at one of the more troublesmoe garages — Dalston — did in fact join the strike. But at that stage the motor fuel strike leaders changed their tune. They became alarmed at the prospect of the strike spreading. They called their man back to work. And the strike ended.

What were the lessons of this strike? It showed how a relatively small group of key men like the motor fuel deliverymen might paralyze the whole nation.

But there was also a more encouraging lesson—namely, that a strike loses the sympathy of the ordinary British people whenever it is thought to be Communist inspired or Communist backed.

Western European Nations Worry About Foreign Trade, Home Business Good In 1953

By SEYMOUR TOPPING

LONDON (AP)—Western European continental countries generally enjoyed good business at home during 1953. But they faced the new year worried about foreign trade.

Industrial production reached record peaks in West Germany and Italy. Farm yields were good except in drought - stricken Spain. stock markets reflected confidence.

West Europeans bought more food and consumer goods. Despite bigger business volumes, inflation was held in check.

The economic clouds that hung over western Europe were mainly due to the sluggish and lopsided movement of international trade on the Continent and the seemingly chronic shortage of dollars.

Most governments tended to take off controls and encourage freer enterprise. A notable exception was Norway where socialists pushed through a permanent price control law.

Associated Press correspondents reported general optimism that internal business will prove as healthy in 1954.

However, western Europe warily eyed the United States, fearful of anything that might cut earnings in American markets. Western Europe still cannot pay its way in world trade. Many countries need dollar aid to help carry their heavy defence burdens, complete reconstruction, buy goods from North America and adjust their trade balance.

WEST GERMANS PROSPER

A recent spate of small Russian orders, evidently to improve home-front living standards, attracted considerable interest in western Europe. But the small number of contracts allowed to dribble through the Iron Curtain failed to convince western statesmen that the Kremlin was ready to unlock any kind of a big consumer goods market.

Booming West Germany made the year's biggest business news. Industrial output was up and business expanded steadily in all categories. Aggressive West German exporters outpaced Britain in South America and cut deep into her traditional India and Middle East markets. Living costs went down and industrial workers' income rose.

The French economic picture was not especially bright. Industrial production slipped slightly but stayed at a high level. Farm output was good to excellent. The volume of business apparently increased.

Although wage levels and consumer price indices remained fairly steady, workers grumbled because of considerable partial or short - term unemployment and slight increases in the prices of food which takes 70 per cent of the little man's budget. The foreign trade position remained precarious.

Italy boasted an expanding internal economy with record high agricultural and industrial production. However, the chronic unemployment problem worsened. In June, the official figure was 2,132,000, up 100,000 over June 1951.

NORWAY UNEASY

In Scandinavia, Sweden enjoyed a steady boom with stable price and wage levels and an improved international trade balance. In Norway, industrial production increased, people had more money to spend and business sales expanded. But the country was uneasy because of her steadily deteriorating trade balance.

Austria had a good year at home and abroad. Foreign exchange reserves climbed.

Spain's economy largely marked time through 1953 hoping that the arrival of U.S. dollar aid next year will give the country a shot in the arm.

Prosperous Belgium had another good year. Despite the February flood disaster, The Netherlands fared well in both its national economy and in world markets. Dollar reserves improved sufficiently to allow the government to promise an easing in restrictions on imports from North America.

No. 63-207 — Designed and built by owners Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Hackney in Sarnia, Ontario, this home features an unusually spacious parking court capable of accommodating four or five cars at one time without crowding. Set back a full 150' from the street, this convenience feature was made possible by the large lot with 124' frontage and 917' depth. Facing south, the floor-depth living room picture windows look out over a pleasant 20' x 9' terrace. Walls are of lap siding with stucco for the garage. Centre section is in variegated brick veneer. Roof is of green asphalt shingles. A large recreation room is provided in the basement. The spacious living-dining room is dominated by a large open fireplace with wall-length mantel. Loads of closet space is apparent everywhere—and notice, too, that extra washroom just inside the entrance. Living room floor is ranch plank oak. To Restore Hull Of Wooden Ship

KINGSTON (CP)—Ronald Way, director of Old Fort Henry museum, said Friday that identification of the hulls of the three wooden ships discovered during excavations near Fort Frontenac is progressing slowly.

Mr. Way, and a staff of workers dug out a large bow section of one hull earlier this week and took it to Fort Henry for restoration.

It is thought that the hulls are the remains of the French lake fleet burned in a British raid across the lake from Oswego, N.Y. in August, 1758. The raid took place 13 months before Gen. James Wolfe took Quebec, leading to the British conquest of Canada.

The bow section taken to Fort Henry will be treated with linseed oil to preserve it for further study.

The hulls were discovered two weeks ago by construction men digging trenches for foundation piers for a new National Defence College building.

Seven Ways To Save Fuel

CLEAN YOUR FURNACE . . . before lighting a fire your furnace should be thoroughly cleaned—and kept clean. When burning cheaper grades of coal a quick brushing once a week would pay real dividends—a coating of only 1-16" of soot on the furnace sections above the fire bed can waste up to one-third of your coal through slowing down heat transmission into the heating chambers.

REPAIR LEAKING TAPS . . . if hot water is provided by a jacket heater or coils in the furnace, a dripping tap means wasted fuel. New washers are inexpensive and easy to instal.

CAULK AROUND WINDOW FRAMES . . . this is important. Be sure to examine for possible air leaks. Caulking perserves frames as well.

INSTAL STORM SASH AND DOORS . . . don't wait until the middle of winter to put them up! Make sure they fit flush against the blind stop of the frame.

INSULATE WALLS AND CEILINGS . . . you can save as much as 20 per cent of your coal with proper insulation.

KEEP MORE HEAT UPSTAIRS . . . if your basement is unnecessarily warm, insulate the furnace pipes. You will save heat that is otherwise wasted. Insulation is inexpensive and requires no special tools. Your hardware man will tell you how.

WEATHERSTRIP AROUND DOORS . . . installing weatherstrip around doors and windows can save as much as 20 per cent on fuel consumption.

Owners Small Homes Have Space Worries

BY MR. FIX (NEA)

Owners of small economy homes are worried about space these days. Not that they're expecting visitors from Mars. They are concerned with "inner," not "outer," space.

They complain (1) that they don't have enough storage space, (2) that they don't have enough space in which to build in storage units, and (3) that there is already too much empty space in their pocketbooks.

There may not be a single foolproof answer to all these complaints, but the small-home owner has one alternative open to him that is well worth considering—an idea developed by the University of Illinois Small Homes Council.

It calls for slimmed-down, non-load - bearing partitions erected where practical as back panels for storage - wall units in the home. The slim panels are a fraction of the thickness of stud walls, thus saving many square feet of floor space, and costing less. They are a breeze even for a not-so-handy man to build.

The partitions are made of standard 4x8-foot sheets of ⅜-inch gypsum board bonded with linoleum paste to ⅛-inch hard-board. This half-inch wall, when properly supported, is said to resist impact better than an conventional stud-and-plaster wall five inches thick.

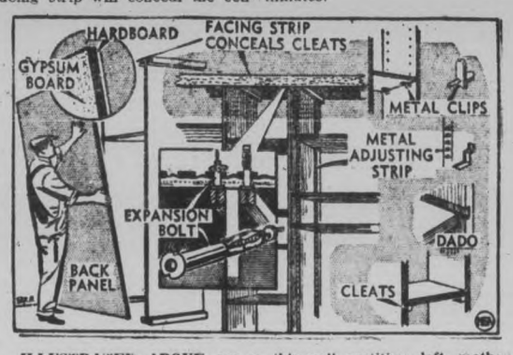
It is a simple matter to build closets and other types of storage units against these partitions, or, rather, to erect divider or end panels, then back them with the thin-wall panels.

Any required number of divider or end panels are simply fastened to the floor and ceiling with cleats. There are a number of ways to hang shelves between them—using adjusting metal strips or other metal hangers, screws driven through divider panels into shelves, nail dadoes, or cleats.

Floor-to-ceiling divider or end panels can be made of ¾-inch plywood sheets, or ¾-inch boards not over six inches wide, glued and doweled at the edges. Or they can be framed of ¾-inch or 1½-inch wood and faced with ⅛-inch hardboard.

Mark on the floor where the panels will stand and fasten them in place with cleats. Cleats can be nailed to the floor and secured to plaster of gypsum-board ceilings with expansion-bolt anchors. A 1x2 facing strip will conceal the ceiling cleats.

Now the gypsum-board back panel is raised into position and secured by nailing into divider and end panels from behind. Base and ceiling moldings are final touches on the back panel.



The one thing left to do is select the shelf arrangement best suited to the purpose for which the unit is intended.

Of course this type of storage unit can be just as simply built against existing walls.

FIX-IT FORUM

Q—What can be done to get rid of moisture that collects on windows?

A—Open tops of windows on the opposite side of the house slightly—about one inch. This gives water vapor in the air an exit, and should clear the other windows in a few minutes.

ILLUSTRATED ABOVE are a thin-wall partition, left, method fastening ceiling cleats, center, and of hanging shelves.

Court Rules Son Eligible As Immigrant

OTTAWA (CP)—The Supreme Court of Canada Friday in effect ruled that the son of a Chinese concubine can be considered eligible for admission to Canada as an immigrant.

In an unanimous decision, the nine-member court:

1. Rejected a federal government appeal based on contention that a concubine's son must be considered illegitimate and therefore not eligible for admission to Canada as an immigrant.

2. Affirmed a British Columbia court judgment that such a child, under the Chinese code, can be made legitimate by the father's acknowledgment.

3. Ordered the immigration department to hold a formal hearing to consider the entry of Leon Ba Chai, son of Leong Hung Hing, 69-year-old Chinese cook living in Vancouver.

The court made a brief announcement on the case and said its written judgments, setting out in detail the reasons for its conclusions, will be handed down later.

OTHERS CONCERNED

While the case was based on the entry of a single Chinese, the court's ruling will effect some 300 to 400 Chinese involved in similar circumstances.

Evidence before the court was that Teong Hung Hing, while working in Canada, had taken a trip back home to China. While there he took a woman into his household, his first wife being childless.

The concubine had two children, one of them Leong Ba Chai. The father acknowledged parenthood, returned to Canada and kept sending money home to China.

After he became a Canadian citizen in 1951, he requested permission to bring his son to Canada, but the immigration department ruled that the son was illegitimate and could not be brought into Canada.

The father's request for a formal hearing into the application was rejected. However, the B. C. Supreme Court found in his favor and the Supreme Court of Canada affirmed the lower court's ruling.

Family Get New Home After House Burnt

CHATHAM (CP)—Mr. and Mrs. Irvine Toulouse and their seven children have a new home.

While firemen were delayed by icy roads, fire early Friday razed the one-storey frame house Mr. Toulouse had built himself in nearby Dover township.

The family escaped, some in their underclothes.

Friends and neighbors before nightfall donated enough bedding and furniture to allow the family to move into a house belonging to Mrs. Toulouse's parents here. Others supplied food and clothes to replace those lost in the fire.

Mr. Toulouse, who said he had no insurance, is a bricklayer. He was laid off work a few days ago.

To Plead For Life Of Army Murderer

STRATFORD (CP) — Defence counsel for a former Canadian Army paratrooper sentenced to be hanged Feb. 6 for the murder of a 17-year-old girl, says he will ask the minister of justice to commute the death sentence to life imprisonment.

K. V. Stratton, senior defence counsel for ex-paratrooper Reuben Henry Norman, said Friday he will make application early in January to Ottawa, for "clemency and commutation of the extreme penalty to life imprisonment."

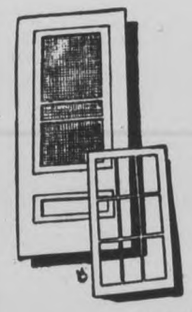
Norman was found guilty of murdering Jean Marie Satchell of Godshill on a downtown street during the noon hour rush last Feb. 2

Opens New Department

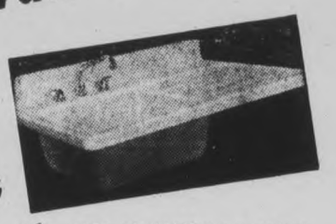
LONDON, Ont. (CP) — University of Western Ontario has announced it will open a department of engineering next September. Only the first two years of the engineering course will be taught, with students completing their studies at other Canadian universities.

De Laval Holds Christmas Party At PCVS

The collegiate auditorium was the scene of another children's Christmas party Friday evening when the De Laval Social and Athletic club entertained several hundred children of the company employees.



The brilliantly lighted Christmas tree held the rapturous attention of the eager youngsters during the singing of the Christmas carols. The story of Christmas as told on the screen was an enthusiastic prelude to Santa Claus' grand entrance at the front of the hall and the climax of the evening had arrived.



Art Wells, lively master of ceremonies, called on Harry Pulley, plant superintendent, to introduce Mr. A. Purdon, vice president, who briefly welcomed the kiddies and their parents wishing them the best of health and happiness for Christmas and the New Year. The presentation of gifts, candy and oranges was made by Don Carter, president of the Social and Athletic association. Each lady of the association members was also presented with a gift.

Thus another milestone in the history of the company was passed in the spirit of Christmas and good fellowship, restoring the waivering faith of many happy youngsters impatiently waiting the realization of all their expectations.

U.S. Destroyer Fired On Ally Tragic War Secret Told

By JACK MacBETH

OTTAWA (CP)—A trim cable ship named Monarch in 1955 will start to lay the first telephone cable across the North Atlantic ocean.

Until nine years ago there was another Monarch. She was beached in England seven days after D-Day in the Second World War under circumstances that can only happen in war. She was severely damaged by gunfire from a friendly United States destroyer.

This is the story, never before told publicly of the old Monarch and her British crew, and of her last friend, a Canadian corvette.

It was about 2:10 a.m. June 13, 1944. Monarch was laying 120 miles of cable between England and British headquarters on the Normandy beachhead, a "high-priority" operation.

Tuging at her cable, strung astern like a heavy leash, Monarch was making about three knots, escorted by the Canadian corvette Trentonian, a little more than half her size.

ON BRIDGE

As Trentonians' navigator, I was on the bridge.

About 110 miles of the cable had been laid within 24 hours.

Suddenly two star shells burst above the darkened ships. Ahead was a destroyer, presumably friendly since no German ship of that type had ventured into the landing zone since D-Day.

To play safe, Trentonian's captain, Lt.-Cmdr. William Harrison of Lunenburg, N.S., switched on recognition lights.

(These are groups of three colored lights, in pre-arranged combinations for stipulated periods, to ensure recognition between friendly warships.)

WARSHIP OPENED FIRE

Then, in a noisy flash, rapid salvos screamed toward Monarch and her escort.

There was no return fire from Trentonian. The destroyer had been identified as a United States ship.

Trentonian's recognition lights were turned on again and left on. A Canadian signalman flashed the morse code recognition signal for the day, but the firing continued.

The range between the destroyer and her targets now was about 1,000 yards. Trentonian's radio operators tried to radio-telephone to tell the American ship to cease fire.

Finally, the shooting stopped.

The official report, prepared aboard the Trentonian, said that from 2:15 a.m. to 2:30 a.m. the destroyer had fired 80 rounds of five-inch ammunition.

Trentonian, lower in the water than Monarch, escaped with a minor graze as most of the shells screamed overhead. Monarch was not so lucky.

THREE MEN KILLED

When the shooting stopped, I was ordered to take one of Trentonian's sea-boats to pick up survivors and investigate damage aboard the cable ship. We found three men had been killed and more than a score badly injured.

Trentonian took aboard about 35 survivors, including the wounded. One of them, Monarch's captain, died in Cmdr. Harrison's cabin.

The cable ship, although not technically a naval vessel, was operated by the British Admiralty. Her crew consisted in large part of retired Royal Navy men, some of senior rank, who had insisted on doing their bit in the war.

Aboard Monarch, now listing crazily, the bridge had been ripped to shreds. Other parts of her superstructure, her skinny funnel and her hull looked as though a huge bomb had burst above the upper deck.

Meanwhile, the destroyer sent a stunned boarding party to Trentonian. They quoted their captain as saying he had challenged the two British ships with a signal lamp before opening fire, and that he had received no reply.

SAW NO CHALLENGE

On Trentonian's bridge, two officers, a signalman and two lookouts had seen no challenge although, with 10 miles of the French coast, they had been watching closely for invasion traffic or anything of unexpected nature.

Trentonian was ordered to submit a report to naval authorities but the incident never was made public. All concerned appeared to write it off as one of the tragic accidents of war.

An RCN official commented recently: "This is the type of thing that crops up in every war, in many cases without blame to anyone."

Trentonian was ordered back to Portsmouth with the survivors. A British tug took Monarch in tow and dragged her to England.

Now, a new Monarch is setting out on a new career.

Trentonian?

She was torpedoed and sunk in the English channel in February, 1945, seven months after I left her to join a Canadian motor torpedo boat flotilla. One officer and five men went down with her.

Your Garden:

No Winter Protection Required For Lawns

By HENRY PREE (NEA)

Lawns need no winter protection and will very likely be severely injured, if covered with a blanket of manure. In fact one should not allow the lawn to go into the winter with more than two inches of top growth.

Tall grass will mat down under the weight of snow and kill the roots. The one exception of winter mulching would be a light covering of straw for young grass that did not get much of a start before cold weather.

The lawn should be cleaned of debris and excess leaves, and moving should continue as long as the growth of grass continues.

Rolling at this season is not necessary, since rolling is done either to firm the seed in the soil at planting time or in spring to press the grass crowns that have been lifted by frost action back into the soil. And then use as light a roller as is possible, a water ballast roller, one with very little if any water is best.

ROLLING

No rolling is preferred to heavy rolling, and unless the soil is very sandy, roll but once. If in doubt use no roller at all.

Actually cold weather, even when the mercury is huddled below zero, does not in itself harm good lawn grass. The plants go into cold storage and sometimes lose their color but they continue to live and breathe. A well-fed, sturdy sod can stand all the extremes of temperature the weatherman can dish out.

Some lawns are badly riddled in winter because they were sown in the spring with a seed mixture containing annual types of grass. These succumb to the first real winter weather, the same as all annual plants. Or even worse appearance are those lawns infested with crab grass.

Because of lifting or heaving of turf by alternate freezing and thawing, an open winter may be more damaging to grass than the so-called old-fashioned winters. Good grass is better off if it remains frozen all winter, especially if it lies buried under a protective blanket of snow.

Harmful effects often result from trampling over unprotected grass in cold weather. Coasting and skiing leave no scars on lawns well covered with snow, but just walking on frozen, brittle grass that has no covering will leave footprints for months to come. Grass that goes into the winter in a strong vigorous condition will be little affected by adverse weather.

RESISTS FROST

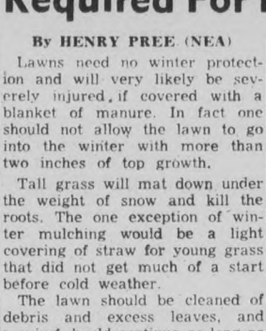
A thick soil is highly resistant to frost action because the fibrous roots bind the surface soil together and reduce heaving.

"Why did my lawn go bad?" a very common question, was well summarized by the old gardener. He said that the principal causes of deterioration of lawns are:

Soil in poor physical condition, due to not being properly prepared.

Improper maintenance, such as infrequent cutting, failure to provide plant food, too close cutting.

Poor drainage or setting, resulting in irregular cutting.



Presence of trees with roots near the surface.

Too many trees branching low, causing heavy shade.

Invasion of weeds and crab grass.

Undermining by insect pests.

Too constant hard use, such as play by children and pets.

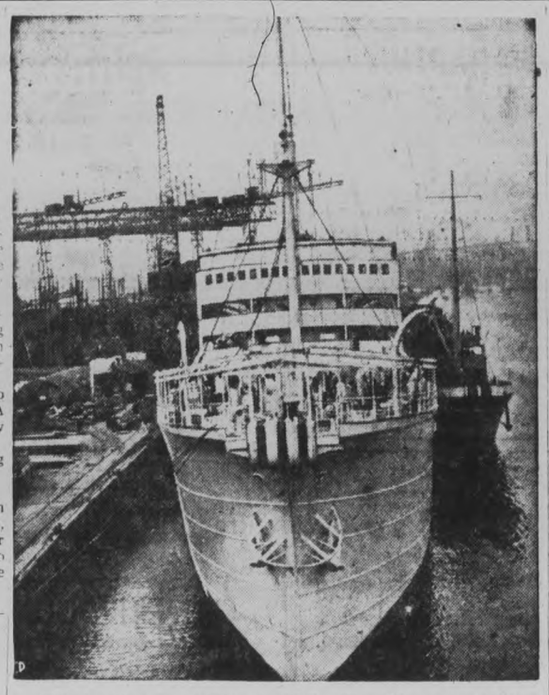
Coasting won't hurt lawns, but walking will do a lot of damage.

Gardening Questions

Q—The soil of many of our house plants is infested with tiny white worms which seem to be most numerous shortly after watering. What are they and what is to be done?

A—Sounds like spring tails, minute insects who live in decaying organic matter in the soil. They are harmless—but are annoying. Saturating the soil with Black Leaf 40, DDT or chlordane will eliminate them.

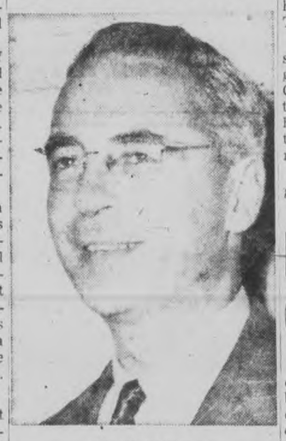
Q—Is it necssary to mulch recently planted peonies?



A—Mound over each crown with a shovelful of sand. Leaf or similar mulch material packs and may encourage the development of a damaging fungus rot.

Q—Should lilac and similar flowering shrubs be pruned before winter?

A—Only to remove dead, broken and unwanted wood. Lilac, forsythia, flowering quince, honeysuckle, viburnum and similar spring-flowering shrubs should be pruned in June.



Q—Where can the small home gardener send a soil sample for reliable testing?

A—Your local county agricultural agent will have it tested for you. Take several samples from a dozen different parts of the garden. Mix samples thoroughly and submit a cupful.

TO LAY ATLANTIC CABLE—The Monarch, 8,000-ton cable ship, will lay the first trans-atlantic telephone cable in 1955. The largest ship of its kind in the world, it is named after another British cable ship, destroyed in a wartime accident.—(CP Photo)

After 27 Years Leaves Bank For Marine Firm

JOHN EVANS

Charles Pilon has arranged for the incorporation of his marine sales and service business under the name Pilon Marine Limited.

Entering the new firm—which will continue under the management of Mr. Pilon—is John Evans, who has been with the Bank of Montreal continuously since 1926, except during the war when he served overseas as a captain with the 1st Canadian Armoured Brigade in Italy and Holland.

Mr. Evans has resigned his position in the Peterborough branch of the bank to become active director of Pilon Marine. Born in Belleville in 1910 he served the bank with which he is now serving 27 years' connection, in Belleville, London, Windsor, Kitchener and Fort Erie. Following his demobilizatoin in 1945 Mr. Evans came to the Peterborough branch.

Mr. Evans is treasurer of the Peterborough United Service Institute and Secretary-treasurer of the Civic Arena. He has a lively interest in music and is a member of the Coventry Singers. Before the war Mr. Evans made a hobby of motor cycle racing. He is a member of St. Peter's parish. Mr. and Mrs. Evans and their four children live at 987 London St.

Peterborough-born Bernard Traviss who has been with the Pilon firm for seven years is also becoming an active director under the new incorporation. Mr. Traviss is an expert in water-skiing, surf-boat riding and boat-racing, and is a movie camera enthusiast.

28 Boys Entertained By Rotary Club

STIRLING (ENS) — Stirling Rotary Club entertained some 28 boys, including those under the care of the Children's Aid Society at their annual Christmas party held in Stirling community hall Tuesday night.

A delicious turkey dinner was served after which a short program was presented, consisting of Christmas carols, led by Bob Paterson, recitations, duets and solos. Rotarion X. P. Mayhew also contributed voal numbers. Mrs. Harold Wrist acted as pianist.

Each of the boys was given a gift during the evening.

Make Criticism Of Opinions

TORONTO (CP)—Criticism was expressed Friday of opinions given before the legislature's reforms committee that unmarried mothers should be sterilized and that strappings would discourage juvenile delinquency.

A brief presented by the Welfare Council of Toronto and District said sterilization of unmarried mothers was a method resorted by the Nazis. It said skilful treatment and understanding are helpful to such women.

Dr. Stuart K. Jaffray, professor of the University of Toronto's school of social work, said the committee risks being discredited by supporting those who favor corporal punishment and who are "strongly opinionated."

The council also crticized the support for corporal punishment. It said individual treatment of juveniles is more likely to be successful in making the boys good citizens.

Plan Carol Service At St. Giles' Church

A Christmas carol service in story and song is being held on Sunday evening in the Confederation public school by the St. Giles' Presbyterian church. A junior and senior choir of 60 voices, under the direction of Mrs. G. Wilson Craw will lead in the singing of Christmas carols and tell the story of Christmas in 12 numbers. The Rev. Gilbert Smith, the minister, will connect the songs and carols up with the stroy of Christmas.

Lodge Leader Dies

OTTAWA (CP)—Donald James Sutherland, grand secretary of the Grand Orange Lodge of Ontario East, died Friday. He was 69.

A retired civil servant, Mr. Sutherland had served as secretary of the Ontario East lodge for the last 30 years. He was born in Renfrew county and had lived in this area all his life.

Coronation Year Proved Enjoyable To Britons

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON (CP)—Britons entered zestfully into Coronation year, deriving new hope for the future in renewed awareness of the nation's proud history.

The big moment for Britain and the Commonwealth came on a drizzling June morning. Elizabeth II, a young and radiant Queen wearing a gown adorned with the emblems of all the Commonwealth countries, was crowned in ancient Westminster Abbey as thrilled millions watched or listened.

This symbolic act, centrepiece in a ritual which for weeks made London the carnival capital of the world, rolled back the centuries in a flashback to the days of chivalry. Britain lies heavily under the spell of the past and the Coronation is probably the oldest state ceremonial in Christendom with rites little changed since St. Dunstan the Peaceful was crowned in 973.

CANADIANS IN ABBEY

More than 400 Canadians were in the abbey. Prime Minister St. Laurent stood in a choir stall only a few yards from the throne chair in which the Queen received homage after her crowning.

It was among the happiest Coronations in Britain's history. The crowning of the young Queen brought memories of past greatness with a woman on the throne and set British hearts beating with hope for a new Elizabethan age.

In the weeks of preparation for the year's great event and in the royal tours of the British Isles that followed, the frugal post-war years were relegated to the past. Austerity, symbol of privation, became a forgotten word.

In keeping with the new mood, life seemed more cheerful. A pre-war gaiety returned to shopping centres as slowly but surely the shelves filled up. Chocolates and other candies came off the ration in February. In March, eggs were "liberated" and almost for the first time since 1939 housewives could think in terms of eight whites to a cake.

BIGGER MEAT SUPPLY

Meat, once rationed to a weekly family share small enough to slip through a letter-box, became more easy to obtain.

Sugar was freed in September. Going into 1954, only meat, butter, margarine, "nationalized" cheese and cooking fats remained on the restricted list. It was expected the food ministry would be wound up in the new year.

Things were easier all round. People seemed better dressed. Nylons came out from "under the counter" and the "export only" label was removed from all but a few luxury items. Customers who ordered a branded whisky often got what they wanted instead of a wry smile.

Yet the year started inauspiciously. Floods on Britain's east coast cost more than 300 lives, left 32,000 homeless, flooded more than 150,000 acres and caused farm losses estimated at £10,000,000.

The JanuarypFebruary floods, driven by high gales, also lashed Holland and Belgium.

In May, Britain's attention was roused by Prime Minister Churchill's call for a "parley at the summit" among the Big Four powers. The speech sent a thrill through the country which felt some peaceful initiative was needed to break the cold war deadlock. The Big Three met at Bermuda in December and possibilities loomed of an early Big Four foreign ministers' conference in Berlin in 1954, but some of the original impetus seemed missing.

IMPROVED ECONOMY

On the economic front Britain appeared to be holding her own. It was the first break in a cycle marked by crises in 1947, 1949 and 1951. But though the gold and dollar reserves built up month by month, there were official warnings that the smallest adverse influence might plunge the country into financial difficulties.

Coronation festivities were given an added fillip by the announcement of the conquest of Everest, the world's highest mountain. Later in the summer sport-minded Britons welcomed England's success over Australian cricketers for the first time in 20 years. But their enthusiasm was dampened late in November when Hungary outplayed an English team in an international soccer match in London.

In a widely publicized murder case, John Christie, self-confessed strangler of seven women, was hanged July 15. Christie was a central figure in perhaps the grimmest story in Britain's modern criminal history. The mild-mannered, 55-year-old trucking clerk admitted killing his victims over a period of 12 years, and storing the bodies in a grimy house in Notting Hill, London.

Headlines resulted in September after the disappearance of Mrs. Melinda Maclean, wife of British diplomat Donald Maclean who vanished in similar fashion in 1951 with Guy Burgess, another diplomat. Police of six countries vainly sought Mrs. Maclean, generally believed to have gone behind the Iron Curtain where reports indicated her husband was working.

People In North Canada Get No Christmas Trees

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's most northerly citizens won't have any Christmas trees for the holiday season.

They live far north of the tree line and there is no such thing there as an evergreen, or any other kind of tree.

However, they will have Christmas turkeys and puddings, even though the food comes from cans.

The four Canadians living nearest to the north pole—about 350 miles from it—man the department of transport weather station at Alert, near the northern tip of Ellesmere island and 2,700 miles due north of Ottawa.

They now are awaiting a supply drop of Christmas turkey, presents and mail from an RCAF transport plane. Because there now is continuous darkness in the far north—it lasts four months—they will ignite drums of oil placed in a circle as a beacon for the approaching plane.

FLY IN SUPPLIES

Two RCAF planes took off from here early this week on a Christmas supply run to far-north posts. They are due back next week but the RCAF said Friday if bad weather holds them up, they will remain in the Arctic until they make their deliveries, even if that means the crews miss Christmas with their families here.

CHRISTMAS TREE

East City Recreation Committee held a Christmas tree Friday evening in the Labor Hall, corner Water and Hunter streets. A crowd of 150 children, accompanied by parents, was entertained with films and then Santa Claus arrived to give out bags of goodies. Mr. J. Hodgson played his accordion and the children joined in singing carols while a turkey draw took place.

NEW PLUMBING

The city issued 67 permits for plumbing installations during November, Plumbing Inspector A. G. Metheral reported. There were 43 plumbing jobs completed last month, while 270 were still unfinished. The amount collected for permits and extra inspections during the month was $237.25. The total for the year to the end of November was $2,407.25. A total of 166 inspections were made during the month.

Christmas Fowl Feature Market

Turkeys, geese, ducks and chickens today filled the stalls at the uptown market hall to overflowing at the Christmas Saturday market. Selling was brisk during the early hours but slowed near noon.

Actually the market was small in size when compared with previous markets. Farmers explained this was due to the division between the indoor and outdoor markets, resulting in few people, outside the old customers, realizing there was an up-town market.

Several oldtimers recalled times of 10 and 20 years ago when farmers had to be at market at 8 a.m. to get a stall or even a small space to sell their wares. It was far different today; there were many open spaces.

SOME AT 55 CENTS

Just the same the stalls that were occupied were full, especially with fowl. Some turkeys, toms weighing more than 18 pounds, went early at 55 cents a pound. More expensive toms were slower at 60 cents a pound while turkey hens went well at prices varying between 60 cents and 70 cents a pound.

The geese and ducks sold more slowly, not because of price but due to choice. Turkeys were more popular. The geese were fairly general at 50 cents but were down to 45 cents a pound by noon.

Ducks were the slowest and despite that remained firm throughout the morning at 50 cents a pound.

A number of Christmas decorations of pine cones, plants and flowers were offered at several different stalls. All farmers offering these reported fair sales, but merchandise was still heavy on the wooden horses. It was the same for homemade clothing.

Christmas cakes, also homemade, went quickly at 75 cents a pound. Wooden rocking horses, which made a later appearance sold for $3 and $5, catching a few buyers' eyes.

Special Church Services To Tell Christmas Story

Carol and communion services will feature Fourth Sunday in Advent ceremonies in Peterborough churches tomorrow. Many churches are holding evening services and post-service meetings devoted to Christmas anthems. Among special meetings will be those held in All Saints' Anglican church and St. Paul's Presbyterian church. At services commencing at seven o'clock at night church groups will be presenting drama and musical presentations on the Christmas theme.

At All Saints', the drama club will stage the play "Why the Chimes Rang" in the parish hall following the evening candlelight services, the festival of the nine lessons, and carols.

St. Paul's YPS, the senior choir, the boys' choir and the junior choral group will collaborate in the presentation of "The Innkeeper," a nativity play.

Another feature of the All Saints' program will be a pre-evening service organ recital for which the new organ will be used the first time. It is scheduled for 6:40.

CANDLELIGHT SERVICE

Christmas song and sermon will highlight the Grace United church morning service at 11 o'clock, conducted by Rev. I. G. Pollock. "Tragedy and glory" is the theme for the morning service at St. Andrew's United church with selections by the junior and senior choirs scheduled. A candlelight service conducted by the Rev. Henry Cotton will frame Christmas music at night.

After the 11 o'clock Christmas message by the Rev. K. B. Bauder, a seven o'clock service at the Free Methodist church will be held by candlelight with seasonal anthems. Carol services will be held in both the morning and evening at the Salvation Army temple.

The morning anthem service at Murray Street Baptist church will be carried over radio station CHEX and junior choir selections will be heard broadcast. Celebration of the Lord's Supper will take place at 11 o'clock at the McDonnel Street gospel hall and at seven o'clock, Sydney Hoffman staff member of Emmaus Bible school will speak.

Two services of Holy Communion, one at 8:30 Sunday morning and a choral service at 11 will be held at St. George's Anglican church. The Rev. H. J. Scuse will preside over a presentation of the Christmas story in reading and song at the evening service.

The Rev. H. Peasgood of St. Alban's will officiate at morning Holy Communion and an evening service of Christmas carols at the church.

COMBINED CHOIRS

After morning celebrations at St. Gile's Presbyterian church at which the Rev. G. D. Smith will officiate, a 60-voice combination choir consisting of the junior and senior groups will present an evening carol service.

Celebration of the Lord's Supper at 9:30 will highlight Sunday services at the Braidwood Gospel Chapel while four special Christmas services will be held in the Church of the Open Bible at 9:45, 11, seven o'clock and 8:30.

The Rev. C. A. Ratz of the Pentecostal church will address his congregation at 11 with "The Birth of a King," and at seven on "A Christmas Challenge." A Christmas carol service will be conducted by the young people of Elim Tabernacle at seven following a morning communion service at that church.

"Christ in Prophesy" and "Christ in History" will be the titles of addresses delivered at Park Street Alliance church during Sunday services.

Special speaker at a 9:30 service in Mark Street United church will be the Rev. A. L. Shorten who will deliver "The Message of the Manger." Other services, at 11 and seven o'clock will feature Christmas music and messages by Dr. N. D. Patterson.

A colored film, "The Holy Knight" will be shown at the night service of Knox United church after a morning white gift service.

A morning white gift service will also be held in St. John's Anglican church at 11 a.m. at the 8.30 Holy Communion celebration for the Breakfast Club, the Rev. F. G. Ongley will officiate.

After morning anthems by the junior choir the Story of Christmas will be presented at night with music provided by the junior and senior groups and narrative by the Rev. Ivan C. Morgan. Four Christmas vespers will be sung at the candlelight serve in Murray St. Baptist church.

FOUR SHOPPING DAYS LEFT—Peterborough shoppers have been jamming clothing, shoe, jewellery and food stores this week trying to wrap up their Christmas shopping. For the past two months people have been window shopping as mother and daughters do (top right photo), getting their Christmas lists ready. Children will be wandering through toylands until the last-minute hopefully looking at the trains (top left photo), dolls, and other toys which Santa may bring. All this window shopping results in purchases (lower right) for Yuletide gifts for relatives and friends.

143 Dependents Given Help In November

Assistance given to Peterborough residents by the city's welfare department amounted to $4,938.71 during November, Welfare Administrator A. G. Metheral reported.

Last month the department gave assistance to 57 heads of families with 143 dependents, 53 single persons, making a total of 253 persons.

Assistance was granted as follows: Food $2,913.52, fuel $820.74, clothing $192.50, medicine $12, household sundries $57, shelter $784.10, doctors $248.85.

There were 16 applications for relief granted during the month. Assistance was discontinued in 14 cases. There were 31 investigations made into welfare cases.

16 IN HOSPITAL

There were 16 persons admitted to Civic Hospital as Peterborough residents, 10 to St. Joseph's, two to Toronto General, and one to Trenton Memorial Hospital. There were 49 hospital investigations made and eight applications for hospitalization refused.

Two orders for medicine and one for dentist were issued. One funeral service was refused. Applications were completed for three old-age assistance pensions, two medical assistance and one mother's allowance. Four home calls were made, where the applicant was unable to come to the office.

Thieves Assault Night Watchman

HAMILTON (CP) — Thieves early this morning tied up John Zavtiz, night watchman at the Westdale Tavern, then ransacked the premises. Their only loot was $2.75 they took from the man's wallet.

Mr. Zavitz told detectives he was washing utensils about 5:10 a.m., when he was attacked from behind by two unknown men.

He said he was beaten about the face, tied up, and carried into the adjoining banquet room. There he was guarded by one man while his companion searched other rooms for money.

Canada's Membership In UN "Path To Destruction"

By DAVE WHITE

Twelve middle-aged women and a somewhat younger reporter Friday night heard a British-Israel World Federation speaker tell why Canada should pull out of the United Nations.

Roy Wemp of London, Ont., told the group—gathered in a basement room of the YWCA—that Canada's membership in the UN is a flagrant violation of the Biblical command: "Be ye not unequally yoked together with unbelievers" (2 Corinthians, 6:14).

This theological blast at "unbelievers" was aimed, primarily, at Premier Georgi Malenkov of the Soviet Union and his communist satrapies. But before the lecture was over Mr. Wemp had harsh words for Africans, Asians and Jews, as well.

As seen by Mr. Wemp the one-world advocates are either innocent dupes or Machiavellian plotters seeking the destruction of the so-called white race.

WORLD ARMY

How would this come about? He quoted from a publication identified as Intelligence Digest: "The idea is to have a world army. In this, Russians, Asians, and Africans would predominate, because it would be related to populations. Units of the world army would be stationed everywhere except in their own countries.

"Thus, there might be Russian, Asian and African forces controlling the United States, the European countries of the British Commonwealth, and Western Europe. We might, in fact, be policed by Asians and Africans. Their duties . . . would be to enforce the world government's law.

"The world government—according to this plan—would consist of appointed members and would reflect population strength; so that it would be dominated by Russians, Asians, and Africans. The white nations would be in a permanent minority. If they objected to any resolution of this parliament, the world government military forces would have power to curb local opposition."

Mr. Wemp summed up the effect of this: "They would be deliberately planning the extermination of the white race."

"Let's know who's behind Mau Mau," he challenged.

Foremost among those who would feel the yoke of the heathen on their necks in the catastrophe envisaged by Mr. Wemp would be the Anglo-Celto-Saxon peoples and nations—a group, which during the course of this lecture, at any rate, went undefined.

RESOLUTION TO P.M.

All in all, as seen by the British-Israel World Federation, Canada's membership in UN is a dangerous thing. A long resolution to this effect has been sent along to Prime Minister St. Laurent, other members of the government, and the Opposition.

Nobody seems to be doing anything about it, though. And the British-Israelites predict that when the United Nations charter comes up for revision in 1954 there is going to be a determined effort to promote the idea of world government.

"You are a separated people—a people set apart for the purpose of God," said Mr. Wemp to the

Quick Change

The official temperature, taken at the filtration plant, took a sharp leap upwards from a night low of four below to 23 above at 9 a.m. today, but kept fairly steady thereafter, rising only to 27 degrees above zero at noon as a dull overcast hid the sun's rays. Official forecast was for continuing cold weather.

Walter H. Jones 106th Master Of Senior Lodge

Walter H. Jones, 500 McDonnel St. was installed on Friday night the 106th worshipful master of Corinthian lodge. The ceremony, held at the Masonic Temple, was for the first time in more than 75 years conducted by the lodge alone. In previous years Peterborough and Corinthian lodges have held joint installations on the Festival of St. John the Evangelist, December 27.

Wor. Bro. John D. Fanning was the installing master and he was assisted by a group of past masters of the lodge.

The new officers are: Wor. Bro. Walter H. Jones, W.M.; Wor. Bro. Milton N. Clysdale, I.P.M.; Bro. R. J. Chandler, S.W.; Bro. A. J. Noftall, J.W.; Right Wor. Bro. R. F. Downey, secretary Right Wor. Bro. C. J. Ray, treasurer; Bro. G. D. Marshall, chaplain; Right Wor. Bro. John F. Allin, D. of C.; Bro. W. A. Cross, S.D.; Bro. Carlyle Ferguson, J.D.; Bro. William Nash, I.G.; Bro. J. N. Perry, S.S.; Bro. Woodie Thirnbeck, J.S.; Bro. W. T. Terrace, tyler; Bro. Roy B. Pitchford, choirmaster; Bro. Robert Johnson, organist; and Wor. Bros. F. G. Parsons and J. D. Fanning, trustees.

Wor. Bro. Leo Copp principal of Peterborough Teacher's Training College was the speaker at the lunch following the installation.

This year the four Peterborough lodges will mark the Festival of St. John the Evangelist on December 28 with a special ceremony in the lodge room followed by a buffet luncheon and special program.

Car, Truck Lock, Roll Over

Both Drivers Escape With Light Injuries In Freak Accident

John Prikker, 36, of Lakefield, got a badly bleeding nose late Friday afternoon when his northbound car rolled over twice on Highway 28, two miles south of Lakefield, after a collision with a truck.

It was a freak accident. Prikker was driving along when he was overtaken by a half-ton pickup truck, driven by George Orr, 60, of Lakefield. The truck was just getting by when the front bumper of the car and the right rear fender of the truck, locked. The car rolled over twice and the truck, three times.

Both vehicles came to rest upright on their four wheels.

Prikker received an injured nose and Orr was shaken up and bruised.

SECOND ACCIDENT

Another car-truck accident occurred 10 minutes later on the Buckhorn road, two miles north of Selwyn. Nobody was injured and damage totalled $150.

David Moore, 33, of Buckhorn, was driving north when he came in collision with the left rear fender and door of a half-ton pickup truck that was backing out of a laneway to make a turn. The truck was being driven by Harry Finley, 40, of RR 1, Lakefield.

OPP Constable Wallace Mohns investigated both accidents.

JUST A REMINDER, take it easy this holiday season. The best cars look like a pile of junk after an accident and no one looks good in an ambulance. But this can happen to you if you're not careful about your drinking and your driving. Constable Don Mackay is leading a procession several times a day through the city's streets as grim warning to all drivers. Several of the city's wrecking services have volunteered their trucks to tow a wreck and Nisbett's ambulance brings up the rear in this parade to promote safety, sponsored by the Peterborough Safety Council.

U.S. Prisoner Believes In Communism

By JIM BECKER

TOKYO (AP)—A young American war prisoner who refused repatriation and stayed with the Reds wrote his Japanese wife today that "I, myself, have the ideas of a Communist and I know they are right."

Little Kyoko Araki blinked back the tears as she read the letter from the Texas soldier she married in 1949—and who says it is impossible for him to return to her.

PFC. Claude J. Batchelor, 24, advised Kyoko in a letter relayed by the Associated Press to go to the Japanese Communist party and "have confidence in what they say."

He said he hopes they will be together again soon.

Batchelor is one of 22 Americans held in the neutral zone who stayed with the Communists. His letter was a reply to one Kyoko wrote him Tuesday. Both were passed by Indian soldiers who guard the reluctant prisoners.

Officers Re-elected By Zion WA

MARMORA (ENS). — Officers of the Women's Association of Zion United Church, North Marmora, were re-elected at the annual meeting held at the home of Mrs. Burness Johnston.

They are: President, Mrs. Geo. Fox; vice-president, Mrs. Gordon Moffatt; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Garnet McCann.

The meeting followed a pot-luck dinner and was opened by the president with the motto theme song and prayer. The devotional period was taken by Mrs. B. Johnston, Mrs. G. Moffatt and Mrs. G. Fox.

Mrs. Albert Nickle gave a reading, followed by a Christmas stocking contest, staged by Mrs. E. Post.

The study period was conducted by Mrs. Arthur Tompkins and Mrs. Ed. Robinson, and closed with prayer by Mrs. K. J. Crawford. Twelve members and six visitors answered the roll call.

On behalf of the WA, Mrs. Albert Nickle presented Mrs. K. J. Crawford with a purse.

The usual exchange of Christmas gifts followed.

Mrs. George Fox closed the meeting with the benediction.

Mrs. Peister Elected President Of WA

WARKWORTH (ENS) — Mrs. Harper Peister was hostess for the Codrington Women's Association.

Mrs. D. Woof presided. The meeting opened with a Christmas carol, with Mrs. James Bird pianist. The Rev. William Fletcher led in prayer.

The scripture reading of the Christmas story was given by Mrs. Bird.

The nominating committee presented the following slate of officers for 1954: President, Mrs. Harper Peister; vice-president, Mrs. R. McCann; secretary, Mrs. Lloyd Ames; treasurer, Mrs. Harry Reddon; missionary conveners, Mrs. C. Buchanan and Mrs. D. Woof; program conveners, Mrs. James Bird, Mrs. Harold Peister, Mrs. D. Carr and Mrs. D. Anderson; pianist, Mrs. James Bird.

Mrs. Harper Peister, program convener, conducted the program. A duet was sung by Mrs. C. Buchanan and Mrs. John Goodfellow. A reading was given by Mrs. W. A. Goodfellow. The carol "Silent Night" was sung.

Lunch was served by the hostess and lunch committee.

Wrecked Car Tours City As Warning For Drivers

Peterborough's newly - formed safety council are putting on a special stunt during the holiday season to remind motorists about driving carefully and avoiding accidents.

A tow truck will drag a wrecked car around the downtown area, suitably placarded, to inform the public that the Christmas-New Year's period may be marred by serious injuries or even death if drivers don't take care.

Other wrecked hulks of cars will be left at strategic locations around the city to catch the eye and prove a waker-upper to the unwary.

EXTRA POLICE

At the same time Chief Constable John Thompson has announced that extra police will be on duty to crack down on motorists who have forgotten the wisdom of the slogan, "If you drink don't drive, and if you drive don't drink."

Speeding and other motoring infractions indicating careless driving, will be strictly dealt with.

The eye catcher, though, is a mobile string of motor vehicles as suggested by Constable Don McKay, director of traffic safety, who is the police department member on the six-weeks-old Peterborough Traffic Safety Council. Displaying of the wrecked cars will give dramatic emphasis to the usual verbal appeals for safe driving during the festive period.

Beginning Friday night—twice at night, and twice in the afternoon—the motor caravan will move through city streets. Leading will be Constable Mackay on his motorcycle, speaking through a public address system to tell the shopping crowds the purpose of the caravan and the necessity of obeying the rules of safe driving and walking.

A tow truck—variously lent by Russelle's, Gilders', Longhurst's and Kawartha Garage—will pull a wrecked and placarded car—a symbol of what could happen. And when it is available, a Nisbett ambulance will bring up the rear, again an unpleasant reminder of what could happen to the careless.

PLACARD PUBS

Today the beverage rooms in town will have placards put up with slogans, somewhat along the lines of "Don't Let Tragedy Spoil Your Christmas."

Remains of wrecked cars will probably be placed on Doblaw's parking lot, George St.; the market square, Water and Simcoe Sts.; Confederation Square, opposite the city hall, and George and Lansdowne Sts.

"Let's keep it an accident-free Christmas and New Year's" is the slogan of both local police and the safety council.

German Peddler Given Three Life Sentences

MANNHEIM, Germany (AP)—A husky, soft-spoken picture-postcard peddler, who confessed to raping 100 women, was sentenced today to three life terms for killing three of his victims.

Sentence was passed after three judges and a six-member jury found Bernhard Prigan, 33-year-old former German miner, guilty. German law does not permit the death penalty.

Prigan, specifically charged with killing three women and raping or attempting to rape 17, told the court at a previous session that he was "careful out of Christian responsibility" not to kill his victims but that he "just strangled them until they become unconscious."

Two Young Toughs Rob Aged Man Of $85

HAMILTON (CP)—A 78-year-old man reported to police Friday he had been assaulted and robbed of $85 by two young toughs.

Odin Weswig said the two men came in and one picked out a pair of blue dungarees and said he would be back later to pick them up.

When the pair came back, about two hours later, they knocked Weswig down and removed his wallet from his pocket.

Smash-and-Grab Theft Nets Thieves $1,500

HAMILTON (CP)—Cecil King, 29, and Thomas Mole, 35, were arrested today and charged with the smash-and-grab theft of $1,500 worth of wrist watches from a jewelry store. Rookie constable James Conner took them into custody a few minutes after a brick was thrown through the jewelry store window.

Flying Saucer Daylight Meteor

STOCKHOLM (Reuters) — A "flying saucer" said to have been seen over southern Sweden Thursday might have been a daylight meteor, Bertil Anders Lindblad, Lund Observatory scientist, said today.

He said it might have been a straggler from the annual meteor shower known as Geminides, which falls towards the earth between Dec. 7 and 15.

The Swedish defence staff has so far reached no conclusion in an investigation into the report, made by airline pilot Ulf Christiernsson. He said he had seen an object "travelling at colossal speed."

The pilot said he had the object in view for four seconds as it passed under his plane. He added: "It looked like a robot." His mechanic agreed.

Workers' Party Of 3 Members Hold Balance

VALLETTA, Malta (AP)—The Labor and Nationalist parties ran virtually a dead heat in last weekend's general election in this British Mediterranean island colony, leaving the balance of power to the small Workers' party, final official returns showed today.

The Labor party, headed by Dom Mintoff, won 19 seats in the 40-seat Parliament to 18 for the Nationalists led by Borg Olivier. Olivier headed a coalition government which was defeated Oct. 9 on a budget vote.

The Workers' party, headed by Dr. P. Boffa, won three seats in the new legislature.

COALITION SEEMS LIKELY

Some sort of coalition or at least agreement between two of the parties appears inevitable.

The Labor party, which claims 40,000 members, had promised if elected to submit this alternative to Britain: Incorporate Malta into the political, social, and economic institutions of Britain, or ask Britain to recognize the colony's right to self-determination. It remains to be seen whether the new government, in which at least one other party would have some say, will go through with this labor plan.

Canada's Membership In UN

dozen mild-looking women—all, presumably, of Anglo-Celto-Saxon stock. "You're a people set apart," he repeated, "so go out and act like it."

While Mr. Wemp's lecture might have been upsetting to audience of a liberal (small "L" an audience of a liberal of dissent among the women. They listened closely to him for an hour and a half. Occasionally there was a smile and a nod of agreement as a polemic point was driven home by Mr. Wemp.

One white-haired lady chuckled aloud as the speaker recounted what a Jewish doctor from Halifax had said to him after listening to a lecture; and then, of course, what he had told the Jewish doctor.

After describing what life would be like under the Russians, Asians and Africans—in contrast to what it is now like under the Peterborough police department, the OPP and the RCMP—Mr. Wemp had a few comments on the role now being played by Jews and Negroes.

The "synagogue of Statan"(presumably a Biblical reference) is now represented by an international Zionist organization, said Mr. Wemp. He accused them of organizing the now-defunct League of Nations and its successor, on this side of the Atlantic, the United Nations.

He lobbed a statistic at his audience: "Do you know that more than 60 per cent of all permanent positions of the United Nations are held by Jews?—a group making up less than two per cent of the world population?"

The entourage of Eisenhower and Churchill is made up of a majority of Jews, Mr. Wemp confided. The last time Britain's premier was "out here" 20 of 35 in his entourage were Jews.

While paying respects to Mr. Churchill as a leader, the speaker intimated that he didn't care for his advisers.

In another reference, Mr. Wemp referred to the Zionists as "men who call themselves Jews and head the synagogue of Satan — counterfeits—weeds."

The sequence wasn't too smooth here, but it appeared that they were descendants of Esau, against whose descendants God had declared war until they are exterminated.

Esau came in for some rough criticism.

"He was the original 'Red' of the Bible. He was red outside and inside and he sold his birthright for a bowl of red pottage."

DANGER OF MARRIAGE

Mr. Wemp was also worried about the threat of the extermination of the white race through intermarriage. He based his stand on Deuteromy 7:2:

"And when the Lord thy God shall deliver them before thee; thou shalt smite them, and utterly destroy them; thou shalt make no covenant with them, nor shew mercy unto them.

"Neither shalt thou make marriages with them; thy daughter thou shalt not give unto his son, nor his daughter shalt thou take unto his son."

In the light of this it may or may not be easy to see why he is against American Negro troops being quartered in occupied Germany and Great Britain.

Mr. Wemp takes the view that intermarriage results in the mongrelization of the white man. And he's against it.

(Noel Coward, in somewhat similar circumstances, when asked about the fraternization of negro troops with English girls, and their inevitable half-cast offspring, reportedly said: "Well, it might do something for the British teeth.")

The speaker, again referring to American negroes, said: "They're of a class that if you give them an inch, you will have to get off the sidewalks when they go past —they're doing it in Detroit."

And so on—for an hour and a half to be exact.

Pamphlets on half a dozen subjects averaging about 20 cents apiece were displayed on a small table at the back of the room.

The collection plate — passed around deferentially but to good effect—yielded an unusually large proportion of green bills. Only the reporter—and, he on the grounds of professional ethics—did not contribute.

And Mr. Wemp? He promises to be back sometime in the new year. Going to speak on an "invasion" or something.

Millbrook Vote Features Close Contests

MILLBROOK (ENS. — Sixty per cent of the eligible voters went to the polls Friday to elect four councillors, three public school trustees, and two members to represent the west zone of the village on the newly-formed utilities commission.

Results were as follows:

Council (four elected)— Gordon Trick 166, J. H. Raper 153, G. T. MacPherson 151, Ivan Gray 133, Weldon Coulter 131, Robert Ridge 77.

School board (three elected)— Ed. Nattress 165, Mrs. Anna Kennedy 126, James Larmer 120, Fred Lowery 118, J. T. Crowley 95.

Utilities Commission, east zone (acclamations) — Percy Hamilton, Stanley Olan; west zone (two elected)—Alec Gilbert 126, Russell Reid 123, Howard Lancashire 93.

Reeve-elect George Harrington was elected by acclamation, replacing Dr. J. W. Wright, who withdrew his name from nomination after serving as reeve for 4½ years.

One of the largest slates of candidates in many years was offered to the electors. The election featured close fights for last-place standing on council and the public school board, where losing candidates were nosed out by just two votes in each case.

NEWCOMER LEADS

Gordon Trick, who led the vote for council, is a newcomer to municipal politics, as is Robert Ridge, who trailed in the voting. J. H. Raper, who ran second, is a veteran of three years' experience. G. T. MacPherson had previously served two years and Ivan Gray one, while Weldon Coulter is dean of council with four years' experience.

Fred Lowery, who had been a member of the school board for 12 years, lost out by two votes in this year's election. Ed. Nattress and Mrs. Anna Kennedy, who stood first and second in the voting, have each had four years' experience as trustees. James Larmer, the other successful candidate, is a newcomer, as is J. T. Crowley, who stood last in the voting.

The school board will appoint one more member to their number, to replace Dr. M. E. Hobbs, who recently resigned with one year of his term not completed.

Although no controversial issues were raised during th campaign, interest in the election was keen, as was apparent at the nomination meeting, which was the most largely attended in a number of years. The Chamber of Commerce sponsored a community rally in the town hall on the eve of the election, when all the candidates were given an opportunity to speak.

Village Clerk T. W. Belch acted as returning officer.

City's Grant Inadequate

TORONTO (CP)—C. L. Burton Friday described the city's $400,000 grant to the building program of Women's College Hospital as "totally inadequate and not in keeping with the city's responsibility."

Mr. Burton, chairman of Robert Simpson Co. Ltd., served as chairman of the recent fund-raising campaign. He spoke during a cornerstone ceremony at Burton Hall, the new nurses' residence named for him in recognition of his work.

The city usually matches the provincial statutory grants for hospitals. In the case of Women's College Hospital, the province contributed $573,166.

Mayor Allan Lamport and controllers Leslie Saunders, Louis Shannon and Ford Brand said the city has given as much as it can or more than it should.

New York Firm Closes Doors For Last Time

NEW YORK (AP)—The 116-year-old James McCreery and Co. department store, once the shopping centre for some of the city's wealthiest families, closes its doors and goes out of business at 5 p. m. today.

McCreery's figured in Clarence Day's play "Life with Father" in a scene in which "father" raged at his wife for failing to keep her account with McCreery's in order. It has been overshadowed in recent years by giant competitors.

Fog Disperses

LONDON (Reuters)—Fog which dislocated traffic in London and many parts of Britain Friday was dispersed this morning by a cold wind. Meteorologists reported the whole country clear.

FOUR-TIME LOSER — Veterinarian Gene Addison, of Lewiston, Idaho, had to give Spot, an 18-months-old pointer, anaesthetic to pull an estimated 2,000 porcupine quills from his nose after he came out second best in a roadside bout. Spot just doesn't seem to learn — it's the fourth decision he's lost to a porcupine in his short life.

YW Swimmers Stage Party

Thirty-four swimmers took part Thursday night in the annual Christmas swimming party, conducted in the YWCA pool by swimming director Roselyn Stone.

The girls, ranging in age from nine to 18 years, were grouped into three teams under Pat Collins, Janet Collins and Sandra Wood. Janet Collins' team placed first, totalling up the most points in the eight events. YWCA letter crests were presented to the winners.

The results of the events were:

Girls nine to 12 years:

(1) Free style—Mary Ann Willamette, Arleigh Rishor, Barbara Rishor.

(2) Backstroke—Jean Ann Dobbin, Sharon Starr, Ann Beauclerc.

(3) Breaststroke — Karen Wood and Deanna Sue Delahaye (tied), Carol Ann Smith.

(4) Relay — Jean Ann Dobbin, Mary Ann Willamette, Karen Wood and Deanna Sue Delahaye.

Girls 13 to 18 years:

(1) Free style—Carol Howe, Pat Collins, Sandra Bickle.

(2) Backstroke—Heather Gordon, Sandra Wood, and Janet Collins.

(3) Breaststroke—Gail Wood, Dianne Standish, Margo Huffman.

(4) Relay—Joan Sutherland, Gail Wood and Sandra Wood.

Kirkland Lake Man Injured In Accident

NORTH BAY (CP)—John Gordon of Kirkland Lake suffered a fractured hip and broken ribs when his car hit an overturned truck on Highway 11 north of here Friday night.

The truck driver, Joseph Chausse of Timmins, and bystanders pulled Gordon from the wreckage of his car just before it burst into flames. Both vehicles were destroyed in the fire. Gordon, suffering from a fractured hip and broken ribs, was brought to hospital here.

Chausse told police the truck went out of control and overturned after bolts holding rear wheel came off. He said he set out a flare.

Policy Speech Given Little Notice In Russia

MOSCOW (AP) — Russian newspapers published today a Tass report of Prime Minister Churchill's foreign policy speech in Parliament Thursday. The dispatch did not mention Churchill's suggestion of security guarantees to Russia or President Eisenhower's idea of a possible contact with Moscow through his proposed atomic pool.

However, Tass did note Churchill's remark that at Bermuda he had "long secret talks with Eisenhower." Attention also was called to a remark by former prime minister Clement Attlee that "we should go to the Berlin conference (of the Western Big Three with Russia) as far as possible untrammeled by absolute commitments."

Phrased Wrong Charge Dismissed

LINDSAY (ENS) — A reckless driving charge against Howard Statham, of Lindsay, laid after he had driven his car into the side of a freight train at a level crossing last November 25, was dismissed by Magistrate E. A. Gee Friday, when defence counsel H. E. Richardson pointed out that the charge was improperly worded.

Statham was convicted of a second charge, dangerous driving, however, and paid a $15 fine and costs.

After Crown Attorney Lorne Jordan had presented his evidence, Mr. Richardson pointed out the charge read that Statham had driven in a manner "reckless to the public," a phrase which he claimed was not in the Criminal Code, and was ungrammatical as well. Mr. Jordan consulted his law books and found the charge read "driving recklessly or in a manner dangerous to the public." He asked defence counsel, unsuccessfully, to have the charge amended.

GIVES EVIDENCE

Evidence was given by James Gilmour, of Lindsay, brakeman on the train, who said that as the 33-car-long string of grain cars was passing a level crossing just west of Lindsay, he noted a car coming from the east, which slowed down about 100 feet from the crossing but continued forward and veered in the direction of the train just before it struck.

Constable James Hall, of Lindsay OPP, who investigated, said that no damage was done to the train by the collision, but he estimated the damage to Staham's car at $1,400. He said that skid marks leading to the car, which was nosed into a ditch by the tracks, were 133 feet long.

Statham said he had not seen the train until he was 40 feet away from it, since he had only his low-beam headlights on at the time. He tried to swing alongside it but failed to avoid striking a box car with the side of his vehicle. He denied having touched his brakes at 100 feet from the train, and also stated that damage to his car was only $700. Both Statham and his companion, Pearl Donegan, were uninjured.

Magistrate Gee agreed with Crown Attorney Jordan that Statham should have seen the train before he did, and convicted the accused of careless driving, fining him $15 and $6.50 costs.

Police Stage 14th Hunt For Jail Breaker

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Stockholm police staged their 14th hunt today for prize jail escaper Karl Wilhelmsson. This time the prisoner vanished from his own wedding.

Authorities let Wilhelmsson, who is serving a term for theft, out of prison Friday so he could get married. They cautiously sent along a policeman to keep an eye on him.

But during the wedding party Wilhelmsson dashed out a door, locked it behind him and escaped, leaving a tearful bride.

His earlier prison breaks included one in which he drove off in a stolen car wearing his prison garb. He excused his appearance to people he met along the road by telling them, "I've been to a fancy-dress ball."

SLIM, TRIM FASHIONS—Included in the current crop of new resort cottons are these budget-priced dresses that give you more for your money. Tossed salad print (left) is used for cotton sundress with its own tiny, solid-color bolero jacket. Jacket picks up color of the print. Fitted, tabbed jacket in tweed cotton fabric is worn (centre) over broadcloth camisole top sundress. It's shown here is beige. Princess silhouette with reed-like waistline (right) is in cotton print that has nosegays scattered over the fabric. All three designs are aimed particularly at the junior-sized woman who's looking for lots of fashion at a modest price. Color emphasis is on red, orange, blue, yellow, chartreuse and white.

Fashions Now Styled For Junior Sized Women

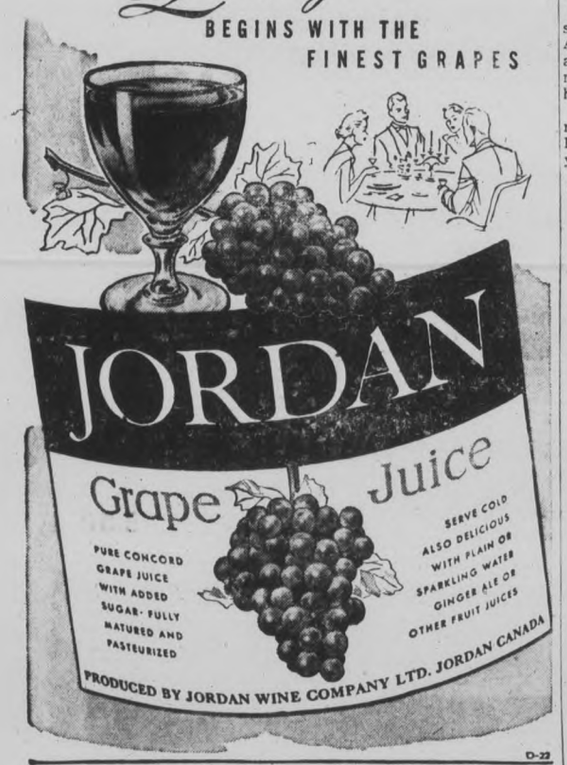
By GAILE DUGAS
NEA Women' Editor

NEW YORK—The term "junior," in fashion, is no longer an age. It's a size.

A "junior" may be a woman of 45 who wears a size 11 dress. Or even a size nine, these days. But it's a term that no longer applies just to teen-agers. It now means a lithe, youthful figure at any age.

It used to be that the woman fortunate enough to own a junior figure had fashion problems to offset her luck. When she went out to shop for clothes, she was offered high - waisted, girlish dresses with puffed sleeves and ruffles at the neckline.

In 1954, she'll find a likely assortment from which to choose. And, since junior sizes are usually priced somewhat below misses', sizes, she'll pay less for her sleek, handsome clothes.



This is particularly true in the resort cottons now on the market. If you've a junior figure and you're not going to Florida or some other warm and sunny climate, it will still pay you to buy some of next summer's clothes right now.

You'll get high fashion at budget prices and you'll find that when the first hot day arrives, you'll be fully prepared for it.

This year, look for many jacket dresses. These dresses are often in a print on white background, with jacket in solid color picking up the print.

Watch for the princess silhouette for the sleek and streamlined torso. There are many two-piece suit dresses, often with three - quarter length sleeves. Otherwise, sleeves are small and feminine or nonexistent.

Impress Upon Your Child Christmas, Christ's Birthday

By NANCY CLEAVER

"Mummy, haven't we forgotten something?" five year old Joyce asked eagerly. Christmas dinner was over. Vast quantitites of delicious turkey, vegetables and pudding had been consumed. The crackers had been pulled, and the gay paper hats, tilted at various angles, adorned the heads of everyone from Granny to Baby Mac. For the life of her, Mother could not guess what had been overlooked! When she did not reply, Joyce explained, "We've not sung "Happy Birthday to You" —its the Baby Jesus' Birthday, isn't it? So we should sing the Birthday Song for Him, shouldn't we?"

This is a little scene from a Canadian farm home last Christmas Day. In the rush of preparing for this greatest of all festival of the year they had not forgotten its true significance!

In your home does your child know that the important thing about December 25th is that it is Christ's natal day? Children as well as adults find it easy to think in pictures. There should be a good color print of at least one famous painting of the First Christmas in every Christian home.

Large colored teaching pictures such as Raphael's Madonna, or Plockhorst's "Tidings of Great Joy" showing the shepherds hearing the good news from the angels, or Lerolle's "Arrival of the Shepherds" picturing them at the entrance to the cave at Bethlehem with the Holy Family within, or the Wise Men in Botticelli's "The Adoration of the Magi" all make the Christmas story very real. There are fine prints of sacred paintings on many Sunday school lesson helps. Religious Book Stores and Publishing Houses supply them. Quite a few small pictures can be found on Christmas cards. A school age child might like to make a scrap book of Christmas scenes, both sacred and secular.

The modern View Master has taken the place of the old-fashioned stereoscope. There are three exceptionally effective colored Christmas reels, on Joseph and Mary, the Shepherds, and the Wise Men. This is a useful gift for the whole family.

Little folk love to cut out. The cardboard Manger Scene with a colored box-like background and the colored figures all ready for cutting out is quite popular.

In some homes a creche with tiny plaster of Paris figures is brought out each December. If an older member of the family is skilled in wood or soap carving or in moulding in clay, why not create an original set of creche figures?

Making a silhouette window effect with tissue paper of one of the Christmas scenes, such as the shepherds on the hills is another way to help a little child learn that Christmas marks Christ's birthday.

The story of the first Christmas is told with great beauty and simplicity in the New Testament. Boys and girls hear about the Nativity at Sunday School. But every little child should learn about Christmas as Christ's Birthday from his own parents.

It is confusing if children get the impression at home that Christmas has mainly to do with Santa Claus and the excitement of receiving gifts. How much children miss if they do not hear of the true origin of Christmas when they are still quite small!

One of the loveliest glimpses of a mother telling her boy and girl this story is found in "Only Parent" by Louise Dickson Rich. This recent book, published by Longman's is remarkable for its insight into what goes on in the minds and hearts of children.

The author writes: "When Dinah was four and Rufus nine, at Christmas time I told them again the story of the Christ child—of the long hard trip to Bethlehem, of the Inn that had no room and of the manger—Dinah's eyes filled with tears—"But Mummy, He'd be cold, and the cows and donkeys would look so big to Him, He'd be afraid!" I had forgotten that it was possible to feel concern, real concern for the little Lord Jesus, asleep on the hay!

This Christmas time in our homes, through pictures, a creche and by telling the story of the First Christmas may we help our children see in their imaginations the baby Jesus in the manger at Bethlehem. "Love came down at Christmas"—and may our own hearts be filled with love for Him and gratitude for His coming!

"Once again His Birthday
Christians celebrate;
Steadfastly believing
Love will conquer hate."

CHRISTMAS DAY brings all the excitement of receiving gifts, but a little child should be taught that the real meaning of Christmas is that it is the baby Jesus' birthday.

Nurses Review Gym-Swim Work For Tea Guests

"Open house" and a Christmas tea on Friday afternoon concluded the gym-swim classes of the Preliminary Students of the Peterborough Civic Hospital School of Nursing at the YWCA.

In the setting of the Y gym and pool in Christmas dress their guests saw the girls perform a dance of Latvian origin, a relay race and a simple gymnastic routine and games and races in the pool. Carol singing around the Christmas trees was enjoyed by both class and guests, the girls concluding their program by forming the letters PCH and singing carols under the "baton" of Barbara Lewis on the diving board.

Tea was served in the Green Room by the social committee of the Y board with Miss Mary Nesbitt of the hospital staff presiding at the tea table.

Reward for hours of practice came to some of the students when they were presented with intermediate and senior Red Cross swimming crests by Mrs. F. R. Pope, water safety chairman of the Red Cross, and Mrs. H. T. Rehill, president of the Y board.

The student nurses, who will graduate in '56, have enjoyed the Y classes for the past three months. They were directed in the gym by Miss Beatris Pelsis and in the pool by Miss Roselyn Stone.

RCAF Ladies' Aux. Shown Hair Styles

Christmas meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the RCAF Association held in the club rooms on Thursday evening, opened with a brief business session conducted by president Mrs. Daphne Adams.

Then a presentation of instruction and demonstration on hair styling and care by Mrs. Joan Lawless was very much enjoyed. Mrs. Lawless, who was introduced by Mrs. Ida Whitnell, included particularly interesting notes about children's hair.

Models illustrated her remarks with Marie Battle showing the "pointed shortie," Mrs. McCabe the "helmet coif,' Edna Lawless the "mobile flair," Diane Wagner the "holiday glitter," and little Misses Brenda Cooper and Teresa Healey had the "Peter Pan" and the "Little Sis" cuts.

The evening was completed with refreshments and an exchange of gifts.

Santa Surprises Friday Night Cub

An enjoyable festivity of Friday at the YWCA was the Christmas party of the Friday Night Supper Club. The meeting started as usual with box lunches being opened but shortly after sleigh bells were heard—and in through the door came jolly old St. Nicholas.

Judy Hardill surprised her fellow members by being a perfect Santa. She took each girl on her knee and asked in a booming voice what they wanted for Christmas. Small gifts for each one were given from under a brightly lighted tree.

After Santa left with his reindeer, the girls played two games. Lorene Batley won a sandy cane in "Pass the parcel" and the other was a contest to draw Santa on paper in the dark. These sketches proved very amusing.

Carols were sung to end the party.

Business discusion was regarding the Holly Hop at the Y, the annual formal dance of the club, being held December 23rd.

Home and School Association News

CENTRAL SCHOOL

The Rev. Maurice Poole was guest speaker at the meeting of Central Home and School Association this week.

His Topic "Christmas Without Christ" left his audience with renewed thoughts on the present day pre-Christmas grand commercial shopping spree that all too often becomes the only remembrance of the celebration. Mr. Poole emphasized the wonder of the first Christmas and deplored the lack of man's sharing "the good news". He noted the Put Christ-Back Into-Christmas movement and deemed is very necessary.

He directed a particular question to those present "Why don't we make room for Christ". "Taking the innkeeper's position into consideration and applying it to ourselves the question could have been answered by all for possibly three reasons (as the Innkeeper may have done): He wasn't expecting Him; he didn't recognize Him, and, he didn't want to open his door to Him. Do we? Are we embarrassed to find our Christmas celebrations including friends and activities embarrassing to us—to Christ?"

This timely message was much appreciated and Mrs. Wm. Guppy thanked the speaker.

Several items on the full program included piano duets by Peter and Michael Philp; a film on Dicken's Christmas Carol; the reading of two poems by Margo Murray; a song by Beverley Garside; a guitar solo by Donald Dunford followed by guitar duets, trio, and quartet numbers by pupils of Mrs. Jack Cochrane; a much enjoyed film; "Silent Night" and the hymn Silent Night sung by Anne Stewart.

President Mrs. J. Callaghen closed with a short reading and a social half hour followed as lunch was served.

Attendance prizes for the evening were won by Miss Bock's and Mr. Gainer's classes.

Mrs. Deyell President of WA

OMEMEE (ENS)—The December meeting of Trinity United church WA at the parsonage was featured by carol singing and meditations by Mrs. Graham's group.

Mrs. T. A. McConnell read an article and a Christmas prayer. Scripture was read by Mrs. B. Hyland and a commentary by Mrs. R. Rehill. Mrs. S. Vaughan led in prayer.

A trio was sung by Mrs. T. J. Pogue, Mrs. A. N. Weir and Mrs. W. D. Weir, accompanied by Mrs. L. Casey. Mrs. Graham spoke on "Joy."

A letter of greeting was read from WA presbytery president, Mrs. Sleep, and thank-you cards from Mrs. Ivan Eggleton and from Mrs. P. Race and Lillie.

It was decided to have a shower for the new kitchen at the January meeting, to which all the ladies of the congregation would be invited.

Officers for 1954 were chosen, as follows: President, Mrs. H. Deyell; 1st vice, Mrs. V. Lang; 2nd vice, Mrs. R. Brooks; recording secretary, Mrs. S. D. Vaughan; assistant, Mrs. M. Lathangue; corresponding secretary, Mrs. S. H. Moyer; treasurer, Mrs. A. N. Weir; pianist, Mrs. L. Casey; assistant, Mrs. J. A. McConnell; parsonage committee, Mrs. Brooks, Mrs. V. Lang and Mrs. E. Mahod; Christian citizenship secretary, Mrs. A. Tully; friendship committee, Mrs. McConnell, Mrs. Harold Laidley, Mrs. Casey and Mrs. D. Hicks; group leaders, Mrs. G. Bocock, Mrs. W. D. Weir, Mrs. V. Gray, Mrs. H. Lang and Mrs. M. Lathangue.

The group in charge of the program were hostesses for the social hour.

A thin coating of beeswax on the pulley stiles of sticky windows will make them slide easily.

Handsome Prizes Given At Firemen's Ball

The Firemen's annual Ball at the Club Aragon on Friday evening was not so largely attended as usual. However, it was a very happy evening for those present.

Handsome prizes were given, the main door prize being a silver tray set and a silver jug and the lucky winners were Mr. and Mrs. Rick Robinson. Another door prize was a lavender set to Miss Lucille O'Keefe, who was escorted by David Tripp, and he won a pyrene extinguisher.

Four spot dance prizes were also given during the evening. A plastic cannister set was won by Miss Edna Darling, dancing with Cec McIvor who won a 50-foot length of garden hose. A men's brush set went to Lorne Collins and his partner, Mrs. George Harrington, won stockings and perfume. Miss Betty Armitage received a hostess set and Jack Wilson won a $5 gift certificate. Mr. and Mrs. Vaughn Tucker were very lucky to be dancing when they were picked on the spot and won an auto first aid kit and two auto rain coats.

Firemen who arranged and conducted the ball were V. Barry, J. Deck, F. Ray, Roy Fitzgerald and Henry Nokes, under the chairmanship of Wm. Bloom.

Patronage of Alderman Harold Rehill, chairman of the fire and light committee of the city, and of the Hon. Harold R. Scott, MP, and Mrs. Scott was enjoyed.

Others attending were:

Of Interest to Women

DOROTHY DIX

Husband Left Home, Wife Advised To Wait Patiently

DEAR MISS DIX: My problem is the eternal triangle and a broken home. A year ago I learned that my husband was involved with another woman. I have tried every conceivable means to break them up. However, he moved in with her, and now is maintaining that we (our two daughters and I) are trying to take everything from him. That includes our home (mortgaged) and assignment of life insurance. He gives a small amount weekly for support of the children. Shall I give him the divorce he wants, or wait, hoping for the best? He says he isn't going to marry the girl, and no wonder, her character is so unsavory he's ashamed of her.

F. L.

FLASHY ROMANTICS

ANSWER: You're wise to hold of the divorce as long as possible. Your husband's affair is not the sort that is likely to be lasting. Keep your home and the insurance; your children are entitled to as much protection as they can get.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: How much time does a man need to make up his mind? I've been going with a man for five years; he never says anything about marriage, but won't let me go out with other men. I think I have been very patient. Now I've met someone else, but if I go with him, the other one will fuss. I'm 47.

C. A.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Why must you get nervous over the bad temper of a man you're not even engaged to? You must put up with such a disposition in a husband, but never from a man to whom you are not wed. Surely you don't want to waste the rest of your life waiting on a man's whim? Go out with the new man—and any other man you wish—telling the old beau he can take it or leave it.

DEAR MISS DIX: We are two girls of 15, interested in making a career of social work. Right now, we'd like to give some time to this type of work in hospitals, with the Red Cross, etc. We don't have too much spare time, since we're in school, but we do have Saturdays free.

R. P.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Almost any children's hospital will be only too glad to have your help. Their need is for persons to feed the babies, read or tell them stories and, in general, supply the personal touch that overworked nurses cannot give.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: After giving me an engagement ring, and planning our marriage for spring, Don has decided to go to college. I was very hurt to have my plans upset. Should I give his ring back? I think two of his friends have influenced him to go to college.

Harriet V

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You should be thankful to have a boy with enough ambition to further his education. The more he knows, the better able he'll be to provide for you. While you are waiting, suppose you do something about increasing your own knowledge? If you work during the day, take an evening course. You'll thereby increase your own chances for employment and also become a more interesting person.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I've become much interested in an upperclassman at college and would like to know how to meet him. We're not in the same classes or activities.

S. L.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Surely there's someone on the campus who could arrange an introduction for you! If not, walk right up to him and say, "Aren't you so-and-so? I was interested in your story in this week's paper," or, "That was a great game of basketball you played yesterday," or, "The posters you did for the student council election are super. Congratulations." A girl has the privilege of speaking first, and the campus constitutes sufficient introduction.

Unless your hair is quite dry, this is a good way to spread your favorite fragrance: add two teaspoonsful of the perfume to a cup of water and use for setting your hair.

Woman Lawyer's Success Triumph Of Determination

COBALT, Ont. (CP)—Stella Panarites returned to her home town to practise law and friends consider her success a triumph of determination.

The 29-year-old Cobalt woman graduated from Osgoode Hall, Toronto. She was one of two women and 182 men in the class and received her call to the Ontario bar this year.

Stella will be the third lawyer in town and she made the grade despite accidents as a child that kept her from school for five years.

Tall and slender with flashing black eyes, she is the daughter of a Greek immigrant, George Panarites, 76. Mr. Panarites came to this northern Ontario mining town in 1906 and set up a restaurant.

Stella was injured while playing with the fire chief's daughter. The lively seven-year-old didn't notice the hole in the floor through which firemen slide down their pole to the ground floor. She spent 2½ years in the Hospital for Sick Children, Toronto. When she was discharged, one leg was shorter than the other.

The second mishap occurred seven years later while Stella was trying out for the girls' hockey team at Cobalt high school. She broke a weakened thigh bone and was again away from school for more than two years.

"But the second accident actually turned out for the best," she says. "Dr. D. E. Robertson, a noted Toronto surgeon, attended me. When he was through, my leg was at normal length. I was in much better shape than after the first injury."

Warkworth News

Mr. Ray Waters has been taking medical treatment in Peterborough Civic Hospital.

Mr. J. H. Brooks of Campbellford has been visiting his daughter, Mrs. Roy Shea.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Servais of Toronto were guests this week of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Edgar and family.

Mr. Harry McMillan, manager of the local Farmers' Co-operative and the president, Mr. Howard Evans, attended the Co-op convention in Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Edgar were recent visitors of his brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Edgar, Napanee.

Miss Jean Lawson has returned to Toronto after visiting the parental home.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Skinkle and June of Lakefield were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Sayles and family.

Recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Israel Smith and family include her father and brother, Mr. John Demorest of Trenton and Mr. George Demorest of Vancouver, B.C.

Mrs. Martin Peterson has returned from visiting her son Jack, Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Covert have returned home from visiting their daughter, Mrs. Floyd Harvey and family and his sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. L. Lockhart, Cobourg.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Pratt and Janice were recent visitors of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Moffatt, Marmora.

Marmora News

The family of Mrs. James Bowes, formerly of Renfrew, have taken up residence in one of the Pearie apartments on Burnstall St.

Miss Elsie Loewen, Burk's Falls, was a weekend visitor of Mrs. Howard Hamilton.

Readers' Saturday Column Conducted By Mary Moore

QUESTION: ... I wrote to you a while ago for recipe for Ginger wine, but did not see it... Happy Landings... R. S.

✧ ✧ ✧

QUESTION: ... I would like to get the recipe for fruit loaf nut Christmas cake and if you can tell me how to make ginger wine ... some call it cordial Mrs. J. McG.

✧ ✧ ✧

QUESTION: I would like very much if you could give me recipe for mangel and carrot wine...

MRS. C. H.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I'm bewildered by all of these requests for wine recipes for I have never made wine in my life. What I have given you are untested. You know more about the whole business than I do

✧ ✧ ✧

GINGER WINE

Three gallons cold water, 9 lbs. loaf sugar, ¼ lb. whole bruised ginger, ¼ lb. seeded Muscatel raisins, strained juice and finely grated yellow rind of 4 large lemons, 2 tablespoons brewers' yeast. Put stoned raisins in large enamel preserving kettle with the water, sugar and bruised ginger. Boil for 1 hour, skimming frequently. Turn into large earthenware crock or wooden tub, let stand until milk-warm, then stir in yeast. Next day turn into dry clean cask, add lemon juice and rind, and bung lightly. Stir the wine every day for a fortnight, then tighten the bung. Allow to remain undisturbed for 3 or 4 months, then bottle.

Mrs. C. H. I do not have a recipe for mangle wine. Would you care to try

✧ ✧ ✧

MARLMSEY (parsnip) WINE

Grate 4 lbs. clean and pared parsnips, and over them pour 1 gallon boiling water. Cover, and when cold strain and press out liquid. Add ½ oz. cream of tartar, 3 lbs. sugar, and allow to ferment until fermentation subsides. (The recipe says to add from 3 per cent to 5 per cent of brandy, and then "rack". I'm completely puzzled.)

✧ ✧ ✧

QUESTION: ... I have a problem which I really am ashamed to ask ..but what are the foods that ward off colds and the like? We've spent more money in 12 years of marriage on hospital and Dr. bills than anything and that's a fact. Mostly me. Since last month I've had 2 cases of strep throat, my Dr. gave me as much penicillin as he dared. It cleared my throat but I still have a bad cold.. I'm always tired, constipated, never hungry. I hate to eat. I weigh 98 to 100 lbs.—5 ft. 4 in. when you put that diet for thin people in the paper I was so happy. I thought at last I'll really try but it lasted 1 day—couldn't push the food down. ... I'm always on a tonic of some sort so I thought maybe we don't eat right .. my 3 boys are all like me underweight. We get 3 quarts homo every day—make lots of puddings and custards, fresh fruits. My boys even take the lettuce out that I put in their sandwiches. I make lots of soups and stews with vegetables, but it has to be strained for boys. I have to really stretch my food dollars... friend husband is overweight and he loves to eat so he's no problem ...we have fresh vegetable salad every day but they just pick at it, till I insist they eat every drop .. Is there an answer for me?...

ESTHER LeC.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Since I am not a doctor what I say here might be misinterpreted. I am not prescribing. I am only suggesting good nutritional foods. Serve nothing but 100 per cent whole wheat bread. Add as much as 1-3 cup fresh wheat germ to a batch of cooked cereal for 5. Use the whole-grain cereals for cooked breakfast cereal. Whole grains contain minerals and vitamins in quantities not available in other common foods, which the body must have to make it function efficiently. Keep up your fresh fruit and fresh salad routine, but do not prepare salads or vegetables ahead of serving or cooking time. Vitamins are lost by ahead-of-time preparation. For your chronic ailment eat your oranges peeled and sectioned, not juiced, and eat figs and prunes and apples. Do not let the boys satisfy their hunger with sweets. When they come in hungry from play feed them a well-ballanced meal—not cookies or snacks. Do not put milk on the table (or water) until after they have eaten their main course—and no dessert until their plates are clean BUT don't make their servings so big they are discouraged to start with. Keep me posted. You should have 1 hour outdoor exercises every day, if it is only walking.

14-Year-Old Boy Awarded George Medal

OTTAWA (CP)—A 14-year-old boy's heroic rescue of an airman from a burning plane has won him the coveted George Medal, one of the highest decorations for bravery in the Commonwealth.

Robert Thomas Waters of Comox B. C., becomes the seventh and youngest Canadian to receive the decoration, instituted in 1940 and named for King George VI.

The boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert M. Waters of Comox, and Albert Richard De Cuyper, 30-year-old farmer, each rescued a man from the burning wreck of a Lancaster bomber. Mr. De Cuyper also was awarded the George Medal. Eight airmen were killed.

PUBLISHED IN GAZETTE

A simple announcement Friday in the Canada Gazette said the Queen has approved the award of the George Medal, listing De Cuyper and Waters. No details of their heroic feat of Nov. 24, 1952, accompanied the brief announcement.

Details were given, however, in RCAF citations.

The George Medal, for "acts of great bravery," is intended primarily as a civilian award although previous winners include two air force officers, an army officer, an immigrant and a police constable.

AIR FORCE GIVES STORY

The air force said young Waters saw the Lancaster, on a training flight from the RCAF station at Comox, crash in heavy bush and swamp. He went immediately to the scene after calling Mr. De Cuyper who was working on a farm nearby.

Waters entered the flaming wreckage to drag the pilot, FO. R. F. Johnson of Springhill, N. S. to safety.

De Cuyper spotted another crew member, FO. M. J. Wright of Vancouver, trying to free himself. De Cuyper reached the wing of the plane, but was hurled into the air by an explosion. Not injured seriously, De cuyper returned to the rescue attempt and removed Wright from the plane.

District Driver Fined $23

LINDSAY, (ENS)— A Peterborough district herdsman, Phillip Payne was convicted of careless driving and fined $15 and costs of $8.70 by Magistrate E. A. Gee. Payne was defended by Donald Bark of Peterborough.

The charge was laid by Provincial Police officers at Lindsay, folowing an accident in the village of Manilla, west of the town.

According to evidence, Payne was driving toward Lindsay on Highway 7 when his car collided with a vehicle driven in the same direction by Stanley Eades of Sunderland.

Jayne claimed Eades, who was driving in the south lane of the three-lane highway, pulled out suddenly, as if to make a U-turn in front of him. To prove his contention, he claimed Eades' car was facing almost due north when his car collided with its rear end, swinging it so that it was facing north west when it came to rest.

Payne admitted he was driving between 45 and 40 in the village when the accident occurred.

Eades claimed he was pulling into the centre lane of the road but denied being pointed across Payne's path at the impact.

Magistrate Gee based his conviction on the admitted speed of Pa yne's car at the time of the accident.

Santa Coming Anyway

NORANDA, Que. (CP)—Despite a strike in this northwestern Quebec mining town, Santa Claus will come next week to 10,000 children of the strikers. Under auspices of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO), 25 men have worked eight hours a day for six weeks making and repairing toys and these playthings and other gifts will be handed out at a huge Christmas party.

RESCUING COMRADES—Firemen work desperately to free one of their comrades from the ruins of a three-storey building in Chicago after he and at least a score of others were buried under a mountain of debris following a fire. More than 40 tenants, many of them in night attire, fled into the sub-zero weather and firemen found one unidentified resident burned to death in the basement.

2-Headed Baby Progresses Satisfactorily

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Physicians at Riley Hospital kept the two-headed boy born a week ago under observation Friday and said its condition was about the same—"satisfactory."

Dr. John D. van Nuys, dean of the Indiana University medical centre, said the baby would remain at hospital until it no longer requires medical care.

Van Nuys said it was a misunderstanding that led to the announcement that the baby was ready to be taken to the home of its parents in Washington, Ind.

PROGRESS NORMAL

The baby, born with two heads, four arms and two legs, has been making the progress of a normal infant since its arrival here from Washington last Saturday night. Dr. van Nuys said it probably would remain under doctors' care for some time.

It was believed that the infant was the only child so malformed that ever had survived more than a few hours. However, a report from Belo Horizonte, Brazil, said a two-headed girl had been born there five days ago.

The Brazilian child, now in Sao Vincente Hospital at Belo Horizonte has two heads, four arms and three legs.

Seeks To Correct Ideas Of North

LONDON (CP)—A British Columbia housewife, stung by "lurid and rather old-fashioned descriptions" of the Canadian North in the British press, has replied with a verbal broadside.

Mrs. Frank Goodman of Dollarton, B.C., fired off her letter to a London newspaper in answer to recent highly-colored descriptions of Canadian communities published in connection with the Duke of Edinburgh's projected visit to Canada next summer.

"There are multi-million dollar hydro-electric developments both in the Northwest Territories and in the Yukon," Mrs. Goodman wrote to The Daily Mail "The people who man these projects . . . live in very good houses or in five- and seven-roomed apartments, all electrically heated.

"They are not isolated any more. They use small planes to get about much as a Londoner would use a taxi."

Canada's Atomic Furnace Re-Activated Early In Year

OTTAWA (CP)—William J. Bennett, president of Atomic Energy of Canada Limited, says the powerful NRX reactor at Chalk River, Ont., will be in operation again early in the new year. The pile was damaged by a leak a year ago.

When the atomic furnace is reactivated it will be "hotter" than before the breakdown. It also will be fitted with new gadgets, expected to reduce the danger of future leaks.

Mr. Bennett, also president and managing director of Eldorado Mining and Refining Limited, said in an interview that repair work was governed by the availability of materials and delivery of new equipment to be used in the rebuilt pile.

The date of the reactor's resumption was not known because of the highly-technical repair and installation job.

TUBES SPRANG LEAK

The reactor broke down Dec. 12, 1952, when aluminum tubes, holding water used to cool the energy-producing uranium rods in the pile, sprang leaks. This allowed radio-active materials, including deadly gamma rays, to escape.

Sensitive electronic equipment immediately recorded the break. Alarm bells sounded throughout the project and the pile was shut down. All workers were evacuated until the degree of contamination could be determined.

Although radio-active materials spread over a wide area of the project they caused no major damage outside of the reactor building. Workers were not affected by the rays and returned to their jobs.

Contamination was found to be slight except in the building housing the pile and caused little interruption in research. Scientists were able to continue a wide variety of experiments in other laboratories.

IMPORTED ISOTOPES

However, the breakdown halted the production of isotopes, and Canada this year was forced to import isotopes with a short life, mainly from the United States. Isotopes of this type are used mostly in medicine.

The breakdown also halted the production of long-life isotopes, including cobalt for the cobalt bomb used in treatment of cancer. However, Chalk River had a supply of cobalt and other long-life isotopes at the time of the accident.

Officials of Atomic Energy of Canada say they have sufficient cobalt to enable them to fill current orders for the bomb. They also say the pile will be back in operation producing cobalt by the time present cobalt stocks are exhausted.

The NRX pile takes an average of about one year to produce a supply of cobalt. However, it also takes from one to two years to fill an order for a bomb. It must be designed to specification and the hospital or university must construct a special room.

The crown-owned company has installed 10 cobalt bombs of varying strengths in hospitals in Canada, Britain, the United States and Italy. Approximately 12 other bombs have been sold but not yet installed.

DECONTAMINATION PERIOD

Decontamination of the project area outside the pile building was completed within a few weeks. However, decontamination and dismantling of the reactor itself continued until well in the summer.

Extra precautions were taken to prevent workers being affected by gamma rays. They were required to wear special clothing and gas masks and were checked constantly for contamination.

The dismantling job was featured by the removal in June of the reactor's calandria — probably the biggest radioactive object handled by man. The calandria, a 2½-ton aluminum tank 10 feet high and eight feet wide, housed the 176 aluminum-sheathed uranium rods which produced the reactor's energy. It was removed from the reactor with a hoist and buried outside the plant.

The dismantling and repair job is a major Canadian scientific achievement since it proved that a damaged reactor can be reactivated. It also proved that scientists, with proper safety equipment, can work in radiation fields once thought too strong for human safety.

Would Swap Polar Bear Rug For Some Radio Equipment

FORT SMITH, N.W.T. (CP)—Like to swap some radio equipment for a polar bear rug for Christmas?

Just write to Rev. William Leising, 40-year-old flying priest of the Arctic, at this Northwest Territories settlement and he'll see that the deal goes through.

Father Leising, a member of the Oblate order and a native of Buffalo, N.Y., says radio receivers and transmitters are badly needed by three of the order's missions 1,000 miles north of here.

REMOTE MISSIONS

The missions, located in barren arctic wastes where the sun goes down in the fall and doesn't rise until spring, are without communication the year round, except for the occasional visit by supply ship or by Father Leising's ski-equipped plane.

"If anyone can provide a radio or a transmitter," he said, "I'll personally see that they get the best polar skin in the Arctic. And I'll throw in a white fox skin to boot."

He needs three powerful receivers, able to pick up aircraft and other short-wave bands, and three transmitters with a power of 30 to 50 watts and a range of 300 miles—"enough to get them in touch with a government radio relay station."

"Radios would save lives," he said. "I landed at one mission and an Eskimo friend of mine pointed to a mound of stone and said, 'There lies my wife.' He had brought her to the mission in childbirth and she died. A radio could have got medical direction and saved her."

700 MILES FROM POLE

One of the missions is at Holman island, 700 miles from the north pole. It has a small receiver "but they can pick up only Russia, Sweden and Finland." The two missionary priests there, Fathers Maurice Metayer and Henry Tary were missing for 19 days last August when their boat went astray on a supply trip to Coppermine, 275 miles to the south.

The other missions without communication are at Paulatuk, 425 miles east of Aklavik, and Stanton, 300 miles west of Coppermine and "in the middle of nowhere."

Father Leising, who operates out of this settlement near the Alberta border, was a chaplain with joint Canadian and armed forces in the north during the Second World War.

He flew in his teens and after the war decided to take on the job of flying supplies and personnel to Roman Catholic missions in the north. To fit himself for the job, he took special flying courses at East Lansing, Ill., and Edmonton.

Bill Dorrington Opens Service Station

Bill Dorrington, a 44-year-old native of Peterborough, opened his own British-American service station, three miles east of the city on Highway 7, today. In addition to the modern garage, a restaurant seating 42 people is included, both operating on a 24-hour basis. George W. Shepherd is the proprietor of the restaurant.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. William Dorrington, Bill was educated at Queen Alexander School and PCVS. After graduating he was employed at the DeLaval as a toolmaker until 1941 when he joined the RCN as an engineer. For five years he saw active service with North Atlantic convoy fleets and mine-sweeping operations in the English Channel.

HIS OWN BOSS

Upon his return in 1945, he became employed again at the DeLaval, but an urge to be his own boss soon resulted in his leasing of a BA station at the corner of Charlotte and Stewart Streets.

Shortly after, he took over the management of another station at the corner of Hunter and Aylmer, which is presently being managed by his brother, Ed Dorrington.

Mr. Dorrington purchased some land, the site of his new garage, of which he is proprietor, in 1951. Eventually he plans to build a motel neighboring the garage and restaurant, but, "all this takes time."

He is a member of the Lions, and Sales and Ad clubs, is married to the former Amy Fairbrother, and has one son, 13-year-old Peter, who is presently attending Grove School.

Electric Trains Crash At Least 3 Dead

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—Two electric trains collided in a suburban station near here today and a police report said at least three persons were killed and more than 100 injured.

The trains, which collided outside the Sydneham station, carried many women and children returning from Christmas shopping in Sydney.

The Australian broad casting commission quoted police as saying that two women and one man were killed, but they feared the death toll would be higher.

STILL DIGGING IN DEBRIS

Doctors, ambulance crews, police and rescue workers this evening were still fighting to free trapped victims from the telescoped carriages.

The accident occurred when a westbound train crashed into a stationary train. The leading steel carriage of the westbound train telescoped more than two-thirds of the rear wooden carriage of the stationary train.

Two other carriages were telescoped into a twisted mass of steel and timber.

Demand For Religious Books Highest Point In History

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

NEW YORK (AP)—Religion has become a "hot" item—on the bookshelves.

Publishers report the demand for books with a religious theme is at perhaps the highest point in book trade history.

"So far as I know," said John B. Chambers, Harper and Brothers editor, "there's never been any period anytime when the interest in such books even approached what it is now."

The trend has marked a major transformation in American reading habits. It has swept a host of religion-motivated books, both fiction and non-fiction, to the best-seller lists.

Some publishers say the subject is attracting an even greater reading audience than sex—the book trade's old reliable.

"By and large," said John C. Wiley, of William Morrow and Co., "the market is made up of two staple commodities — religion and sex. I rather think that today religion has the edge."

NEVER SO WIDESPREAD

There was a slight flurry of such interest after the First World War.

"But the trend did not have the depth or the far-reaching scope of this one," said John Farrar, of Farrar, Straus and Young, Inc. "I have never known interest in religious and inspirational books to be so widespread."

Public demand has pulled them into the mass - circulation paperbound market. About 15 books of religious nature, ranging from novels to scholarly studies, are on the stands in low-priced paper covers.

There's fairly close agreement on what caused the religious literary drift, namely:

Hitler, the A-bomb, disillusionment with accomplishments of sheer technology, Soviet despotism, international fist-shaking—and altogether the fear, barbarity and danger of our times to which neither science nor system has provided an answer.

"The world is puzzled and torn," said Farrar. "This has turned people not only to a contemplation of themselves but of their relation with God."

MANY FOREBUNNERS

It's a question precisely when the run on religious books began, but several publishers suggested most of the boom has come since the 1946 publication of Rabbi Joshua Loth Liebman's popular "Peace of Mind."

There were numerous forerunners, however, such as the Lloyd C. Douglas novels in the 1930s, Henry Emerson Fosdick's "On being a real Person" and novels like "The Song of Bernadette" and "Keys to the Kingdom."

But post-war years brought the biggest upsurge in religious fiction and non-fiction. A few examples:

"The Mircle of the Bells," "The Bishop's Mantle," "The Cardinal," "The seven Storey Mountain," "The Man from Nazareth" "The mature Mind," "Mr. Jones, meet the Master," "The Sign of Jonas," "The greatest Story ever Told."

Pace-setting veterans of current best-seller lists include such books as "The Silver Chalice," "The Power of positive Thinking," "A Man Called Peter," "The Robe," The new revised standard version of the BMIBLE, AND "This, I Believe."

Convicts Riot

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP)—Five hundred convicts armed with makeshift knives and clubs rioted Friday at the state prison at Samsun on the Black sea. Four were wounded seriously. Turkish gendarmes intervened and finally quelled the rioters. They had started fighting because of a fe i among four convicted murderers

Leave 100-Year Home

BRANTFORD (CP)—Police and firemen are working out of new quarters today. Friday they left buildings their departments had occupied for almost 100 years and moved into new premises that cost the city $44,000.

Clothes Make Wages

TORONTO (CP) — This has been a good year for workers in the men's fine clothing industry. Oscar James, president of the Associated Clothing Manufactures of Toronto and Hamilton, reported to his group's annual meeting that wages in the industry during the first 10 months of the year reached a record $6,250,000.

Red Square Not Associated With Communist Uprising

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW (CP)—Red Square, so called Red square hundreds of years before the Communist revolution.

The Russian word "krasnaya" means "red" and also "beautiful", "central," or "important.' My guide said a pretty girl in Russia is a "red' girl. In older Russian homes the "best" corner of the living room is the "red" corner.

The Communists have discarded much of the old in Russia but seem to have left untouched some aspects of the country's past. In the Kremlin, for instance, St. George's Hall is still St. George's Hall and the names of Assumption, Annunciation and Archangel cathedrals in the Kremlin have not been changed.

AN ANCIENT NAME

And Red square, which lies beside the Kremlin's eastern wall, carries the old name—and not because of its association with the modern Soviet red flag or the Communist uprising of October, 1917.

Red square is about 10 times the size of a Canadian football field. It was Moscow's "important market place" in the 17th century, the guide said. From a low tower on the Kremlin wall which now overlooks the Lenin-Stalin mausoleum, the czars [illegible] the people bartering honey, beeswax and furs for silks, silver and rugs brought by merchants from Persia, Greece and Byzantium.

When the Russias were united, Red Square became the place where the czars' orders were proclaimed and where important functions were enacted.

Also, said the guide, it was "red" partly because public executions took place there and blood flowed on a low platform still pointed out to visitors as "lob-no-yeh myest" —the "forehead" of the square.

KREMLIN'S GATES

The four main gates to the Kremlin still retain their ancient names. Above the Kremlin's 50-foot brick wall rise the gables of the office in which Prime Minister George Malenkov works.

Spaski Gate has a beautiful clock tower, topped by one of the five enormous red stars adorning various Kremlin buildings. By night their 4,000-watt lights are visible for miles.

"Spaski" means "Christ," or "Saviour." Under the Communists, Spaski gate has lost its old ikon (religious painting on wood) and the two-headed Russian eagle on its spire has been replaced by the Red star, but it has kept its name.

Nicholas Gate, at the other end of the square, was named for St. Nicholas. "Troitsky Gate," approached through Alexander Gardens along the north wall of the Kremlin, means "Trinity Gate."

WOODED GARDENS

The fourth, "Borovitsky Gate," through which visitors enter the Kremlin, means "Forest Gate," and is so called because at one time the gardens there were wooded.

At the south end of Red Square, near the "forehead spot," is St. Basil's cathedral, a 10-domed brick and-stone structure built for Ivan the Terrible in 1560. At the square's other end is the national institute, a monument to the life of Lenin.

The square's east side, opposite the Kremlin, is taken up with a long ornate three-storey building built in 1894 as a closed-in market. Since the revolution it has been an office building. Now it is being renovated for use as the largest department store in the Soviet Union.

When it opens history will have run the cycle and commerce will be back in old Red Square. If the ghost of some czar were to look down from the Kremlin tower he would notice changes but still would recognize the place.

WHO'S AFRAID OF THE BIG DOG?—Not Alexis Kerr, especially when she's taking "Nizam," a two-year-old Bengal tiger, for a walk. Her daddy is an animal trainer with a circus touring England. Alexis can't understand why the streets are always deserted when she and kitty go strolling.

The Movie Column

Do Retakes On New Munroe Film

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A wry and unpredictable fellow is Robert Mitchum.

Mitchum is the despair of his bosses because of the way he chats open-mindedly to the press and all others who will listen. One hush-hush subject in Hollywood is the matter of retakes. The word "retakes" has acquired a bad connotation here, indicating that a picture wasn't made correctly the first time and has to be patched up.

To get away from the distasteful word, the phrase "added scenes" is used in official announcements. Actually, there is often nothing to be ashamed of when retakes are required. Sometimes no one notices what is lacking in a picture until it is all put together.

I found Marilyn Monroe and Mitchum doing retakes—oops, I mean added scenes—for "River of No Return," which was finished weeks ago. It was a forest attack sequence and the pair gave it all the Johnston office will allow.

SOMETHING LACKING

Panting between scenes, Robert Mitchum gave his version of how it all came about: "I came back from a hunting trip with an idea for a movie script, see. I made the mistake of telling it to a script writer friend of mine, Frank Fenton. So what happens? He whips up the story and sells it to 20th Century-Fox with me in mind.

"So I read the script and I notice something is lacking. You put together Mickey Rooney and Marilyn Monroe or anybody and Marilyn Monroe and what do you expect? Sex. They tell me they don't need sex, that it's implied in the scenes. Okay, so we make the picture.

"Now you will notice we are doing retakes. To put what into the picture? Sex."

ALL DALIED UP—Holding his famous glass walking stick, surrealist painter Salvator Dali was caught in an awkward position while sitting in his Rome, Italy, hotel. He is in the Eternal City to go ahead with his plans to illustrate a new edition of Dante's "Divine Comedy." In case you're wondering about his moustache—it is reported to measure eight inches on each side.

U.K. Parliament To Have Month's Recess

LONDON (Reuters — Members of Parliament put their political squabbles into cold storage Friday night, packed their bags and went home for a month-long Christmas recess.

Many still were feeling the effects of a week of whirlwind House of Commons activity which involved attacks of the government by both the Labor opposition and sections of the government Conservative party.

Prime Minister Churchill held a tidying-up cabinet meeting in the afternoon. After 2½ hours of talk with his ministers, he went to Chartwell, his private country house in Kent, to relax.

Now in his 80th year, he has had no chance to ease up since he returned a week ago from the Bermuda Big Three conference.

BRIEF CELEBRATIONS

His Christmas celebrations also will be brief, for ahead lies the Big Four foreign ministers' conference in Berlin, which the Western powers have proposed should open Jan. 4.

Before then there will be much ministerial coming and going between London and Chequers, Churchill's official out-of-town retreat in Buckinghamshire. He will move there Tuesday for Christmas week.

Bus Drivers Vote On Merge Move

MONTREAL (CP) — About 200 Colonial Coach Lines bus drivers will vote next week on whether to merge their seniority in three Ontario districts, the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees and Other Transport Workers (CCL) announced Friday.

It is proposed to set up a general seniority rating scheme for drivers at Kingston, Ottawa and Peterborough, now in three separate groups, to move more easily from one district to another when general bookings are held for choice of "runs."

Ballots will be mailed Monday.

Truck Accident Fatal

OSHAWA (CP)—Michael Trimbal, 40, was killed late Friday night when a pick-up truck police said he was driving skidded out of control a few miles east of here.

Pope Plans Proclaim Former Pope Saint

VATICAN CITY (Reuters)—The Pope is expected to proclaim as saints Pope Pius X, who died in 1914 after an 11-year reign, and six other Roman Catholics during the Marian Year, the Vatican press office said Friday.

There will be a special ceremony for Pius X, while the others probably wil be canonized in two groups next May and June.

The six are: Pierre Chanel, French martyr of Oceania; Vincenzo Pallotti, founder of the Pallottine Society of Missions; Maria Crocifissa di Rosa, founder of the Institute of the Servants of Charity; Domenico Savio, disciple of Saint John Bosco; the Jesuit Giuseppe Maria Pignatelli and the Roman priest Gaspare del Bufalo.

May Win Fight For Custody Of Young Child

TORONTO (CP) — A childless Brooklyn housewife may win her nine-month fight for custody of a baby she and her husband tried to smuggle out of Canada.

Louis Herman, counsel for Mrs. Jack Shinder, 39, said Friday that permission to take the 10-month-old child out of the country has been received from Canadian authorities.

"All the papers are in the hands of immigration authorities," he said. U.S. immigration officials are expected to announce a decision Monday, he added.

The Shinders were turned back at Malton airport here Feb. 25 by immigration officials when they tried to take the baby on a plane bound for New York.

Shinder subsequently pleaded guilty to making a false statement in registering the birth of the baby boy and was fined $155. He returned to Brooklyn but Mrs. Shinder has been living here. They have taken legal steps to adopt the baby, child of a 16-year-old unmarried girl.

Sentences Suspended

SUDBURY (CP)—Three youths who stole more than $200 worth of merchandise from a drug store here were given two years' suspended sentence Friday. Douglas Fleming, 22, of Timiskaming, Roland Pointe, 23, of North Bay, and Robert Rosebrough, 19, of North Bay, pleaded guilty.

Unveil Plaque Commemorate Power Exchange

MARYSVILLE, Mich. (CP)—Ontario and Michigan government officials Friday unveiled a plaque to commemorate what is believed to be the largest international exchange of electric power in the world.

The ceremony was held in the shadow of one of the tall steel towers that carry electric cable 177 feet above the St. Clair river, linking the Ontario hydro-electric system and the Detroit Edison Company.

The Ontario system, generating its power from falling water, will send its surplus to Edison. Edison, generating from steam power will supply Ontario when water reserves are low.

PREMIER NOT PRESENT

Bryan L. Cathcart, Progressive Conservative member of the Ontario legislature for Lambton West took part for Premier Frost who was unable to attend the ceremony. Governor G. Mennen Williams represented Michigan.

The link has a capacity of 125,000 to 150,000 kilowatts and a similar link between Windsor and Detroit has the same capacity. The links went into operation about a month ago.

Family Honors Mother On 76th Birthday

STIRLING (ENS)—The home of Mr. and Mrs. John Heagle, Wellman's Corners, was the scene of a happy gathering this week, when members of Mrs. Dave Burkitt's family gathered to honor their mother on the occasion of her 76th birthday.

Mrs. Burkitt has three daughters, Mrs. R. Bedell of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.; Mrs. Fred Richardson, Stirling and Mrs. John Heagle; 14 grandchildren and 19 great grandchildren. She received many congratulatory messages, cards and gifts including a sweater and a flourescent lamp.

Refreshments, including a birthday cake were served by Mrs. Heagle and a social time was enjoyed.

Christmas Just Another Day Russia Celebrates New Year

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW (CP) — Christmas in Russia is just a date on the calendar.

New Year's is the day of gifts and greetings.

Fir trees are set up in homes and public squares to mark the winter holiday. Under them, on New Year's morning, the children find their gifts.

And yet, those trees are decorated, and the time at which the lights go on is the evening of Dec. 24. And the state lends Elohovsky Cathedral the Bolshoi opera chorus for its ceremonies on Christmas Eve.

This information about Christmas arose from a search for greeting cards. I took the card problem to my Intourist guide.

Christmas, she said, is observed mainly by the old.

"There is nothing in the calendar to indicate anything special about the day, and many young people who have grown up since the revolution have never heard about it.

ILLUMINATED TREES

"There is a fir tree in most homes and it is decorated by the parents in time for the holiday season. The first time it is illuminated is the evening of Dec. 24.

"The state places decorated fir trees in front of the main buildings and larger apartment houses, and usually there is one also in Red Square. They also are illuminated for the first time Dec. 24.

"The presents are placed under the tree new year's eve and the children find them there the next morning.

"The practice of religion is free here, and those who believe in a God may go to church. Many people go to church Dec. 24. If you go, you will find it very difficult to find a place."

My search for Christmas cards is unavailing.

But at the opera, at the counter where libretti, program and souvenirs of the Balshoi are sold, a flash of color caught my eye.

It was a stamped poscard, issued by the postal service of the U.S.S.R., with the Russian inscription: "For the new year!"

In the background of a snowy night is one of the great skyscraper apartment houses of Moscow. In the foreground is shown the clock-tower of the Kremlin's Spaski gate, the hands at midnight, the great star on its spire burning bright. Spaski is the Russian word for Christ.

U.S. Leaders Discuss Seaway Project

WASHINGTON (CP)—President Eisenhower and Republican congressional leaders Friday included the St. Lawrence seaway project in their discussions of the projected 1954 legislative program.

After the meeting, however, the leaders refused to say whether they had reached any conclusions.

U.S. participation in the seaway has often been rejected by Congress in past but the administration has indicated it will make one last attempt to win approval at the session early next year.

Canada has said she will go ahead alone on construction of the waterway if the U.S. does not decide to participate.

Both the national security council and the Eisenhower cabinet have supported plans for the U.S. to take part in constructing the seaway, which will provide a channel for ocean-going ships to reach the Great Lakes.

Presumably Friday's discussion involved an attempt by the administration to get a promise of support for the seaway.

PORT CLOSES

PORT STANLEY (CP) — The 850,000 gallons of stove oil unloaded Thursday night is expected to be the last steamship cargo of the year at this Lake Erie port. The Canadian tanker John Irwin sailed again after unloading.

Discuss Possibilities Bring Gas East

TORONTO (CP)— Attorney-General Porter said Friday night he held exploratory discussions in Ottawa with Trade Minister Howe on questions relating to bringing Alberta natural gas to the East.

No statement was forthcoming from the meeting.

Mr. Porter said on his return to Toronto:

"There is really nothing to report. These were exploratory discussions and no decisions were reached. I believe Mr. Howe has already said he plans to hold a meeting early in January with the people who might build the pipelines."

Man Charged With Gruesome Murder

TORONTO (CP)—James Houghton, 26, charged with the murder of Mrs. Sadie Davidson in a Jarvis street cleaning store Nov. 18, was committed for trial Friday.

Mrs. Davidson, a divorcee from Nova Scotia and mother of three children, was found cut and beaten to death in the cleaning store where she worked. Chief Coroner Dr. Smirle Lawson called it "the most gruesome murder I can recall in my 20 years as chief coroner."

Had Liquor Illegally, Fined

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS) — Illegal possession of liquor cost Joseph Collins of Campbellford $100 and $2.50 costs when he pleaded guilty to the charge before Magistrate R. B. Baxter in magistrate's court here on Thursday. Two other charges under the LCA against Collins, laid by Chief Constable Charles Lockwood, were withdrawn.

Kenneth Ingram also pleaded guilty to a charge of having liquor in a place other than his residence, and donated the sum of $25, plus $2.50 costs.

Several other cases, some involving the LCA and some the Highway Traffic Act were settled out of court during the week.

Men On Trial For Theft

WATERLOO (CP)—Ernest Delaney of Windsor and Nicholas Lebano of Cornwall Friday were committed for trial on a charge of theft.

Magistrate J. R. H. Kirkpatrick said the case "has all the elements of a confidence game."

Fred Morell of Waterloo told police he withdrew $300 from a bank and later became involved in a card game. He said he loaned Lebano money until it was all gone.

Constable Archie MacDonald said he was checking a hotel register with other policemen when he saw the three men leave the building. MacDonald said he chased Delaney and Lebano, catching them a short distance away. Police said they were tipped off by a taxi driver.

Weekend Church Review:

Christ's Gospel In World

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

The person of any Christian pretentions would be dull and hopeless indeed if he were not deeply troubled with the contrast between the peaceful mission, purpose and message of Jesus and the condition of our world.

That condition appears perilous with the realization that for the first time in human history man has apparently within his power a total destructive force.

There is, of course, still much questioning as to how real this threat of an atomic destruction may be.

When we turn, however, to the discrepancy between this world as it exists and the Gospel of Him whom we call "The Prince of Peace" all doubt and questioning subside into sad and tragic realization.

This is not a world of peace in which the Christ has conquered however much He may have conquered in the hearts and souls of many believers.

Among these sincere believers in the Prince of Peace, however, there is also a great discrepancy in practical attitudes as they face the teaching of Jesus, and the problem of peace in a warlike world.

Some, whom I would call nonresistants, rather than pacifists, for all true Christians are pacifists, even those who engage in war on behalf of peace against violence and aggression, believe in the literal following of the Master's command to resist not evil.

Others, as I have suggested, take the more common attitude of supporting their governments and people against attack, of meeting violent aggressors with adequate measures of protection.

Either way, I think the Christian is faced with a dilemma, and a problem in which he can find little satisfaction. In my own life I have felt strongly the inclination toward nonresistance.

It is so easy to accept a principle of individual action, to say that if all men were taking my attitude there would be no war, or to maket one's individual protest through nonresistance.

But I have never been able to adopt the attitude of nonresistance. The sufferings and sacrifices of those who have fought for and defended their country, as I see it, have been far greater than the inflictions upon non-resistants, much as I deplore the persecuting zeal of professional patriots.

I think of aggression and violence much as I think of threatening epidemics of disease. The gospel of good health, the preparatory measures of sanitation, are of the utmost importance. But when an epidemic breaks out one would not think of meeting it by a profession of the principles of good health.

Firm, stern, physical measures are necesssary. And the same thing is true, I think, of that epidemic of warlike aggression.

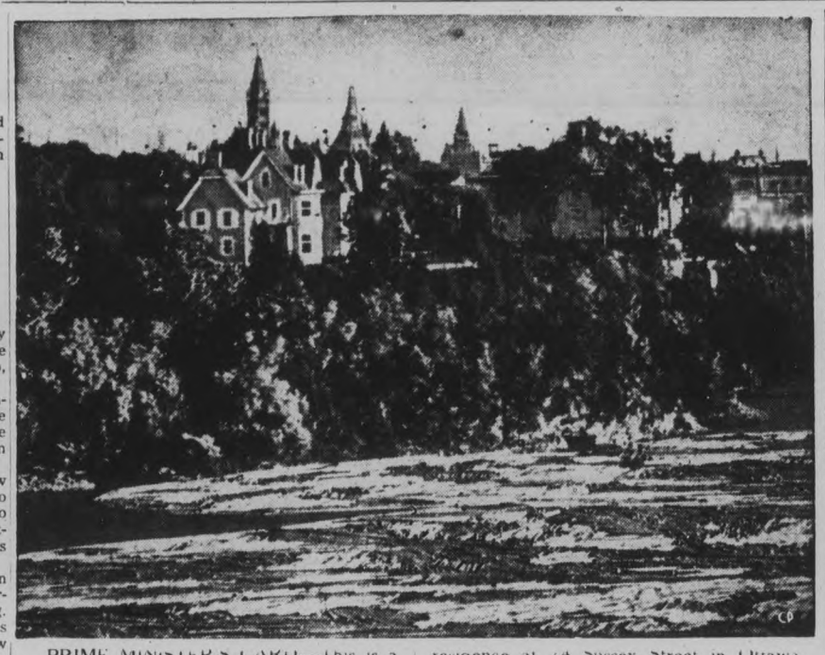
But, unfortunately, that is not all the story. Peaceful measures and preparations for defense so easily become a matter of vast military preparation and the accoutrements and philosophy of the war we so greatly deplore.

So the dilemma, in a measure, is unavoidable. But we can live in the spirit of peace, and live and hope and pray for peace, and believe in the Christ, who has conquered, but who has still much more to conquer.

Snow May Delay Christmas Mail

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Snow may delay Christmas mail for some farmers in southwestern Ontario, post office officials said.

Some rural mailmen were unable to finish their rounds because drifting snow and new falls have plugged some back roads and farm lanes.



More than four inches of snow fell in London Friday. The Embro district near Woodstock got six to eight inches of new snow. Stratford has had an estimated 18 inches since Monday.

Near Exeter county workmen were forced to abandon road-clearing efforts because of drifting. Back-road blows in other areas were unable to keep up to the snow fall, and many farms were isolated.

Main highways are open.

Snowy Owl Sighted

TORONTO (CP)—A snowy owl was seen at Sunnyside Amusement Park Friday. Naturalists say they migrate south every four or five years when food in their arctic home becomes scarce. Harmless to humans, they feed on small rodents.

Toronto Stock Market Trading Follows Dull Pattern

By BOB JOHNSTONE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Stock trading was stable this week.

Most of the week's trading at Toronto and Montreal was described as "mixed, dull, sluggish, listless, or irregular." New York showed a firmer pattern and ended a bit higher.

Toronto industrials showed scattered strength. Several categories emerged as standout performers.

Banks were strong. Agricultures also showed some strength despite earlier fears that over-production of Prairie wheat would result in a loss of farmers' buying power. Utilities were soft in moderate trading.

Western oils, although generally a little lower, showed a few stronger issues as Canadian Collieries and Merrill, both with interests in the new Pembina field of Alberta, continued gains they began two weeks ago.

Base metals showed little change. Consolidated Smelters, whose recent announcement of a zinc production cut started the last drop, showed a few slightly stronger sessions.

Golds showed a gain of less than a half-point on the exchange's indexes.

TORONTO INDEXES

The Toronto Friday-to-Friday comparisons show industrials up 3.91 at 313.70, golds up .41 at 66.67, base metals down .88 at 140.14 and western oils down 1.54 at 85.36.

In Montreal, steels, banks and papers were higher as they gained in most sessions although others varied from day to day and showed no patterns. Industrials, beverages and carriers were lower.

The weekly average comparisons showed banks off .13 at 35.53, utilities up .40 at 93.70, industrials up .20 at 184.50, combined up .30 at 54.20, papers up 5.56 at 769.50 and golds off .26 at 49.60.

Railroads led New York lower at the beginning of the week. At mid-week, they joined with steels, aircrafts and oils to push the market to its biggest rally in eight weeks. Although the railroads remained high, the rest slipped toward the close of the week. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was $1.20 higher at $109.50.

On the bond market, New York reports that a Quebec hydro $50,000,000 issue, released last week is still partly unsold. Europeans, especially Swiss and Belgian, investors are reported putting more money into Canadian debentures, with a preference for federal issues.

Business Pickup Predicted By New York Traders

By WALTER BREEDE Jr.

NEW YORK (AP)—Inventories, lay-offs and color television posed problems for business men this week. But there was a new air of confidence in the future.

Some economists and industry leaders professed to see the first faint stirrings of a business pickup which, they said, might blossom by spring.

This optimism highlighted a week in which the general pattern was mixed.

With Ford joining Chevrolet in forced-draft production of 1954 models, auto output picked up 16 per cent. Curtailed operations were in prospect for the next two weeks because of Christmas and New Year's holidays.

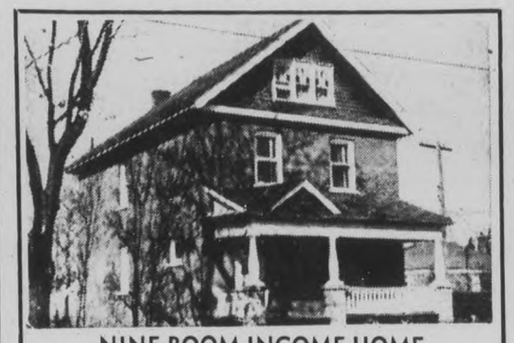
Steel production was scheduled at 85 per cent of capacity, down 1.7 per cent from the actual operating rate of the week before.

Oil drilling activity rose to a high; volume of cheque clearings moved up sharply; money in circulation set a record for the third consecutive week.

Retail trade gained momentum as the Christmas Eve shopping deadline drew near. Merchants in most parts of the U.S. reported more business than in the same week of last year's record-breaking season.

There were new lay-offs in the auto industry during the week. Chrysler, which jumped into production of 1954 models several weeks ahead of its two big competitors, sent home an estimated 8,000 men (union sources said it was 9,000) at its Dodge, De Soto and Chrysler plants. This makes at least 13,000 laid off by Chrysler in the last two months.

Electric Auto-Lite Co., one of Chrysler's suppliers, announced plans for laying off 4,000 employees during Christmas week. Brightest spot in the auto industry was word of a sizable drop in new car inventories.



Some 5,000 workers in the electronics industry were furloughed. Manufacturers, blaming a year-end slump in sales of television sets, said prospective customers were waiting for color television.

Trade sources said it would probably take about six months before the first color TV sets reach the market.

The department of agriculture reported that total U.S. crops this year were exceeded only by the bumper yield of 1948. Farmers got more cash for their crops last month than in November a year ago, thanks principally to government price support loans on wheat, corn and cotton.

THREE YOUTHS DROWN NEAR STIRLING

21 Babies Saved From Fire

Evacuate 24 Mothers From Hospital In London Blaze

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Twenty-one babies and 24 mothers were rescued when fire flashed through the maternity ward at Victoria Hospital here Sunday night.

Nurses formed a rescue chain to pass the babies from the smoke-filled, fourth-floor ward. Some of the women refused to be moved until assured their babies were safe. Today all were resting quietly in emergency quarters in the basement of the nurses' residence across the street from the hospital.

The mothers and babies were taken by elevator to the ground floor and through a tunnel under South street to the nurses' residence.

ALL REMAINED CALM

Lenora Higgins, head supervisor of the obstetrical department, said the calmness of the women made the evacuation much more simple.

Firemen brought the blaze under control quickly. Patients on other floors were being evacuated when it was learned the fire was out. A woman in labor turned in the first alarm after the fire broke out in the sterilization room and spread to linen rooms before being checked.

Because of the intense heat, firefighters were unable to enter the sterilization room for several minutes. Then they rushed in, a pair at a time, with water.

"Everybody was wonderful last night—even the babies were fairly quiet," Miss Higgins said.

FIRE CAUSE SOUGHT

Hospital authorities and the fire department can not yet say what cause the fire. Inspectors Bert Hessel and James Fitzgerald are investigating.

Meanwhile, hospital staff and workmen are working overtime to restore the two delivery rooms damaged by the heat and smoke. Even before firemen left Sunday night they were washing the walls.

Five of the staff, under William McBride, assistant housekeeper, toiled right throught he night.

VISITING MEN HELP

A number of fathers, leaving the hospital after visiting their wives, helped evacuate the mothers and babies.

MEET HEAD-ON—Two Peterborough men, John Whalen, 382½ Water St., and George Rowbotham, 596 Bolivar St., are in St. Joseph's hospital today suffering from shock and severe head cuts following a head-on car-truck accident Sunday on the Chemong road. Rowbotham was giving his daughter, Elaine, 17, a driving lesson when the accident occurred. Passing motorists wrapped both men in blankets and attempted to stem the flow of blood with snow until ambulances arrived. Skaters Hit Weak Spot In Lake Ice

Hear Faint Cries But See Nothing, 1st Search Halted

STIRLING (ENS) — Three Sidney township youths were drowned Sunday night when they broke through thin ice while skating on Oak lake, a mile south of Stirling.

Their bodies were recovered early today in 20 feet of water, some 50 feet from shore.

The victims:

Gilbert Brenton, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brenton of RR 4, Stirling.

Leighton Aide, 17, and his brother, Keith Aide, 13, two sons of a widow, Mrs. K. Aide, also of RR 4, Stirling.

People who live near the scene of the triple drowning reported hearing cries for help at dusk Sunday. They called provincial police from Belleville and made a search of the shoreline but could find nothing amiss. And the cries had stopped.

FIND SHOES

The police returned to headquarters and the people dismissed the matter until the parents of the youths began making enquiries early today. A search was started and their shoes were found on the the shore shortly after 9 a.m. The OPP were called again and dragging operations commenced under the supervision of Belleville officers.

Keith Aide's body was found about 10.30 a.m. and the bodies of his brother and Gilbert Brenton were located nearby and recovered within three quarters of an hour.

A group of volunteers helped the police in the dragging operation. One boat contained the grappling crew and the second boat was used to slide along the ice as a means of transportation between the shore and the open water.

Ice was broken off in a wide circle around where the youths fell in, indicating that they must have struggled to pull themselves out of the freezing water, but the inch-thick ice would not bear their weight. Presumably one or all three of them survived for some time, calling in vain for help. Then, numbed by the cold water, they drowned.

The would-be rescuers arrived too late.

HIKED TO LAKE

Sunday afternoon, about 4:30 p.m. the two Aide boys and Brenton hiked to the lake, at a point a quarter of a mile from Highway 14 which links Stirling and Belleville. They put on their skates and ventured out on the ice. The lake was frozen for a distance of about 70 feet from the shoreline. And it was solid enough to bear the weight of the skaters to a distance of 50 feet.

It was on a weak spot, some 20 feet from open water, that the three broke through to their deaths. The lake, about a mile long and three-quarters of a mile

Russia Accepts U.S. Invitation Join Atom Talks

MOSCOW (Reuters)—The Soviet government agreed tonight to join in "private or diplomatic talks" proposed by President Eisenhower to discuss "an acceptable solution" to the atomic armaments race. The Soviet reply to President Eisenhower's proposals, which was delivered to the United States embassy in Moscow today, while acepting the president's invitation to talks, declared that the aims put by the president could not be successful without the prohibition of atomic and hydrogen weapons.

The Kremlin note said:

"As to General Eisenhower's statement on the confidential or diplomatic talks concerning his proposal, the Soviet government following consistently its peace-loving policy, expresses its readiness to take part in such negotiations."

TEXT OF STATEMENT

The statement, handed to U.S. ambassador Charles Bohlen in Moscow today by Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, said:

"Quite justifiably the U.S. president emphasized the danger for the peoples of the world of the situation which is being created unless governments adopt measures against the race in atomic armaments.

"This is even more so now, when, together with the atomic weapons, the hydrogen weapon has already been invented—a weapon which greatly surpasses in power the atomic weapon.

"It must be remembered also that there exist such modern types of armaments as the rocket weapons which modern technique enables to be used over distances of thousands of kilometres, without aircraft, as well as torpedoes with atomic warheads and others.

"The discovery of the practical possibilities of the use of atomic power is in an immense achivement of modern science and technique."

PLAN CRITICIZED

The 3,000-word Soviet declaration criticized the Eisenhower plan as insufficient, however, stating that it does not provide a real ban on atomic and hydrogen weapons.

The Soviet note expressed the hope that atomic conferences will reach an agreement to lessen the fears of an anxious world.

The Moscow declaration said:

"The Soviet government considers that during the course of these conversations there should be examined the following proposals of the Soviet government:

Fail To Elect President On Ninth Ballot

VERSAILLES, France —(Reuters)—The French Parliament failed for the ninth time today to elect a new president. A 10th ballot will be necessary.

Earlier, rich, conservative Premier Joseph Laniel went into the ninth round of voting 22 votes short of victory.

On the eighth ballot Sunday night here in the people's assembly hall of the old palace of French kings, Laniel drew 430 votes from the National Assembly deputies and members of the upper Council of the Republic. A total of 453, a majority of the ballots cast, is needed to elect.

Socialist Marcel-Edmond Naegelen, also backed by the Communists, still was Laniel's closest competitor on the eighth ballot with 381 votes. The other 92 were scattered among various candidates.

The legislators planned a ninth tally, another four-hour process, today.

NEW CANDIDATE

Adding to the confusion was the announcement early today from Pierre Montel, a 57-year-old member of Laniel's Independent party from Lyon, that he had entered the presidential race. Montel said he thought he could get the large majority he said was needed for the president "to fill his high mission of arbitrator and conciliator."

No other French presidential election ever required more than two ballots. The protracted voting this time resulted from a sharp split, nearly down the political middle, in Parliament.

Laniel's support came almost entirely from the Conservative ranks, landholders, wealthy industrialists, and rightist Roman Catholics. Behind Naegelen was an almost solid phalanx of Socialists and Communists, representing nearly all of France's working population.

Between were slightly more than 100 members whose votes could swing in either direction to name the president.

Purple Fog Blacks Out London Area

LONDON (AP) — Fog closed down London airport for several hours today and reduced road traffic to a crawl, while snow falls brought beaming smiles to winter resort owners in western Europe.

Resort owners in mountainous sections, worried by a long spell of unseasonably warm weather, heaved sighs of relief because there will be some snow for Christmas skiiers.

Britain, however, is still wondering about a white Christmas. Temperatures are still above normal, but with a minimum of 35 degrees, London today had its coldest day since last March.

DEEP PURPLE FOG

It was an uncommon fog in London because for a considerable time it was of a deep purple hue. The weather man said it was due to refraction of light through suspended water particles.

Whatever the color, it was dense, and both London and Northholt airports were crowded with delayed passengers. A few planes began taking off at mid-day.

Trains were slowed down by "full fog regulations," and automobiles nudged along highways cautiously.

Taking Lesson, Girl Collides Head-On With Truck, 2 Hurt

A driving lesson for a 17-year-old Peterborough girl ended abruptly Sunday afternoon on the Chemong road, three miles east of the city, when her car and a truck met in a head-on collision. Two men, passengers in the car and truck were rushed to St. Joseph's Hospital suffering severe head cuts, bruises and shock. George A. Rowbotham, 45, of 596 Bolivar St., was giving his daughter, Elaine, a driving lesson in the family car. In fact according to the provincial police it was the first time that she had been behind the wheel since obtaining her 60-day temporary license. Police said that the Rowbotham car was about 1,000 feet past the junction of Highway 7 (to Lindsay) and the Chemong road, about three miles northwest of the city when it suddenly swerved.

NEARLY HEAD-ON

Just at that instant a truck, driven by James Anderson, 199 Reid St., was coming along the Chemong Road to Peterborough. The Rowbotham car, swerving across the road, met Anderson's truck nearly head-on.

Anderson held the steering wheel so tight at impact that the steering column was pressed forward, bent right to the dashboard, the steering wheel shattering the left windshield.

His passenger, John Whalen, 384½ Water St., was thrown forward, his head crashing through the right windshield of the truck, making a hole about 10 inches square.

In the Rowbotham car, Miss Rowbotham was sent hard against the steering wheel and dashboard. But her father, riding in the front seat, was also thrown forward, hitting his head on the windshield, shattering it, and his body crumpling in the metal dashboard on the right side.

USED SNOW PACK

Farmers living nearby and motorists following both vehicles carried Whalen and Rowbotham out of the truck and car, laying them in the ground, well-wrapped in blankets To keep the

Police Capture 3 Convicts In Detroit Private House

DETROIT (AP)—Police today captured in a private home on Detroit's southwest side three of the fugitives remaining at large following Saturday night's break-out at Southern Michigan prison. The three are Edward J. Emrick, Virgil Lane and Daniel B. Bousha. An anonymous tip apparently led to the arrest of the trio.

Police said Bousha, Emrick and Lane would be taken to headquarters for questioning about the two still at large.

Police were particularly anxious to recapture Roman Usiondek, 37, described as a psychopath who may have sought freedom for revenge. Guards have been assigned to witnesses who testified at the trial which sent Usiondek to prison for life for a 1943 Detroit bar slaying.

The five — described as among the most dangerous ever sent to the prison at Jackson, 80 miles west of here — broke out with eight other men Saturday night. They cut their way to freedom through a steel grate of an underground sewage tunnel.

TWO WOMEN SAFE

Two women hostages, held by the elusive quintet for 11½ hours during their escape, were freed unharmed.

The other eight who burrowed out of the world't largest walled prison with them Saturday night are back behind bars. Seven were captured within hours after the spectacular break from the penitentiary at Jackson, Mich. Another, cold and hungry, gave up there Sunday night. Jackson is 80 miles west of Detroit.

A complete lack of leads for some 24 hours after they last were seen in Detroit's northwest section has convinced police the five are

Doesn't Want Shah's Leniency

TEHRAN (AP)—Former premier Mossadegh today brushed aside a plea by the shah on his behalf as the court martial trying him here retired to consider its verdict.

Pounding a desk, Mossadegh declared: "I've not done anything wrong to this country or the shah. I need no forgiveness."

Meanwhile, the first British diplomatics in Iran since the oil dispute ruptured relations between the two countries 14 months ago landed today at Tehran airport, closely guarded by armed police.

Watched by mobile infantry, the diplomats drove through the streets to the 14-acre British embassy compound, guarded by three truck-loads of army guards.

Iran and Britain resumed diplomatic relations Dec. 5 after a 13-month break.

A senior government official said last week that Iran hopes for early progress in the oil talks in a spirit of fairness and honor.

The diplomats arrived as the verdict in the treason trial of ex-premier Mohammed Mossadegh was awaited following Sunday's intervention of the shah, recommending a "not too severe" sentence.

Though the prosecutor has called for the death sentence, Mossadegh's punishment was expected to be confinement to one of his country estates.

Get Confessions For Slaying

MONTREAL (CP) — Provincial police said Sunday they have obtained "full confessions" in connection with the gun-slaying Friday of Ovila Courville, 53-year-old bank manager at Notre Dame de Stanbridge, Que.

Det.-Capt. Leopold Trottier, head of detectives here, also said police are holding Marcel Bouchard, 27, and Adrien Lebeau, as material witnesses in the shooting which followed an abortive holdup at the Quebec village bank.

Police said the two Granby, Que., men, arrested earlier Sunday, have not yet been charged.

The arrests climax a 48-hour manhunt through the eastern townships district. The search began after Courville blurted out a description of a good-looking bandit who shot him as he reached for his gun. The bank manager died 30 minutes after the shooting.

Police said both Bouchard and Lebeau, described as a jewelry salesman, have made statements on the attempted bank robbery. The murder weapon was discovered.

Egg Price Support Kept At 38 Cents

OTTAWA (CP) — The government has decided to continue price support for eggs at 38 cents a dozen in 1954, the agriculture department announced today.

Under the program, the department buys all surplus eggs in storage at the end of the year, paying 38 cents a dozen, basis Grade A large, delivered at storage points.

This is one of the cheapest programs the government has ever undertaken. The market prices for eggs has been maintained well above the support figure and as a result very few eggs have been sent to government warehouses.

Christmas Shoppers Collapse In Heat

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters)—Christmas shoppers collapsed by the dozens here today—one of the hottest days recorded in 100 years.

Ambulances raced through the streets between the crowded stores and the hospitals as the temperature soared to 107.5 degrees Fahrenheit. A heat wave is gripping the whole of New South Wales state and several towns are ringed by bush fires.

Thousands of firefighters are standing by, some of them with rifles to put wallabies and kangaroos out of their misery as they try to flee through the blazing grass.

Many people are preparing to spend tonight lying on the beaches rather than suffer the stifling night indoors.

Temperatures in many inland towns ranged from 100 to 115 degrees.

Make Double Plane Rescue

HONOLULU (AP) — A four-engined Tokyo-bound Pan American stratocruiser escorted two disabled planes to safe landings at Wake island today in a double "rescue," a Pan American spokesman announced.

One of the disabled planes was an Overseas National Airways DC-4 flying under military charter from Honolulu to Wake. It feathered its No. 2 propeller 700 miles east of Wake and radioed for help.

The other was a United States Navy PBM amphibious search plane which left Wake in answer to the distress messages from the DC-4.

The PBM began losing oil from its starboard engine 200 miles out of Wake. It radioed that it might be forced to make an emergency landing in the Pacific.

The Pan American clipper Nightingale was refuelling at Wake when the distress signals came, and left immediately to provide assistance. It shepherded the two planes to Wake.

4 Unconscious Hour In Field

TORONTO (CP)—Four persons, one seriously hurt, lay unconscious for nearly an hour in a farmer's field early today after a two-car collision in suburban North York township.

One of the victims, Robert Pengard, 21, finally recovered consciousness and staggered to the corner where he flagged a passing motorist.

Police said that there were few cars passing in the area at the time and if Pengard had not recovered his senses all might have died before help arrived.

Most seriously hurt is Thomas Jones, 55, with a fractured skull.

Car, Bus Collide On Narrow Bridge

ORILLIA (CP)—An automobile and a bus collided Sunday at the centre of the narrow swing bridge at Washago, 12 miles north of here. No one was injured but traffic on busy highway 11 was delayed almost an hour.

Police said the bridge is scarcely wide enough for two vehicles to meet safely under good conditions. They said an icy surface caused the southbound car driven by Graham Patchel of Gravenhurst to skid and crash head-on into the Gray Coach Lines bus operated by John A. Hawthorne of Toronto.

Robbers Get $8,000 From Galt Store

GALT (CP)—One of the biggest safe robberies here in years occurred here sometime Sunday night or early today when robbers smashed the safe in Walker Stores on Main street, obtaining between $8,000 and $10,000.

The robbery was not discovered until 8 a. m. when clerks reported for duty. The safe contained two days' receipts. Using ladders, the safecrackers climbed to the roof of the three-storey building and gained entrance via a skylight.

The door of the safe was smashed with crowbars and other tools which were left at the scene.

New Attempt To End Strike

TIMMINS (CP) — Representatives of Hollinger Consolidated Gold Mines, Ltd., and the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL) meet late today in a new attempt at settlement of the strike of 1,500 men from the big Timmins mine which has been going on since Sept. 24.

The meeting will be under the auspices of Mayor J. W. Spooner who was instructed by the Timmins council in a special resolution Saturday to attempt to bring the parties together.

The mayor called the meeting after holding private conferences with company and union officials Sunday.

The new meeting follows unsuccessful, government-sponsored conferences in Toronto in which Premier Frost and Labor Minister Daley took part.

Must Change Bridge Site Chevrier Tells Ogdensburg

OGDENSBURG, N.Y. (AP)—The Canadian government has notified the Ogdensburg bridge authority here that plans for a proposed span across the St. Lawrence river must be changed, moving the bridge to a new site.

Bridge authority members said the Canadian order will delay the construction project a year.

The authority said Lionel Chevrier, Canadian transport minister, had informed them that the bridge must be moved to a Canadian terminus outside of Prescott, Ont., because of strenuous objections from residents of that community.

The joint New York state-Canadian authority had planned to erect the span between this city and Prescott. Test borings have been completed.

Chevrier was quoted as saying that Prescott residents had approved the bridge site, but changed their attitude after they learned that approaches would have to be extended an extra block into the village.

At Ottawa, transport department officials said the letter had been sent by the minister suggesting the bridge constructors give consideration to protests by Prescott residents.

Officials said that in his letter, Chevrier pointed out that the bridge plans have to be approved by the Canadian government, indicating that approval might not be granted if the protest went unheeded.

Offered $15,000 To Forget Matter

MANILA (AP)—A Filipino customs official testified today that he was offered a $15,000 bribe by William Ernest Jolliffe, 37, China-born Canadian on trial for an attempt to smuggle old bullion out of the Philippines.

Eliezar Manikan, a deputy customs collector, took the stand at the opening of Jolliffe's trial. The former assistant Canadian government trade commissioner in Shanghai pleaded not guilty at his arraignment last Friday.

He was arrested Dec. 7 as he was about to board a plane for Hong Kong. Customs agents said they seized 22 gold bars valued at about $17,500 which were strapped around his waist.

Manikan told the court Jolliffe offered the bribe to "forget and patch up the matter."

Bandits Grab $26,000 In Newspaper Holdup

WINNIPEG (CP)—Two bandits, one armed with a revolver, today held up two Winnipeg Free Press employees in a garage on the newspaper building's main floor and stole two satchels containing about $26,000 in cash. They fled out the front door.

Roger Senecal, 21, cashier, and Raymond Maquin, 17, were preparing to take week-end receipts to a bank at the time.

They were carrying four satchels from the mezzanine floor business office. As they moved into the garage through a lobby door, the bandits forced their way in behind them.

"This is a hold-up," said one bandit and jabbed a gun at the pair.

The employees were forced to face the wall in a tiny alcove of the garage while the bandits grabbed two satchels. They left behind the other bags containing silver.

Hold Little Hope Nine Fliers Alive

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (Reuters) A blizzard howling over an Icelandic glacier today stilled hopes that even some of nine American fliers who crashed there five days ago may yet live to see Christmas.

But weary Icelandic rescue workers again battled against a wall of ice in their bid to reach the wreck on Myrdals-Jokull glacier.

Officials have little hope for the men, whose United States Navy Neptune bomber crashed Thursday near Iceland's south coast, 110 miles from Reykjavik.

One rescue team this morning stood only a mile from the wreckage of the bomber—but the exhausted and chilled Icelanders still had to master the wall of ice blocking their path.

Britons Shrug At News Of C-Bomb

Report Says Reds 2 Years Ahead Of U.S. On Test

LONDON (AP) — Britons shrugged off a roundabout report that Russia hopes to explode a cobalt bomb in 1955. The vague and unconfirmed report, appearing in The Recorder, a London weekly newspaper now striving to gain daily circulation, aroused only casual comment. There was no official comment.

The Recorder, giving the source of its story as "observers," said the Russians believe they are two years ahead of the United States in preparing for a test of the bomb, described as more powerful than the hydrogen bomb.

One British scientist dismissed the report with the remark:

"Anyone who can make an atom bomb can make a cobalt bomb. It's as easy as that. The formula is simple enough. You just place an atom bomb in a cobalt casing."

NOT TO BE CONFUSED

The so-called cobalt bomb is not to be confused with Canadian-built cobalt "bombs" for cancer treatment. The Canadian "bombs" are equipped with powerful cobalt 60 pellets. The "bombs," valued at about $50,000 each, contain the equivalent of millions of dollars worth of radium.

Cobalt 60, the radio-active element in the "bomb," is just one of many radio-isotopes under production at the Chalk River atomic plant.

Lewis Has Eye On New Union

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mine union president John L. Lewis may be preparing a bid to become the new labor chief of the turbulent New York waterfront.

It was reliably reported today that Capt. William Bradley, newly-chosen president of the allegedly crime-ridden International Longshoremen's Association is due here from New York to visit Lewis.

Bradley's visit appears obviously timed for its effect on the balloting Tuesday in a national labor relations board election between the ILA and a new AFL Longshoremen's Union.

CRUCIAL SHOWDOWN

It's a crucial election showdown between the old ILA, ousted by the AFL, and the new union which the AFL formed only a few months ago, saying its efforts to force a clean-up had failed. Crime probers have accused the old ILA of harboring criminals, and a number of its officials have been indicted.

There seems little doubt that Lewis has been working quietly but persistently in behalf of the old ILA. Last week an official of the AFL-ousted ILA reported Lewis supplied a $50,000 loan to help fight the new AFL union.

The 73-year-old Lewis has declined comment, but it is reported that his brother, a top organizer in labor sectors outside the coal industry, A. D. (Denny) Lewis, had met frequently with officials of the old ILA.

11 Race 30 Feet Through Flames

TILLSONBURG (CP)— Chester Imason and his 10 children escaped a fire that destroyed their farm home near here early Sunday by racing 30 feet through burning rooms in their bare feet.

Mr. Imason, awakened by the noise of the fire, roused the children and led them through two burning downstairs rooms to stand in the snow outside. Their clothing was scorched.

Mrs. Imason and a daughter were away visiting relatives at the time.

Value of the loss was estimated at more than $7,000 and included Christmas presents that the children had put under a Christmas tree Saturday night.

Wrexham Wins

LONDON (Reuters) — Wrexham defeated Brighton and Hove Albion 3-1 at London's Crystal Palace today in a replay of a second round Football Association Cup game. Wrexham will meet Scunthorpe United in the third round Jan. 9.

Noted Physicist Dies In U.S.

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Dr. Robert A. Millikan, 85, dean of American physicists and authority on cosmic rays, died Saturday.

The venerable and renowned scientist had been bedridden by the infirmities of age for several months.

Millikan, a Nobel Prize winner and for years head of the California Institute of Technology, had been at a convalescent home under medical care.

He was once described as the "billion-volt sparkplug" of the California institute. As chairman of the executive council, he was Caltech's chief administrative officer for 24 years.

He won the 1923 Nobel Prize in physics for his isolation and measurement of the electron and for his photo-electric researches.

His Nobel Prize-winning work on the electron enabled scientists actually to count the number of molecules in any given weight of any simple substance with great certainty and accuracy.

He held 25 honorary degrees from various universities, seven of them foreign.

Dismiss Charge Against Laing

VANCOUVER (CP)—A charge of being intoxicated in a public place laid by Vancouver police against Arthur Laing, British Columbia Liberal party leader, was thrown out in police court Saturday.

Magistrate Gordon Scott called a halt to testimony after two police officers had given evidence for the crown and five barristers had testified for the accused.

"It's now 11:30 a.m. on a Saturday, and I think we have heard enough," the magistrate said in dismissing the charge.

"Twenty-five persons appeared in this court today facing the same charge, of intoxication in a public place, and if any of them had pleaded not guilty, and had the same evidence in their favor, I would find them not guilty," Magistrate Scott said.

"I don't see why I should lean the other way because this is a prominent citizen of good reputation."

The two police officers who arrested Laing Dec. 11 after stopping a car which they said was proceeding in an erratic manner, testified that Laing attempted to "interfere" while they questioned the driver.

All the defence witnesses testified that Laing is normally forceful in conversation and has a habit of putting his hand on the arm of the person to whom he is speaking.

Water Reaches Resident Downers Corners

Water is now being pumped to residents in the Downer's Corners area through the new 12-inch main which was laid along Armour Rd. An additional 1,360 feet of eight-inch main was laid on Lansdowne St., west of Armour Rd., to complete this extension.

Sterilization of the main was started in November; but, due to the length and size of the pipe involved, took several days, general manager W. Howard Powell reported to the utilities commission. Mr. Powell said the majority of owners with properties fronting the main were taking service.

The cost of the big main was undertaken by the city in order to induce the H. B. McGinness Co. to build its new trailer plant at Downer's Corners. The site of the plant was recently annexed to the city.

ON BARNARDO AVE.

The water department of the utilities commission also laid a six-inch main on Barnardo Ave. for a distance of 1,295 feet north from Dumble Ave., during November. They also laid 27 new water services, relaid two and repaired three.

There were 132,210,000 gallons of water pumped through by the pumping station during November, an increase of 2,470,000 gallons over the same month last year. The maximum rate of pumpage last month was 5,212 gallons a minute, compared with 5,073 in November, 1952, while the average rate was 3,055 gallons a minute, compared with 2,910 during the same month last year.

The water was treated with 7.2 pounds of chlorine for each million gallons of water last month. No alum was added.

At the filter plant, the three new filter beds have been put in operation. The sand in No. 1 filter bed in the original section of the plant was replaced with new sand and a start was made in redecorating the old section of the plant.

Police Capture

CUT THROUGH SEWER

The 13 found freedom by cutting through three steel grates of an underground sewer with an acetylene torch. Where they got the torch and the oxygen to operate it is the subject of an investigation by warden William H. Bannan.

Governor G. Mennen Williams ordered Bannan and the acting corrections director, Gus Harrison, to "get to the bottom of this." He said this report will be made public.

Deputy warden Charles Cahill said he believes the torch was obtained from one of the prison industries. The oxygen, he said, could have come from a construction company's supply stored inside the prison walls.

OUTSIDE WALLS

Out of the filthy drain tunnel, the 13 were 250 feet outside the high prison walls.

Their first move was to converge on the home of Glenn Milliman, 28-year-old auto salesman and former prison guard. Threatening Milliman and his wife with knives and clubs, the fleeing felons ransacked the house, stole clothing money and a gun and fled in Milliman's car.

A short time later the 13 split up. Six of them stayed in the car, only to crash in it while attempting to run a police blockade 12 miles southeast of the prison.

Five were captured immediately. These were: Melvin (Bud) Childers, 50, a life-term murderer from Detroit; Albert Lord, 37, and Albert's brother, Delbert, 34, both also serving life for the same crime; William (Bill) Wayne, 38, serving 15 to 30 years for armed robbery in Detroit, and Robert Brown, 30, serving 15 to 30 years for safe-cracking.

Dan Beardsley, 37, another murder-lifer from Detroit, also was in the car but eluded police for a short time before he was captured. He told prison officials he planned the getaway, but almost backed out when he saw 12 others wanted to get in.

CAUGHT IN HOTEL

Herbert Gulembo, 29, doing 20 to 30 years for armed robbery in Detroit, was picked up Saturday night in a Jackson hotel.

The other five burst into the home of Joseph Watts in Jackson. Holding him at gunpoint, they stole most of his clothes. Then they drove off in a car owned by Don Peck, a visitor at the home, taking Mrs. Watts and Miss Helen Gilbert, a nurse also visiting at the home, as hostages.

Sticking mainly to side roads, they got to suburban Northville before they were spotted. They shook off a pursuing police car.

Once inside northwest Detroit, the five convicts got out of the car. The women ran out of gasoline a short time later, then walked to a filling tation and called police.

MINDED MANNERS

Mrs. Watts and Miss Gilbert said the fugitives were gentlemanly throughout, and kept assuring them they would not be harmed if they followed instructions.

Both said they were more scared that they would be in the middle of a gun battle with police than they were of the convicts themselves.

But at one point, she said, Usionder "went wild, screaming about Dowling's driving and waving a gun. It seemed as if they all were afraid of him."

laying low for the time being.

To rout them, several hundred city and state police Sunday night and today combed the residential area where the fugitives abandoned their stolen car and released

Among the five are Edward J. Emrick, 43, and Roman Usiondek, 57, both convicted Detroit murderers; David B. Bousha, 28, doing five to 10 years for kidnapping and three to six years for a previous escape; Virgil Lane, 27, serving 10 to 20 years for armed robbery, and Robert Dowling, 33, serving one to 15 years for breaking and entering.

CONTROVERSIAL INCIDENTS

The eight captured prisoners were confined in southern Michigan's notorious cell block 15, which hardened convicts turned into a lawless fortress during an April, 1952, riot and mutiny. One prisoner was killed in that uprising and damage exceeded $1,000,000. Another smaller riot was staged later that year.

Since those incidents, the Jackson institution has been a storm-centre of controversy as to whether 5,000 prisoners should be housed in one place.

The latest fugitive returned to safe-keeping was Harold Rosa, 25, serving four to 15 years for breaking and entering. He was found hiding in the basement coal bin of a hotel in Jackson Sunday night.

"Come and get me," Rosa told police. "I'm hungry and cold and sick of it all."

Males Conscious Of Figures —Their Own

By DOROTHY ROE

NEW YORK (AP)—The average male in the United States is getting so conscious of his own beauty it's affecting the national economy.

The American male waistline has shrunk by from two to four inches in the last few years, according to clothing manufacturers who have revised their standard sizes for men's suits. F. Eugene Ackerman, executive of one of the largest woollen companies, says:

"There's no doubt that today's men are figure-conscious. This is due to several factors, such as the repeated warnings of life insurance companies, and the insistence of large corporations that their executives submit to regular medical check-ups."

The once standard sizes 48 to 52 in men's suits are finding fewer and fewer customers these days, and in many instances are relegated to shops specializing in outsizes.

In addition, men are buying more cosmetics. Jacqueline Cochran, the well-known aviatrix and cosmetician, bought a men's cosmetics company after she discovered that men buy 38 per cent of all bottled toiletries.

SALES TREBLED

Men's beauty salons are booming, with a brisk trade in permanent waves, hair dye and toupees among business men, who have decided it's good business to look young.

Sales of men's clothing has trebled in recent years, due to the capitulation of the once-conservative male to such things as fancy vests, sports coats and specialized clothing for leisure wear.

The new male beauty-consciousness delights not only clothing manufacturers and cosmetics makers, but the life insurance companies, who see an upcurve in the lifeline for every reduction in the waistline.

The only fly in all this ointment is that if the boys keep getting handsomer, it's going to take a lot of hard work and dieting for the gals to keep up with them.

Russia Accepts

agreement, motivated by the desire to reduce international tension, should take upon themselves the solemn and unconditional obligation not to use the atomic hydrogen weapons of mass destruction.

"The signing of an international agreement on this question could be an important step on the path of the complete banning of atomic, hydrogen and other weapons of mass destruction with the establishment of strict international control to insure the fulfilment of the agreement banning the use of atomic energy for war purposes."

SAY SOVIETS SEEK PEACE

The Moscow statement stated that the Soviet Union "has conducted a consistent struggle for the prohibition of atomic weapons and in addition has worked for reduction of all other forms of weapons."

It added that President Eisenhower in his speech also had pleaded for reducing international tension and stated:

"This also corresponds to the feelings of the Soviet government which is continually trying to reduce world tension and improve international relations."

The Soviet statement asserted that Russia is and has been trying to divert atomic energy to peaceful purposes and improve living conditions.

WANTS PEACE USE ONLY

However, the Soviet note complains that Eisenhower is not willing to harness atomic power solely for peaceful purposes.

The Moscow declaration said that Eisenhower's proposals meant that only a small portion of U. S. atom resources should be set aside for peaceful purposes.

"It follows from this that the main mass of atomic material, as before, will be directed for the production of atomic and hydrogen bombs and that there will remain a complete possibility of a further accumulation of atomic weapons and the creation of new types of these weapons, with still more destructive power. Consequently this proposal in its present form in no way binds the hands of states which have the possibility of producing atomic and hydrogen weapons.

"Secondly, Eisenhower's proposal in no way limits the possibility of using the atomic weapon.

"The adoption of this proposal would in no way restrict the aggressor from using atomic weapons of any means or at any time.

DANGER CONTINUES

"Consequently this proposal in no way reduces the danger of an atomic attack. Thus the conclusion follows that in its present form the proposal put forward neither stops the growing production of atomic weapons nor limits the possibility of the use of those weapons."

"In asserting the real significance of this proposal this deficiency cannot but be underlined. This proposal would have a different significance if it stemmed from recognition of the need to forbid the atomic weapon as a weapon of aggression.

"But in his speech President Eisenhower did not mention the need for banning the atomic weapon."

Safety Measure

WINNIPEG (CP)—School courses to teach children how to handle firearms properly are favored by G. W. Malaher, Manitoba director of game and fisheries. "Safety cannot be legislated," he said, "but education toward it would go a long way in averting tragedy."

blood from flowing too quickly the spectators used snow packs on the head cuts.

Miss Rowbotham, except for bruises and little shock, was unhurt. Anderson escaped with a severe shaking and several small hand cuts.

Within minutes of the accident ambulances from Nisbett's and Boyd's took Rowbotham, Whalen and Miss Rowbotham to St. Joseph's hospital. After being X-rayed, Miss Rowbotham was discharged.

Hospital authorities said today that both men were in satisfactory condition. Whalen suffered a badly cut head and a bruised knee. Rowbotham suffered mostly from shock and head cuts and was to be X-rayed to determine other possible injuries.

Anderson told police, Cpl. Fred Rawlings and Constable Tom Armitage, that the car "swerved suddenly," seemed to be 'given the gas to get out" and "came right into me."

"It didn't matter whether I stopped or kept going. It was just one of those things. It was going to hit me anyway," said Anderson.

Robert Simpson of Bridgenorth was following the Rowbotham car and saw the whole accident. He saw the right rear wheel of the Rowbotham car slide off the slushy pavement to the shoulder.

"Attempting to get out, the car suddenly cut out in front of the other," said Simpson. There was no speeding. It was just the condition of the road. It could have happened to anyone."

Their parents were not alarmed when they didn't return Sunday night. The three chums frequently stayed overnight at either the Aide or Brenton home. This morning, however, when there was still no sign of them their parents began to make enquiries.

RECALLED CRIES

Mr. and Mrs. George Wood and Mrs. S. Clare, nearby residents, recalled the cries for help they thought they heard Sunday night. So the OPP were called in again and the search was resumed.

None of the three was going to school. Brenton was helping his father who is a trucker. The two Aide boys were living at home with their widowed mother. Their father was killed a couple of years ago when he was struck by a bus.

Four young people have died in this community in the last three weeks as a result of accidents. Sheilla Ingram, 17, of Stirling was fatally injured in a motor accident on Dec. 5 when the car in which she was riding rolled over on a township road east of the village.

Most Price Groups Lower On Exchange

TORONTO (CP) — Most price groups were slightly lower in quiet early afternoon trading on today's stock market.

Industrials, strong earlier, were lower, base metals slipped with seniors remaining weak. Golds were a little lower, western oils lost their previous strong position and uraniums and New Brunswick base metals were a little stronger.

Refining oils, strong in the forenoon, slipped to join papers, foods and textiles among the weak industrials. Banks were strong and led agricultures and manufactures higher. Steels, utilities, motors and liquors were steady.

Woman Seeks Alberta Seat

MEDICINE HAT, Alta. (CP)— Mrs. John Lyle Robinson attempted in a by-election today to fill the Alberta legislature's Medicine Hat seat, vacated by the death of her husband. Her only opponent was CCF candidate Edwin W. Horne, defeated by her husband in the 1944 provincial general election.

A singular decision of the Liberal and Progressive Conservative parties to decline contest of the election produced more pre-election activity than the generally quiet campaigns for the two candidates.

Dr. Robinson, before his Oct. 29 death from a heart attack, had represented the southern Alberta constituency since Social Credit came to power in Alberta in 1935. His strongest opposition during his term, during which he became labor minister, was from Liberals and independents.

The two opposition parties pledged to by-pass the fight if Mrs. Robinson was named as Social Credit candidate.

Some of the mothers refused to be moved until they knew their babies were safe.

"We didn't waste any time when we saw what was happening," said a ward supervisor Mary Young. "Everything went smoothly but the smoke was terrible. It seemed to follow us along the floor."

Harold Skinner, an ambulance driver who had just left a room in hospital when the fire was discovered, said the heat and smoke were intense.

"But we knew we had to get the mothers and babies out no matter how much smoke there was."

The blaze began on the north side of the six-storey building near the bed of Mrs. Elizabeth White, a maternity patient. It was she who gave the alarm.

Don Taylor, London garage worker, believing his wife still in the ward after the fire was discovered, clapped a handkerchief over his face and made a perilous search of the ward. He fought his way back, half overcome by smoke.

His wife had already been evacuated.

$1,715 Damage Done In Rash Of City Accidents

Slippery conditions which worsened at the weekend were mainly responsible for the 10 accidents which occurred in the city Saturday and Sunday. Damage to vehicles amounted to $1,715. Two persons were reported slightly injured.

Two youths were slightly injured about 2 a.m. Saturday when their car skidded off snow covered Reid St. south of Hunter St. and crashed head-on into a tree. Driver William O'Brien, 18, 179 Adeline St., received a cut on his left forehead and some bad bruises. Gerald Blodgett, 17, RR 3, Peterborough, his passenger, had a gashed right knee.

About $400 damage was done to the car. The car which was travelling south, hit a rough spot, and went out of control. Constable Arthur Bearsdmore investigated.

About noon Saturday a truck driven by Henry Batten, 56, RR 3, Peterborough, and a car driven by Ronald E. Ackers, 34, 450 King George St., collided as Batten, entering a laneway slid back into Simcoe St. Some damage was done to a right, rear fender of the car. The accident was investigated by Constable Pat Gillis.

A truck driven by A. R. Milburn, 22, 121 Princess St., backed into a car owned by A. Bonner, 218 Prince St. parked in front of his home Saturday afternoon. About $15 damage was done to the right front door of the car.

NO STOP SIGN

A truck and a car collided at an intersection at which there was no stop sign. Allan Hayes, 60, RR 1, Indian River, was driving north on Stewart St. and Garry E. Finn, 16, 494 Park St. west on King St. Hayes said he thought Finn would stop. Finn said he put on his brakes when he saw the other car but skidded on the slippery surface and the two vehicles collided. Constable W. A. Scott investigated both accidents.

Three hundred dollars damage was done to a car driven by Clarence G. Leahy, 26, 556 Sherbrooke St., and $75 to a car driven by Leo J. Collins, 20, 12 Ephgrave Blvd., in an accident about noon Sunday.

Police said Collins had turned into a laneway on Brioux Ave. west of Park St. to turn around and was backing out as Leahy was travelling east on Brioux Ave. Leahy said he tried to stop on the icy surface but could not. Constable Jack Wilson investigated.

Six Homeless In $75,000 Fire

TILBURY (CP)—The third disastrous fire to hit Kent county in less than a week wiped out a groceteria, a photographic store, three apartments and left six families homeless early today. Loss was estimated at $75,000.

Completely destroyed were the apartments occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Jene Perry and Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Bourdeau and family, as well as Bourdeau Groceteria and Phillips Studio.

Also left homeless were Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Young and their two children.

One of the two children of Mr. and Mrs. Bourdeau, Leah, was planning to be married Tuesday.

The three-alarm fire lasted three hours. Fire chief Charles Walsh said the cause of the blaze had not yet been determined.

Many Parties Warm Up For Big Day

Santa Claus arrived in Peterborough on Saturday by the plane-load, followed by several sections of freight planes full of toys. There were Christmas parties in every available auditorium and hall, some so large that they had to be run off in shifts, botn in the morning and afternoon. Peterborough children had a chance to warm up for the big day to come.

Starting about 9:30 a.m., the auditorium of PCVS was filled with employees' children of the Canadian General Electric, and two complete parties were run off in the morning, three more in the afternoon.

5,000 ATTENDED

Works manager Roy Bogle estimated the total attendance — children and escorts—was about 5,000. Carol singing, movies, a magician, Santa and gift-presentations took place at each performance.

In the morning, also, small tots attended a party in the YWCA gymnasium, while the swimming department held one on the pool. Both gym and pool were especially well decorated, the pool with a lighted Christmas tree suspended over the plunge.

The largest afternoon party was held by the Outboard Marine and Manufacturing Company at the Brock Winter Gardens; the place was completely filled, with the estimated attendance of more than 1,100 children and about 900 adults.

PRESENTED WATCHES

President C. B. Neal and secretary - treasurer Bruce Payne made presentations of watches to eight employees who had attained fifteen-year service with the company. They were C. H. Boulter, A. W. Watkins Jr., T. D. Moore, C. M. Monro, H. L. Kendry, W. G. A. Matthews, H. G. Schrum and S. C. Gibbs. A lucky-draw 3 hp motor was won by Tony Mattucci, a goose by Jack Donoghue and a turkey by Dave McPhail.

The company's own male quartet, called the .Chime Busters, sang several numbers and led in mass singing. Bob Johnston supplied the piano music and Lou Durkin was master of ceremonies.

Canadian Nashua Paper Company held its party at the Canadian Legion Hall for 200 children and about 100 parents. General manager Hugh Niven addressed the group. An accordian player led in carol singing. Following the screening of seasonal films, Santa distributed gifts to the children.

Quaker Oats Company staged their Christmas party at St. Peter's auditorium, also in the afternoon. There were more than 850 children and parents present, and the entertainment followed the general pattern of movies, carols and gift-giving.

At Queen Mary School, auditorium Dominion Woollens and Worsteds Company held a party for their employees' children and a small party was run off for children of the maintenance organization of the Board of Education at the Prince of Wales School.

SATURDAY WAS CHRISTMAS PARTY day in Peterborough as most of the industrial firms and smaller organizations feted city children. Very small tots at the YWCA, top photo, had the well-decorated and spacious gymnasium to romp in. A good close-up view of Santa, centre, photo, was a frightening experience for little Patsy Phillips, but the two little ones in the lower photo, seeing the Great Man from a distance, registered delight and awe, respectively.

Heavy Fog Blankets California Coast

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Heavy fog blanketed the California coastal area Sunday night and early today, closing airports and forcing traffic to a crawl.

Los Angeles international and Long Beach municipal airports were closed. Air traffic was diverted to Lockheed air terminal in Burbank, where visibility was good.

Marine traffic was virtually halted, and ships used radar to reach anchorages.

Minneapolis Lines Up To Buy Papers

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — News-hungry residents of this Minnesota city of more than 500,000 population lined up again Sunday night to purchase copies of the Minneapolis Tribune, sold only in the newspaper's main lobby since an AFL Teamster's strike knocked out all truck deliveries.

The morning paper continued to publish, but made no effort to deliver papers to homes or newsstands. Sales, made only in the lobby, were limited to five copies per buyer.

Cut from the usual run of 620,000, only 75,000 copies of the Sunday edition were printed. Stands sold out all out-of-town papers they had.

TWO PAPERS AFFECTED

The Evening Star also will be affected by the walkout. The two papers are owned by the same company and printed in the same plant.

Company officers said they will continue publishing both newspapers as long as limited newsprint supplies in the plant last.

The union seeks weekly pay increase of $4.56 for day work and $6.46 for night work, plus fringe benefits. Last Wednesday it rejected a company offer of $3.04 and $4.18 respectively. The day rate has been $2.14 an hour for a 38-hour week.

First Skiing

COBOURG (ENS)—A good crowd of local and out of town skiers attended the opener Sunday of the Northumberland Forest Ski Club. A group of the club members went out in the morning to pack down the snow. Eight inches of snow provided a good surface, although mild weather in the afternoon softened it up. More snow is needed to keep the hills and trails in shape.

CGE Christmas Party Held At Cobourg

COBOURG (ENS) — The annual Christmas party of the CGE Social and Athletic Club was held Saturday afternoon at Collegiate auditorium.

A program of movie shorts and carols preceded the arrival of Santa Claus. Music was provided by an orchestra made up of a group of employees.

Santa handed out presents to some 200 children of the employees.

Publisher Dies

NEW YORK (AP)—William Bernard Ziff, 55, publisher and founder of the Ziff-Davis Publishing Co., died Sunday. A native of Chicago, Ziff was the author of several books, including "The Gentlemen Talk of Peace," "The Coming Battle of Germany", "Rape of Palestine", and "Two Worlds."

Nehru Party Organizes Drive Against Pact

NEW DELHI (AP) — Supporters of Prime Minister Nehru's governing Congress party paraded through New Delhi's main streets Sunday, shouting slogans and carrying placards saying, "We do not want Pakistan to become another Korea."

The processions and a mass meeting were arranged by the Delhi state congress committee in accordance with a directive issued by the party's high command last week to all branches throughout India.

The directive called on the party to "mobilize public opinion on the far-reaching consequences of the proposed military alliance between Pakistan and the United States."

KARACHI (AP) — Pakistan Sunday instructed its high commissioner in New Delhi to protest to India the Congress party's campaign to arouse public opinion against proposed U. S. military aid to Pakistan. Government officials here have expressed the fear the campaign may have repercussions outside India.

Saturday, Pakistan sent a note to Russia saying she has no intention of granting military bases to the U. S. It was a reply to a previous Soviet note expressing concern over reports of the possible exchange of defence equipment for bases.

British Scholars Provoked At U.S. Scientific Language

By ALVIN STEINKOPF

LONDON (AP)—The scholars of these erudite isles are provoked with the authors of the United States Atomic Energy Act.

A general view seems to be that it's all right for the Americans to smash atoms, but there's doubt whether it's permissible for them to smash the English language.

Discussion was started by a scholar who asked in a letter to The Times late last week:

"Is the new word of the scientists, 'fissionable,' admissionable?"

Research thus far has established that the first use of "fissionable" in a conpicuous official document was by writers of the American Atomic Energy Act of 1946.

MUCH TO ANSWER FOR

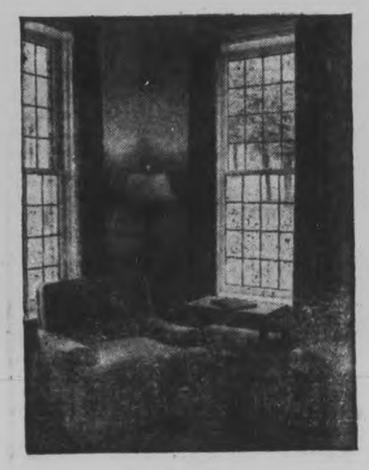
Edmund Dews of Jesus College, Oxford, in a letter to the times today observed that the whole situation is lamentable because American atomic energy agencies already "have so much to answer for."

Britain also has an Atomic Energy Act of 1946. But British legislators, apparently more fearful of scholars, spoke not of "fissionable materials," but of "prescribed substances."

Dews thought that probably most British and American physicists would prefer "fissile."

Other correspondents also entered the discussion today, one observing:

"It is unquestionable that "fissionable" is objectionable to the impressionable: But to the knowledgeable it is unexceptionable."



FISSIBLE RISIBLE!

Another wrote:

"Fissionable is fashionable, and surely reasonably admissible. Fissible is risible."

Getting to the heart of matters Dews commented:

"The real problem in the terminology of fissibility or fissileness is to distinguish between materials wth natural or artifical nuclear splts. Possibly the former might be caled 'fissive.'"

Arrive Alive

The coming holiday season is made the occasion for parties and other kinds of celebration. The parties have already begun. A sad and sorry note tinges some of the festivities: accidents occur because gasoline and alcohol are a dangerous mixture. Despite annual propaganda warning against drinking and driving, the two continue to be linked disastrously.

* * *

In England now there is a variant of the slogan "If you drink, don't drive" which we think can be helpfully popularized in Canada, for it is a strong injunction. In the hope that a slogan can lessen the number of car accidents during this holiday season we intend to say it again and again:

ARRIVE ALIVE

DON'T DRINK AND DRIVE

In Defence Of Women

It is with unfeigned pleasure that we reprint on this page today a comment by the Women's Editor of the Family Herald and Weekly Star on an editorial we published some time ago about women in politics. We confess that we wrote the editorial in a spirit which was not completely serious, in order to see what would happen. We would not be unanswered, we thought. Miss Maud Kerr has answered us, trenchantly and saltily.

The nub of her answer is that women have not yet had much time to show their quality in public life. Taking the long view, this is quite so. But what has interested us for some time is that so few women show any strong desire to engage in public life. There are those who do so, and in the main they are an extremely able and progressive group, but they are few. The majority of women still prefer to keep out of any sort of public work. This may be proof of their superior wisdom; we should not like to argue the point.

Miss Kerr takes substantially the same view as Simone de Beauvoir, in her remarkable book The Second Sex—that women are restrained by the jealousy of men, and by the artificial barriers which men have put in the way of women. It may be so. No man can deny it without being accused of prejudice. Meanwhile we sweep off our editorial hat to Miss Kerr, and thank her for a livelier rejoinder than we usually receive when we send up a small editorial balloon.

Too Old At Ten?

Some interesting remarks on learning languages were included in a speech which the great brain surgeon, Dr. Wilder Penfield, O.M., made recently to a group of scientists belonging to the National Research Council at Ottawa. When a child is young, said he, it has speech areas in the brain which are particularly receptive, but which lose some of this quality after the child reaches the age of ten. Obviously, concludes Dr. Penfield, the time to teach a child languages most effectively is before it is ten.

The Brantford Expositor calls this matter to the attention of educators. But we think that most educators know about a child's receptivity to languages already, and that the reason that they do not do anything about it is not to be found in their reluctance, especially, but in certain factors which are not sufficiently understood or considered.

The first of these is that comparatively few children want to learn languages, and comparatively few parents are interested that they should do so. It is very hard to convince many people that there is any advantage in a knowledge of French or German or Spanish, or one of the dead languages. It may be said, of course, that knowledge of two or three languages enlarges one's intellectual horizons and increases one's ability to enjoy the treasures of the world's thought and literature. But here again we meet with the plain fact that a great many people are not in the least interested in enlarging their horizons, or enjoying what is good even in the language they know.

Further, to teach a language to a child, a teacher must be able to speak that language fluently, for a small child cannot be taught by means of books and grammars as much as a child in its teens. And the flat fact is that a great many of our language teachers, though good grammarians, speak the languages they teach very indifferently. They have no colloquial grasp on them, nor have they good native accents.

Lest this should seem unduly discouraging, we must go further to point out that, while it may be desirable to learn a language before the age of ten, it is not vitally necessary to do so. Languages can be learned at any age, if enough effort is made. Further, an older student, with a strong incentive, can learn a language much faster than a child in school, who lacks any incentive but the passing of an examination. If man's advancement in the world depends on knowing French, he will learn a surprising amount of it in two months, and may speak it very well in six. We have known several immigrants to Canada, over 35 years of age, who have learned to speak English with surprising correctness and fluency in less than a year.

Wanting to learn a language is, at any age, the best help in doing so.

Hooray Girls, It's Great To Be Ugly!

Few women are cursed with that fatal beauty which makes their lives a burden; few of them have to fight their way through throngs of love-crazed admirers as they go about the streets. But there are quite a few reasonably pretty girls to be seen, and we are glad to observe that they try to make the most of the looks they have.

Consequently we are opposed to the Windsor Star, which seems to think that it is better for a girl to be ugly than pretty. It draws its conclusions from the experience of Jackie Loughery, who was Miss U.S.A. in 1952, and who is a notably pretty girl; she married a man named Guy Mitchell who proved to be unfaithful to her, and now she is seeking a divorce. The Star concludes that "had she been less beautiful it is quite possible she would have attracted a different, and better, type of man for a husband."

If you agree with the Star, girls, throw away that lipstick, stop washing your hair, and let your nose shine like that of Rudolph; then any man who is attracted to you will probably be the sober, steady type who will never stray. Give up your figures, girls; that's the way to find true love! Be a mess, baby, and happiness forever after may be yours!

That's to say, if you agree with the Star. But if you agree with us, go right on doing the best you can with what you have. We have studied men very carefully, and we are of the opinion that the best men are those who are attracted by the prettiest girls. They are the men of taste—the men who think that the best is none too good.

Don't be afraid to be beautiful! It may not prove a handicap, after all!

Spouts In The Upper Chamber

Sage and sane remarks are made from time to time in the Senate but we cannot put in that category recent platitudes about Russia emanating from one Hon. Senator, nor Senator Horner's inspirations about meat consumption, nor the latest oration of Senator Aseltine. Senator Aseltine suggested last week that the Government could get rid of a costly administrative operation by giving the Yukon and the Northwest Territories to the four western provinces.

The suggestion is hollow. Whatever government or governments administer the Northwest the administration and its costs must go on. If any of the western Provinces got their hands on the Yukon and the NWT their first act would be to run to Ottawa for subsidies. Further, most of the area and it activities is of direct concern to the Department of National Defence. This cannot be delegated to Provincial control.

Finally, what other Canadians than men like Senator Aseltine, who comes from Rosetown, Saskatchewan, would consider bequeathing a third of the entire territory of Canada to Winnipeg, to the C.C.F. of Saskatchewan, to isolationist Social Credit of Alberta and British Columbia?

When the time comes that the Canadian north-west is productive and populous then will be the time to consider Provincial status for the territory—and that status should be of separate provinces, not as appendages of the four existing Western provinces. Meanwhile, let the Yukon and the NWT be kept under the wing of Ottawa, where the Department of National Resources is now being reformed and renamed as the Department of Northern Affairs and National Resources.

Generous Words From Aberdeen

Councillor T. Scott Sutherland of Aberdeen has, he says, sailed the seven seas and travelled all the continents. He has been "surprised and delighted by Canada most of all". And he said so to the people of that city in its Press and Journal.

"It is a vast and wonderful country, thinly populated by a people whose spontaneous friendliness and hospitality have to be experienced to be believed.

"Canada's greatest need is more people —millions of them. And because her present population is predominantly British, and loyal to the Queen, it is essential that this should continue.

"Not in this century have there been such opportunities as there are in Canada today. They are almost limitless. Any man or women, willing to work, cannot fail to succeed."

We are pleased, Councillor Sutherland, with your kind words. We hope your compatriots here in Canada can echo them with a full heart.

Musical Notes

By PETER PIPER

A FEW WEEKS ago I made one or two remarks on the subject of the post of Master of the King's Musick in connection with the death of Sir Arnold Bax, who assumed that position in 1942. The new Master of the Queen's Music (traditionalists may regret the new spelling) is Sir Arthur Bliss. As I have already said, this post is more of an honorary character since Edward VII disbanded the King's Band. Nevertheless the holder of the office is free to undertake whatever duties he may wish as the normal head of official British music.

✧ ✧ ✧

AS the new incumbent of this somewhat Gilbertian post, Sir Arthur Bliss is an admirable choice. Besides his work as a composer he has served as Head of Music in the BBC and later as Chairman of the Music Committee of the British Council. Unlike Bax he is stirred by the pomp and circumstance of state occasions and is stimulated to produce his best work by commissions to write to order. He still preserves a certain military appearance as a relic of his service in the First World War, when he served with the Royal Fusiliers and later with the Grenadier Guards as an officer. He was wounded in 1916, gassed at Cambrai in 1918, and mentioned in despatches.

✧ ✧ ✧

BLISS is of American extraction, his father having come from New England to settle in the old land. He received a conventional upper middle class education at Rugby School (home of the type of football that bears its name) and Pembroke College, Cambridge, where he became prominent in University music circles. It was a natural development for him to proceed to the Royal College of Music for the specialized training and 'ambiente' provided there. The war interrupted his studies, and during the period of hostilities he was obliged to drop all musical activities.

✧ ✧ ✧

ON HIS release from the army all his pent-up desires to become a composer revived. At the same time he realized that the academic instruction that he could receive at that time would be of little use to him. Old methods were giving place to new under the influence of Debussy, Ravel, Stravinsky and Schoenberg, but these had scarcely as yet penetrated into the citadels of "official music," which were still dominated by Brahms, with Parry and Stanford his prophets.

✧ ✧ ✧

THUS at the outset of his musical career Bliss was alternately hailed and reviled as an iconoclast and a musical rebel. It is a strange but by no means uncommon turn of the wheel of fortune that has brought him into the position of official influence and authority that he has occupied for the past few years.

✧ ✧ ✧

BLISS has spent a good deal of time in the United States, where he met his wife. Perhaps his New England parentage and his later connections with that country have influenced his style, of which I propose to speak in a moment. After a brief and apparently unsuccessful spell as a Professor of composition at the Royal College of Music in 1921 he went to the United States and settled for a while in California. In the period between the wars he travelled widely, lecturing, conducting and composing. In 1940 he accepted a professorship at the University of California, but this second attempt at teaching was as short-lived as the first, and in 1941 he returned to England, then in the throes of the Blitz, to take over an important post with the BBC as Overseas Director of Music. It is noteworthy that he should have taken this step while the rest of the intellectual and artistic world was straining every nerve to get away from the bombing and find a snug little haven on the American continent.

✧ ✧ ✧

NEVERTHELESS he has a high regard for American music. This is what he said to Donald Brook, the English music critic: 'In music as in many other things, the Americans are a race of perfectionists." He thinks that they are rather ahead of the British as far as musical culture is concerned, chiefly because they introduced music as a general subject into the curricula of their high schools long before the British. The excellence of their orchestras can be attributed, he thinks, to the heterogeneous mixture of nationalities represented by their personnel.

✧ ✧ ✧

AS A COMPOSER Bliss cannot easily be fitted neatly into any particular "school." He has undergone a number of widely different influences, notably Elgar and Stravinsky. He has not, however, been influenced noticeably by the folksong revival or by the renewed interest in Tudor techniques. His music has a somewhat cosmopolitan air, though with English undertones. His style of utterance is frank and direct, bearing a certain resemblance to that of his American contemporary Roy Harris. He is a master of orchestral writing, which forms the bulk of his output.

✧ ✧ ✧

HE HAS MADE a notable contribution to music for the films. His first score for "The Shape of Things to Come" did much to awaken composers, directors and the public aware of the possibilities of good music written for this medium at a time when film music was considered amongst the lowest forms of musical art on this globe. In so doing he paved the way for Britten, Vaughan Williams, Walton and other British composers who have written fine scores for the films.

✧ ✧ ✧

HIS BALLET MUSIC for Checkmate, Adam Zero and Miracle in the Gorbals has met with widespread approval. The Vic-Wells company has shown a commendable spirit of enterprise in commissioning composers to write new scores: speaking purely for myself I am of the opinion that a new ballet should have new music; the practice that has grown up in recent years of designing capers and entrechats to the accompaniment of Brahms symphonies and Bach fugues is of questionable value. When ballet attempts this sort of thing one begins to feels that it has perhaps got a little too big for its red shoes.

✧ ✧ ✧

WHAT WILL Bliss do in his new and honorific position (which incidentally commands a purely symbolic stipend)? I have a feeling that he may breathe new life into it and make it something of vital significance in the musical life of Britain. During his tenure of office he was amazed at the amount of talented young composers whose works were submitted for performance, and did all he could to help them. It might be that he would seek to organize some sort of scheme in conjunction with the authorities for providing financial assistance to promising and needy young composers, or arrangements could be made for more frequent performances of their works. A struggling young composer needs to hear his own music played; innumerable lessons can be learnt from such an experience, but opportunities are few and far between. It would be a fine gesture to re-establish the Queen's Band for such purposes in addition to whatever court or state functions at which it might be called to play. It is a fine old title with a long history, and it is fully in accordance with the British Way of Life for ancient institutions to be revived and adapted to suit the changing times.

An American View:
AT LEAST UNTIL THE HOLIDAY SEASON IS OVER

A Sharp Rejoinder

By MAUD M. KERR

Women's Editor, The Family Herald and Weekly Star

Strong objections against the welcome recently according to the newly elected women Members of Parliament were recently voiced in the editorial columns of the Peterborough Examiner—Peterborough, Ontario—on the grounds that women ought not to be in Parliament, because it has been the observation of the writer of the editorial "that the place of women in public life is predominately a negative one." The editorial takes issue with Mr. St. Laurent and Mr. Drew, because those gentlemen believe that there should be more women in the Commons. It has good deal to say, and all of it in the same vein.

Although the editorial does not state so, I feel sure that the writer of it must have been a man—not because of the line taken by the editorial, but because the cloak of reason in which he has sought to clothe his arguments was certainly not cut by any deft female hand, and suffers sadly from gaposis. It also badly needs mending, for it is as full of holes as a colander.

For one thing, the editorial says that—in effect — no woman Member of Parliament would ever be honest enough to refer to men as "the stronger sex," or "the wiser and more politically experienced sex." The first part of this statement is doubtful, but the second part is downright nonsense. There is neither reason nor proof to support the contention that men are more wise than women, and this nonsense about political experience is as empty of solids as a cream puff. Men and women start out in this vale of tears with exactly the same amount of political experience. In the past, men have had a closed shop in politics. The experience they gained was through participation in politics, and not just because their numbers were totalled up under "Males" in the census.

The editorial says of women that "if we have too many of them in Parliament, we shall find that they are brakes, rather than accelerators, in the Governmental machine." So?

Until women can produce a majority in the House of Commons, they must depend on the male vote to support any measure they put forward. The attitude expressed in the editorial makes it mighy clear how much support the woman in public life is likely to get from the men. It is a flag under which men seem to be eager to rally at any time. That's the real brake which slows down the female accelerator in a male environment. Being a clever creature, the outnumbered woman has made the discovery that the male—reluctant to move forward under any impetus except his own—is more willing to be obliging if she wrings her hands and begs him not to do something. Having perforce failed in her efforts to move the male Parliamentary juggernaut in the right direction, the woman in Parliament has had to resort to the measure of lying down in front of it when it starts off in the wrong direction.

The writer of the Examiner's editorial drives the last nail in the coffin of his reasoning by concluding with, "In affairs of State, women are play-safers and nay-sayers. It is men who are the visionaries, the magicians who make dreams come true."

At the recent Federal-Provincial Agricultural Conference, in Ottawa, there was one official woman delegate. There were heaps of men. When this lone lady rose to address the Conference she plumped strongly for a Marketing Conference to be held early in the New Year to seek a means of disposing of all the surpluses the men have got lying around and cluttering things up. A good many of the male speakers who followed her, paid her the compliment of offering the same opinion.

The Parliamentarian who carefully and negatively swept the Marketing Conference idea under the rug was The Rt. Hon. J. G. Gardiner, Minister of Agriculture. If the Rt. Hon. Jimmie is not a man it will come as a great surprise to us all.

Their Last Long Hop

(MANCHESTER GUARDIAN)

South Coast resorts recently reported to be worried about swarms of flies may find some comfort in the recent report of the Smithsonian Institution of Washington on the curiosity of Grasshopper Glacier.

This is an 11,000-foot high glacier in which are preserved millions of grasshoppers. They were carried by air currents and, when overcome by the cold, fell on the ice and became embedded.

It is considered probable that the swarms of grasshoppers which caused the devastation in the Western prairies in the period between 1870 and 1885 were destroyed in this way, but, if so, it was a recurrence of what had happened before, for some of the insects on the bottom layer in the glacier are considered to have been there for six hundred years.

Certainly some have been there a long time, for the resultant odor at the foot of the glacier where it melts and releases the embedded bodies is notorious for its stench.

Not all, however, remains to pollute the atmosphere, for the melting-point of the glacier is favorite feeding-point for birds and fish in a resultant stream also benefit.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Ye judge after the flesh; I judged no man. And yet if I judge, my judgement is true: for I am not alone, but I and the Father that sent me . . . These words spake Jesus in the treasury, as he taught in the temple: and no man laid hands on him; for his hour was not yet come . . .

Then said Jesus unto them, When ye have lifted up the Son of man, then shall ye know that I am he, and that I do nothing of myself; but as my Father hath taught me, I speak these things . . .

Why do ye not understand my speech? even because ye cannot hear my word. Ye are of your father the devil, and the lusts of your father ye will do. He was a murderer from the beginning, and abode not in the truth, because there is no truth in him. When he speaketh a lie, he speaketh of his own: for he is a liar, and the father of it . . . He that is of God heareth God's words: ye therefore hear them not, because ye are not of God (John 8:15, 16, 20, 28, 43, 44, 47.)

Subsidizing Degeneration

(From a Letter in the Montreal Gazette)

Perhaps at this point the observations of Sir Sydney Smith, dean of Edinburgh Medical School, made on a recent visit to Montreal, may help to dispel some of the illusions concerning the inevitability of progress in human affairs. As he explained it—one should naturally expect in this age of scientific miracles, wonder drugs, modern hospitals, and the rest, to find the world increasingly free of disease (or likewise of starvation or misery). But it just doesn't seem to work that way. There is today far more sickness (and more starvation) than there ever was in the world before.

In our efforts artificially to protect people from every disease we have weakened the people and we have rendered them almost helpless against the attacks of any new disease, against the attacks which they have not been artifically protected. (It is said that if we do not soon realize this, we shall one day surely be visited by some epidemic disease of such devastation that, beside it, the slaughter of the Black Plague in the Middle Ages shall look like child's play.)

In our efforts to eliminate all poverty, disease, etc., we have not only increased the poorest sections of the population out of all proportion to the other sections in recent times; we have not only kept alive the misfit, who by reason of mental or physical deficiency or other unfitness might not have survived infancy or otherwise have lived to reproduce their own kind; but we have encouraged their rapid multiplication. We have destroyed the natural restraints against the multiplication of the very sections of the population which are notoriously the fastest and most unrestrained breeders. We have in fact been actively subsidizing the degeneration of the race.—D. B. McLean.

New Bank Rate

(Saskatoon Star-Phoenix)

The climb in the interest rate on savings deposits in Canadian banks is welcome for what it indicates: It is "in line with the general firming of money rates." This amounts to another way of remarking on the stability of our economy at the moment. It is the kind of assurance we are pleased to receive. Gauge of present economic buoyancy and barometer of considerable reliability for the future, the news will give confidence to Canadians in all their business dealings. And, to the extent that this higher interest rate encourages personal savings, it will help to hold the line against the threat of too-shallow reserves. The bankers' move, therefore, has a twofold function: It tells of good times and it helps to continue them.

AN OFFICIAL VISIT to Omemee was paid by Santa Claus during a parade arranged by the Omemee businessmen. Of course, to the children who lined the two-mile route of the parade, Santa Claus (lower photo) was the main highlight. But there were many other floats such as the Nativity scene (top photo), the Old Woman That Lived In the Shoe, a safety float, the Omemee hunt club. Following the parade Santa visited the children in the town hall. —(Examiner Staff Photo).

Santa Claus Parade Attracts Large Crowd

OMEMEE (ENS) — The Santa Claus parade and community children's Christmas treat sponsored by the Omemee business men attracted a large crowd from the village and surrounding country on Saturday afternoon.

The parade, which was organized and assembled by Tony and Fred Stacey, was led by the Havelock Pipe Band, preceeded by a provincial police car in which rode Reeve Harry Deyell.

Following the band marched the local branch of the Canadian Legion. Further back in the parade, was the Fenelon Falls Salvation Army Band and the Omemee Boy Scouts.

Floats included: Old Woman in a shoe, Omemee Hunt Club, fire equipment, old and new, A Nativity Scene, McLeod's Service, Safety Float, dedicating the results of drunken driving, and a Christmas Scene with Santa Claus' float followed by two guards, bringing up the rear.

Here and there through the parade marched amusing representations of various characters: Donald Duck, Mickey Mouse, Teddy Bear, Puss in Boots, Rudolph, Hobby Horse, Little Bo Peep, Eastern Man. Two Man Horse and Fat Lady.

When the parade had passed, the spectators assembled in Coronation Hall to sing carols while awaiting Santa's return. Carol singing was directed by Bill Weir with Mrs. A. W. Stephenson at the piano.

Excitement ran high with the arrival of Santa leaning on the arm of Reeve and accompanied by his two guards and a following of all the beforementioned parade characters, and the Salvation Army Band.

The Band played a few carols before Santa and his helpers handed out treats to hundreds of happy boys and girls. And then with parting good wishes and a promise to visit them Christmas eve he was off.

Reds Chalk Up Better Score On Prisoners

By FORREST EDWARDS

PANMUNJOM (AP)—A snarl of last-minute delays today all but snuffed out Allied hopes for interviews with 22 Americans and one Briton who stayed with the Communists — as Red explainers chalked up their best score to date.

Gen. John E. Hull, United States Far East commander, indicated that the Allies have given up hope that any of the 23 will return.

Hull said they have had both time and opportunity to change their minds since they were turned over to Indian custody Sept. 25.

The Allies' only chance of making contact with the prisoners before the midnight Wednesday deadline still appears to be through delivery of a 12-page letter addressed to each man.

The neutral nations repatriation commission ruled that the PoWs must agree to accept the letter from an Allied explanation team. Lt.-Gen. K. S. Thimayya, Indian chairman of the commission, said he will try to get the answers Tuesday.

The United Nations command also planned a last-minute broadcast appeal to try to win the prisoners over.

REDS SCORE

But while prospects dimmed for the Allied campaign to change the minds of balky war prisoners, the Reds won back 33 of 250 Chinese captives as interviews were resumed today after a 34-day stalemate.

This was the greatest number of prisoners the Communists had won back in a single day, and was almost triple their best previous record by percentage.

40 Injured In Riot

KARACHI (Reuters)—Forty persons were injured when Pakistan police broke up a clash between workers at a match factory here Sunday. Police jailed 55 rioters. A dispute over a piece of land for hut building was believed to have started the trouble.

Priest Describes Tortures Endured In Red Prison

MONTREAL (CP)—Rev. Antonio Bonin, former Roman Catholic vicar-general of Manchuria, told Sunday of 10 months in a Communist prison camp and five years in a guarded residence.

Father Bonin, 52-year-old native of Joliette, Que., spent 25 years in China. He was ordered out Nov. 15, along with Rev. Alphonse Caouette, 41, of Matane, Que. Both were told never to return.

The banishment was the last in a long series of insults and torture heaped on Father Bonin since the Communists took control of China.

His ordeal started in 1947 when he was imprisoned on a charge of spying for Nationalist China and the United States.

28 IN ONE CALL.

"There were 28 of us housed in a cell 20 feet long and 10 feet wide," the priest told a reporter. "We had to sleep on our sides because there wasn't even enough room for us to stretch out on our backs.

"We were given only two meals a day and they were made up of a single bowl of sorghum without water. We had to ask our guards for permission to do anything—even to blow our noses. I spent three months without any water to wash in.

BRAIN WASHING

"There was no forced labor but we were forced to submit to long hours of Communist brain-washing tactics. I was often questioned every day for a month, from two to four hours at a time.

"When I refused to answer their questions, I was suspended by the thumbs from a wooden beam. Or, on other occasions, they tied my thumbs together under my knees and left me in this uncomfortable position for hours.

"They also beat us with leather straps. I saw one of my companions beaten to death in this manner by seven or eight tortorers working in relays."

The people of China have never come to accept the Communist regime, despite all the promises made by their leaders, the missionary said.

"However, it is useless to hope for an armed revolt," he added. "First of all the rebels lack arms. And the Chinese peasant is fearful by nature. He likes to conspire, hoping all the time that someone else will throw the first bomb."

Anxious Bars Stay Open After 6 P.M.

By HAROLD TILLEY

MELBOURNE (Reuters) — A "quick one" is really a quick one in Melbourne, where bars close at 6 p.m.

Agitation to postpone the "closing" hour until 10 p.m. has failed, and although the state government plans to suggest some extension—with conditions—there is no hope of visitors to the Olympic Games here in 1956 being able to toast their country's victories after the games have ended each day.

At present Queensland, Tasmania and Western Australia are the only Australian states where bars are open for business at night.

DON'T STOP TILL 5

In Melbourne, capital of the State of Victoria, most workers do not leave their jobs until five o'clock or later. This leaves them an hour or less to quench their thirst.

Advocates of reform claim that much drunkenness would disappear if people could drink at leisure until, say, 10 p.m.

Meanwhile, a liquor reform bill is believed to contain provisions to extend from 8 p.m. to 10 p.m. the hours during which liquor may be consumed with meals in hotels and licensed cafes. At present in hotel dining rooms liquor is removed from guests' tables promptly at eight o'clock.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

There's always something new happening in sports, often with a humerous twist. Take for instance a story Happy Chandler, ex-commissioner of baseball, told at a recent meeting in Montreal. Seems in a minor pro loop game a ball was hit to the infield but it split open and the cover went one way and the inside part another. The second-sacker got the main part of the ball and threw to first well ahead of the runner. There was a terrific uproar when the ump ruled the runner safe. The protest carried right through till it reached the commissioner's office. He backed up the umpire's decision, pointing out it is a rule that to make a putout the opposing team must "recover" the ball!

Skimming lightly around the sports' scene, we note where in Welland the police officials think spectators at pro mat matches play too rough. Because they have been subjected to much abuse from fans the officers were granted their appeal asking the city police commission to rescind a mandatory order calling for the attendance of four policemen at the weekly grabble bouts. Starting the first of January, the fans will have to fend for themselves as there'll be no cops on duty. Peterborough police have had some busy evenings with near-riots occurring after rough wrestling bouts, but so far the boys in blue haven't ducked the issue.

Setting the Rocket Right

Switching to hockey, we saw another interesting item in an NHL bulletin. Said it was Paul Haynes, former player with Maroons, Bruins and Canadiens, who switched Maurice Richard from a left to a right winger. Haynes was coaching Montreal Canadiens' so-called amateur seniors in 1941-42 and Richard was his star at left wing. But the Rocket always cut over to the right as he neared defence and was being clobbered regularly by the opposing left defenceman. Haynes figured that by playing Richard on right wing would be in the clear when he swerved to the right. The switch sure paid off, eh? Of such canny coaching decisions are star athletes made.

A recent lakeshore puck league standing showed Orono atop the pile with 17 points, while Port Hope nestled in the next slot with 10. Lakefield and Lindsay were tied next with eight each, as Cobourg trailed the field with five. Orono yanked out a 4-2 win on Port Hope ice last start against the Lakefield Indians, and Junior West's crew from out Orono way have been beating the bejabers regularly out of all the intermediate "A" clubs in the circuit——and Orono a "B" entry! Leo Petticrew says that these intermediate "A" teams (as well as amateur senior "B" squads) will get a chance of entering the next Olympics. It may be so, we just don't know.

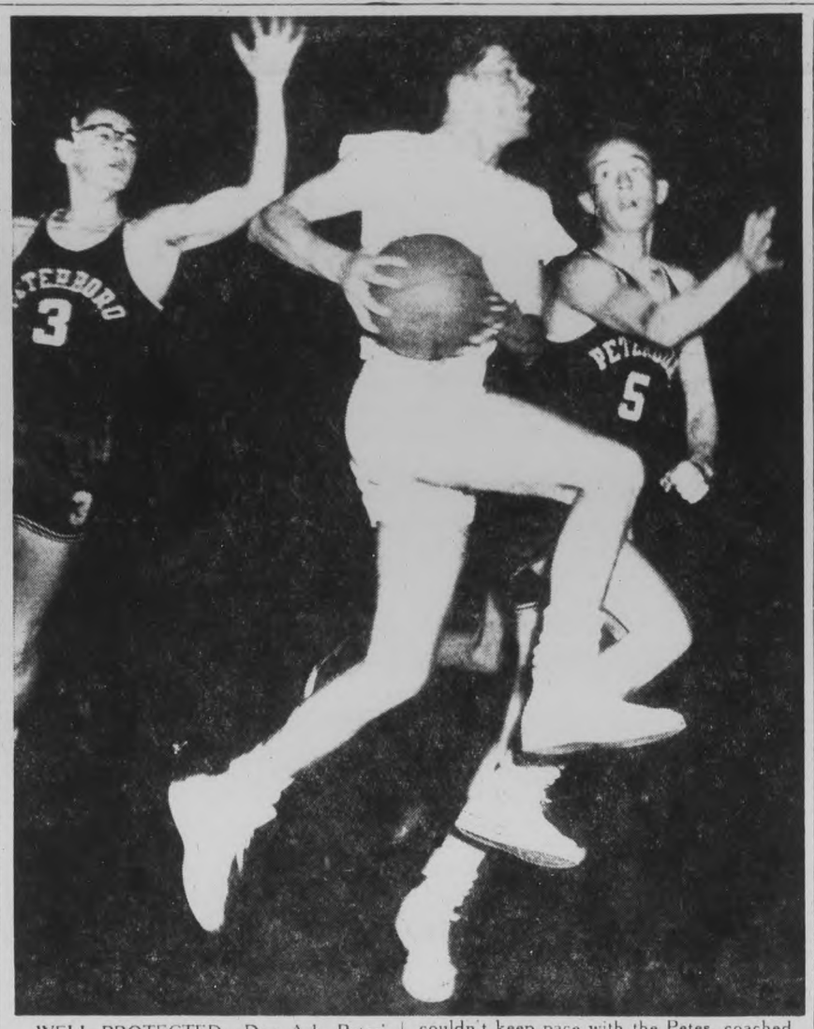
A Ref's Optical Illusion

TPT Petes, who tackle Orillia Pontiacs here tonight, drew 5-5 in overtime Saturday down in Kingston. But the Petes should have won that in regulation time. Referee Bill Holway of Belleville called back a goal on them late in the third period. 'Twas scored in a scramble but the postrate goalie pulled the puck out and under him before the day-dreaming official got on the play. Goal-judge Johnny Russelle kept the light on for a full minute but Holway didn't even skate over to get his version of the play. What's the use of having a goal-judge if he isn't consulted on such occasions? A real rough break for Petes and a lucky deal for Goodyears. Redmond, Leonard, McMaster, Greenlaw and Donlevy starred for the visitors before 3,000 fans.



* * * * * *

The night before saw Kingston down Belleville 4-2 to hurdle Oshawa into first place in the standing. Petes are widening the gap between themselves and the cellar-dwelling Quinte Memos. Also, the TPT-ers are climbing slowly toward the top three teams, and a victory over the classy and rugged Pontiacs here this p.m. would do the local crew a lot of good. The Redmond men head for Bella Villa on the morrow and will be ready for a good rest after that — four stiff scraps in six nights. They're idle then until next Monday when Memos meander up this way. A revised standing will be out this week, but at present it's Kingston atop the pile, with Petes in the fourth slot.

Petes And Kingston Draw In 5-5 Overtime Tilt Before 3,000 Spectators

KINGSTON (Special) — Peterborough Petes, looking strong on the ice but running fourth in the Ontario Hockey Association senior "B" group race, earned high rating in the community Memorial Centre on Saturday night when they wiped out deficits on four occasions in fashioning an overtime 5 to 5 deadlock with the potent and pace-setting Goodyears. The fans (2,965 in number) saw a fine attraction in which swift George MacGregor scored four goals and prevented the liftlockers from skating away with an unexpected triumph.

MacGregor, whose sensational forays into enemy territory have become rather common, broke all traffic laws in the Saturday engagement as he sped past mystified opponents a la "Rocket" Richard. On three occasions he shot Goodyears into the lead and his final counted at 5:48 in overtime. Redmond got three assists, and Gus Leonard, who scored twice and had one assist, were a revelation of power going both ways. MacGregor however was their nemesis and scored in all periods except the first when both goalkeepers were invincible. The liftlockers will bear watching over the rest of the route, while Belleville's playoff chances will probably grow darker.

Cautious play in the opening period in the Saturday duel made the going a bit dullish. This trend continued until MacGregor raced to the first counter at 5:25 in the middle session and sparked a dual uprising in which defensive strategy was abandoned. "Toodie" Greenlaw, aided by Redmond and Bill McMaster, forced a deadlock but Don Murray with Don Bellringer his aide, fired Goodyears ahead again.

SOME PENALTIES

A minor and a misconduct penalty to Johnny Myke: minors to Denny Peterson and Redmond and a misconduct to Rod Belisle were jammed into that middle period before MacGregor got Kingston's third goal at 19:45 after Murray and Ted Nicholson had participated in the attack. Belisle was banished because he had thrown his stick in protest against a minor sentence allotted to Redmond. While both were away MacGregor made it a 3-1 Goodyear show.

The champions clung tenaciously to their two-goal advantage until McMaster hit the Kingston webbing after firing from close range at 5:53 in the third period.

The Petes continued to press the attack and were favoured by a break occasioned by a penalty handed to Jack White. Johnson stopped a few stray shots but the Petes finally broke through and Leonard tallied with a low drive.

With the teams restored to full strength the MacGregor-Partis-McKeown front line thundrred into swift action and broke the deadlock when MacGregor beat Donlevy. The wide-open play continuel unabated and both net guardians were called on to make sensational saves. Greenlaw, Peterson and White were the most dangerous attackers. White, who broke into the clear via a long pass from Murray, was thwarted at the goal-mouth by the alerted Donlevy.

The Petes, visibly tiring, appeared to be doomed but led by the weary Redmond, who declined relief, they hung on grimly and eventually were rewarded when at 18:50, Leonard, who had attacked in conjunction with Greenlaw and McMaster, hit the webbing with a low shot. McMaster drew a penalty.

In overtime play had that Kaleidoscopic touch. Murray, the rifleman, in a ganging assault, was outguessed by Donlevy. Then Crowley almost scored for the Petes following an uncalled offside. At the five-minute mark the Petes scored but referee Bill Holway had blown his whistle and the goal was nullified. The visitors argued the point in vain.

The Petes continued to attack and it was during one of those all-out attempts that wily Ken Partis found MacGregor almost in the clear after a breakaway and gave the speedboy a perfect pass. MacGregor made no mistake and the light flashed behind Donlevy.

Bob Londry drew a penalty for charging at 6:15 and one minute later Fryia got the goal that made it a stand-off.

Redmond and Leonard participated in that vital attack. After Londry's return play was fast and exciting but neither team enjoyed an edge in superiority. The Petes, however, were attacking when the gong ended hostilities.

Curling News

By HERB MARTIN

This being Christmas week the curling schedule is very light—and that's the way it should be. The club has been going steady since November 9 and a little rest will do a lot of good. However here is the program for this week:

Monday, December 21: Afternoon, ladies schedule, evening, all ice open.

Tuesday, December 22: Afternoon, ladies' schedule, evening, ices, 1, 2, 6, 7 curling, ices 3, 4, 5, figure skating.

Wednesday, December 23: all ices reserved.

Thursday December 24: open, Christmas Eve.

Friday, December 25: Rink closed all day.

Saturday, December 26: Boxing Day, Examiner Trophy bonspiel.

Winning skips Saturday night: G. Gabel and Dr. M. McCartney.

Men's Scores—Friday

W. Hamilton 7, D. Bell 8.
M. Hardell 9, I. Moore 7;
M. Wells 5, R. Hutchinson 7.
J. Sinclair 6, W. Harvey 11;
J. Adams 14, H. Green 8.

Keen Contests Dished Up In Church Loop

Park St. midgets pulled out a 6-5 win over St. John's, as St. George's and St. James's drew 1-1 in the other midget game of Church Hockey League action on Saturday in Civic Arena. All Saints won 4-1 from St. James's in the bantam fixture. The peewee tilts saw St. James's edge George St. 1-0, while Knox and St. George's tied 2-2. All games were keenly contested.

Falkner and Parker from Simpson were St. John scorers in their midget game in the first frame, as Davis got one from Grant for Park St. The latter team tallied four next time out, Walling getting a pair each and Davis and Lumbard one apiece. Davis had three assists and Grant one. Davis added one in the third from Cain, while St. John's fought back hard for three, Lustic twice registering and Falkner getting the other. Dunford aided on a pair and Lustic one. In the other midget melee, Warner scored for St. George's in the first period and Kimball tied it for St. James's in the middle chapter.

AN EARLY LEAD

Stephenson put All Saints' bantams up one in the initial inning, and they led 3-0 to end the second after goals by Reid and Gilders. The latter added one more in the third, as Sedore scored the lone one for St. James's. Like the other tilts, it was a clean affair.

Ball banged one home in the third period on a pass from Currie to give St. James's their 1-0 victory over the George St. peewees, the winners drawing the only two penalties of the fray. The other peewee joust saw Scott put Knox up one in the first chukker, with Maxwell getting their other goal next period. Hewie tallied for St. George's in the second, and his marker in the third tied it up. St. George's got the only penalty of the clean contest.

Hire Dinny Pails To Help Cup Team

MELBOURNE (AP)—Australian professional Dinny Pails has been hired to help hone the American Davis Cup tennis team for the challenge round against Australia here next week.

Bill Talbert, captain of the United States contingent, said Pails will join the Americans Tuesday and work out twice a day with the team through Saturday.

The Americans will also have a chance to work out with Ted Schroeder, who was a member of the U.S. team two years ago. He is here on a writing and radio assignment for an Australian newspaper, and has offered his services.

The challenge round draw is scheduled for Saturday. The matches will be Dec. 28 through Dec. 30.

Buffalo Edges Syracuse 4-3

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Cleveland Barons drew within one point of the league-leading Buffalo Bisons Saturday night in the American Hockey League but a Buffalo victory Sunday restored Bisons' lead to three points.

Buffalo edged out Syracuse Warriors 4-3 Sunday while the Barons were idle. In the only other Sunday game Providence Reds beat third-place Hershey Bears 5-3.

At Buffalo, Pete Babando scored twice for the Bisons. Don Marshall and Gord Pennell were the other Buffalo marksmen. Two goals by Harry Pidhirny and a singleton by Bronco Horvath accounted for the Warriors' scoring.

Bert Hirschfeld scored two goals at Providence to pace the Reds. Other Providence scorers were Ken Davis, Pat Egan and Al Baccari while Oble O'Brien, Dunc Fisher and Jack McIntyre counted for the losers.

Saturday night scores were: Cleveland 3, Syracuse 2; Providence 3, Pittsburg 1; Hershey 5, Buffalo 3.

Regents Take Cage Tilt Against PCVS

Doug MacPherson's intermediate Petes Regents rolled to an easy 75-48 victory over Zolton Temesy's PCVS senior Garnet and Greys Saturday at the PCVS gym. In the preliminary game the Kenner Collegiate Rams were edged by the PCVS junior Garnet and Grey 31-29. St. Catharines intermediates and juniors were originally scheduled to play but at the last minute had trouble arranging transportation.

The fast-breaking, smooth ball-handling intermediates were too good for the Collegians who will be a match for any team in their class. The Petes worked ahead from the start 21-9, stayed ahead 38-19 at the half, 56-28 at three-quarters, and coasted in the fourth.

Former Collegiate star Dan Griffin paced the Petes with 17 points, closely followed by Bob Smith with 15, Bill Edger with 14. Doug Ash led the PCVS scorers with 15 points.

A CLOSE GAME

The junior game was close throughout, the Rams showing a decided improvement since their first loss to PCVS a week ago. The quintets were tied four-all at the quarter, PCVS taking the lead at the half 10-8, staying ahead 19-17 and keeping that margin in the fourth for the victory.

Bellany, Beil and Paul Davis led the PCVS team to victory with nine and seven points each. Bob Hollingsworth with eight and Bob Druery with seven were the Rams' best.

M. Knight Hits 348

M. Knights rolled a high single of 348, which together with 309 and 202 games, gave her top three of 859 last week in the Lucky Strike Bowling League. It was a fine mark as her team beat Gibbons 3-1, as did McBride's over Dunfield, Miles against Butcher, and Reed over Callaghan. Graham and Parsons split evenly. Winners of the chicken roll were: M. Knights, B. Hardill, D. Clark, J. Dunfield, J. Steen, L. Beavis, M. Graham, D. Poole, G. Hall, M Tompkins, B. McBride and E. Butcher.

Good singles were by: B. Hardill 246, B. Gardiner 242, D. Clark 237, M. Pearson 224, M. Tompkins 217, H. Stacey 214, M. Graham 211, M. Callaghan 207, H. Powell 205 and L. Griffin 201. Apart from M. Knights' neat triple, none of the bowlers did too well in a three-game way, not one going over 600.

Lindsay Squad Gets Win

LINDSAY (ENS) — Lindsay juniors stayed in at least a tie for second place in the OHA junior "B" group with a 5-2 win over the Collingwood Greenshirts in Collingwood Saturday night. The game was a rough one, climaxed by a third period brawl.

The visitors went in front 4-1, in the first period after the Shirts' Hanna opened the scoring. Pearson scored two, the first on a breakaway, the second on passes from Graham and Crowden. Crowden and Packer scored the other goals. Robinson got the second Collingwood goal in the second period, and Truax added the final goal of the game in the third, with the Shirts shorthanded.

There was only one minor penalty in the first period, but the game became rougher in the second and Truax and Parish drew majors for fighting in the final frame. There were four minors, along with two majors, to Packer of Lindsay and Parish of Collingwood, and two misconducts to Parish and Truax.

Kemp, the Lindsay goaler, turned in his best game of the season and received great defensive support from his shorthanded mates. The Lindsay forwards drew a big hand from the Collingwood fans for their positional play. Robinson, Hanna, Kirk and Taylor led the losers.

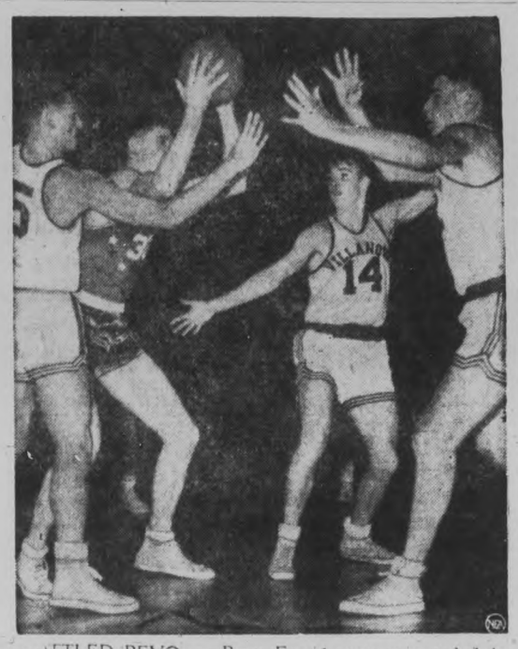
M. O'Donnell Leads

Midge O'Donnell's 737 was top three for men as Jean Archibald led lasses with 696 to win turkeys in the Mercantile Bowling League. The 7-0 wins went to Bob and Betty over Charlotte No. 2 and Seabrook over Cherney's No. 2. The 5-2 victories were taken by Mustangs over Turner, Combines over Jets, Charlotte Credit No. 1 against Ackison, Dominion over United Co-Op, Loblaw against Tent and Awning, and Pet. Express over Pet. Co-Op. The 4-3 split went to Austin's over Canoemen.

Good triples: T. Holyman (283) 734, S. DeWolfe (233) 687, L. Phillips (234) 654, J. Young (271) 641, T. Williams (233) 641, T. Drury (266) 639, M. Julian (238) 631, J. Wilkinson (247) 623, O. Byrd 230 and H. Davis 222.

Tri-Bells Down Niagara 80-66

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto Nortown Tri-Bells overcame the handicap of 28 personal fouls caused by "overchecking" and defeated Niagara Falls Jolleys 80-66 in an International Triple A Basketball game Saturday night.



The Jolleys, who counted 28 points on foul shots, had only 12 personals called against them. Two Toronto players and one from Niagara Falls were ejected when they had the five maximum number of personals called against them.

Howie Triano, who led Niagara Falls Collegiate seniors to the Ontario Federation of School Athletic Associations' class A cage championship last March, topped the scorers, sinking 15 points for the Jolleys. Ray Monnot and Peter Potter shared second spot, scoring 14 points each for the Tri-Bells.

Rangers Bounce Canadiens 3-1; Plenty Of Slugging

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

There's nothing like the prospect of blood and thunder to send New York hockey fans flocking to Madison Square Garden. Many of the 13,650 fans who bought up nearly every seat in the garden Sunday night were obliviously lured by publicity heralding the return of the Rangers' Ivan (the Terrible) Irwin and quick-tempered Maurice Richard of Montreal Canadiens. They didn't see much rough stuff from Ivan and Maurice. But they got plenty of blood from New York's Ron Murphy and Montreal's Bernie Geoffrion in a game that saw the Ranger beat Canadiens 3-1 and bounce the Montrealers out of first place in the National Hockey League.

Murphy, a 21-year-old leftwinger, and Geoffrion met with sticks high in the second period.

Both received match misconduct penalties and $100 fines. Murphy was taken to hospital with a fractured jaw and other injuries and Geoffrion was nursing a cut on the right side of his head.

AWAIT NEXT CLASH

The fans were expecting Irwin and Richard to clash again. When the Rangers and Canadiens last met in New York, Nov. 29, Irwin, touted as the new Ching Johnson, won a personal duel with the Rocket by dumping him hard on several occasions and finally pinning him to the ice with his knee.

Sunday night's Montreal - New York battle was the wildest of five games during the weekend. In the others, fifth-place Rangers were beaten 3-2 by third-place Toronto Maple Leafs in Toronto and Canadiens defeated fourth-place Boston Bruins 7-3 Saturday. Sunday night, last-place Chicago Black Hawks whipped the Leafs 4-1 and the league-leading Detroit Red Wings edged Boston 4-2.

The fuss started at New York at 15:20 of the second period with some minor skirmishing. Murphy and Geoffrion raised their sticks. After they were separated by linesman Doug Davies, Geoffrion cracked Murphy across the face with his stick and Murphy fell.

Geoffrion and several other Montreal players swung their sticks at a fan who tried to get into the act. The game was delayed 15 minutes before the melee was broken up.

RANGER PUNCH

Wally Hergesheimer provided the scoring punch as Rangers won their ninth game in 32 starts. The 26-year-old rightwinger tallied the last two goals. Defenceman Harry Richard accounted for the lone Montreal goal.

At Toronto Saturday, young Camille Henry scored twice in the Rangers' losing performance. Toronto scorers were rightwinger Eric Nesterenko, centre Ted Kennedy and rightwinger Ron Stewart.

Canadiens, now two points behind the Red Wings, were led by Geoffrion's two goals Saturday as they racked up their 16th win in 17 home starts before 14,027 fans. That gave Geoffrion a total of 18 goals for the season.

Richard contributed a single to retain the goal-scoring leadership. Other Montreal goals were scored by defenceman Dollard St. Laurent, Calum MacKay, Paul Masnick and Bert Olmstead.

Milt Schmidt, veteran Bruin centre who moved over to left wing for the game, accounted for two Boston goals. Centre Cal Gardner got the other.

ROUGH GAME

That game was a bit rough, too. Johnny Peirson of the Bruins and Bert Olmstead of Canadiens came to blows in the third period and were given majors.

Third-period goals by rookie centre Earl Reibel, leftwinger Marty Pavelich and defenceman Red Kelly gave the Red Wings their 19th win in 32 outings.

Tony Leswick scored for Detroit in the first period. Joe Klukay and Gardner tallied early in the third period to give the Bruins a brief lead.

LEADING SCORER

Veteran Bill Mosienko was the leading scorer at Chicago. He scored two goals and an assist as 5,038 fans sat in at Chicago Stadium. That raised his lifetime scoring total to 501 points on 240 goals and 261 assists in 13 NHL seasons.

Pete Conacher counted Chicago's third goal in the second period. The Hawks' fourth tally came at 19:54 of the final period when Doc Couture scored on George Gee's pass.

Stewart fired the Leafs lone goal in the first period.

No games are scheduled until Wednesday night, when the Red Wings travel to New York.

Parker Field Only Site In Richmond

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Municipally owned Parker Field is the only feasible playing site for the International League basebal team Richmond hopes to have next year Mayor Ed Hadock and a syndicate of local business men decided Saturday.

Backing away from a previously announced intention to build a new ball park from the ground up, the mayor and the syndicate of some 20 others said they could find no other site nearly so suitable as the field which now is used for nigh school sports.

Enlargement of the field to make it big enough for International League crowds will present "no problem," Haddock said. The big "if" is whether Richmond's nineman city council can be persuaded to lease the field and its stands to Harry C. Seibold, who would operate an IL team here, and the syndicate.

Seibold, who was granted a tentative franchise in the International last Thursday, must find a suitable park by midnight, Jan. 5, or the franchise will revert to Eddie Mooers, owner of the city's previous entry in the class B Piedmont

St. Mike's Divide Weekend OHA Games

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series is shaping up to one of the closest races in years.

Most of the teams are nearing the halfway mark in the schedule, yet only 11 points separate the top six clubs in the eight-team loop. The others aren't far behind.

However, plenty of fans are giving Toronto St. Michael's College Majors a good chance of taking the league title.

The Majors, who had a nine-game winning streak broken when they were defeated 6-3 by he Black Hawks in Galt Saturday, returned to form in Toronto Sunday to trounce St. Catharines TeePees 9-4. The victory gave the Collegians sole possession of first place—two points in front of the TeePees.

TIED MARLBOROS

In the other half of the Sunday doubleheader Kitchener - Waterloo Greenshirts tied Toronto Marlboros 2-2 to remain a point behind the third-place Dukes. Marlboros are four points behind St. Michael's.

Paul Knox was the sparkplug for St. Michael's during the week-end. He scored two goals and notched an assist during the Irish loss to the Hawks and fired three more counters against the TeePees Sunday. John Sleaver and Ron Halstead scored two each to pace Galt. Neil McDonald and Bob Wilson rounded out the total for the Hawks.

Jack Caffery scored St. Michael's other goal.

Knox's three-goal effort was matched by fiery Dick Duff against St. Catharines Sunday. Duff counted once in the first period and scored two more within 24 seconds in the third to quash a TeePee comeback. Jim Logan notched the winner.

Les Duff and Ken Gribbons scored the other goals for St. Michael's. Brian Cullen, Elmer Vasko, Hank Ciesla and Barry Cullen tallied for St. Catharines.

Defenceman Berle Klink gave Kitchener the tie when he scored midway through the third period. Gary Collins scored the other Kitchener goal. Gerry James and Wally Maxwell notched the Marlboro goals.

Hamilton Tigers are at Galt and the last-place Guelph Biltmores play in Kitchener Tuesday.

Here And There In Sports

NAME BASEBALL GROUP

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball commissioner Ford Frick Saturday named a nine-man committee of major and minor league executives to review the basic structure of the game.

"I feel the time has come for us to make a survey to see if we are on the proper ground," said Frick. "And if we are not, it is time to get on it."

The committee will discuss such problems as high bonus payments to untried youngsters and unreasonable concentration of player talent. It will try to give incentive to lower classification clubs to develop players and set up rules to permit the "reasonable" advancement of players as their abilities justify.

Three minor leaguers, four major leaguers and two farm club directors were appointed by Frick to meet Jan. 7. The members were asked to come prepared for a two-day session.

Earl Mann of Atlanta, Frank Lawrence of Portsmouth, Va., and Eddie Mulligan of Sacramento will represent the minors. Fresco Thompson, Brooklyn vice-president and Johnny Murphy of Boston Red Sox are the farm club directors. Frank Lane of Chicago and George Weiss of New York are the American League members and Branch Rickey, Jr., of Pittsburgh and Bob Carpenter of Philadelphia the National Leaguers.

QUICK TRIP

PRESTWICK, Scotland (Reuters) A fish merchant flew from Montreal to Scotland to watch a soccer game Saturday. The 6,000-mile round trip cost him $400. "It was worth every penny," said Scots-born Tom McLeod, 56.

McLeod has watched hockey every week-end for years in Montreal, but his heart always has been with Scotland's national game—soccer.

So he put on a tartan tie and flew to Scotland.

He arrived here a few hours before East Fife and Hearts—top Scottish League teams—were due to meet at Methil, his hometown.

A few hours after the game he rushed back to Prestwick and caught the plane home for Montreal before most people had read of the game in the evening newspapers.

ROOKIE LOSES WALLET

BOSTON (AP) — Bill Dineen, rookie centre for Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League, said Sunday night his wallet containing $320 was lost on a train en route from Indianapolis to Boston.

Dineen told reporters that he discovered his wallet missing shortly after a girl bumped into him outside the dining car.

The theft was reported to police at a stop in Cleveland, but a search of the train failed to uncover the wallet.

Dineen was one of the few Detroit players who were not victims of a recent break into their dressing room during a game in New York.

HORSE DIES AFTER RACE

UTTOXETER, England (AP)—A four-year-old thoroughbred racehorse swept to victory in a two-mile hurdle race Saturday—and then dropped dead.

Trinidad, a hot 7-4 favorite for the novices hurdle race, won by a head. He died on his way to the unsaddling enclosure.

✦ ✦ ✦

FIRE TOLL RISES

OLDSMAR, Fla. (AP)—The number of horses destroyed by Friday's fire at Sunshine park rose to 17 when one died of burns and another had to be shot Saturday.

The 17 animals were valued at about $2,500 to $3,000 each.

Also badly burned was R. J. Hamon's My Accident, a former holder of the track record for six furlongs. My Accident was valued at about $7,000.

Sacred Heart School Concert

Plays and musical selections by individual and classses made up the program Sunday of the annual Sacred Heart school Christmas concert. Monsignor P. P. Butler acted as chairman for the concert, held in the school club house.

A combined class choral group provided anthems and songs throughout the program, including the selections, "Merry Christmas Bells," "Bethlehem Babe," "We Three Kings" and "Upon the Housetop."

After a welcome to students and parents, grade 1 presented the playlet, "Angels Remember." A piano selection by Arthur Carey and a skit by Paul Brioux and Allan Dodson entitled "Christmas Shopping," followed.

Other grade seven boys staged a novel presentation, a boat race, without the benefit of boats.

"An Exceptional Eskimo" was the title of the grade five choral reading selection. Peggy Guiry of that class gave a piano recitation.

"The Christmas Story" was given by grade three and Joseph Callaghan played the piano. Girls of grade six also gave a play.

Suzanne Martyn and Herbert Michel played a piano duet and grade four students gave a play, "The Spirit of Christmas," followed by a recitation by Ronald Collins.

A grade eight comedy, "Camouflage," concluded the student's program.

The concert came to a close when PTA president Fred Whaley presented gifts to the teachers and clergy.

TRAFTON RETURNS—George Trafton, whose status with Winnipeg Blue Bombers for 195[illegible] is in doubt, is greeted at the airport by several players on his return from a trip to Chicago. Trafton, with one year left of his three-year coaching contract with the Western Interprovincial Football Union team, claims he was "fired" by the Bombers. Club officials say he still is with the team but they are bringing in a "head coach" next year. Welcoming Trafton, who is third from left, are, left to right: guards Al Wiley and Jim McPherson, import tackle Dick Huffman, import end Neill Armstrong and defensive end Tommy Lumsden.

Legion And Auxiliary Hold Children's Party

WARSAW (ENS)—A Christmas party was held in the Warsaw Legion hall Saturday night. It was sponsored by Legion 511, and the Women's Auxiliary of 511. Seventy-eight children, accompanned by their parents attended.

Elias Thompson, master of ceremonies, invited everyone to join in singing carols. Miss Carolyn Thompson sang "I Saw Mummy Kissing Santa Claus." A film entitled the "Three Bears' Adventure," was shown, followed by a piano solo by Miss Beverly Lonsberry. Mrs. H. Digweed gave a monologue, "Things Are Too Expensive." Another film, "Howdy Doody's Christmas" was the last item on the program.

Then to the delight of every child, Santa bustled in with a pack on his back. He gave gifts to all the children and was assisted by Joyce Payne, Gwen Moore, Viola Park, May Payne, Leonard Lonsberry and Howard Parcels.

Lunch was served by Lila Lonsberry and her assistants, Viola Park, Gwen Moore, Annie Clements, Mildred Digweed, Joyce Payne and May Payne.

Jailed 5 Years For Manslaughter

NANAIMO, B. C. (CP)—Cecil Christopher Sampson was sentenced Saturday to five years in penitentiary on a charge of manslaughter in the slaying of Chew Deb, a Vancouver island Chinese.

Sampson, 30, was found not guilty of murder but guilty on a reduced charge of manslaughter. His 26-year-old wife, Edna, also faces a murder charge. Her case was transferred to the spring assizes.

Chew Deb, 81, was beaten to death in his shack in Duncan, B. C., in 1950.

Fight To Draw

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (CP)—Pierre Langlois of France and Carmen Basilio of Canastota, N.Y., fought to an action-packed 10-round draw in a nationally televised boxing bout Saturday night.

Basilio absorbed most of the heavy punches but had no trouble weathering them. Langlois suffered a cut eye in the seventh round and then opened a cut over Basilio's eye in the ninth. Both fighters were bleeding from the nose at the end.

Two Moroccans Shot

RABAT, Morocco (Reuters)—Moroccan terrorists Sunday night shot and seriously wounded two Moroccans in Casablanca and Rabat. The victims were a Casablanca lawyer and a cafe owner in Rabat. Police believe the crime had a political motive, as oth victims were known for their pro-French sentiments.

Cake For Dumart

BOSTON (AP)—Veteran Woody Dumart of Boston Bruins, who has been in the National Hockey League so long he's known as "the elder statesman," was given a birthday cake by his fans Sunday night. He'll be 37 Wednesday.

Fast Triple Play During Concert

NEW YORK (AP)—A fast-moving triple play at Sunday afternoon's concert of the New York Philharmonic Orchestra had soloist Erica Morini fiddling on two violins for the first movement of the Brahms concerto.

When a string on Miss Morini's Stradivarious popped half way through the movement, she quickly exchanged instruments with the orchestra's concert master, John Corigliano, and went ahead with her solo.

Corigliano, in turn, passed the Strad back through the orchestra. Another musician replaced the broken string and her violin was returned to Miss Morini before the cadenza at the end of the movement.

"She was warmly applauded, both for the high quality of the performance and her poise in dealing with this mishap," commented critic Francis D. Perkins of the Herald Tribune.

Truck Accident Fatal

TORONTO (CP)—Frank Spencer Coombs, 69, died in hospital Saturday night as a result of injuries suffered when he fell from a truck Friday. Police said he was walking home when a friend who was passing by offered him a ride on the back of a truck. Coombs lost his balance when the driver started pulling away, police said.

Geoffrion Whacks Murphy Sends Him To Hospital

NEW YORK (CP) — Another brawl involving Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion held the National Hockey League spotlight today following Sunday night's hectic New York-Montreal game which sent the Rangers' Ron Murphy to hospital.

Geoffrion, Canadiens' right winger, who was fined $250 for charging referee Frank Udvari last Nov. 12, swapped sticks with Murphy in a wild second period and resulted in Ron sustaining a fractured jaw bone and a concussion. Each received match penalties from referee Red Storey, which calls for an automatic $100 fine.

The Rangers, with Wally Hergesheimer scoring twice, triumphed 3-1, which knocked Canadiens into second place behind Detroit.

"Storey's handling of the affair was outrageous," said president John Reed Kilpatrick, of Madison Square Garden, afterwards. "I'm going to protest his decisions to Clarence Campbell (NHL president)."

REFEREE SILENT

Storey declined to comment, except to say he would make his report in person to Campbell at Montreal.

The fight, which started with some minor scuffling in the Montreal zone between players of both clubs, suddenly erupted into a due of sticks between Murphy and Geoffrion. The latter subsequently struck Murphy across the face, and the Ranger fell in a heap.

Boom Boom also received a gash on the right side of the head and New York defenceman Ivan Irwin came away with a cut requiring four stitches to close.

Yankees Ignored On All-Star Baseball Team

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The Sporting News, a weekly sports newspaper, Saturday announced its 1953 major league all-star baseball team—a predominately National League squad that failed to include a member of the world champion New York Yankees.

Members of the Baseball Writers' Association of America, polled by the newspaper to select its 29th annual team, named eight National Leaguers to the 11-man squad which includes three pitchers.

Ted Williams, Boston Red Sox slugger, was made an honorary member in recognition of his play after return from 15 months as a marine pilot in Korea.

PLAYERS CHOSEN

Players selected on the team: Mickey Vernon, Washington Senators, first base; Red Schoendienst, St. Louis Cardinals, second base; Al Rosen, Cleveland Indians, third base; PeeWee Reese, Brooklyn Dodgers, shortstop; Stan Musial, Cardinals and Duke Snider and Carl Furillo, Dodgers, outfielders; Roy Campanella, Dodgers, catcher; and Robin Roberts, Philadelphia Phillies, Warren Spahn, Milwaukee Braves, and Bob Porterfield, Senators, pitchers.

Young Prince Makes Own Yule Cards

LONDON (AP)—While Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh are away on their Commonwealth tour, five-year-old Prince Charles is busy at home making his own Christmas cards.

They are multi-colored, paint-daubed greetings which Charles is mailing to his friends.

He has also personally assumed the job of watching out for three-year-old Princess Anne.

Charles' special gift to Ann is a set of toy saucepans. She is also due to get a toy cooking stove, a dolls' tea set and new wardrobes for some of her favorite dolls.

Charles and Anne will spend Christmas Day at the royal estate at Sandringham with Queen Mother Elizabeth and Princess Margaret.

Shock Causes Death

DAYTON, Ky. (AP) — Shock caused by a fire that started in a closet filled with Christmas toys was blamed for the death of Mrs. Sarah Hastings Siepes Sunday night. The fire, of undetermined origin, exploded several shotgun shells and rapidly ravaged the frame house.

Last Place Niagara Upsets Leading Bulldogs 5-3

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It has come to the point in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A group when a top-rung team can't even depend on beating the last-place Niagara Falls Cataracts—even with the advantage of home ice.

Windsor Bulldogs, defeated on home ice once this season, suffered their second consecutive defeat in Windsor Sunday.

The Cataracts beat them 5-3 and it was the first time Niagara Falls had won two in a row.

The Bulldogs' defeat, coming on top of their 6-1 loss to the Mercurys in Owen Sound Saturday, prevented them from getting nearer to the first-place Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen. But the Dutchmen didn't make any progress either. Hamilton Tigers scored three third-period goals in Kitchener Saturday to defeat them 4-2.

KNOCK OVER MAROONS

Stratford Indians knocked over Chatham Maroons 5-1 in Stratford in the other Saturday game.

In the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Sault Ste. Marie (Ont.) Greyhounds defeated Sudbury Wolves 5-0 and Pembroke Lumber Kings downed North Bay Trappers 4-2 in Saturday games. Sudbury bounced back Sunday to drop Sault Ste. Marie (Mich.) Indians 3-1.

Elmer Skov and Jerry Reid notched two goals each for Owen Sound. Buck Forslund and Doug Gillespie added the others. Gord Haidy saved Windsor from a shutout.

Jack Taylor bagged three of Hamilton's four goals in the Tigers' win over the Dutchmen. Murray Comfort got the other one. Harry Psutka and Howie Lee fired the Kitchener goals—both in the first period.

IN COMMAND

Stratford, outshooting the Maroons 39-14, were in command all the way. Lou Bendo, Johnny Muretich, Billy Flick, Dinny Flanagan and Mike Delich each had a hand in the Indian scoring. Bob Palmer got a breakaway after stepping from the penalty box in the third period to score Chatham's only goal.

Red Olsen tallied the winning goal for Niagara Falls Sunday after the Bulldogs had come from behind a 3-1 deficit to tie the score in the third period.

Bill Young, Bill Hartsburg, Nick Dubick and Eric Unger scored singles for the Cataracts. Wally Pawlyshyn, Wally Kulman and Gary Gordon netted the Windsor goals.

Pembroke is at North Bay in the NOHA tonight. In the OHA Tuesday, Stratford is at Owen Sound and Hamilton at Niagara Falls.

Mrs. Percy Davidson Again Heads WMS

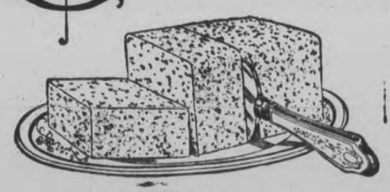
COLDSPRINGS (ENS) — Mrs. Eldred Lean, of Camborne, was guest speaker at the Christmas meeting of the Coldsprings Women's Missionary Society.

The president, Mrs. Percy Davidson, presided. There were 21 members and three visitors present.

The Christmas program, interspersed with carols, was presented by Mrs. Leslie McIntosh, Mrs. W. Buttars and Mrs. Arthur Buttars. Mrs. J. Ritchie gave a reading. Jean Bowman and Larry McIntosh played a piano duet.

Mrs. F. Shier, treasurer, reported a successful year and the financial objective nearly reached. The secretary reported three members had been present for every meeting during the year. They were Mesdames A. Jamieson, J. Ritchie, and N. McIntosh.

Community friendship conveners Mesdames D. Buttars, J. Rosevear and W. Buttars reported 65 calls made during the year on the ill, shut-ins and newcomers to the community. Mrs. D. Buttars gave the report for the nominating committee.



Officers for the coming year are: Honorary president, Mrs. V. M. Gilbert; president, Mrs. Percy Davidson; first vice-president, Mrs. H. McKinley; second vice-president, Mrs. D. Buttars; recording secretary, Mrs. N. McIntosh; treasurer, Mrs. H. Davidson; corresponding secretary, Miss E. Hoskin; associate members secretary, Mrs. A. Taylor; stewardship secretary, A. Buttars; literature secretary, Mrs. F. Ford; pianist, Miss Edith Hoskin; Missionary Monthly secretary, Mrs. W. J. Dines; supply secretary, Mrs. A. Brown; community friendship, Mrs. D. Buttars, Mrs. W. Buttars, Mrs. J. Rosevear; Christian citizenship, Mrs. J. Ritchie; press secretary, Mrs. F. Ford; Mission Band leader, Mrs. William Maughan, assistant Mrs. L. McIntosh.

The president moved a vote of thanks to the retiring officers and to all workers for their fine co-operation.

Mrs. L. McIntosh was convener of the program. Mrs. A. Jamieson and group served lunch.

U.S. Looking For Return To More Normal Conditions In Business World In 1954

By L. A. BROPHY

NEW YORK (AP)—The United States economy has ended a supercolossal year.

The years of long boom scaled the heights in 1953. Outpouring of goods and services topped all records. So did national income and employment.

So, what do the legion of business seers, professional and amateur, see ahead for the new year?

"Levelling off" is a pet expression of many. They see a return to more normal business conditions; a possible drop in production, maybe five per cent.

Here are some of the reasons why a gentle decline is seen:

Production has caught up with demand.

Government spending has topped and is declining.

Lay-offs are cropping up in many industries.

It's getting much toughter to sell things.

STEEL DECLINING

The rate of production of the basic industry, steel, is declining.

Why will there be no abrupt fall? here are a few reasons:

Individual income taxes will be cut by 10 per cent in January. That means more money for many people to spend. In some brackets, however, the proposed increase in social security taxes will cancel out the saving. The excess profits tax expires.

Consumers are well heeled. It's up to business by better salesmanship and the development of more attractive products to go out and get it. The public has $24,000,000,000 in mutual savings banks alone. That's $1,800,000,000 more than a year ago.

Business will continue to spend record sums for new plants and equipment in the first quarter of 1954. That's a sturdy foundation for continued good times. The department of commerce predicts such expenditures in the first three months of 1954 will be at an annual rate of $28,000,000,000, about $800,000,000 above the same period of 1953.

While government spending, another prop to business, has reached its peak, it will still be tremendous in the new year by ordinary standards.

MAY EXPAND CREDIT

Government economists generally incline to the opinion that 1954 will be a mighty prosperous year. However, the government will take any steps needed to shore up the economy. Credit may be expanded, interest rates lowered, the money supply increased. Perhaps further tax cuts and tax revisiins aimed to spur business expansion and consumer credit will be considered. Public works are another possibility.

George M. Humphrey, secretary of the treasury, is optimistic. Of gneral conditions, he said: "Should be good. I don't expect personal income to be down. Corporation earnings may be smaller, but not much."

Edwin G. Nourse, who was chairman of the president's economic council under former president Truman, is not so happy about things. He said: "Conditions that make for the end of a boom and the coming of a period of considerable readjustment are clearly discernible. There is a tough economic campaign ahead—a D-day for the business world."

UNIONS APPREHENSIVE

The unions seem to be apprehensive. The CIO at its Cleveland meeting earlier this year said business is confronted with a major change in direction and it called that change downward.

However, adding up the bad with the good predictions any way you want to, you will find the general thought is that 1954 will not hit the levels of 1953, but it will be a good year.

The total of all goods and services will come to $368,000,000,000—$22,000,000,000 over 1953.

Personal income should be $285,000,000,000. Last year it was $255,000,000,000.

Employment reached an all-time high in 1953, topping out in August with 63,408,000 jobs.

Hourly factory wages averaged $1.73, the highest on record.

In the first 10 months, dividends increased by four per cent from the same 1952 period, reaching a total of $6,600,000,000.

One fretful note is that farm income is running about five per cent behind last year.

WORKS ON BUST—With guidance of a friend, George Cohen, 39-year-old blind sculptor from Montreal, works on bust of Dr. Allen B. Dumont, United States television pioneer visiting London, Ont. Mr. Cohen came to London to do the bust. Mrs. Eileen Short describes Dr. DuMont's features during the sitting. The sculptor's seeing-eye dog, Bambi, slept on a nearby chesterfield during the sitting.

BLIND SCULPTOR—George Cohen, 39-year-old blind sculptor, of Montreal, works on a bust of Dr. Allen B. DuMont, United States television pioneer and scientist visiting London, Ont. Cohen first became blind in 1944 and in the next four years his sight returned partially about 60 times but then his eyes failed completely.

Blindness Said Not Handicap "It Is Just An Inconvenience"

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — "Blindness," says George Cohen, 39-year-old Montreal salesman-sculptor, "is not a handicap. It is just an inconvenience."

He recently supported this contention by making a bust of Dr. Allen B. Dumont, United States television pioneer and scientist, after a sitting by Dr. Dumont that lasted little more than a minute.

Mr. Cohen worked here before newsreel and television cameras and newspaper and magazine reporters and photographers.

He started modelling the bust after a "look" with his hands. An hour later, to refresh his mind about detail, he took a second and final look which lasted only a few seconds. From this brief sitting and a small amount of direction from a friend, he completed the bust.

He first became blind in 1944. For the next four years his sight returned partially about 60 times but then his eyes failed completely.

While in hospital and sightless, he began modelling with plasticine. After leaving hospital he tried to join an art school but was always refused admission until Dr. Arthur Lismer, head of the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts and a famous artist asked him to model a head as an example of his work.

Mr. Cohen did the head in 10 minutes and was promptly accepted as a student. The first model he ever completed was entered in a students' competition, his blindness being kept a secret. He won the competition—a scholarship to further study.

But modelling from clay is only a hobby. He has a full-time job with a printing firm in Montreal as a salesman.

In his spare time, he has won diving competitions and a fencing competition and he and his attractive wife, Vera, have toured "about every school in Quebec" lecturing on the importance of eyesight.

Oats Traders Concerned Over Argentine Sales

CHICAGO (AP) — With Canada restricting the amount of its oats shipments to the United States, what, if anything, is going to be done about Argentine oats?

That was the question in the minds of oats traders on the board of trade last week following news Canada would limit oats shipments to the United States to 23,000,000 bushels between Dec. 10, 1953 and Oct. 1, 1954.

Sales of Argentine oats to the United States have taken a sudden spurt. That was one reason for a drop in oats prices last week. Another reason was the fact oats simply went down with everything else.

FOR WINTER DELIVERY

In the last two weeks Argentina has sold 2,295,000 bushels of oats to the United States. These oats will be imported during the winter, when ice on the Great Lakes prevent imports of Canadian oats.

These oats are cheap. Cash dealers said they were sold for delivery at Philadelphia in February for 79¼ cents a bushel. That, they said, compared with 97⅞ cents for Canadian oats and 99 cents for American oats.

Daniel F. Rice and Co. commission firm said, "We now have some of our leading international export-import firms busy rounding up Argentine oats to send in here. There is obviously far less justification for Argentine oats than for Canadian oats to be imported."

CANADIANS ALERT

The Argentine imports have not gone unnoticed in Canada. James Richardson and Sons, Ltd., grain merchants of Winnipeg, said, "It will be interesting to see what action may be taken to restrict this movement. The Canadian export of oats to the United States is a traditional thing but the importation of Argentine oats is rather rare."

These imports are interesting in view of the fact the White House statement announcing Canada's action added that President Eisenhower "indicated that he concurs with Canada's understanding that should substantial quantities of oats be imported into the United States from other sources during the specified period, the situation would be subject to review by both the United States and Canada."

Argentina Changes Attitude To U.S.

By FRED STROZIER

BUENOS AIRES (AP)— For years Argentina has been a thorn in the side of Uncle Sam. She has balked at U.S. influence and led the chorus of Latin American critics who like to shout "Yanqui Imperialism" as a political rallying cry.

Yet today a new era of friendship and co-operation has burgeoned in the Argentina government and the controlled press. And its author is President Peron. The one-time critic now is wooing the Eisenhower administration.

An outsider wonders what started the shouting in the first place. And what is the reason for the sudden about-face?

The answer to the first question is found easily in diplomatic bungling, domestic politics and even more in Argentina's foreign trade.

OPPOSED PERON

On the diplomatic front, Peron never has forgotten that a U.S. ambassador, Spruille Braden, openly opposed his first election as president in 1946. Some believe Braden's intervention wounded delicate Argentine sensibilities and provided the spark Peron needed to win. Others think Peron was unbeatable in any case.

On the trade front, Argentina always has feared possible competition from U.S. wheat in world markets. As long as the U.S. consumed most of its own farm products there was no trouble. But with big surpluses in the U.S., Argentina's traditional European and South American customers might easily be lured away.

This issue flared into flame when the United States made donations of surplus wheat to Pakistan and Bolivia. Both of them, but for this generosity, might have bought from Argentina, perhaps at high prices.

ANOTHER SORE SPOT

Meat also was a sore spot. Argentina, in years before the 1951-52 drought, had 400,000 tons or more of first-grade beef to sell abroad. Most of it went to Britain and Chile. But Argentines never could forget that the United States wouldn't let a pound of fresh Argentine beef into the American trade. The ostensible reason was that Argentine foot-and-mouth disease would threaten the U.S. cattle industry.

A peak in anti-U.S. feeling was reached last April. There had been unrest and a series of bombings designed to frighten the Peron government had been perpetrated by terrorists among his opponents. Peron blamed local politicians and foreigners easily identified with the U.S. State department.

Other forces were at work, however. Argentina is fundamentally an agricultural country, but Peron had embarked on an ambitious series of five-year plans to industrialize the nation.

With the money earned from selling food to the Allies, he got a running start on this program. He bought the British railways and the U.S. telephone system in Argentina. He built a merchant fleet and an international airline. He fostered manufacturing and seemed well on the way to realizing at least part of his plan to become self-sufficient.

DOLLARS RAN OUT

But soon the dollars ran out. When other countries started to devalue their currencies, Peron cut the Argentine peso from a strong four to the dollar down to 14. A brisk black market brought it down to 20 or more to the dollar.

He weathered this storm. Then the drought of 1952-52 struck with devastating effect. Much of the grain crop was lost and cattle herds sharply reduced.

With no wheat and little meat to sell abroad the economy was severely strained. Austerity prevented disaster, but it left Argentina shorter than ever on most things it needed to buy abroad.

To interest private foreign capital, conservatives in the government made it clear to Peron that he would have to show Argentina was a stable country where it would be good business to invest money.

BIG GESTURE

To achieve this aim, the anti-U.S. campaign was dropped overnight. Pro-Peron newspapers ceased printing editorials and stories denouncing the United States. American magazines, banned from 18 months to five years, were quietly welcomed back to Argentine mails and news stands. Restrictions on U.S. news agencies were lifted. Permits were issued for Hollywood movies, prohibited in Argentina for more than two years.

Then came the big gesture—a new law to guarantee the right of foreign investors to get their profits out of Argentina.

Peron promised foreign investors could take up to eight percent of new capital back home every year as profit, and the method of figuring this made the return closer to 12 per cent. The law also allows the investor to start taking his original capital back home after 10 years.

There are some strings attached. These benefits do not apply to money already in the country. Furthermore, new investments must fit into Peron's plans for Argentina. They must be used to drill for oil, produce steel or otherwise help along his basic industrialization.

Shutdowns Lower Steel Production

CLEVELAND (AP) — The last week of 1953 will find steel production at its lowest for the year because of holiday shutdowns, Steel magazine says today.

The weekly magazine of metal working says this will be the first Christmas holiday since 1949 that demand for steel has not been so urgent that many mills worked right through.

For the week ended Dec. 19 production of ingots and casting hit a low for the year of 83.5 per cent of capacity. This compared with 85 per cent in the preceding week.

Orders for January are coming in slowly. One reason for the slack in booking first-quarter business, the magazine says, is that users, knowing they can get steel promptly, are reducing protective inventories built up in the past several years.

Great Bear lake in the northwest Territories has an area of about 12,000 square miles.

Postum helps millions whose sleep is disturbed by tea and coffee

If you toss and turn when you should be sleeping soundly — suffer irritability, upset nerves or digestion, or headaches resulting from these — here is a message which can be of real help to you.

Your trouble may be caffein—which is found in tea and coffee. We all know many people can drink tea and coffee without ill-effects. But there are many who cannot—caffein does them definite harm. YOU MAY BELONG IN THIS GROUP.

If so, try Postum for 30 days — drink it instead of tea and coffee. Then see if — long before 30 days are up — this relief from overstimulation does not help you to rest better at night, to feel brighter and happier in the daytime.

And you enjoy Postum! To millions of people, it is the favorite and most important drink. A fragrant, steaming beverage with a cheering full bodied flavor. It's very easy to prepare —made instantly in the cup — and costs you less than a cent a cup. Buy a jar at your grocer's now! A Product of General Foods.

POSTUM

THE CHILDREN'S FAVORITE!

Of course children should never drink tea or coffee. Give them Postum with hot milk. They love this drink — including children who don't like plain milk. And Postum-with-milk is good for them!

Canada's Mildest, Best-Tasting Cigarette

Canadian Reporter Visits Kremlin

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW (CP) — The guide puled back a dust cover. For a few minutes I saw at the desk of a councillor of the Supreme Soviet. We were in the Kremlin, in the hall of supreme council. My regular guide, provided by the state, had come along as interpreter. At the gate we were met by an army colonel. Inside an army captain took over as escort, with an impersonal blonde guide with a hole in the heel of her stocking.

For two hours we trudged through endless corridors, bedrooms, apartments, chapels and exhibits of the glories of ancient Russia. Finally, we reached the council hall, as close as Russia comes to matching the parliamentary institutions of the West.

OLD IMPERIAL PALACE

It is an impressive modern chamber seating 1,316 deputies who represent the 16 Soviet republics. The walls and ceilings are grey-white, the furnishings of highly polished walnut. It was formed by knocking out a partition between two great halls of a 19th-century wing of the Imperial palace and rebuilding the interior.

The only decoration is a life-sized statue of Lenin in the centre of the platform.

It is like an elaborate university lecture hall. The deputies sit like schoolboys in banks of four in the body of the hall. On the rostrum are two or three rows of seats for ministers and officials. In the centre of the stage is the stand from which speeches are made.

The guide said Prime Minister Georgi Malenkov has no special seat on the rostrum, and that individual deputies are not assigned special seats on the floor. Seating is by blocks; each republic is given a section and its members sit where they wish.

Deputies' desks are just large enought for taking notes on foolscap pads. Between each two desks there is a microphone. On a shelf under each desk is an earphone.

BOXES FOR DIPLOMATS

Boxes along the right side of the hall are for diplomats and distinguished visitors. Tow others, on either side of the public gallery across the back of the hall, are for the home and foreign press.

Besides being the home of Russia's "parliament," the hall is used for congresses of the Communist party, the trades unions and the Young Communist League.

The Kremlin, or "citadel" is an old fortress, beside the Moskva river, around which Moscow city grew. Within its walls, more than 2,000 yards long in roughly the shape of a triangle, the czars built successive additions to an ancient palace.

They lived there until Peter the Great moved the capital to St. Peterburg, now Leningrad, in 1703; thereafter came to Moscow only for their coronations and on state visits.

The 50 Kremlin buildings are mostly three storey's high, made of brick and stone and painted creamy yellow.

QUIET INNER SANCTUM

Visitors go first to Cathedral Square, from where Malenkov's office block is visible. The guide said Malenkov only works in the Kremlin, does not live there.

One is struck by the absence of traffic or people, other than guards in Russia's inner sanctum.

As we neared Cathedral Square I asked how many churches were there.

"Too many," said my guide. Actually there are eight but they have small interiors. Russian Orthodox architecture runs to roofs and cupolas above relatively little floor space.

The three I saw are covered from floor to ceiling with ikons-religious paintings on wood—and mural frescoes. All are well cared for and have central heating and air conditioning to protect their art treasures.

The guide effected not to know biblical stories and referred to the murals as illustrations of folk legends.

RESTORATION WORK

Much expert restoration has been going on in the cathedrals recently and some ikons have yielded as many as five successive layers of pictures before undreamed of 11th and 12th century paintings were uncovered.

The Kremlin museum is the repository of fabulous wealth in religious and state vestments and jewelry. The spectacle of mitres, jewelled crosses and robes of the patriarches; the czars' caps of state crowns, sceptores and orbs; the czars' robes and the diamond-encrusted harness of their horses, is staggering. The supertunica of one patriarch is said to weigh 80 pounds, including 22 pounds of pearls for decorations.

The museum also houses huge ugly pieces of gold and silver work brought by the ambassadors of Britain, France, The Netherlands, Denmark, Persia and Turkey as presents to the czars.

There is a better collection of armour here than I saw in the Tower of London.

THANKS, PAL—Young Terry Jagars and his cocker spaniel pal, Bunny, talk things over after police found them dripping wet and shivering on the bank of the Los Angeles River Flood Control Channel. "Bunny helped me out of the water," was all the boy could tell police officers, who theorized the three-year-old tot must have fallen into the deep water and the dog jumped in and dragged him to the bank. Terry's mother had reported him missing shortly before he was found, wetter and wiser.

Level Crossing Crashes Kill 7 Of 16

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Seven persons died in three level-crossing crashes in eastern Canada during the last weekend before Christmas.

Worst of the smashups was at St. Jean Port Joli, Que., where police said a taxi plowed head-on into a moving freight train at a crossing 50 miles northeast of Quebec, killing five young men and leaving two others in serious condition in hospital.

Level-crossing mishaps near Toronto and at Granby, Que., each took one life.

A Canadian Press compilation today listed 16 fatalities—nine in Quebec, four in Ontario and two in New Brunswick and one in Nova Scotia.

There were 11 traffic deaths, two in a fire and two drownings.

Killed in the St. Jean Port Joli crash were taxi driver Raymond Choinard, 24, and his brother, Marcel, 20, Guy Morneau, 24, and Jean-guy Belanger, 18, all of that community, and Jean-Guy Caron, 19, of Trois Saumons. Injured were Roger Caron, 18, brother of Jean-Guy, and Pierre Descehenes, 24, both of St. Jean.

The level-crossing accident in the Toronto suburb of Scarboro Junction killed Paul Derry, 3, and severely injured his father, Constable Norman Derry, 32, of Leaside, another suburb, and his sister, Diane, 8. Mrs. Derry was cut and bruised.

Angus Rood, 26, of Cardinal, was killed and Thomas Phillmore, 42, and William Colligan, 20, were injured when the car in which they were riding left the road and crashed into a tree near Morrisburg.

A similar accident at Whitby killed Harold F. Jenkins, 26, Oshawa theatre projectionist.

Hit by a car near Toronto, Ruth Eleanor Nutting, 31, was killed and her mother, Mrs. Edna Nutting, 58, injured.

Falling through thin ice led to the drowning of James Dugan, 13, at Hastings.

Canada's Trade Experts Favor Invasion Of United States

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canada's trade experts favor an "invasion" of the United States—a trade invasion by a growing army of salesmen and Canadian manufacturers.

The feeling among trade commissioners is that some Canadian producers and exporters are trying to gain U.S. markets by armchair tactics, rather than through personel and persistent scouting of the trade front.

The U.S. is Canada's biggest market. But the puzzler is that though Canada has a population of only 15,000,000, she continually buys far more than she sells to her southern neighbor with a population of 160,000,000.

This Canadian deficit in U.S. trade is growing. It reached about $600,000,000 in 1952 and likely will rise to more than $700,000,000 this year.

Canada-U.S. trade has been increasing, but the emphasis is more on the flow of U.S. goods into Canada. Exports to the U.S. are estimated to rise this year to about $2,500,000,000, up from $2,300,000,000 in 1952.

IMPORTS TO RISE

But imports from the U.S. are estimated to rise more than $3,200,000,000 from $2,900,000,000.

B. C. Butler, Canada's trade commissioner at Detroit, discusses this in a recent issue of the trade department's weekly magazine, Foreign Trade.

Mr. Butler says the answers are not easy to find, "because many Canadian products have never been offered in the U.S. market. We trade commissioners can suggest general categories of goods that might sell, but we rarely have offers from the actual Canadian producers to discuss with prospective buyers or their agents."

If Canada is to make a successful bid for a larger share of the U.S. market, more Canadian firms must get into the effort, Mr. Butler says.

Hope Message From Canada To Solve Yule Dilemma

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A Philadelphia couple hope that a message from Canada soon will help them out of an unhappy Christmas dilemma.

It began Friday when Mr. and Mrs. John D. Westhoff of suburban Westbrook Park bought a Christmas tree. Attached to it was a note in a childish scrawl:

"Dear Santa—I am a poor little orphan girl, age 12, and I would like to have for Christmas an angora hat and mitts set. Color red, if possible. Thank you, Santa. Love and kisses. Eva Hughes."

The writer gave her address as "Springfield, Kings Co., N.B., Canada."

ORGANIZED GIFT DRIVE

Then, because they wanted to "help a poor little girl have a happy Christmas, the Westhoffs organized a gift-raising campaign among the neighbors. Mrs. Westhoff bought the red angora hat and mittens.

But then the manager of the Philadelphia Better Business Bureau, Verner Gaggin, heard about the note and cautioned the Westhoffs that it might all be a hoax.

Repeated checks of similar letters in past years had been made, and none had ever proved legitimate, Gaggin said.

The bureau's chief investigator, George Conner, said such a "racket" has been going on for more than 20 years.

WORST TO COME

"Already 20 or 30 letters have been turned over to the bureau this year," he said, "and the worst is yet to come. Usually they are attached to the larger, more expensive trees in hopes someone of means or an organization will receive them and respond.

The Westhoffs are bewildered.

"We've got six or seven gifts now with another 10 or 15 coming," Westhoff explained. "Now I don't know what to do."

Mrs. Westhoff said "the whole thing has just about spoiled our Christmas."

Meanwhile, a neighbor of the Westhoffs, Thomas Waters, a contributor to the gift collection himself, decided to check. He called the RCMP at a New Brunswick post. Officials there said the notes are a common practice among children who live many miles from towns and rarely get an opportunity to see Santa. But they promised to investigate this particular case.

Cheering Crowd Of Tongans Wave Queen, Duke Goodbye

ABOARD S. S. GOTHIC (CP)—The Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh settled back again today into the easy-going routine of shipboard life after a long week-end of welcomes from the South Sea islanders of the Fiji and Tonga groups.

Next stop for the Royal couple on their six-month Commonwealth tour is New Zealand, where they are due Dec. 23. They will spend the Christmas holiday in Auckland.

The Queen and the duke left behind Sunday a cheering throng of Tonga natives, headed by six-foot-three Queen Salote, who followed this royal liner in an open launch to the harbor mouth to wave farewell. In return, the Queen and the duke threw floral garlands into the blue Pacific in the traditional South Sea gesture of farewell.

ATTENDED SERVICES

Before sailing, the royal couple attended services with Salote in the Free Wesleyan (Methodist) church at Nukualofa. Queen Elizabeth turned out in a white frock with a flower design and an emerald green hat. Salote had on a cream-colored creation. All the island women wore their Sunday best, covered by an apron of fine flax which Tongans wear as a mark of respect for important persons.

After the service, the royal party lunched at Salote's country estate, then drove to the lagoon where they boarded the Gothic.

On departure, the Queen issued an honor's list commemorating her stay in the Fijis. Two Fijian natives appear with Sir Ronald Garvey, the governor, and other senior officials.

The two Fijians will receive the Royal Victorian Medal for services to the Royal Family. They are Usaia Tiko, royal chauffeur during the tour and Ratu Rusiate Tauriiwau, the Queen's matanivanua (spokesman) at Fijian ceremonies.

Family Of 5 Lives In Murder House

LONDON (Reuters)—A family of five has moved into the six-room house in Notting Hill Gate where men and tucked their bodies un-John Christie murdered five wo-der the floor and behind closet wallboards there. The house had been vacant since March.

Now happily settling into the horror house are George Lawrence, 26, his blonde wife, Elsie, their daughter, Barbara, and two of her cousins aged seven and eight.

Mrs. Lawrence said the children were "thrilled" about living in the infamous house at No. 10 Rillington place.

Old-Time Flier Dies

MIDLAND (CP)—William (Daredevil) Landrigan, 58, reputed to have been the second flying man in history to change from one airplane to another while in flight, died Saturday. He entertained crowds with his flying stunts at fall fairs and other gatherings in Canada and the United States. Survivors include Mrs. E. R. Hayes of Niagara Falls, Ont., a sister.

Family Gassed

CHATHAM (CP)—A bird's nest in the wrong place knocked out four persons here Saturday. Bobby, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Pattison, collapsed and then Mrs. Pattison fainted. Later two others in the house took sick. The doctor advised checking the gas furnace. Mr. Pattison found a bird's nest plugging a vent and sending fumes through out the house.

Search For Motorist

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Provincial Police have launched a province-wide search for the motorist believed to have struck Donald Lutz, 55, of St. Catharines, on the Queen Elizabeth Way about 4 a.m. Sunday. Lutz was admitted to hospital with fractured pelvis and back and scalp cuts.

260 Left Homeless

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)—A fire which destroyed four buildings in Santiago Saturday night left 260 persons homeless. Twelve were injured including five children.

PETERBOROUGH EXAMINER

VOL. CVI. No. 297 MONDAY, DECEMBER 21, 1953

P. J. Anglesey To Head City Finance

Committee Heads Named At Informal Meeting

Ald. P. J. (Pat) Anglesey, who will become dean of the 1954 city council, is reported to be in line for the coveted senior post of chairman of the finance committee next year, succeeding Ald. T. D. Miller, who has held the position for the past three years but was defeated when he sought re-election this month.

Succeeding Ald. Anglesey as chairman of the board of works, considered the second most important council post, will be Ald. A. B. (Art) Burrows, whose chairmanship of the parks committee will be taken over by Ald. R. E. (Bob) Kr , it is understood.

It is also believed that Ald.-elect W. Gordon Powell will take over the chairmanship of the legal and reception committee, while Ald-elect S. H. (Stan) Mc Bride will become chairman of the welfare and plumbing committee. Ald Syd Black is this year's chairman of the legal and reception committee and Mayor-elect Norman Graham was chairman of the welfare and plumbing committee until he resigned from council in order to run for mayor. Ald. Black was also defeated when he sought re-election.

The other member of the 1953 council who met defeat this year, Ald. H. S. (Stan) Longhurst, will probably be succeeded by Ald. Gordon Farquharson as chairman of the property committee. The third newcomer to the 1954 council, Mrs. Alene Holt is not expected to be made chairman of any committee for at least a year.

KEEP POSITION

It has been predicted that Ald. W. J. Beggs will remain chairman of the sanitation committee, while Ald. J. A. Dewart will continue as chairman of the board of health and Ald. H. T. Rehill as chairman of the fire, water and light committee.

These are the appointments to which members of the 1954 council are believed to have agreed at a private caucus meeting on Friday. No member of the city hall staff was present and, if they had any information to divulge, they were not prepared to make it available to the press, even confidentially.

Mayor-elect Graham also remained mum as to what went on at the meeting except to say that proceedings had been agreeable. He would not disclose what agreements had been reached as to committee chairmanships. The Examiner's information came from an anonymous council source and is considered reliable.

The official appointments will not be made until the inaugural meeting of the 1954 council on January 4. No changes are expected, however, in the appointments to which council members are said to have informally agreed.

Next year's council will also be required to make appointments to other civic bodies. Three members are to be appointed to the board of governors of Civic Hospital for three-year terms, one to the Public Library board, four to the board of health (including two aldermen, the medical officer of health and one from outside council) and seven members to the civil defence committee.

Main Street Topics

FULL MOON HIDDEN

The last full moon of the year Sunday night was hidden by a heavy overcast of cloud that continued through the night into today.

COURT VACATION

No county court cases will be heard by Judge John de N. Kennedy from Dec. 24 to Jan. 6, both days inclusive. This is the annual Christmas vacation and is standard throughout the province.

ANNUAL TOURNEY

Peterborough high schools will participate in the annual YMCA basketball tournament December 28 and 29. Senior players from St. Peter's and PCVS will compete in the afternoons and an additional group from Kenner will play intermediate ball in the mornings.

CONGRATULATIONS

Mayor-elect Norman Graham has received a letter of congratulations from Mayor Allan A. Lamport of Toronto, who was re-elected to his third term as chief magistrate of the Queen City this month. Mr. Graham also received congratulatory letters from Senator J. J. Duffus and Gordon K. Fraser, MP for Peterborough.

SAFETY PARADE

A parade of wrecks led by Constable Don Mackay mounted on a public address equipped motorcycle, will herald the holiday safety drive beginning today. During the week, similar displays will be exhibited in an attempt to keep the public safety conscious and auto and fire accidents to a minimum.

HEREFORD'S LONG JAUNT

A pure-bred polled Hereford bull, a year-and-a-half-old, will be missing from Col. F. E. Birdsall herd at Rice Lake when Christmas comes. It set out on a long trip by truck to Sault Ste. Marie this morning. John N. King, a farmer from that western area of the province, arrived at Birdsall this morning, found the white-faced male he was looking for. The price appealed to both parties, and the young bull was off by jeep to his new home.

Falls 30 Feet Escapes Injury

Bill Weatherup, 281 Perry St., fell off the roof of a two storey house, hit the top of a car and bounced to the ground, but wasn't seriously enough hurt to be kept in hospital.

With two other men, he was putting up a television aerial at the home of Morris Duke, 81 Parkhill Rd. Sunday afternoon. He slipped and plunged into the laneway beside the house, hitting the back left corner of Duke's car in his fall.

This apparently broke the force of his plunge.

After a brief examination by Dr. Herbert N. Young, he was taken to hospital by Nisbett's ambulance. There he was X-rayed and allowed to go home.

Abenaki Chief Dies

OLD FORGE, N. Y. (AP)—The chief of Canada's Abenaki Indian tribe died at his home here Saturday night after a long illness. Jules Paul Dennis, 87, who ran a basket shop in this resort during summer months, had been a familiar figure in the Adirondacks more than 60 years. He was born on the St. Francis reservation, Odanak, Que.

Car, Garage Burned, Damage $600

Cigarette Butt Blamed For Fire Sunday

A smoldering cigarette butt is believed to have caused a fire early Sunday morning that destroyed a frame garage and a 1937 model car in a small lane, off Monaghan Road, between Sherbrooke and Bolivar Sts. Total damage was estimated by Fire Chief Bill Sorrie at $600, consisting of $300 for the garage and $300 for the car.

About 6:25 a.m. Sunday, Mel Byers, a Capitol taxi driver, was passing along Monaghan Road when he saw flames engulfing the small garage and car. Using the taxi radio, he reported the fire to the Capitol taxi despatcher, Wilf Gedge, who turned in the alarm to the fire department.

When the firemen arrived, the garage, owned by Mrs. A. E. Sheppard, 594 Sherbrooke St., and the car owned by Frank Hughes, 595 Bolivar St., was completely enveloped in flames and thick grey smoke. A southwest wind fanned the blaze, hindering firemen.

DANGER OF EXPLOSION

After 15 minutes, the firemen had the fire under control to the point where they could reach the trunk and rear bumper of Hughes, 595 Bolivar St., were heavy chain to the car and attempted to pull it out of the garage.

The firemen, about six of them, managed to get the car out about three feet but then the danger of the gas tank exploding forced them back. From a distance of 10 feet they poured water around the tank, gradually bringing it under control.

With the fire around the tank doused, the firemen moved in close once more, but by this time the fire was nearly out, leaving the garage only a blackened shell and the car a blistered, blackened wreck.

At the time of the fire, Mr. Hughes said he didn't know what could have caused the blaze. He said there wasn't a heater on in the garage and that everything was all right when he left the car at 2:30 a.m.

Chief Sorrie after investigating the fire early today blamed the blaze on careless cigarette smoking, believing that someone had left a cigarette butt in the car. He pointed out that Hughes had the car safety checked recently and that it was in good shape.

Re-Establish Relations

BELGRADE (AP) — Yugoslavia agreed today to re-establish diplomatic relations with neighboring Albania. Relations were broken off in 1949 during fierce campaign by Cominform countries against Yugoslavia following its break with Moscow in 1948.

Albania is the last of the cominform nations to agree to resumption of diplomatic relations.

CAR AND GARAGE DESTROYED—Fire gutted a small frame garage and a 1937 model car early Sunday morning causing $600 damage. The garage was owned by Mrs. A. E. Sheppard, 594 Sherbrooke St. and the car by Frank Hughes, 595 Bolivar St.; both were valued at $300 each. Chief Bill Sorrie blamed the fire on a carelessly placed cigarette butt. Firemen (above) pour water into the garage and car at the height of the fire. (Examiner Staff Photo)

Arnold Steele Renovates Store

After a complete renovation of the old Hamilton grocery store, Imperial Bank will move its offices there. The move is expected to be made in the spring, manager Ernest Trueman said today.

The new offices will have a modern front and interior, a 20-foot ceiling and interior dimensions of 25 by 90 feet. Arnold Steele has been named contractor and the firm fo Blackwell and Craig, architects.

The store which closed four months ago, is located between Water and George Sts. on Simcoe.

OBJECTIVE NOT ATTAINED

Only 57 per cent of the Peterborough TB Association fund drive objective has been reached, according to figures released Saturday. Funds subscribed so far have totalled $5,778.43. Objective of the drive which will continue until the end of February, is $10,000.

A. W. Archibald Prominent In Civic, Business Affairs

Alexander Woodburn Archibald, 652 Homewood Ave., plumbing contractor in Peterborough for nearly fifty years, died Sunday at Civic Hospital. He had been in gradually failing health for several years, and that illness took a turn for the worse in recent weeks. Mr. Archibald was born at Newmilns, Scotland, 72 years ago, son of William Archibald and his wife, Janet Woodburn. He came to Canada in 1906, and had lived here since then. He soon became prominent in construction work in Peterborough, and the thoroughness of his apprenticeship and early work in Scotland was demonstrated here. He built up a successful business and in 1914 formed a partnership with James W. Richmond as plumbing contractors. Mr. Archibald retired in 1945 and has been succeeded in the partnership at 389 Water St. by his son, William Archibald.

A. W. ARCHIBALD

Years ago as a resident of North Monaghan, actually on the township side of Monaghan Road, Mr. Archibald became interested in municipal affairs, was elected councillor and deputy-reeve, associated during part of that time with the late Harold B. Rye. That was a period in which the township was greatly concerned about the early thrust of the city toward the west and south across Monaghan's borders.

IMPROVED ROADS

Mr. Archibald was afterwards appointed to the Suburban Area Commission on which he served for years with J. A. Middleton and the late M. H. Gainey who was the city's representative. Many of the miles of improved roads radiating from the city were the work of their administration. Mr. Archibald was also actively interested in the Children's Aid Society. He was a member of the Peterborough Curling Club probably for 40 years, and played on a rink that went by the alphabetic name of ABCD: A. W. Archibald, Ray Best, W. D. Campbell and R. L. Dobbin. In the celebration of Burns Night by the Jolly Beggars Club Mr. Archibald was one of its prominent promoters.

In curling and also in township and county council affairs Mr. Archibald had won many friends during his active years. He was a member of St. Andrew's United Church and of Corinthian Lodge 101, A.F. & A.M.

Mr. Archibald leaves his wife who was Mary Barrie Young, his daughter Mrs. Roy P. Everett (Isabel), and sons John and William of Peterborough; and one sister, Mrs. Agnes Patterson of Philadelphia, Pa. The body is resting at Comstock's funeral home until Wednesday at 2 p.m. when the service will be conducted by Rev. Henry Cotton, of St. Andrew's Church. Burial will be at Little Lake cemetery.

QUITE A MESS! Thieves who broke into the T. Eaton Co. over the weekend left this hole in the floor. First they pulled up three planks on the second storey floor, and broke through the ceiling to gain entrance on the first floor. Discouraged by the drop however, they then broke through a steel door, eventually making their way downstairs and escaping with about $400 in cash and merchandise. (Examiner Staff Photo)

Thief Fails To Crack Eaton's Safe, Takes Goods, $140

A roof-hopping burglar, who forced his way into T. Eaton Company premises Saturday night made off with about $140 in cash, a .22 bore repeater rifle, a number of spinning reels, some flash lights and a pair of cheap binoculars, to a total value of $400. He managed to smash open a small fireproof record box and get the cash, but an attempt to force open the main vault proved fruitless. City police detectives were able to reconstruct his trail when they made investigations early Sunday morning. Using a rear fire escape he climbed to the roof of the McGillis hotel, crossed the A and P building to the roof of Eaton's main premises.

From there the burglar dropped down onto a partition roof between Eaton's and the old Taylor building (now part of Eaton's) and made his way to a rear balcony. He forced open a window, went down a flight of stairs connecting the second and third floors.

RIPPED UP FLOOR

Next he forced a door to gain access to the second floor, but it appears his goal was the appliances shop below. He ripped up a section of flooring but balked at the jump, finding it easier to smash a glass door and lever up a metal fire door, so getting into the general office.

To open the small fire vault the burglar knocked off the lock combination and removed the money. He tried the same process with the main vault, but beyond damaging the combination lock, his efforts were in vain.

Eaton's premises have been burgled twice previously, once in 1936 and again in 1941. On both occasions four men were arrested and sentenced to prison terms.

Manager of Eaton's, Herb Jamison told the Examiner today that fortunately money taken during Saturday had been banked. He makes a practice of banking every weekend and also every evening during the Christmas season.

Investigating the burglary are Inspector of Detectives William Clarke and Detective Doug. Farthing of the city force.

Utilities Gives CGE Co. New Gas Rate

The utilities commission have established a new rate of $1.40 a thousand cubic feet for gas to all customers who use a minimum of a million cubic feet a month.

Rates to customers who use less than this amount are: $2.50 for the first thousand cubic feet; $2.25 a thousand for the next 2,000; $2 for the next 97,000 and $1.65 for larger amounts. These are gross rates, on which a discount of 10 per cent is allowed for prompt payment. The $1.40 rate is net, requiring prompt payment.

Only one customer, CGE will derive immediate benefit from the new rate, as it is the only one at present using more than a million cubic feet of gas a month. The intention of the company to install their own gas making facilities was the reason given by the commission for setting the new rate.

With the establishment of the lower rate, CGE have agreed to continue buying gas from the utilities commission, instead of installing their own equipment.

After being informed by R. T. Bogle, works manager of CGE, that the company was considering installing their own gas-making facilities, General Manager W. Howard Powell pointed out to the commission that the company would realize a saving by using liquid propane for metal-cutting. Mr. Powell also explained that the basis of this saving would justify CGE installing a bulk propane plant to supply all gas required at their Peterborough works.

At the same time, Mr. Powell pointed out to the commission that for a small expenditure, bulk propane in small quantities for cutting gas could be supplied to CGE by an independent supplier, while the PUC could continue supplying gas for ovens and heat treatment, at an almost equivalent annual saving.

The gas department of the utilities commission used 47,133 gallons of propane in gas making last month, a decrease of one per cent from November, although there were 7,312,000 cubic feet of gas made, an increased of 7.6 per cent over the same month last year, and 29,419 gallons of gas were bottled in November of this year, an increase of 21.4 per cent over the same month last year.

Drowned In River Hastings Boy Buried

May Recall United Nations Earlier Over Korea Issue

By WALTER O'HEARN

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — The General Assembly may be recalled to discuss Korea earlier in the new year than anybody suspects. But as of now, the world organization is in the doldrums.

One exception: the Tass office here is shut tight as a drum. One or two people are still holding that well-guarded fort.

Tass 'telegraphic agency of the USSR) sends its legions of heavy-shouldered oddly garbed characters here when the Assembly is on, or at any other time when the Russians are souding off.

In manner as well as in costume, they take their cue from their senior or the Soviet delegation. When Andrei Vishinsky "fraternizes," the Russian press contingent becomes almost embarrassingly friendly. Comes a change in the line and they turn stone-faced, with an occasional weak smile from the more professional genial.

Where they bestow themselves for a large part of the year is anybody's guess — probably at the main Tass branch in New York. In any case they usually bolt the U.N. as soon as business slows down. The big American British and French news agencies keep full staff, or reasonably full staff here the year round. So do a number of leading newspapers.

But not Tass. Heaven and the world's monitoring services alone can tell what they file, but they appear to cover only hot political and propaganda items. At other times, the locked door in Agency Row stands as a grim reminder of the different Soviet way of doing things.

VISHINSKY GENIAL

Not having been about the premises recently when certain crucial issues were decided, this reporter cannot tell what the Tass "line" has been in the corridors. It was extravagantly social during most of the recent 8th Assembly Even after Andrei Vishinsky dropped his comparative moderation and began gnashing his teeth again in public, it continued so. Of course Vishinsky himself continued to be genial in his private encounters with other delegates.

But will this continue. Mr. Vishinsky's most recent speech, uttered in the Security Council on Monday, seemed to mark another backward step into the old mixture of slander and myth. The council was chewing again on the old chestnut of Trieste.

The well-intended but perhaps not brilliantly conceived Trieste proposals of the Western powers were denounced by the Soviet spokesman as "aggressive."

measures for the preparation of a new war.

They had been planned by "reactionary circles" in the West and especially in the United States, Vishinsky charged. And so on and so forth.

The Council yawned and voted to postpone the whole issue. But not before Vishinsky had been able to read into the record another of those savage monologues which pass for diplomatic utterance.

It should also be pointed out that in the pecular lexicon of Soviet abuse "reactionary circles" is even a harder blow than "ruling circles," which is the favorite Soviet description of leading figures in industry and Government.

Which reminds one of the fact that Henry Ford, the second, certainly a leader in industry, was a delegate to the recent Assembly. As a guest at a correspondents' luncheon, Mr. Ford was asked if he had much contract with the "ruling circles" of the Soviet Regime.

1950 SCHEME

He replied that back in 1950 he and four other industrialists contacted Jacob Malik of the U.S.S.R. in an attempt to ease international tensions.

The meeting, arranged through a Quaker group, reached a solid point when the Americans suggested a system of exchanges—not merely exchange fellowships for students, but exchanges of doctors, technicians, workers on a number of levels. Ten Americans in each category to live and work with the Soviets; ten Soviets in corresponding occupations to live for the same period in the United States.

The idea broke down, he added, when Malik said it couldn't possibly be done—the Soviets didn't have the proper hotel accommodation for these "guests."

This story illustrates, of course, the fact that the rulers of Russia don't even understand the bassis of an arrangement which has worked wonders between the United States and Britain. That basis is that the newcomer is not a "guest" but really lives the life of the people around him.

It also suggests, as it did to Mr. Ford, that the Soviets weren't really interested in a practical plan to relieve tensions.

It demonstrates further that the "ruling circles" of the West were anxious to reduce the war-like atmosphere at a time when they were being reviled by Russian orators for every imagined crime under the sun.

TROUBLE—Indo-China faces another crisis with the threatened resignation of Premier Nguyen Van Tam, of Viet Nam. The crisis arises from Nguyen's demands for an inquiry into recent Communist Viet Minh peace feelers, even though they are thought to be a trap.

Young Drivers

MONCTON, N.B. (CP)—The Maritime Automobile Association presented a dual-control car to the high school here for regular driving lessons to students, in the belief that drivers should be taught as early as possible. A similar car is in use at Saint John where vocational school pupils are taught highway safety.

Senator Burke Dies In Nfld.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Senator Vincent P. Burke, 75, died here Saturday. He had been ill for two years.

He was appointed to the Senate in 1950 when Newfoundland entered Confederation. His widow and a daughter survive.

Senator Burke was born at St. Jacques, Nfld. One of Newfoundland's most prominent educationists, he was principal of Torbay high school and superintendent of Roman Catholic schools before becoming deputy minister of education in 1920. He held the latter post for seven years.

The death of Senator Burke, a Liberal, leaves the standing in the upper chamber at 80 Liberals, and 14 vacancies.

CLIMB TO FREEDOM—Kim Mun Do (left) has his release forms checked by Indian Maj. S. V. Jadhav (right) at Panmunjom, Korea. Kim climbed a barbed wire fence to escape from a Communist PoW camp. New Headache For Eisenhower

Must Take Stronger Hand In Asia—Nixon

By RUSSELL BRINES

WASHINGTON (AP)—Vice-President Richard Nixon came back from Asia with a prize election-year headache for President Eisenhower.

Nixon found, on his 45,000-mile world tour, that the United States may have to spend more money and take a stronger hand in Asian affairs to prevent further Communist gains.

This is sad news for an administration trying to pare expenditures before next November's important congressional elections.

But Nixon brought word, for example, that a far-reaching decision may have to be made in order to save Indo-China, gateway to rich southeast Asia—the really important goal of Communist military aggression in Asia.

BITTER CHOICE

The choice, which may have to be made before next November, is this: Whether to go all-out in backing the French, with more arms and possibly even military forces, in order to keep them in their bitter seven-years' war or whether to support growing Paris demands for a Korean-style negotiated truce. This would risk losing the peninsula politically to the Communists.

A second basic decision may have to be made next year. The question is whether to add vital Pakistan to the armed powers linked to the United States, through a new military aid program, or to bow to violent objections raised by India's Prime Minister Nehru. Either choice means a change of policy.

The administration probably faces criticism no matter what it does on these problems, and particularly if it does nothing.

MUST STRENGTHEN POLICY

Nixon further saw the need for a complete review and strengthening of American Asiatic policy.

The truth is that after thousands of lives and billions of dollars, the Allied powers have erected, in many parts of Asia, only a house of cards that the Communists can blow down almost at will.

Politically, there is no over-all leadership. Free Asia is in danger of splitting into quarrelling fragments, ripe for Communist plucking.

Young Florists

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Three hundred and fifty white narcissus bulbs have been distributed to pupils in grades 1 to 4 of city schools by the St. John's Gardening Association. John Newland, president of the gardeners' group, said the schools appreciated the gift which would give children experience in growing their own flowers.

No End In Sight To War After 7 Years In Indo-China

By LARRY ALLEN

HANOI, Indo-China (AP) — The bitter, savage war in Indo-China entered its eighth year Sunday still with no definite end in sight.

There is a faint hope the Communist rebels will seek to end the war by negotiation. But even if they don't, the French high command here thinks another two years may see the end.

The French count on the rising power of fledgling armies in the three associated states of Indo-China—Viet Nam, Cambodia and Laos.

Until then, the French expeditionary corps is pledged to fight alongside loyal Indo-Chinese against the soldiers of Moscow-trained Ho Chi Minh.

In the next 48 months, American-supplied French and Indo-Chinese troops hope to rack up one victory after another against the Vietminh.

KEEP ATTACKING

Right now, there's a standing order of the day from Gen. Henri-Eugene Navarre, French commander-in-chief, and Gen. Rene Cogny, commander in northern Indo-China, to all French Union troops. It's simply: "Attack, attack and attack, wherever the Vietminh may be found."

The French Union forces are expected, among other things, to drive into the heart of Vietminh territory in northern Indo-China up to the border with Communist China. If they do, they should be able to seal off the border and stop the war aid being delivered to Ho Chi Minh by the Red Chinese.

The French figure this action would clinch victory. The Reds can't fight long after their chief source of war supply is blocked off.

But this is merely a dream and a hope. For progress is whipping the Vietminh—if it can be called that—seems incredibly slow. There has never been a real victory on either side.

There's always the possibility, of course, that the Indo-China war can be finished by negotiation. There's no doubt the French would like to pull out. French Premier Joseph Laniel says France is prepared to seize any chance for making peace by negotiation.

SOURCE OF WORRY

There are more than 10,000 Red Chinese military advisers, technicians and communications experts with the Vietminh. But the chinese have not supplied either "volunteer" or regular troops to help Ho Chi Minh.

It's always possible, however, and it worries the French high command.

The high command admits the French and loyal Indo-Chinese troops could not hold out more than three to four weeks against a combined Chinese-Vietminh assault.

The United Nations would have to step in with armed forces if Indo-China, key bulwark against Communist aggression in southeast Asia, were to be held.

The war here already has cost more than $10,000,000,000. Of this, France has spent about $6,000,000,000. The United States has contributed about $500,000,000 in equipment. The American foreign operations administration has spent $102,000,000 for economic and technical aid to Indo-Chinese states.

An estimated 500,000 people have been uprooted from their homes in northern Indo-China. Most of them fled south to zones controlled by the French.

Today the Communists occupy most of the territory of the state of Viet Nam.

The French union bastion is the Red river delta. It's a wedge-shaped, 400-mile perimeter, ringed by more than 1,200 reinforced concrete forts, and it embraces the cities of Hanoi and Haiphont, the latter a key point of entry for American war equipment.

Today there are more Vietminh rebels than ever roaming the 100,000 villages and settlements of the rich, rice-growing delta where 7,500,000 Viet Namese live. They are constantly sabotaging French lines of communication, raiding villages and seizing rice supplies. They kidnap young Viet Namese and impress them into Ho Chi Minh's armies.

Until these are wiped out, the delta can never be secure. But the Vietminh, to win the war, must capture the Red river delta. The French say that will never happen.

Canadian Children Prefer Dolls, Trains To Rockets

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

If children's choice of toys were indicative of Canada's future, it would be a country of engineers and mothers.

A Canadian Press survey shows that this Christmas from the Maritimes to B. C., boys want electric trains and girls want dolls.

The $40,000,000 worth of toys, gadgets and gimmicks that Canadian manufacturers turned out in 1953 proves they like other things, too. But trains and dolls come first.

Toronto, Edmonton and Calgary were the only centres reporting large demands for space-travel gear. In Montreal toy rocket ships, space suits and the like were moving slowly. Children in Regina, Quebec City and Saint John, N. B., showed little inclination to visit the planets.

Vancouver youngsters were staying in the saddle with cowboy guns and holsters selling "way ahead" of space toys.

GOOD DOLLS SELL WELL

The popular price for a "good doll" was $5, but West and East reported high-priced dolls selling faster than last year.

One Vancouver store declared it "the biggest year ever for high-priced dolls" and expected a sell-out on those priced at $25 to $49. In Toronto prices ranged from a few cents to $80 for huge imported Italian dolls.

Popular were walking dolls and those with certain features that all but the most devoted mother would find a bit of a nuisance—such as tears and hair to be curled.

There was nation-wide concern over inroads made by imported toys.

PROTEST JAP IMPORTS

W. J. Cannon of Canadian Playthings Manufacturers, Inc., Toronto, said: "The Japanese, especially, have been dumping merchandise on the Canadian market. We plan a formal protest to the federal government."

Mr. Cannon said he cannot obtain import figures from Ottawa concerning foreign toys.

A Calgary store said prices were down on some types of toys because of imports from Britain, Germany and Japan. A toyland spokesman in Vancouver said Japanese toys were "expertly made compared with cheap pre-war items."

Better plastic items were lauded by salesmen in many areas. The new plastics have more stamina to withstand Junior's onslaughts.

Toy soldiers have lost popularity but Toronto, Edmonton and Calgary reported lead regiments available.

"BIRD" CLIMBS WALLS

A new type of toy bird with a wheel of suction cups on its underside is on the market for the first time in Canada. The bird climbs up walls and ceilings—if they are coated with a non-porous material.

Scrabble, a combination of crossword puzzle and anagram, is enjoying a vogue. Hobby toys and educational toys were also in demand.

In retail sales of any toys, domestic, or foreign, Toronto ranks first with "a healthy lead over Montreal" but volume figures were not available.

Council Passes Two Resolutions

TIMMINS (CP)—An emergency meeting of Timmins town council Saturday passed two resolutions dealing with unemployment in district gold mines.

One resolution is aimed at trying to bring together officials of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL) and representatives of eight companies whose employees are on strike.

The other, addressed to Prime Minister St. Laurent and Labor Minister Milton Gregg, calls attention to the plight of employees of Paymaster mines laid off by the closing of the mine and denied unemployment insurance benefits.

The Hollinger resolution gave Mayor J. W. Spooner authority to call the disputing parties together locally in an effort to resume negotiations halted last week when mine officials rejected a settlement proposed by Labor Minister Daley of Ontario.

Hollinger, employing some 1,500, is the largest strike-bound mine in the area where workers have been out since Sept. 24.

Calgary Sports Editor Robert Mamini Dies

CALGARY (CP) — Robert Mamini, sports editor of the Calgary Herald for 14 years until his retirement a year ago, died Saturday. He was 47.

Mr. Mamini, son of an Italian naval officer, joined the Herald staff as an office boy in 1923. Three years later he began his writing career in the dual capacity of sports reporter and police court reporter. He was appointed sports editor in 1939.

His last story was written Oct. 25, 1952, when he reported the Western Conference football semi-final game between Edmonton Eskimos and Calgary Stampeders.

He was admitted to an Edmonton hospital soon after the game, and underwent surgery there before returning to Calgary.

Hold Christmas Party For Sunday School

BETHANY (ENS)—The United Church Sunday school held their Christmas party on Friday evening in the Sunday school room.

Mr. A. H. Monk was chairman for the program which included a motion song by members of the primary class; recitations by Jane Fallis and Ray Porteous; piano solo by Leone Jordan.

Murray Henderson sang a solo; Miss Marie Carr and Miss Catharine Newell sang two duets. Harry Preston and Mrs. Wellington Fallis sang a duet. Mrs. Clarence Rowan gave a reading. Mrs. H. Carr told a story. The Misses Gayle and Phyllis Bristow sang a duet.

Lunch was served and each child received a gift.

LOL Elect Officers

BETHANY (ENS)—The Ladies' Orange Lodge elected officers for 1954.

The following new officers for 1954 were installed: Worthy Mistress, Mary Edwards; Past Mistress, Hilda Bigelow; deputy mistress, Mary Finney; junior deputy, Ora Palmer; senior lecturer, Betha Ferren; junior lecturer, Violet Phillips; director of ceremonies, Belle Smith; chaplain, Doreen Clark; treasurer, Hazel Malcolmson; financial secretary, Marjory Murrie; recording secretary, Margaret Whitnall; guardian, Robert Read; inner guard, Mildred Bristow; outer guard, Ina Palmer; pianist, Ruby Reynolds; sick and visiting committee, Violet Phillips, Hilda Bigelow, Ruby Reynolds; first, second and third committee, Vera Smith, Jean Murrie, Myrtle Robinson, Mildred Edgerton and Bertha McGill.

Donate $250 To Band

STIRLING (ENS) — The sum of $250 was donated to Stirling Citizens band by the village council.

A $50 donation was made to the merchants' branch of the Chamber of Commerce to assist with the expenses of Santa Claus' visit on Monday.

TO TELL THE TOOTH I expect to get some more a little later on but as I told my mother it isn't every five-weeks-old lady who has one tooth. If you don't believe it's real, come around and I'll bite you, to prove it.

India Worried About Aid Plan

TORONTO (CP)—The Daily Star in a New Delhi Dispatch Saturday quoted Prime Minister Nehru of India as saying that Pakistan might consider United States aid as "a weapon against India."

"Many in India," Nehru is quoted as saying in an interview, "are concerned at the possibility of U.S. military aid to Pakistan because they feel that while the U.S. may regard this as a defence against communism, Pakistan may consider it a weapon against India."

The story adds that Nehru said such military aid would be a provocation to Communist China and "to some extent would mean one of the two giants which are in conflict in the world today had set foot on the Indian subcontinent.

Wins Story Contest

TORONTO (CP) — New Liberty magazine announced "The Screaming Silence," by Joyce Marshall of Toronto, as the winner of its 1953 Canadian short story contest. Miss Marshall, whose novel "Presently Tomorrow," was published in 1946, won $600.

Friends Donate Home To Fire Victims

CLANDEBOYE (CP)—Kurt Gebel and his family, burned out of their farm home near here Dec. 16, have a new home.

Residents of nearby Lucan moved a sugar-beet worker's house onto the Gebel property for the family and a chicken house to store any furniture that may be donated. A fund is being started to provide further help.

The two Gebel children, Erwin, 3, and Marianna, 2, were rescued from the burning house by Mal Fowler, a circulation driver for the London Free Press. The Gebels came from Germany three years ago after escaping from behind the Iron Curtain. They saved only a few blankets and clothes from the fire.

Post Office Destroyed

MUNRO (CP)—Fire early today destroyed the combined post office and general store in this centre 30 miles north of London. William H. Stevenson, proprietor, said a few Christmas cards were lost but most of the mail had been distributed earlier. He estimated damage at about $20,000.

South Africa Seen Drawing Away From UN

By JOHN WORRALL

CAPE TOWN — The view is taken here that the South African government's decision to withdraw from the three most important non-political United Nations bodies—the Food and Agriculture Organization, the World Health Organization and the Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization—may herald a total withdrawal from the United Nations.

For some months past the government of Dr. Daniel F. Malan has been infuriated with what it calls continued intervention by the United Nations in South African internal affairs, such as the Indian question, the South-West African mandate affair and the question of apartheid (racial segregation) which was recently the subject of a special committee report.

The decision to leave the three bodies was taken some time ago. Its implementation, however, has been delayed because it is understood that certain members of the cabinet were not in agreement, and hoped to get the decision changed. Economy is the reason put forward for the government's decision — a saving of £83,000 sterling a year.

Scientific, educational and health bodies in the Union — and all over the world—are likely to be critical of South Africa's decision to sever its connection with the humanitarian work of these organizations, a decision which also implies that the Union will lose the benefits of belonging to them.

The Union government has announced that it will not cooperate with any of the three committees set up this year to deal with South African questions. These are: the committee to negotiate with the Union on the South-West African mandate question; the good offices committee to promote understanding between South Africa, India and Pakistan about the treatment of the Indian minority in the Union and the commission of inquiry into the race situation in the Union. The Union government maintains that these are matters of domestic jurisdiction and that the United Nations has no mandate to interfere in any of them.

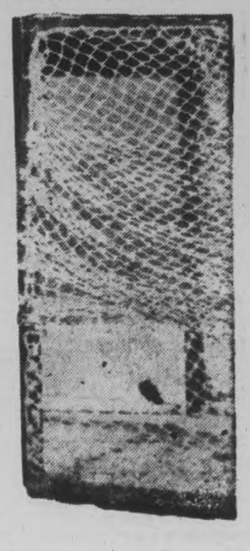
I Remember

how Morenz could score!

BY TOMMY SHIELDS

TOMMY SHIELDS—Played amateur and professional lacrosse and hockey. Member of Grey Cup broadcast team for many years. Sports editor of Ottawa Citizen.



"It was a National Hockey League game played in Ottawa during the 1929-30 season, when Montreal Canadiens and Ottawa Senators were locked in a two-all tie at full time. In the sudden-death overtime period, the great Howie Morenz circled his own net, streaked up right wing, crossed over as he neared the Ottawa defence and scored with a blazing twenty-foot shot without having an opposition stick laid on him. It was a typical 'Morenz Special'."

REBUILD HISTORIC PLANE—A plane, copied from Louis Bleriot's famous aircraft, which in 1909 was the first to fly across the English Channel, soars above Calgary airport at 45 miles an hour. Pilot Franz McTavish cruises at 400 feet in the plane built by aeronautics instructor S. N. Green and his students at Calgary's Provincial Institute of Technology and Art. It weighs 554 pounds and can stay aloft 45 minutes at speeds of 38 to 45 miles an hour.

Replica Of Historic Plane Weighs 554 Pounds Can Stay Aloft 45 Minutes

CALGARY (CP)—In 1909 Louis Bleriot, famous French airman, made history by flying across the English channel. His 600-pound monoplane made the 31-mile trip in 37 minutes.

Late in November a model along the lines of the Frenchman's light plane, built by students at the Provincial Institute of Technology and Art, circled Calgary airport for 25 minutes in a test flight.

Weighing 554 pounds, the fragile craft carries enough fuel to keep it aloft 45 minutes with a speed ranging from 38 to 45 miles an hour.

The Calgary plane is the brain child of S. N. Green, engineer in charge of aeronautics at the institute, and of Franz McTavish, commercial pilot and owner of Chinook Flying Service here, who supplied the materials.

WIDE SEARCH

Once Mr. Green decided to go ahead with the project, it took two years to acquire sufficient information to complete it. A manual in a second-hand bookstore in Charlottetown, Mass., finally provided actual plans of the pioneer plane.

Work began in November, 1952. The builders were aided by pictures and other information supplied by L. A. Jackson of Biggleswade, England, owner of the only Bleriot in existence other than the original which now is in a Paris museum.

When the plane was completed early in November, some 30 students at the institute had had a hand in its construction. Only the 40-horsepower engine, the nuts and bolts used in assembly and the propeller were not hand-made. The original had a 22-horsepower engine.

The test flights were made by Mr. McTavish, veteran of 7,000 flying hours who had no previous experience with such a plane. He began flying in 1937 at London, Ont., served six years with the RCAF and then came to Calgary in 1945.

WOODEN FUSELAGE

Glossy-finished hickory, sitka spruce and birch make up the main body of the plane. It has spoked wheels, the front pair having a 26-inch diameter and being 2½ inches across while the rear wheel is 20 by 2¼.

Mr. Green's initiation into aircraft building came in the 1920s at the RCAF's old forestry patrol station at High River in southern Alberta. There he helped build now obsolete DH4S.

"I got the idea of building the Bleriot years ago," he said. Now he plans to renew his own pilot's licence and hopes to reconstruct another of the old-time planes, an early bi-plane.

Road To Jerusalem Today Would Be Journey To Death

By ERIC GOTTGETREU

JERUSALEM (AP)—Joseph and Mary would face death if they tried to journey from Nazareth to Jerusalem today.

Sliced through the grey hills and fertile plains of Palestine is a no-man's land between Israel and Jordan, filled with mine-fields, rusted barbed wire and the rubble of wrecked buildings.

Joseph and Mary "went up from Galilee, from the city of Nazareth, to Judea, to the city of David, which is called Bethlehem."

Nazareth is on Israel's side of today's war front. Bethlehem is in Arab territory.

From Nazareth to Bethlehem, the direct route strikes south through the biblical Plain of Esdraelon, scene of many historic battles. There would have taken them south to Jerusalem.

The traditional route of Joseph and Mary from Jerusalem to Bethlehem also was taken by the magi and by crusaders and other Christians through the centuries. Today, anyone who tried to use it would be shot on sight by grim-faced soldiers of either side.

TRADITION HONORED

There is one exception. By a quirk of international politics it is opened once a year to a few men. They are diplomatic consuls representing many nations. Tradition is honored when the consuls attend Christmas services at Bethlehem. But only consuls can go by the traditional route. The privilege is not granted to ambassadors, ministers or anyone else.

No sensible man today would attempt to make the journey from Nazareth to Jerusalem with his wife and a donkey by the traditional Christmas route. However, by other routes he would reach Jerusalem—the new city. The old city and Bethlehem would stil be across the barrier.

Last Christmas the Christians of Galilee tried to attend Christmas services at Bethlehem. Some 10,000 of them asked to go. With the backing of United Nations truce teams, about 3,000 of them made the trip. No one family could send more than one person.

They were herded to Bethlehem, allowed to take nothing with them except the clothes they wore. They attended Christmas services and then were herded out of the city the morning after Christmas day.

ALL ROOMS BOOKED

Observers said most of them made the trip to see relatives from whom they had been separated by the Arab-Jewish war.

Joseph and Mary might find much that was familiar if they were able to reach Bethlehem from Galilee today. Many people on the streets of Bethlehem were the same style of clothing used at the beginning of the Christian era. Many of the houses are old and scarcely different from those Joseph and Mary knew.

One thing would certainly be the same. There would be no room at the inn. Most of the good hostels are on the Israeli side of the line. Available rooms in Bethlehem and old Jerusalem have been booked since last summer.

Attendance Averages 94.7 Per Cent

HAVELOCK (ENS)—The Norwood District High school board met Wednesday with all members present except Fred Richardson of Percy township who has tendered his resignation.

The board was advised by the county clerk that Gerald Buchanan of Havelock had been re-appointed as the county's representative on the board for 1954.

Notification was received from public school inspector K. O. Birkin that the November average attendance for Havelock public school is 156 and Norwood public school 223.

Replies received from the municipalities of Asphodel, Otonabee, Dummer, Percy and Havelock, all approving, except Asphodel, of the board using grants on the debentures to reduce maintenance cost.

The secretary-treasurer was instructed to dispose of the department debenture grant in accordance with communications from the department of education, the county council and the majority of the municipalities of the district. The grant will be used on debentures to reduce the levy on school maintenance effective 1954.

R. A. Dean of Norwood was appointed to audit the 1953 financial records.

Principal J. H. Caskey reported the high school commencement held recently had been a big success. Approximately 600 persons had attended each night. He gave the enrolment for the school as 268 with the attendance in each grade as follows: Nine, 113; 10, 87; 11, 39; 12, 16; 13, 13.

The average November attendance was 252.3, the percentage 94.7. The school had been open 20 days in November and one fire drill had been held. The buses all operated on time. Mr. Caskey gave the sales at the cafe as $467.54 with purchases of $325.67 and a net profit of $126.40.

Mr. Caskey also stated he had received a letter from G. L. Gray, high school inspector, which commented most favorably on the meeting held November 27 between the public and high school staffs with the public school, separate school and high school inspectors.

Mr. Buck reported that the circulating pump and water valve required attention. The matter was left with Mr. Buck to arrange repairs.

The ventilation in the auditorium of the school was said to be in poor condition and the secretary was instructed to write Mr. Roberts the architect regarding the same.

Before closing the meeting chairman Hamblin expressed thanks and appreciation to the board for their interest and support throughout the year in which much had been accomplished.

A resolution was adopted commending the secretary-treasurer, H. W. Roche, for the manner in which he had performed his duties during the year and for which Mr. Roche thanked the board.

Accounts of approximately $8,000 were passed.

The meeting adjourned until January 2.

HOME FOR CHRISTMAS—Mrs. John Brown, released on $5,000 bail on a murder charge, is reunited in Vancouver with her husband who quit his job in northern British Columbia to be with her. Mrs. Brown is charged with the fatal shooting in Mission, B.C., of Ollie Johnston who she said was "bothering her." Her release on bail on a murder charge is the first approved in British Columbia courts in nine years.

Fire Loss $100,000

Lives In Bottle For Year, Has Enough

LINZ, Austria (Reuters)—Rayo, the 53-year-old fakir who has lived for one year and one week in a huge bottle, Sunday smashed his way out of his glass house with a hammer.

Watched by a crowd of thousands, Rayo tottered out of the bottle in which he has toured more than 100 European towns in the last year, and was taken in an ambulance to his home near here.

A medical checkup showed that Rayo, whose real name is Rudolph Schmied, was in good shape, though his sight had deteriorated through partial atrophy of the visual nerve.

14 SNAKES DIED

He lived on fruit juices, vitamin tablets and fruit. His only companions were 14 snakes but these died one after another including a three-foot long poisonous Syrian snake which had been his companion for years.

Rayo spent his day sleeping six hours on an air-filled mattress with the bottle on its side and staying awake for six hours alternately.

He said his object was purely scientific; to experiment in living on vitamin tablets, to try feeding himself through the skin by oil massage, to carry out yoga to induce "artificial hibernation and keep fit under these conditions by yoga and breathing exercises."

Rayo lost about 66 pounds during his year in the bottle.

Slav PoWs Returned

BELGRADE (Reuters)—Twenty Yugoslav citizens have been returned home after being held for more than eight years as prisoners-of-war in Russia and Hungary, Belgrade radio said Sunday. Some of them said they believed they were freed because of the demonstrations they staged Oct. 8 to demand repatriation. Hungarian guards opened fire and killed five prisoners during the demonstrations, they said.

8th Bond Series Sale Ends Dec. 31

OTTAWA (CP)—Sales of eighth series Canada savings bonds will be terminated Dec. 31, Finance Minister Abbott announced Sunday.

Applications made prior to Dec. 31 under deferred payment plans are not affected.

"The record sale of the eighth series—now in excess of $860,000,000—is highly gratifying," Mr. Abbott said in a statement.

"While it has been the case in past series that bonds have remained on sale until Aug. 31 of the following year, experience has shown that approximately 90 per cent of the sales have been made by Dec. 31."

Hepburn, Ferrer Top Film Stars

NEW YORK (AP)—Audrey Hepburn and Jose Ferrer were named top movie stars of the year in the annual poll of critics by the trade publication Film Daily.

Miss Hepburn, a screen newcomer, was also labelled top "find" of the year because of her performance in "Roman Holiday." Ferrer was cited for his acting in "Moulin Rouge."

Citations for best supporting performances went to Crooner Frank Sinatra for his straight dramatic role in "From Here to Eternity" and to Gloria Grahame for her portrayal in "The Bad and the Beautiful."

Fred Zinnermann won the nod for the ablest directing and Daniel Taradash for the best screen writing, both for "From Here to Eternity."

One Of 10 Stalin Peace Prizes Awarded To U.S. Novelist Fast

MOSCOW (AP) — Pravda announced today the award of 10 international Stalin Peace Prizes including one to American novelist Howard Fast.

The announcement came on the 74th anniversary of the birthday of Stalin who established the award in 1950.

An editorial in the official Communist newspaper lauded this year's recipients as "outstanding fighters for peace." The pictures of all 10 including Fast, French parliamentarian Pierre Cot and Professor John Bernal of the University of London appeared on Pravda's front page.

Fast was lauded as "a talented American author and courageous fighter for ideals whose writings are known over the whole world, who in an atmosphere of persecution remains true to his ideals of defending the rights of man, who represents the true progressive America which has nothing in common with the America of the reactionaries."

CRITICIZED GOVERNMENT

Bernal was described as "a progressive scientist who wants the achievements of science to serve human progress and peace." He has criticized the British government for spending vast sums on scientific weapons he said would be turned against the Soviet Union.

Cot was called "a patriot serving France."

Another recipient described as Andrea Gaggero, an Italian priest, who was defrocked last May for Communist activities, was hailed as "a selfless and active defender of the interests of the simple people of Italy." He allegedly defied a Vatican ban to attend a Warsaw meeting of the Partisans of Peace and "is now suffering persecution for it," Pravda said.

FAST FLATTERED

(In New York, Fast termed the prize "the highest honor that can be conferred to any person in these times." He hoped it would "contribute to the struggle for peace and that it may help to prove that between our country and all other countries there can be understanding, peaceful intercourse and mutual respect.")

The six other winners are Chilean author Pablo Neruda; Swedish physician Andrea Andreen, chief medical officer of the Stockholm clinical laboratory; Belgian Deputy Isabelle Blume; Prof. Singh Sokhey, member of the Indian Parliament and chairman of the World Health Organization's plague committee; Polish author Leon Kruchkowski and Nina Vasilyevna Popova, secretary of the Soviet central council of trade unions.

Rare Bird Sighted

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP)—A harlequin duck, a feathered friend who usually sticks pretty close to the Arctic, was spotted on Lake Ontario Sunday by a group of ornithologists here. The species has been seen here only twice previsouly—once in 1907 and again in 1941. The harlequin summers in the Arctic and rarely ventures out of Canada.

Won't Grant Bases To U.S.-Pakistan

KARACHI (Reuters) — Pakistan has told Russia she has no intention of granting military bases to the United States.

A note handed to the Soviet ambassador here replied to a Russian note last month requesting "clarification" of reports that Pakistan might grant the United States air bases on its territory and would join the Middle East defence bloc.

Parkhill Children's Party

A Christmas party for the Parkhill Cubs, Scouts, Guides and Brownies was held at Dixon House Friday evening. Movies were shown and a sing-song of carols and popular songs was enjoyed. Barbara and Karen White entertained with a duet, "I Saw Mamma Kissing Santa Claus," and everyone joined them in the chorus. Mr. Bryden Young was the pianist for the evening. Scouts presented a shadow pantomime. They and the Cubs exchanged gifts with gifts being given their leaders by the Mothers' Auxiliary. Refreshments were served by the mothers and they gave each boy and girl a bag of candy and an apple and orange when leaving. The party was made possible by the Men's Group Committee, the Mothers' Auxiliary and the Kiwanis Club, sponsors of the 9th Parkhill Troop.

Perk Up Your Feet For The Holiday Rushing

Don't let your feet go to your head. There is no reason to let tired feet sour your disposition when the irritation can be eliminated easily, and quickly.

After a tiring day, perk up your feet by bathing them in hot and cold water. First plunge them into a basin of very warm water; lather them with a lanolin-rich soap, massaging the aching muscles as you do. Then dip them into a basin of cool water. Switch from hot to cold a few more times.

This is a good procedure to follow for your weekly pedicure. After you have finished the alternating dips, file the toenails straight across with an emery board; this will help prevent hose snags. The nails should be kept long enough to protect the tips of the toes.

Next, push back the cuticles and clear the area around the nails with a cotton-wrapped orange stick. First dip the cotton in a solution of peroxide and ammonia made from one tablespoon of peroxide and one-half teaspoon ammonia.

Finally, polish the nails. Dampen one end of a large buffer and sprinkle on a bit of powdered pumice. After using this side a few moments, complete the buffing job with a few brisk swipes with the dry side.

If you use nail enamel, separate toes with cotton balls to prevent smearing.

Mature Smartness Viewed From Every Angle

The woman past 40 has many angles to consider to keep herself well-groomed and young looking. One angle that some are inclined to neglect is the back-view.

Such neglect not only indicates careless grooming, but also that the years are making inroads. Absent-mindedness, you know, is supposed to be a sure sign of oncoming age. And no woman has a right to feel old in middle-age.

If you haven't been in the habit of constantly checking your back-view, it might be a good idea to make a check list and tack it alongside your floor-length mirror.

You want to be certain that your hem is even, that stocking seams are straight, that your slip is hidden and that heels are not run-down. And how about your neck and hair lines? Does powder or dandruff ever cling to your shoulders? Is your hair always as smooth looking in the back as it is around your face?

It is also important to check the back-view when buying clothes. A dress that is becoming in the front may not be behind. It may fit too tightly over the derrierre, causing a ripple above the waistline. Or, the trimming that is fine in front may be too much in the back.

Take time to study the clothes from every angle. After all, that's one way that they will be seen on you.

The Rev. Melville Buttars, Inglewood, was a Wednesday overnight guest with his mother, Mrs. D. Buttars.

Mr. and Mrs. H. McKinley returned home on Wednesday after visiting Mr. and Mrs. D. Stockton, Mimico. While there, they attended the Toronto Symphony Orchestra Christmas Box concert.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Howell, Oshawa, were recent guests with Mr. and Mrs. G. McIntosh.

"ONE FOR THE ROAD"—Wise hostesses during the Christmas-New Year's holiday season help their guests arrive home safely by making a cup of strong coffee the "one for the road," according to safety experts. Coffee served after a round of drinks has a sobering effect that reduces driving errors and may reduce the number of holiday traffic accidents and deaths.

Women Can Help Reduce Holiday Driving Hazards

The great majority of car drivers may be men but Canadian women must share the responsibility for the large number of street and highway accidents which year after year mar our Christmas and New Year's holiday festivities. Women, as good hostesses, could help reduce this holiday hazard if they would speed their parting guests with a cup of strong coffee, liberally sweetened, as the "one for the road."

Every hostess enjoys giving a party with all the holiday trimmings. The house is cleaned, the silver polished and the good china is brought out for the occasion. Tables are piled high with good things to eat and wines or punches or other alcoholic beverages are served in sparkling glasses.

The result is that many guests leave for home—or to make another holiday call—groggy and sometimes tired from over-indulgence. These guests when they get behind the wheel and drive out into traffic are our greatest holiday hazard. They cause the majority of our fatal accidents. Because they celebrated too well they may kill themselves or some innocent and entirely sober pedestrian or passenger.

This problem of over-indulgence has long concerned those who seek to promote safety and reduce the number of painful and sometimes fatal accidents. Safety authorities realize that entertainment and holiday cheer in alcoholic form will always continue to be part of our festivities. They sought, therefore, a means of reducing if not entirely eliminating the danger.

Scientific tests at Cornell University and elsewhere prove that coffee has a sobering effect and that the number of driving errors is sharply reduced when coffee is taken after drinking. Coffee is also an effective stimulant and overcomes drowsiness which is also a frequent cause of highway accidents.

The hostess who serves coffee as the "one for the road" is therefore helping to make her party a success. She is helping a guest and others to reach home safely and alive and to come back another time. Liberally sweetened, coffee increases its sobering qualities so for those who don't object adding a couple of lumps of sugar will mean even a greater safety.

Entertain Choirs Following Service

Following the carol services in Confederation school by the congregation of St. Giles' Presbyterian church on Sunday evening both the senior and junior choirs were entertained. The junior choir of 45 members were served refreshments by a group of the mothers and Mrs. G. Wilson Craw their leader was presented with a lovely china flower bowl.

The senior choir with their wives and husbands were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lionel Monk and Miss Christine where carols were sung and lunch served. Earlier in the week the choir presented Mrs. Craw with a necklace and earrings.

At the carol service the basement room in the school was filled to capacity with an overflow in an adjoining room.

Four children were baptized at the morning service.

Fashion Flashes

A major event in the fox mutation field is the development of a new shade—gold—worked out in light tawny and deep tones and simply glorious with almost every color. The pelts are large and full, with long, silky hairs, and the coppery-tan shade is subtle and most flattering.

✧ ✧ ✧

Packed in many resortbound trunks is the dressy sweater with a dyed-to-match skirt. A pink cashmere sweater has an irregular neckline appliqued with matching wool lace medalions. The dyed-to-match skirt is of fine wool gabardine, half-lined in taffeta with a single slot and pleat seam at front and back, topped with embroidered silk arrows.

✧ ✧ ✧

Going out at night is wool, sheer, polished broadcloth and fine, soft tweed. Black and white mixture tweed makes a handsome evening coat, full-length, softly straight and done with an all-over embroidered single flower treatment in black jet and rhinestones. Lined in red satin with matching fill-in scarf.

Fenella News

Mrs. W. H. Sandercock spent Wednesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Bray, Creighton Heights.

St. John's S.S. Does Pantomime For Their Party

Children of St. John's Anglican Church Sunday school presented a pantomime, "Mother Goose gives a party for Santa Claus," at their Christmas party on Friday evening in the parish hall.

The players were driected by Miss Caroline Littlefield. Costume convener was Mrs. John Lewis and make-up by Mrs. John Campbell, with Miss Lois McKay and Miss Margaret Stevenson assisting them. The music was directed by Mrs. Alice Roger Collins.

Holly berries were Barry Howard, Penny Sayers, Bonnie Willison, Susan Pope, Sue Baker, Peggy Trick, Linda Hicks and Sally Mason; snowflake ballerinas were Mary Simmers, Carolyn Hicks, Margaret Storey, Mary Muir, Elspeth Stevenson, Catherine McFadgen, Betty Morton and Louise Pope; Brian Du for was Jack Frost and the icicles were Fred Wilison, Donald Luther, Geoffrey Parker, David Fort and Malcolm Ray; Lynn Howard was Little Miss Muffet; Barbara Jory was Bo-Peep; Nancy Norris was Mary, Mary quite contrary; John Fort and Ricky Sullivan were the Three Blind Mice; Joe Vollans was the Farmer's Wife; Marina Zakos was a dancing doll and Diane Zakos was a Christmas fairy; Dorothy Sullivan was the dancing bear; Mrs. Graeme Falkner was Mother Goose and Mr. M. W. Tween was Santa Claus.

Marie Shearer Bride Of David Brockwell

The marriage took place Saturday at the Keene United Church manse of Frances Marie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Shearer, of Keene, to David Ralph Brockwell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Brockwell, of R.R. 1, Ida. The Rev. H. B. Herrington officiated.

The bride was wearing a navy suit with turquoise accessories and her corsage was pink roses. Her attendant, Miss Beverley Gall, was in a powder blue suit and wore navy accessories and a corsage of red roses.

Mr. Kent Brockwell was groomsman for his brother.

A reception was held in the Keene town hall with the bride's mother receiving, dressed in rose silk crepe and a navy hat, assisted by the groom's mother, who wore a powder blue crepe dress with a light brown hat. The bridal couple will spend a short time in the United States and on return will live at R.R. 1, Ida.

Pour hot salt water down the drain of your kitchen sink once or twice a week. It will keep the drain free of grease and unpleasant odors.

THIS HOUSEWIFE checks over Christmas accessories, refreshes them well in advance of the day. Here, she restores holly leaf wreath and tinsel by swishing them up and down in sinkful of soapsuds. Both can drain on thick towel.

Christmas Week Need Not Exhaust Busy Housewife

NEW YORK —(NEA)— While Christmas week should be a joyous time, it should not be hectic. Since preparations for the great day are up to the distaff side, it's best to have things well organized at least three weeks in advance.

By doing some of the work before Christmas week, you can avoid rushing through the holiday season at top speed, feeling frantic.

Your Christmas table will probably be the centre of good cheer at your house. So begin by giving it a thorough cleaning in addition to the regular weekly polishing. Go over the whole table with sponge and thick, warm soapsuds to remove the old polish. Then rinse with a sponge wrung out of warm water. Dry thoroughly and repolish.

Perhaps you have a special cloth for Christmas Day, one with holly or poinsettia designs. This is the time to bring it out. Pick a sunny day to launder both cloth and napkins carefully. Then hang them outdoors to bleach. Give them lots of soapsuds and rinses, then press with a hot iron while they're still damp. Cotton can be ironed on the right side.

Linen should be ironed first on the wrong side, then on the right. This gives it a nice luster. If cloth, press the monogram face down on a turkish towel to make it stand out properly.

If you have special china, crystal and silver for Christmas dinner, get them out now and suds china and crystal shiny. Wash off shelves on which you've kept them and they'll stay bright until Christmas Day. If the silver has become tarnished, this is the time to polish it.

It's also the time to take a look at the Christmas decorations. You can re-crisp the wilted bows on last year's wreaths by washing the ribbons, then pressing them face down under a sheet of wax paper. Brigten the leaves of holly or poinsettia by going over them lightly with a soapy sponge.

A wreath can be dipped up and rinsed and then hung to dry. Tarnished tinsel will take on new glitter if it's swished through warm, soapy water, rinsed and dropped on a towel to dry. Be sure the Christmas-tree bulbs are cleaned with a swipe of your soapy cloth.

By working ahead, Christmas week will be yours for last-minute gift wrapping, shopping and fun of baking. And you'll be able to enjoy the holidays along with the other members of the family.

New notions make the selection of a skirt an interesting event. Felt—in pastels, dark or vivid hues—makes a four-gored flared skirt marked by a new weskit waist-nipper section. A pocket is inset at the waistband, which fastends with a back zipper.

DOROTHY DIX

Girl, Nears 18, Now Wants To Get Married

DEAR MISS DIX: I will be 18 next month, and of legal age to defy my parents and marry whom I choose. So my problem will be solved with my marriage to Jack, who is 23. However, I wish you would write a few words to parents in general, including mine, to keep from meddling in their children's personal affairs.

Jack and I have been keeping company for six months. Until I met him I had had few boy friends. My parents indulged me in every whim until it came to the most important thing of all. Following is a list of their objections: they claim I'm too young and emotionally immature to know my own mind; that I don't know the difference between love and fascination; that an extra admustment must be made in a mixed marriage; that I'm making too great a sacrifice in converting to Jack's religion, particularly when I don't believe in it; that he's not as well educated as I am, speaks with a "tough-guys" jargon, ignores his widowed mother, hates his job and doesn't know what he wants to do with his life, isn't trained for any special work, likes to drink once in a while and can't give me the material things I've been accustomed to. Even though all this is right, which I admit it is, I still love Jack. Doesn't that count with parents?

INA

✧ ✧ ✧

DEEP-ROOTED OBSTINACY

ANSWER: Your parents should have started interfering long ago. After indulging your every whim for so long, they led you to believe life would always be easy and you were robbed of all capacity for making decisions. When you were faced with a problem, you proceeded to take the wrong turn. Your folks are absolutely right in their stand on marriage to Jack. While some of the factors you outline in your letter are not obstacles in themselves, the overall picture certainly marks your choice as a bad bet for a husband. Your stubbornness is so deep-rooted that you won't admit the error until a few years of miserable married life force the conclusions upon you. How a man of 23 who won't hold a job, treats his mother contemptibly while she supports him, isn't interested in improving his manners or speech, and likes to drink, can be expected to become a dependable family-head is quite a mystery. In fact, you both need quite a bit of growing up. And, incidentally, you're doing no one a favor by embracing a religion in which you don't believe.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I'm in love with Paul, who is 25, and he, in turn, is in love with a girl whom he met while serving overseas. He knows he can't get back to her, but can't seem to forget her. I'm the only girl he goes with here. If I have patience, do you think he'll learn to to love me? I am married now, but expect my divorce in a few months; I'm saving for it.

MILDRED

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Better save for two divorces. You'll probably win Paul yet, and as a matrimonial prospect he lacks the virtue of permanency. I very much doubt if marriage with him would be successful.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I've been writing a boy in the Air Force for two months, but we have never met. He'll be in my home town and wants to stay at my house while he is here. Would it be all right? He says he loves me.

D. C.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Never put faith in a declaration of love that has developed through correspondence only. Invite the boy for a visit to your family. But your acquaintance is too short for any extended hospitality.

✧ ✧ ✧

As I type this I am filled with nostalgia. I yearn to fly with even one little reindeer so I might peek in your kitchen windows to see you putting the last finshing touches to your Christmas banquet.

Be assured that I am there with you in spirit . . . and that when we say Grace at our table and come to " . . . bless us all" I will know just how many that "all" embraces.

In working over this menu I have discarded many lovely dishes that I so much want to include but we can't hold all the good things at one meal, but I do hope I have chosen dishes that will appeal to a maximum number of my readers and their precious ones, whom I hope are all right there by your sides.

You will see I have given a few alternatives. Because we are a sentimental family we will have for our first course the oyster cocktail because that would have been my father's choice. The fruit cup, if you chose it, would be delicious made of seedless green grapes, honeydew melon balls and sections of canned mandarin oranges, all thoroughly chilled. If the broiled grapefruit idea appeals to you, and it is a tempting way to serve something hot but fruity, halve, section and remove membrane and core the grapefruits, and sprinkle each half with 1 teaspoon white and 2 teaspoons brown sugar, then dot each with 1½ teaspons butter, and broil for 10 minutes to tinge them with gold and heat them, or bake for 20 minutes at 450 deg. Fahr.

On Christmas Day at the stroke of three, Marianne can break away from her hospital leash, and you may be sure Pete will be waiting outside nurses' residence, with a racing motor, to rush her to us.

The Christmas salad is Marianne's choice. Use one large head Iceberg lettuce shredded, tomatoes cut in 1-inch pieces, cut inner celery stalks, wafer thing slices of radishes, a very little chopped green onion, slivers of green pepper, and finely shredded red cabbage, and French Dressing. Garnish top with slices of tomatoes and green pepper cut crosswise. Very Christmasy to look at, and crisp and welcome to taste after a heavy main course.

If your choice of vegetables is the green beans and mushrooms, cook the shredded beans until barely tender, and add ½ pound sliced mushrooms which have been gently sauteed in butter for about 6 or 7 minutes.

Last week I did not give you the recipe for Foamy Sauce: Beat ½ cup butter until light and creamy, then gradually beat in 1 cup sifted icing sugar until fluffy. Then beat in 1 beaten egg and 1 teaspoon vanilla, and then heat this in double boiler, while stirring constantly, for about 2 minutes—no more.

I hope I have helped to make your Christmas preparations easier and that peace and love pervade your home all through The Day.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

6—In Memoriam

BROWNELL—In memory of Minnie who went away, December 21, 1951.
Somewhere back in the sunset
Where the loveliness never dies
She dwells in a land of glory
With the blue and gold of the skies.
—Lovingly remembered by sister Ethel and family.

ELLIS — In loving memory of James L. Ellis, of Havelock, who died December 21, 1952.
His charming ways and smiling face
Are a pleasure to recall;
He had a kindly word for each,
And died beloved by all.
—Lovingly remembered by Daughter Norma, Son-in-law Bill, and Bonnie and Sharon.

ELLIS — In loving memory of James L. Ellis of Havelock, who died December 21, 1952.
One year to-day dear Dad was called
To his eternal rest—
Gone where the angels sing so sweet,
And taken when God knew best.
We miss him here so very much,
His presence oft seems nigh;
But we all hope in heaven to meet,
Where no one says good-bye.
—Lovingly remembered by Daughter Thelma, Son-in-law Jerry and grandchildren.

ELLIS—In loving memory of James L. Ellis of Havelock, who died December 21, 1952.
One year has passed, dear Jim,
Since you were called away;
How well do I remember
That sad and weary day.
You suffered much, you murmured not,
We watched you day by day;
We cried and prayed that your dear life
Would not be taken away.
—Lovingly remembered by his Wife, Emma Ellis, and Daughter Carole.

ELLIS—In memory of James Lewis Ellis, who died, Dec. 21st, 1952.
Since you have gone first and I remain,
To walk the road alone
I live in memories garden, dear Dad,
With happy days we have known.
I hear your voice, I see your smile
Though blindly I may go,
The memory of your helping hand
Still brings me on with hope
We have known so much of happiness
We have had our cup of joy
And memory is one gift of God
That death cannot destroy.
Just a memory—but oh so dear.
—Sadly missed by son Clarence and daughter-in-law, Ann.

FREEMAN, Mabel A.—In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, who passed away December 21, 1950.
God knew that she was suffering,
That the hills were hard to climb;
So He closed her weary eyelids
And whispered "Peace be thine."
Away in the beautiful hills of God,
By the valley of rest so fair.
Some time, some day, we know not when,
We will meet our loved one there.
—Ever remembered by Husband, Family, and Sister, Mrs. William Brotherstone.

KETCHESON—In memory of a dear mother, Ethel M. Ketcheson, who passed away, December 21, 1947.
We mourn for her in silence,
No eyes can see us weep
But many a silent tear is shed
While others are asleep.
—Ever remembered by daughter Myrtle, son-in-law, John.

KETCHESON—In loving memory of a dear mother and grandmother Ethel Maud Ketcheson, who passed away, December 21, 1947.
Gone from us, but leaving memories
Death can never take away.
Memories that will always linger,
While upon the earth we stay.
—Ever remembered by daughter Mildred, son-in-law Jack, granddaughter, Helen.

LINDSAY—In loving memory of our mother, Mrs. James Lindsay, who passed away December 21st, 1946.
You can only have one mother patient kind and true
No other friend in all the world
Will be as true to you.
Memories in my heart today
Mean more to me than words can say
Although I smile and seem carefree
Nobody misses you more than me.
—Ever remembered by daughter Nettie, Laurie and family.

MERCER—In loving memory of a dear mother, Mrs. Herbert Mercer, who passed away Dec. 21st, 1952.
There's a sad but sweet remembrance,
There's a memory fond and true
There's a token of affection, Mother,
And a heartache still for you.
—Sadly missed by daughter Mary and son-in-law Bernard Watters.

MERCER—In loving memory of Mrs. Mary R. Mercer who passed away December 21st, 1952.
God took her home
It was his will
But in our heart she liveth still.
—Lovingly remembered by her husband and daughter Juanita and family.

WYNNE—In loving memory of Mary Maude Wynne who passed away December 16, 1950.
In my heart your memory lingers,
Always tender, fond and true.
Theres not a day, dear mother,
I do not think of you.
—Ever remembered by her daughter Gladys, son-in-law Walter, grandchildren Donna Marie, Terrance and Lawrence.

7—Card of Thanks

I would like to express my sincere thanks to all friends, neighbors and relatives for all kindness shown, gifts and cards sent during my illness and stay in hospital.—Bona Farthing.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Perrin, Ethel and Ross wish to thank the attending doctor, the Rev. Mr. Yarr, Bensfort United church and Sunday School, The WA and Sunbeams, Stewart Hall, WMS, All kind friends and neighbors for their flowers and cards, and many deeds of kindness shown them in their recent sad bereavement.

We wish to express our sincere thanks to our many relatives, friends and neighbors who so kindly sent cards, flowers and expressions of sympathy, also to Rev. Mr. Horace Kaye for his spiritual support at the time of the sudden death of the late Hugh F. Anderson.—Mrs. Hugh Anderson, Shirley and Mr. and Mrs. Ben McCoy.

ADVERTISEMENT FOR SALE

PURSUANT to the judgment and final order for sale made in this cause there will be offered for Sale, by Public Auction, in One Parcel with the approbation of the undersigned Local Master by Gordon C. Hancock, Auctioneer, on the property at Weller Street, Peterborough, Ontario, at the hour of 2:30 in the Afternoon, on the 9th Day of January, A.D. 1954, the following Lands and Premises located on the north side of Weller Street West, being composed of and more particularly described in the deed registered in the Registry Office for the Registry Division of the County of Peterborough as Number 14164 for the Township of North Monaghan.

The Property will be offered for Sale subject to a first mortgage securing $8,500.00 principal money of which the sum of $7,500.00 has been advanced, with interest thereon at 6% per annum from the 9th Day of February, 1954, said interest being calculated half-yearly on the 1st Days of May and November in each year, which mortgage shall be assumed and paid by the purchaser, and also subject to a reserve bid fixed by the said Local Master. The purchaser shall pay down to the Vendor's solicitor on the day of Sale 10% of the purchase money and shall pay the balance of the purchase money into Court without interest within 30 days after the date of Sale. Adjustments to be made as of date of Sale. The purchaser shall search the title at his own expense. The Vendor shall not be bound to produce any abstract of title or any deeds or evidence of title other than those in his possession or control. In all other respects the conditions of Sale are the standing conditions of Sale of the Court as modified by the conditions of Sale settled by the undersigned.

On the Premises is said to be erected an Unfinished Two-Storey Brick Veneer Dwelling House, 24 feet by 30 feet, with garage and sun deck.

Further particulars and conditions of Sale may be had from WILFRID F. HUYCKE, Solicitor, 395 Water Street, Peterborough, Ontario.

DATED at Peterborough, this 14th Day of December, 1953.

W. R. PHILP,
Local Master, S.C.O. at Peterborough.

NO, IT'S NOT A DOUBLE EXPOSURE, but it's still worth looking at twice. Having heard about the rigors of pre-bathtub days, Frances Drew, left, and her identical twin, June, of Hollywood, Calif., decide to find out what Saturday night was like in great-grandma's time.

Gate Crasher Connelly Dies

ZION, Ill. (AP)—James Leo (One-Eye) Connelly, who until 19 years ago made a career out of crashing the gates of major sports events, died Sunday night in a rest home. He was 84.

Until he was 65, one-eyed Connelly never worked, his best friends said. He lived by his wits and made it a point of honor to be present at all big sporting events—without a ticket.

But for a brief time he was on the other side of the gate-crashing business.

Andy Frain, who heads an usher agency that handles the gates of many major events, put One-Eye on the payroll for the 1945 World Series between Chicago Cubs and Detroit Tigers. That job lasted only until Connelly refused to admit through the Wrigley Field pass gate a man who identified himself as P. K. Wrigley, jr.

"That's for the birds," Connelly was quoted—but he was wrong. It was Wrigley, owner of the Cubs and the field.

Design Navy Badge For Former Personnel

OTTAWA (CP) — A badge designed at naval headquarters will soon be available for former members of Canada's Navy.

To be known as the Former Naval Personnel Badge, it may be worn by all former naval officers, men and women who have been honorably discharged from the service. The badge will be reproduced only in metal, suitable for wear in the left lapel button hole, or may be embroidered on the left breast pocket of blazers and jackets.

Reproduction of the badge for any other purpose must have the approval of naval headquarters.

The badge features a gold anchor set in a circle of navy blue. Ten gold maple leaves surround the circle, on top of which rests the naval crown. The crown "jewels", left to right, are red, green, blue, green and red.

Beat Off Ambush By Red Guerrillas

HANOI, Indo-China (AP) — A French army spokesman announced that French and Viet Namese troops beat off an ambush today by Vietminh soldiers in the Red river delta, killing 13 of the Communist-led rebels and capturing 49.

The Vietminh staged their surprise assault in the Thai Binh sector, southeast of Hanoi, shortly after dawn. French planes came to the rescue of the ambushed force, strafing the attackers and scattering them.

In a village mop-up in the same sector, French union forces captured 44 Vietminh troops, the spokesman said.

Two-Headed Boy Doing Satisfactorily

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — A two-headed boy born Dec. 12 was reported making "satisfactory progress" today at Riley Hospital, where it is under observation.

Doctors are making extensive tests to determine how many of its organs are duplicated. It has one heart but two stomachs are linked to a single lower digestive tract. It has four arms.

There was no indication when the baby will be sent to its parents in Washington, Ind., where it was born to a laborer's wife.

The 28-year-old mother has three normal children.

Noranda Mines Give Strikers Turkeys

NORANDA, Que. (CP)—Noranda Mines Limited will see that families of its striking employees have a turkey for Christmas.

The strikers will walk through the mine gates Tuesday for the first time since their walkout to enforce demands for pay increases and the dues checkoff started Aug. 21.

Each married man will receive a turkey from the mining company and each single man 250 cigarets.

About 1,600 men are on strike.

World Air Traffic Disrupted In France

PARIS (Reuters) — International air traffic today was seriously disrupted in France for the third day by a wage strike of airport ground staff.

The airlines — Pan-American, Trans-World and the Royal Dutch KLM—announced that none of their planes will use the two Paris airports of Orly and Le Bourget during the strike.

Many other fields were also reported affected.

Brussels airport, which two American companies are using as their "French" terminal, has doubled its traffic.

The strikers are control tower, radio and radar staffs, who defied government orders by walking out.

Hastings GA Presents Christmas Fantasy

HASTINGS — A Christmas fantasy entitled "The Three Roses" was presented recently by the GA of St. George's church, Hastings. The story centred in Bethlehem and introduced a child whose humble home was in the path of the shepherds and wise men in their search for Christ.

In the three scenes, the audience joined in the singing of Christmas carols.

Taking part in the play were Margaret Baker, Carol Baker, Vora Patstone, John Mitchell, Charlotte Woodcock, Annie Kalisvaart, Joyce Walker, Janny Hauffman, Tom Walker, Ruth Baker, June Clark, Michael Mitchell, Shirley Smullin, Loraine Walker, Barbara Sherwin, Carolyn Sherwin, Elizabeth Sherwin, Anna Lee and Sharon McGrayne.

Miss D. Plant was pianist and Mrs. E. Smullin, prompter.

At the play's conclusion, the director, Mrs. Patstone, was presented with a floral gift by the girls as a sign of their appreciation of her work in training them.

Family Of Seven Wiped Out In Crash

CHICAGO (AP)—A family of seven was wiped out Sunday night by an automobile-train collision at a Soo line crossing near suburban Wheeling, Ill.

Killed in the crash were Fred Galle, 37-year-old Gary, Ill., laborer; his wife, Violet, 33, and four of their children.

A 12-year-old daughter, died several hours later.

Frederick J. LaJoie

Funeral for the late Frederick Joseph LaJoie of 112 Princess St., who died suddenly at work at Brinton - Peterborough Carpet Company on Friday, was held today from his residence to Sacred Heart church. The Rt. Rev. Msgr. P. P. Butler was celebrant of requiem mass and the Revs. G. F. Sullivan and Frank Mihelic were in the sanctuary. Pall-bearers were Arnold Hatton, Peter Murray, Clarence Corbett, W. J. Grady, George Maloney and Alex Kirkcaldy. Father Sullivan said graveside prayers and burial was at St. Peter's cemetery.

Find Car Motor In Auto Trunk

COBOURG (ENS) — The fact that the rear of their car was riding very low led to the arrest of two North York men this morning, Ed Latour, 30 and Orlie Boggs, 22. When Chief H. Pearse and Constable Bob Caldwell stopped the car to check what was making the rear end of it ride so low, they found a new automobile motor in the trunk compartment. It is believed to have been taken from Nash Motors, Toronto. North York police will arrive here today to take the men back to Toronto.

Exporters "Deplore" BanOn Oats Imports

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian Exporters' Association said today it "deplores" the fact that the United States has seen fit to restrict imports of Canadian Oats.

S. A. MacKay-Smith, association president, said in a statement that the association recognizes there is merit in the Canada-U. S. "compromise" reached, but the fact that restrictions have been made "can only detract from expanding volume of trade."

Mr. MacKay-Smith was commenting on Canada's agreement last week to curb shipments of oats to the U. S. to 23,000,000 bushels in the period Dec. 11, 1953-Oct. 1, 1954.

The agreement followed confidential Canada-U. S. discussions on a U. S. tariff commission recommendation to President Eisenhower. The commission recommended import curbs to strengthen the American agricultural price-support program.

Rhee Denies Spending $2,000,000 On Hotel

SEOUL (AP) — South Korea's prime minister today denied the accusation of a United States congressman that his government is spending $2,000,000 on a luxury hotel while 25,000 are homeless in Pusan.

Prime Minister Paik Too Chin said plans are being drafted to repair the Banto Hotel at a cost of about $50,000, but not to erect a new structure. The Banto is one of two Western-type hotels built here by the Japanese.

Representative Charles B. Brownson (Rep. Ind.) said Sunday in a radio interview at Cincinnati that Rhee was spending money on a lavish hotel complete with cocktail loung,e instead of homes for 25,000 persons made homeless in the big Pusan fire last month.

Boy 6, Rescued From Moira River

TWEED, Ont. (CP)—A six-year-old boy was rescued from 12 feet of water in the Moira river near here Sunday by a man who shoved a ladder out on the ice.

Jimmy Oliphant fell through while playing with a friend. Their cries attracted Norris Embury, 74, who brought a ladder. Jimmy clung to it and was pulled to safety.

He was taken to the home of Mrs. William Lalonde, 60, who said he was so chilled and frightened that it was several hours before he could tell her his name.

DIFFERENT MEANING

Ancient Europeans considered the mistletoe a magic medicine, carrying it with them for health and luck.

"Unbeliever" Fined For Ruckus

A man who was apprehended while trying to tear down a Christmas tree from a light standard in George street on the evening of Dec. 13 told Constable Don Edskine that his unusual actions arose from the fact that he didn't believe in Santa Claus.

The constable was more inclined to side with Santa in the altercation so he stopped a passing motorist and had the nonbeliever, William John Crow of Peterborough, taken to the police station. Later he was charged with causing a disturbance in a public place and with being intoxicated.

Before Magistrate W. R. Philp, QC, in the magistrate's court this morning, Crow pleaded not guilty to both charges and conducted his own defence.

"I can't see how the officer could pin this on me. There were about 20 other fellows making a row as well as myself", said Crow to the magistrate.

"It is no defence for you to come here and say that you were not the only one making a commotion", replied Mr. Philp, as he entered a fine of $10 and costs $2.50. The intoxication charge was dismissed.

Plainville Newlyweds Honored At Dance

COLDSPRINGS (ENS)—A presentation dance was held in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Keith West (nee Marie Graham) of Plainville.

Prior to lunch, an address was read to them by Eula Cole. Percival Bowman presented a sum of money. Joan Smith, on behalf of girl friends, presented the bride with a gift.

Charge Russia Sends Money To Ceylon

COLOMBO, Ceylon (AP)—Prime Minister Sir John Kotelawela says Russia has sent money through Switzerland to Ceylon's Communist party, and "I've ordered the bank to stop payment until we find out more about it."

Kotelawela, addressing a meeting Sunday in the south Ceylon town of Kalutara, said he wasn't sure of the amount of the alleged payment, but it was either 7,000 rupees ($1,470) or £7,000 ($19,600).

Communist party secretary S. A. Wickremasinghe challenged the government to prove his party had received money from Russia or from any other country. He called the charge only a "poor attempt to prove the Communist party is an imported thing."

WA Flower Committee Appointed In Fenella

FENELLA (ENS)—The December meeting of Fenella United church Women's Association was held Thursday in the hall with Miss Ruby Herrington as hostess. There were 20 members and two visitors in attendance.

The meeting opened with the Christmas carol, "Silent Night." Devotional was under the leadership of Mrs. Gordon Jewell, assisted by Mrs. Jim Curtis, Mrs. Frank Down, Mrs. W. H. Sandercock, Mrs. E. Stewart, Mrs. M. Lonsberry and Mrs. Gordon Sandercock. Scripture was read by Mrs. Ross Macklin, followed by a hymn:

The treasurer's report showed a balance on hand of $129.13. Donation of $30.00 will be sent to the missionary society. Flower committee for the church will be Mrs. Frank Down, Mrs. M. Lonsberry, Mrs. C. Childs, Mrs. C. McNaught; parsonage committee, Mrs. Frank George, Mrs. Jim Curtis, Mrs. Carl McNaught.

Rev. Wheeler had charge of the study book in chapters Europeans in Africa and the new field in Rhodesia. This finishes the book, "Along African Trails."

Australia's capital, Canberra, is a planned city designed by a Chicago architect and completed in 1927.

Caught Robbing Store, Jailed One Year

A 32-year-old painter and decorator of Peterborough, Joseph Cleary, who was caught red-handed by police as he was burglaring Ross Food Market in Ashburnham at midnight on December 11, pleaded guilty to a break and entry charge before Magistrate W. R. Philp, QC, in the magistrate's court this morning. He was convicted and sentenced to twelve months definite and six months indefinite imprisonment.

Detective Dennis Trainor said that in company with Constables Jim Armstrong and Sherman Keliele he had answered a call to the market and had seen Cleary kneeling before the cash register. As the police entered the shop he had bolted for the rear of the premises, but had been apprehended while trying to hide in the basement. When arrested Cleary had $44.70 in cash and some cigarettes which he had taken from the shop.

Entering a conviction Magistrate Philp reviewed a fairly long list of Cleary's previous convictions which included sentences for robbery with violence and robbery while armed. He had also been deported from the United States following court charges.

Crown attorney John A. Bradshaw told the magistrate that Cleary was asking for a break owing to the fact that he was ill.

The magistrate replied that the sentence could be regarded as light in view of the previous convictions and the present offence.

To Cleary he said: "This is a very long record for a man who looks as intelligent as you do".

St. Paul's Children Have Three Parties

St. Paul's Presbyterian Church school recently entertained its pupils at Christmas parties. Mrs. W. H. Mitchell was in charge of arrangements for nursery and kindergarten children December 9. Miss Betty Warner convened the party for the primary department Dec. 16.

On both evenings Santa Claus was a welcome visitor with a well filled box of gifts for the children.

On Friday, December 18, the older boys and girls sat down to a supper prepared by Mrs. James Bell and her assistants. Later in the night a program was presented by the children.

The boys' choir, directed by Christopher Gledhill, sang carols. Spencer Tucker sang a solo, "Susie Snowflake." Piano selections, "The Music Box" and "Waltz in A Flat" by Schubert, were played by George Jenkinson. There was a pantomime, "The Night Before Christmas," and a short play, "The Sewing Circle."

FILMS AND GIFTS

A recitation by Gloria Andrews, Karen Dunford and Phyllis Tolton completed the program. Mrs. Adam Sands accompanied the carol singing.

Gifts were distributed by Mrs. C. G. Boyd and James Davidson. At each of the parties the children enjoyed films shown by Harry Lockington, Carman Bulmer and Bert Ross.

Montreal Bandit Nursing Sore Jaw

MONTREAL (CP) —Somewhere in Montreal a bandit is nursing a sore jaw.

Marius Dufresne, 52, owner of an east-end drug store, was alone in his store Sunday night when two shabbily-dressed men entered and asked for cough medicine.

Dufresne reached for a bottle. When he turned back to his customers, one was holding an automatic.

Before the bandits had time to say anything, Dufresne let go with the bottle and connected squarely on the gunman's chin. Both men fled empty-handed.

"I'll admit it was a rather unorthodox way of administering the medicine," Dufresne chuckled.

Police Rescue Pair Trapped In Car

ORILLIA (CP) — Provincial police rescued two Orillia men trapped in their car when it rolled over in a ditch on the Atherely road by breaking in the car window with an ax.

Arriving on the scene minutes after the accident Sunday, police found the car door locked and its occupants, Wesley Davis, the driver, and James Thompson unable to extricate themselves. Neither was injured.

Police said the car was a total wreck.

Davis has been charged with careless driving and having beer in an illegal place.

Only One Bingo Due Tonight For Turkeys

Tonight there will be one bingo for turkeys, but it will not be run by the Catholic High School Athletic Advisory Club as advertised. It will be the Lions' Club bingo in the Brock ballroom.

The Athletic Advisory Club bingo will be held next week in St. Peter's Auditorium and will be advertised.

Court Rules Farmer Keep Cows In Barn

VICTORIA (CP)—Do cows prefer cold, knee-deep mud and water to a dry barn?

Farmer Byron McNutt, charged by the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals with "abandoning" his dairy herd, Saturday told Magistrate H. G. Hall his cows apparently prefer water and mud.

"Cows have a mind of their own and if they choose to stand in the mud instead of a dry barn, they must want it that way," he argued after an SPCA inspector testified the cattle had been observed standing in knee-deep water and mud for hours.

Arthur Metcalfe, appearing on behalf of Mr. McNutt, said his cattle used to stand in a creek when he farmed in Saskatchewan and he didn't think it did any harm.

Another neighbor, F. L. Beebe, said the farmer's cattle looked all right to him but were foolish—"they are damn fool cattle."

"That's not the sort of testimony we want in this court," said Magistrate Hall.

"It's relevant for anyone that knows anything about cattle," retorted Mr. Beebe.

Magistrate Hall ruled farmer McNutt's cattle would have to stay in the barn whether they liked it or not.

He remanded Mr. McNutt to Thursday for sentence, adding that a remedy for the situation would be more to the point than a penalty.

Dairy Men Should Buy British Goods—Fred Crowe

"Every person engaged in the dairy business should make some special effort to buy British goods —manufactured goods—and if any can afford a holiday, why not go to Britain instead of the United States."

That was one of the recommendations which Fred Crowe, of Warsaw, urged upon the Peterborough Cheese Producers' at their annual meeting Saturday.

"Every branch of the dairy industry showed the stimulus of the British purchase of 10 million pounds of cheese this fall," Mr. Crowe said. "After all that quantity of cheese doesn't mean much in our capacity and their needs, but it is helping to keep the export door open. And that is important to all of us. That door hasn't slammed shut, but the British had to make a real effort to find the dollars to pay for that order.

"I hope that people understand why Britain is short of dollars. The main reason is, she spent them in winning the war.

"Let us think of this: Why not travel to Britain, and talk about it. Our Canadians spent $25 million more in the U.S. than the Americans spent here in Canada.

"Anything that we can do to get dollars in the hands of the British will work out to our advantage. That British business for the cheese industry has been a pick-up to every other branch."

Quality in milk products was another subject of recommendation.

"When we read of the interest of the Medical Officer of Health in improving the quality of milk in our own area, it will be to our advantage to do all we can to support him."

Mr. Crowe and his associates congratulated Howard Andrews of Pine Grove cheese factory, near Lakefield, on winning two awards at the British Empire Dairy Show at Belleville for top quality cheese and almost perfect workmanship, the latter 98.8 point performance.

Mr. Andrews is the proprietor of Pine Grove, and when he won the J. L. Irwin Memorial Cup just recently it was for the fact that every cheese that factory turned out this season was of No. 1 grade.

"We were all glad to see our district in which W. P. Moore, of Campbellford, is instructor, finish the year ahead of the other districts."

Mr. Crowe's third appeal to the patrons of the factories was to continue their support for the June "set-aside," to collect a fund for advertising, publicity and other phases of selling effort.

More than 30 per cent of the cheese patrons of the two last factories in the county, Pine Grove and Trent Bridge, attended the meeting in the office of the Department of Agriculture. There are approximately 114 patrons of the two factories. They are all at some distance from Peterborough but 24 were present.

"I think the cream producers have 650 members, and at their meeting they had a total of 13 present, including the agricultural representative and the press."

The setting up of a fund to enable the dairy industry to absorb a surplus in any of its branches and thereby protect all of them is the next proposal that is now receiving increasing attention as an enterprise in which all the groups should join hands, the president said.

Mr. Crowe was re-elected president; Stuart Clysdale vice-president; F. C. Paterson secretary-treasurer; directors, H. VanVolkenburg, Ralph Garbutt, Bruce Dunford, Chester Hamilton, Gordon Fitzgerald, Charles Lobb and George Elliott. Auditors, Mr. Clysdale and Mr. Garbutt.

George Elliott, of Norwood, returns to the directorate after an absence of a few years since he retired as president.

Delegates to the provincial convention: Roy Kidd and Max Wilson; alternate, Bruce Dunford. The door prize, five pounds of "Black Diamond," went to Welly Pearson.

Appreciation of the perseverance and activity of the cheese marketing board in getting the British contract for ten million pounds was expressed.

Of that success and its effect, Mr. Crowe said there was no burdensome surplus carrying into 1954; the price on the provincial exchanges was recently 35c a pound, and it was likely that some classes of cheese would run short during the winter.

Idonesia Sending Diplomats To Russia

JAKARTA, Indonesia (Reuters) Indonesia announced today that she will exchange diplomatic representatives with Russia and send a delegation to visit Ho Chi Minh, leader of Communist rebels fighting the French in Indo-China.

At the same time, cabinet minister Mohammed Hanafiah said the government will soon consider the possibilities of selling rubber to Communist China.

A foreign office announcement said the Soviet government has agreed to accept an Indonesian ambassador in Moscow as soon as possible, and is willing to nominate an ambassador to Indonesia

Douglas M. Hall Brought To City For Burial

Funeral service for the late Douglas Mead Hall of Holcomb, N.Y., was held today from Comstock funeral home.

The Rev. F. G. Ongley of St. John's Anglican Church officiated and pall bearers were Otto Laderach, Art and Charles Sowden, Ken McDuffy, Jim McClellan and Jack Rudel. Burial was at the family plot in Little Lake cemetery.

Mr. Hall was widely known in Peterborough. He was born here 47 years ago, son of the late William Thomas Hall and Gwendolyn Mead. His grandfather Adam Hall was a well-known hardware merchant who later founded the Adam Hall Foundry.

Douglas Hall worked for the company in conjunction with his father, the late William Hall, and uncle, Llewelyn, and his brothers until the company dissolved during the depression years, later reforming at Sherbrooke, P.Q.

TO MONTREAL, TORONTO

Following the foundry business Mr. Hall became associated with Rudel Machinery Company of Montreal and headed their sales department in that city and in Toronto. In later years he represented the same firm in Rochester, N.Y. He has been in ill health for about two years.

Besides being active in his company affairs while in Peterborough, he was one of the founders of the Peterborough Ski Club, about 1932, and was a noted horesman. Until he left Peterborough he was also active as an officer in the Prince of Wales Rangers. He was a member of St. John's Anglican Church when he lived in the city.

A brief funeral service was held at Wheeler funeral home, East Bloomfield, N.Y., on Saturday afternoon.

Mr. Hall's sister, Gwenyth, predeceased him. He leaves his wife, the former Jean Fraser of Peterborough, and three sons, William, Thomas and Donald. There are two brothers in Toronto, Terry and Gordon, and his uncle, Llewelyn, in Peterborough.

Christmas Ceremony At Masonic Temple

The Christmas observance program of Moore Preceptory Knights Templar was held in the Masonic Temple on Sunday afternoon when the Sir Knights had as their guests their ladies and also other masonic brethren and their ladies.

The lodge room was filled to capacity for special services and the guest speaker was the Rev. George S. Maxwell of the Trinity United church.

Following the service in the chapel the members and their guests adjourned to the dining room where the ceremony of the cutting of Christmas cake and the drinking of the four libations.

The libations were proposed by the presiding preceptor Lloyd Grose, the grand master Fred G. Mann and Dr. Malcolm McCulloch and Ross L. Dobbin. The ceremony of cutting the cake was conducted by Percy T. Windrim.

Music was supplied by Charles Allen at the organ and Mrs. Hazel McLaren and Reginald Peters.

Guests were present from Oshawa, Deloro, Port Hope and Belleville.

Twins 80, Killed

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (AP)—Rufus and Reuben Warren, 80-year-old twins, were killed Sunday when a freight train hit their car.

ADVICE AT 99—Women eat too much and smoke too little, says pipe-smoking Mrs. Marg Jackson, who recently marked her 99th birthday at Kelvin, Man. Mrs. Jackson, mother of 15, credits her long life to a careful diet of two meals a day and at least four pipefuls of tobacco.

OBITUARIES

HARRY SOWDEN

A resident of Peterborough nearly 50 years, Harry Sowden, 215 Wilson Ave., died Sunday in Hospital. He was born at Bradford, England, and was long employed as a machinist with the Brinton Carpet Co.

Predeceased by his wife, who was Sarah Jane Hutchinson, Mr. Sowden leaves two sons, Harold of Montreal and Arthur of London, Ont. He was a member of St. George's Anglican Church. Mr. Sowden was especially well known in the southeast section of the city, as it is now. For years he lived at the northeast corner of Lansdowne and George streets until it was bought from him for a service station site.

The funeral will be Tuesday at 2 p.m. from Comstock's funeral home on Rubidge St. where the body is resting. Rev. H. J. Scuse will conduct the service. Burial will be at Little Lake cemetery.

MAURICE VINCENT TOWNS

While members of his family were attending the funeral service of his sister, Mrs. Edward McMullen of Amherst Island, Ont., on Saturday, Maurice Vincent Towns of 102 Stewart St., died in hospital following a prolonged illness.

He was born in Lakefield 40 years ago, son of Mrs. Mary Towns and the late Michael Towns. He worked in Oshawa for General Motors before returning to Peterborough six months ago.

Mr. Towns leaves two sisters, Mrs. Howard Schryber (Beatrice) of this city and Miss Kathleen Towns of Lindsay. There are three brothers, Jerry of Peterborough, and Frank and Bernard of Bowmanville. While a resident in the city he attended Sacred Heart Church and was a member of its Holy Name Society.

Funeral will be held on Tuesday from the residence of his sister, Mrs. Schryber, 102 Stewart St., to Sacred Heart Church where requiem mass will be said at 9 a.m. Burial will be at St. Joseph's cemetery, Douro.

REGINALD SYDNEY EAGLETON

An employee of the De Laval Company for 15 years and lately with Outboard Marine and Manufacturing Company, Reginald Sydney Eagleton of 317 McDonnel St., died on Saturday in hospital following a short illness. He was born in Norfolk, England, 47 years ago, son of the late Robert Eagleton and Rose Ann Hilton, and has been a resident of this city for the past 43 years.

Besides his wife, the former Vera Turin, he leaves one son, Pte. Reginald William Eagleton, RSCS, Kingston, and three grandchildren. A sister, Mrs. Rose Croft, and a brother, Ernest, both reside in Peterborough. Mr. Eagleton attended the Anglican Church.

Funeral service will be held on Tuesday at Nisbett funeral home at 2 p.m. The Rev. M. P. Poole of All Saints' Anglican Church will officiate and burial will be at Little Lake cemetery.

Isabella Scott

TRENT RIVER (ENS) — The funeral of the late Isabella Scott, widow of the late John H. Scott, who died suddenly at her home on Monday evening in her 80th year was held from the family residence to the Trent River United church Thursday. The Rev. R. G. Newman, pastor of the church, officiated.

Fellow members of the Women's Association and Women's Institute formed a guard of honor at the entrance to the church.

Mrs. Scott was the daughter of the late John and Sarah Jane Hamilton. She was born in Marmora and was one of a family of eleven children, all predeceased.

Surviving are two daughters, (Doris) Mrs. Eric Little and (Pauline) Mrs. Thomas Waght, both of Trent River, and three grandchildren.

The late Mrs. Scott was active in community activities, having served in many offices of the United church. At the time of her death she was a member of the choir, an elder of the Sunday school, teacher, group treasurer of the WA and a member of the Women's Institute. A special anthem was sung by the choir and two requested hymns were sung.

Pallbearers were Allan E. Woods, Cobourg, Arthur Caverly, Amos Caverly, Marmora, Stanley Miles, William A. Longmuir, Havelock, and Thomas Wight, Trent River. Flower bearers were W. H. Little, Edwin Little, Campbellford, Gardner Gawley, Norwood and W. E. Grifith, Havelock. Burial was in Maple Grove cemetery.

Uranium Boom Producing Uraniumaires

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Uranium Industry Association says some people in its business are raking in money so fast the stodgy old word, millionaire, doesn't quite fit any more.

The uranium boom, it says, is producing uraniumaires.

The association cites the case of Charlie Steen, a Utah prospector so poor he couldn't afford a $95 geiger counter. Yet he kept hacking away until he hit a $60,000,000 jackpot—and then promptly hit another worth twice that.

"Charlie Steen is not alone," the association says. "Others have graduated from hamburger to sirloin — their wives from kitchen sink to ranch mink and their children from a paper route to a Cadillac gadabout."

Before anyone could say, "Multi-uraniumaire," your reporter had grabbed his prospector's lamp, jumped into a taxi gadabout and was off for a talk with the association's president, Maurice B. Mumford.

Mumford is no uraniumaire.

"Prospected all over the place," he said moodily, "and all I ever found was autunite, which the Atomic Energy Commission lists as a tertiary ore. I disagree with them, of course, but that's another story.

ODDS GREAT

"Yes, there are an awful lot of heartbreaks in this business."

But there's the other side, too. Mumford guesses some 19 uraniumaires have been produced. He figures another 500 have come up with somewhat modest stakes. And there are 11,000 claimholders and 20,000 prospectors.

But before buying your own geiger counter and setting out for the Colorado river basin, where 90 per cent of U.S. uranium has been found, a word of caution.

"The geiger counter isn't very good," Mumford said. "It catches only 20 of the beta rays and only one per cent of the gamma rays. What you need is scintillation type equipment."

Which costs money.

"If you came to me and said, 'Mumford, I have a thousand dollars. let's get some stuff and go prospecting,' I'd turn you down because the odds are 500 to 1 against you. But if you had $50,000, so you could get all the best equipment, I'd say you had a pretty fair chance of cashing in."

Find Roman Letter 1900 Years Old

LONDON (AP)—A letter believed to be about 1,900 years old, from a business man of Roman Britain to his staff in London, turned up recently in an antique shop.

Written in Latin, it was scratched with a stylus on a wax-covered piece of wood, and the lettering penetrated to the wood itself. The letter was translated by Prof. I. A. Richmond of Durham University as follows:

"Rufus, son of Callisunus, greeting to Epilicus and all his fellows. I believe you know I am very well. If you hove made the list, please send. Do though look after everything carefully. See that thou turnest that slave girl into cash."

Somebody later used the wood as the backing for a writing tablet, which found its way to the antique shop.

U.K. Government Worried As Britain Losing In Scramble For Exports

LONDON (AP)—British business men are taking a beating in a fierce scramble for world markets. And the slowdown in the country's crucial export drive is seriously worrying the government.

New orders are not coming in fast enough to insure that trade ledgers will stay out of the red next year.

American, German and Japanese exporters are outpacing the British.

If the trend continues it could unhinge the British economy.

Britain lives off its exports. Foreign sales pay for 60 per cent of what Britons eat. That much food must be imported. Exports pay for the imported materials without which industry would grind to a halt.

Today British industry is humming. But too much of the record output is going to meet the booming demand in Britain itself. This homefront spending spree is diverting industry's attention from exports and inflating their prices.

British efforts are doing fairly well in North America. But they are getting beaten elsewhere, especially in Latin America and the Middle East.

"British exporters today are faced with foreign competition to the extent unknown for the last 14 years" says the Federation of British Industries.

Some British export industries, such as aircraft, electronics, steel, have shown themselves to be highly adaptable and competitive.

But on the whole, British exporters don't appear to be hustling as hard as their competitors.

Conditions vary in each industry and market. But generally, complaints against British industry are: High prices, uncertain deliveries, reluctance to take credit risks, making it harder to collect from difficult customers abroad than slower paying buyers at home.

Hollywood Epics About Africa Reveal Boners

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — This story might be entitled "Hits and Misses below the Veldt" or, "They Pulled a Wrongo in the Congo."

It concerns George Michaels, a ruddy, British-sounding native of South Africa, whose forebears hailed from Lebanon. This chap is actually a white hunter, and he has a merry chuckle at some of the boners pulled by Hollywood epics about Africa.

"For instance," he said, "in 'Mogambo' Clark Gable shoots a black leopard out of a tree. There are no black leopards in Africa!

"The picture also showed a cheetah walking quietly through Ava Gardner's tent at night. That would never happen. At the slightest sound, the cheetah would be racing away."

NOT THAT FANCY

"I have been watching some of the African shows on TV, too. The other night I saw a chapter of 'Ramar of the Jungle' which had a battle between a tiger and a water buffalo. Neither is found in Africa."

Another thing Michaels finds amusing is the elaborate safari in most African films.

"They usually show dozens of native bearers, a vast number of tents with mosquito netting and natives in white jackets to serve dinner," he observed. "I have been taking hunters on trips for 15 years and I never saw anything as fancy as that. Once I took out a couple of people from here in Hollywood and they were terribly disappointed because we took along only the bare essentials. They expected a big production.

"Africans are also amused by the portrayals of the colored people in African films. The tribes are often mixed up, with one kind of people shown as living in a type of village that another tribe uses. And they are generally shown all decked out in feathers and fancy attire. That is only for ceremonies. The rest of the time they wear only a loin cloth.

NOT HOSTILE

"Many pictures show the colored people as fierce and menacing. Nonsense! There are no hostile natives, except in the most remote and inaccessible areas of Africa. Even those who haven't seen white men are curious about them. They'll gather around you in interest, not poise spears at you.

"Another common scene shows the animals charging the hunters. African animals are so wary of humans that they will run away at the first sound. Only those who are maddened by disease or the weak weapons of natives would charge."

Michaels has made a lucrative business of combining hunting and movie-making. He long acted as guide and operated a gun shop in Victoria. Now he has made a full-length movie, "African Fury," which Allied Artists will release early next year. You can bet that it will be authentic.

Toronto Child, 8 To Get Bride Doll

TORONTO (CP)—Diana Gooderham, 8, who wrote to a New York department store but forgot to include her address, is going to get the bride doll she wanted.

One dollar was enclosed in the letter which concluded with "love and xxxxx (kisses)."

Louis Tannenbaum, the store's advertising director, said if her address wasn't found dolls would be sent to all Gooderhams in the Toronto telephone book. There are 28.

But first he appealed to a Toronto newspaper. It located Diana the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Gooderham.

3 Masked Men Terrorize Girl, Ransack Home

HAMILTON (CP) — Suburban east Flamboro township police said three men Sunday night terrorized a 15-year-old girl and ransacked the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Bojeckzko.

They said three men called at the Bojeckzko home early in the evening to ask for gasoline. A daughter, Annie, who opened the door, said she was alone and they would have to go to a neighbor's for gasoline.

About 30 minutes later two masked men entered the house by the front door and a third by a rear door. The girl screamed and one of them took her out to the back of the house, while the other two ransacked the house. A few minutes later, the girl was brought into the house and left tied hand-and-foot on the chesterfield.

She was able to release herself shortly before her parents arrived home. She was unharmed. The thieves stole only a few dollars.

85 Per Cent NATO Budget Used In Maintenance

PARIS — The central fact of the 1945 defence program for Western Europe is that European nations are already spending about 85 per cent of their total defence budgets solely to maintain the forces which they have built up in the last three years.

The 'maintainance cost" figure is lower in the case of the United States and Canada, where proportionately more is spent on equipment and less on manpower and standing forces.

But in the case of Greece and Turkey — each of which appropriates between 35 and 40 per cent of its entire governmental budget for defence spending—the maintainance costs are already in the neighborhood of 120 per cent of defence budgets. The difference, of course, is made up by American and North Atlantic Treaty Organization, infra-structure assistance.

In summary, Western Europe is clearly pushing the ceiling of military expansion — and this fact is recognized by both civilian and military planners.

At best, only about 15 per cent of the defence money to be spent next year can be reckoned as potential expansion or improvement money. The rest must go purely for the pay and the feeding, the uniforms and the barracks, the gasoline and the ammunition, the flying time and the normal wear-and-tear of the divisions, the air squadrons and the naval forces in being.

SHOW IMPROVEMENT

The 1945 military program will, nevertheless, show steady improvement — if not expansion — in NATO forces due to the fact that United States equipment deliveries are increasing steadily.

The end of the Korean War has enabled America to expand the delivery of tanks, trucks and all sorts of military equipment for Europe, so that by the end of the coming year there will be a marked improvement in the efficiency of the 97 active and reserve divisions which Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther reckons to be at the call of the Supreme Allied Headquarters.

But this very increase in the flow of American military equipment tends to enlarge the maintenance cost problem of the future. The NATO Military Committee has, therefore, been asked for some clear directive on the problem of what happens when American military equipment wears out.

SAULT MAN DIES IN BLAZING HOME

DESPITE THE DULL DAMP WEATHER during the past three days Mother Nature still provides beauty across the countryside. Last week the fresh white snow and bright sunlight provided beauty for photographers and nature lovers. This week the winter's first layer of thin ice across Little Lake, plus a thin skim of water on the ice, has provided beauty in reflections. An airplane, dry-docked for the winter, and the T-wharf (above) were just one of many reflections seen around Little Lake today.

Comb Area For Woman Said Missing

SAULT STE MARIE (CP)—A 52-year-old Sault man perished today in a fire which demolished a frame house in this northern Ontario city and police are combing the area for a woman occupant of the home reported missing.

Dead is Jack Fogerty, 52, once a noted Sault weight-lifter. His body was recovered from the ruins of the home, along with those of three dogs.

Missing is Mrs. A. Farrell, wife of Fogerty's caretaker, who left the home with her three small children shortly before the fire broke out. She took the children to the home of a son, then disappeared.

The children are John and Judy, 12-year-old twins, and Alison, 8.

SEEN AT BUS DEPOT

Later she was reported seen at a bus depot and police believe she may be suffering amnesia or shock.

Mr. Farrell told police Fogerty came into the house at about 5 a. m. Mrs. Farrell left with the children.

Farrell said Fogerty went into a bedroom and the fire broke out almost immediately. Farrell dashed out to telephone the fire department.

Later he began a search for his wife who had taken the children to the nearby home of her son Sid. However, he found that she had not remained there.

Mine Talks Resume

Toronto (CP)—Talks sponsored by the Ontario government, aimed at ending the strike of 1,500 gold miners at Hollinger Consolidated Gold Mines, resumed at 1 p.m. today. A spokesman for the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL) said the talks, being held in Labor Minister Daley's Queen's Park office, are being attended by Charles Millard, Canadian director of the union, William Mahoney, assistant Canadian director, and other union representatives. Company representatives were not known.

Lakefield Votes To Sell Park Land

LAKEFIELD (ENS)—Two votes made the difference Monday in the Lakefield park lot question and those two votes gave town council permission to sell the lots. Final totals: 175 for, 173 against.

Those residents voting in number one poll voted against the sale, 98 to 89. Those voting in number two, which includes the park itselft made up the difference, however, by voting for the sale, 86 to 75.

Candidates with previous municipal government experience were the only winners in the council and school board races. The 1953 school board was returned while veteran councillors Arthur Kingdon, Judson Hull, Albert Buchanan and Gordon Dunford won seats handily.

Mr. Hull and Mr. Dunford were members of the '53 council while both Mr. Kingdon and Mr. Buchanan have served in the past.

Defeated candidates in the order in which they finished were Charles Serson, Chester Lilley and George Jeffery, council aspirants, and Jay Knox, newcomer to the board race.

Both Reeve William C. Grant and hydro commissioner Walter Killoren retained their posts by acclamation.

POOR TURNOUT

Turnout at the polls was considered very poor with only 33 per cent of the eligible voters casting ballots. A full turnout may have made the difference in the park lot question.

The result as it stands means, in the opinion of the 1953 council, village taxes and park maintenance costs will be reduced substantially.

The retiring council, in putting the question before the voters, endorsed selling the lots.

Russian Response Seems Hopeful Pearson Declares

LONDON—(CP)—L. B. Pearson, Canada's minister of external affairs, today seconded the comment made by John Foster Dulles, United States state secretary, on the Russian reaction to proposed atomic talks. Dulles said Monday night the Russian response seemed "hopeful" and Pearson said today he would go along with that. Asked whether he also would echo a remark by Dulles that the Russian reply did not seem to have caught the spirit of President Eisenhower's proposal, Pearson said he did not wish to go beyond the thought that the Soviet reaction seemed hopeful.

The Canadian minister, in an informal chat with newspaper men at Canada House, said the question of the European Defence Community, one of the most important now facing the Western world, was fully and frankly discussed at the recent North Atlantic Treaty Organization council meetings in Paris.

He said North Americans sometimes tend to get a little impatient about French indecision on EDC. At the same time, the United States was perfectly right in warning France about the possible consequences of failure to ratify EDC.

"Still there is no use saying the Atlantic community idea will come to an end failing this particular method or solution," he added. "there are other methods of association."

GUESTS AT DINNER

During his London stay, Pearson has talked with senior officials. He and Mrs. Pearson were guests Monday night at a dinner at Carlton House given by Foreign Secretary Eden and his wife.

Among the guests were film magnate Sir Alexander Korda and his Canadian wife, Lady Korda comes from Fort William, Ont.

At a Christmas party in Canada House Monday Pearson played Santa Claus for children of Canadian government employees. He had a little trouble with the false beard, which kept slipping off one ear.

"But I fooled the youngest of the children," said the minister.

He was scheduled to return to Canada by air tonight.

Court Sentences Mossadegh To Three Years

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—Ex-dictator Mohammed Mossadegh today appealed his conviction by a military tribunal on charges of treason and his sentence to three years in solitary confinement.

Authorities said it would take 20 days to set up an appeal court of seven judges to review the case of the fiery old ex-premier who was tried on charges of defying the orders of the shah, attempting to overthrow the monarchy and dissolving the lower house of Parliament illegally.

In the preliminary stages of Mossadegh's dramatic trial—sparked by the veteran politician's tirades, threats and capricious clowning—the defendant threatened to commit suicide if he were released and said he would not appeal if he were convicted.

THREAT FORGOTTEN

But as in the case of every other threat he made during the 35-day trial, Mossadegh reversed himself. He wrote his request for an appeal on the document containing the court's sentence and signed it as required by law.

During the trial, the wealthy and emotional old nationalist also once threatened to go on a hunger strike but ended up by having three chickens for dinner. Well on in his 70s, he challenged the public prosecutor, a man much his junior, to a wrestling match. He got up to walk out of the court several times, but nearly always collapsed after a few steps and alowed himself to be dragged back to his seat in a near-faint.

Iranians could expect similar table-pounding and dramatic tactics when Mossadegh's appeal hearing comes up. He had challenged the military court's competence to try him and had maintained he still was premier, despite his ouster during a bloody, royalist coup last August which brought Premier Fazollah Zahedi to power.

Dulles Sees 1954 Year "Of Decision"

WASHINGTON (AP)—State Secretary Dulles said today that 1954 —weighted with such problems as atomic discussions with Russia—will be a year "for great decision," and declared: "Our hopes are high."

In an address prepared for the National Press Club, Dulles reviewed the recent North Atlantic treaty meeting in Paris and, as he did there, stressed the urgency of creating a European Defence Community (EDC) and rearming Germany.

He listed it, as well as the projected Berlin conference with Russia on Germany's future, as among the great matters for 1954.

AGAIN WARNS EUROPE

And, by implication, he suggested that United States forces might be withdrawn from Germany if EDC collapses and German strength can not be drawn into the European defence force.

"It is not acceptable," Dulles said, "that the United States should continue in the role of being a principal defender of Germany while the Germans themselves look on as mere observers."

Dulles said the defence of Western Europe rests on a "precarious" foundation because of long delay —chiefly by France—in creating EDC and rearming West Germany. NATO allies believe the danger of "open military aggression from Soviet Russia" is less than it was a year ago but the danger still is "immense and persistent."

Dulles said the United States government hopes that Russia's willingness to talk confidentially about the international atomic energy problems, as indicated in a note Monday, means that the Kremlin is prepared to talk seriously.

Firms Face Expropriation

RIO DE JANIERO—(AP)—President Getulio Vargas has warned private power firms here—controlled mainly by United States and Canadian interests—they face expropriation if they stand in the way of his government's sweeping new national electrification plans. Vargas made the statement in a speech Sunday at the close of a conference of governors at Curitiba. The speech was published in the newspaper Oglobo here. The president said "up to a certain point" he was being "sabotaged by the contrary interests of private companies which already have profited much in Brazil."

Complaining that the foreign-controlled companies were changing all the Brazilian cruzeiros they earned in Brazil into dollars and taking this wealth out of Brazil, Vargas declared:

"We either are going to create the funds necessary to establish a national power industry on a solid basis, or we shall have to expropriate the concerns which are not producing the result that we desire."

Most private power companies in Brazil are subsidiaries controlled by the Brazilian Traction Co., a holding company with headquarters in Toronto, and the American Foreign Power Co., with executive offices in New York.

Vargas said Brazil's industrial development is behind because of the lack of sufficient and cheap electrical power. He added this situation must be overcome within a general federal plan. Such a plan, now being drafted, proposes th formation of a national Brazilian electric company (Eletrobras). Vargas said Congress has been asked to vote funds for this purpose.

Representatives of the two big North American companies here had no comment to make on Vargas declaration. Some power sources said privately they did not know just what the president had in mind but felt he might have been hinting that private concerns must speed up their own expansion programs in this country if they wished to continue to operate.

Not Built By Moon-Men

20-Mile Bridge On Moon Reported By Scientists

LONDON—(Reuters)—Millions of Britons went to bed Monday night thinking there is a 20-mile bridge on the moon that appears to have been built by moon-men. They heard it on the radio from no less an authority than Dr. Percy Wilkins, fellow of the Royal Astronomical Association. Wilkins himself was among those who tuned in on his recorded broadcast over the BBC.

Today he said: "The BBC has been very naughty—I did not dream of suggesting that the bridge was artificial.

LEFT SOMETHING OUT

"Unfortunately they left out the bit where I said the bridge was an absolutely natural thing."

His broadcast confirmed last July's discovery of the moon bridge by the late John O'Neill science editor of the New York Herald-Tribune.

Wilkins said that when O'Neill sent him an airmail letter asking him to confirm existence of the bridge, which looms 5,000 feet above the moon plain, he suspected it was "just another American 'space man' story."

MADE BY METEONITE?

"But at the first favorable opportunity I looked for it, and there, sure enough, it was."

Wilkins said the bridge, "a gigantic arch, is absolutely unique and the most extraordinary feature known on the moon today." He said that possibly a meteorite created the huge span by crashing into a molten lava barrier.

Dock Workers Vote To Choose Union

NEW YORK (AP)—Dock workers arrived in droves today to vote their choice in the struggle between the old International Longshoremen's Association and the new AFL-ILA to represent waterfront workers.

A steady stream of longshoremen arrived as the Manhattan polling place opened early in the morning in the federally-supervised election. By 8:30 it was estimated 3,500 had voted.

Both unions had cars circling the block. One had banners urging "Vote ILA-AFL." The other union had a car carrying a man who shouted "Vote ILA."

William V. Bradley, head of the independent ILA, appeared outside the polling place, but declined to make any prediction.

Cold Weather Nears Ontario

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ontario, basking in unseasonably high temperatures, is soon to be tightly gripped by Old Man Winter.

Forecasters said today arrival of cold air from the West and North is delayed by a disturbance that has allowed southerly winds to persist over the lower Great Lakes.

But the cold air will move in by Tuesday night and temperatures will drop.

Scattered showers that have been hitting the western Lake Erie and Lake Huron regions, and Windsor and London will change to snow by Wednesday.

For the eastern Lake Erie, Niagara, Lake Ontario, Georgian Bay and Haliburton regions, the weatherman says the same thing will happen and there will be colder weather and widely - scattered snowflurries.

Navy Says Protocol Not Involved In Fire

OTTAWA (CP)—The navy says protocol wasn't involved in a fire aboard the cruiser Ontario at Esquimalt, B. C., Dec. 2.

A Canadian Press dispatch Dec. 7 said a fireman rushing up a gangplank was confronted by an officer who said: "Excuse me, would you mind using the other gangplank? This is for officers." It was a small fire in a broom locker, said the story.

Not so, on all counts, the navy replied in a statement today. The fire was in a four-inch-gun support and it was put out by the ship's crew.

As for protocol, the statement says in all earnestness:

"One of the firemen, rolling up the hose on the officers' gangway, was laughingly chided by the quartermaster at the head of the gangway, who was not an officer. The quartermaster's remark, intended as a joke, was accepted as such, and the fireman carried out his duties unhindered."

Strikers Get Insurance Pay

OTTAWA (CP)—Labor Minister Gregg announced Monday that unemployment insurance benefits will be paid to 350 unemployed workers at the Paymaster Consolidated Gold Mine at Timmins.

Mr. Gregg said he had been advised by the unemployment insurance commission that a previous decision to deny benefits has been reversed on the basis of new evidence.

The commission previously ruled tentatively that the workers had been "locked out" as a result of a labor dispute and therefore were not eligible for unemployment insurance benefits. However, it launched a new investigation Dec. 17 to learn whether there were any "new facts" which might warrant a reversal of the decision. W. J. Russell, regional claims officer at Toronto, went to Timmins to investigate.

Herriot, Auriol Top Candidates

VERSAILLES (AP)—The badly-split French Parliament put off until Wednesday its attempts to elect a new president of the republic. Edouard Herriot and Vincent Auriol led the field of compromise candidates.

Political leaders held a series of fruitless conferences this morning in an attempt to break a six-day deadlock. When the congress met this afternoon to take the 11th ballot since last Thursday, there had been no progress in reaching agreement on a candidate who could get the necessary majority vote.

The party presidents this morning in conversations among themselves sought a private solution which would eliminate further public display of their helplessness.

Following Monday night's 10th fruitless ballot, veterans Herriot and Auriol emerged as the only likely figures generally considered abouve the party squabbles which have blocked the election of a new chief of state. Auriol winds up a seven-year term in the job, Jan. 17. But both are tired old men who insist that they don't want the position.

Hundreds Flee Homes

ATHENS (Reuters) — Hundreds of townsfolk ran from their homes in Agrinion, central Greece, this morning when the area was shaken by a severe earth tremor. The Macrynia district, of West Greece, also was shaken. It suffered its 53rd tremor since Nov. 30.

Store Bombing Clues Scarce

MINTO, N. B. (CP)—Police today reported no success in their hunt for the person who tossed a bomb into the liquor store here Monday night, destroying most of its Christmas stock and closing its doors at least for today.

In Fredericton, meanwhile, two men who identified themselves as members of the People's Church set up a picket line around the capital city's only liquor outlet.

RCMP officers here declined to discuss the bombing, saying only there had been no arrests.

The front section of the single-storey, brick building was wrecked and a hole torn in the roof, indicating the bomb was powerful. The blast was felt 300 yards away.

It occurred at 9:45 p. m. with the street outside crowded with shoppers. Those outside the store were knocked off their feet. They saw no one near the store.

Barge Blows Up At Least 8 Killed

POINT PLEASANT, W. Va. (AP) A big gasoline barge blew up at an Ohio river dock here today and eight men apparently were killed.

Police reported three hours later that three bodies had been recovered, two still were inside the barge and three workmen were missing.

The 200-foot steel river tanker, owned by the Union Barge Line, was being cleaned at the dock of the Marietta Manufacturing Co. at the time of the blast.

Cause of the explosion was not determined immediately.

The barge remained afloat, with several of its hatches blown open.

Arsenic In Icing

14 Members Of Church Poisoned By Candy Gift

LAKE WALES, Fla. (AP)—It was arsenic in the pink icing on fudge sent through the mail that poisoned at least 14 members of the Lake Wales First Baptist church. There were no deaths.

Police chief K. M. Mellick and postal inspector O. C. H. Willard said a laboratory analysis of the candy today indicated the poison was lead arsenate, though it might have been a similar poison, lead arsenite.

Lead arsenate looks something like powdered sugar and can easily be bought for use in killing pests and insects, the chief said.

Mellick said he believes the candy sender had death in mind when he mailed it. However, so much poison was put in the candy that it caused too violent a reaction.

The worst thing that happened was that 14 persons, including several children, reported being badly nauseated for a day.

Five boxes of candy were mailed to church members.

Mellick said there are no suspects. He's puzzled why anyone would single out the First Baptist membership.

Series Of False Tips Slow Police Search

DETROIT (AP) — A series of false tips slowed cautious police efforts today to track down the two remaining fugitives from Saturday's 13-man southern Michigan prison break.

One of the escapers still at large is Roman Usiondek, convicted murderer and criminal psychopath. The other, Robert Dowling, is a convicted burglar.

A telephoned anonymous tip Monday night that Usiondek was in a dingy southwest section hotel sent police through a careful but fruitless search.

Another tip Monday night electrified the police network in the southwest area where three of the convicts were trapped in a small frame house and captured without a fight Monday.

40-Pound Turkey Gift For Churchill

LONDON (AP)—A turkey reputed to be the biggest grown in Britain this year went to 10 Downing street today.

It is to be Christmas dinner for Prime Minister Churchill, as the gift of the British Turkey Federation.

It weighs 40 pounds, and Col. Andrew Melville, vice-chairman of the federation, said it is the biggest all-British turkey the federation could find.

The prime minister was at his country home when the bird arrived. Lady Churchill accepted the turkey on his behalf.

Want To Forget It All

Frightened Cats Lap Up Milk Cocktails In Tests

GENEVA (Reuters)—Cats, like people, will pass up milk to drown their woes in liquor, the United Nations World Health Organization reported Monday.

A W.H.O. report described how 10 cats, shocked into neurotic conditions, took to drink provided by their keepers.

Before their neuroses wore off, eight of the 10 felines had learned to distinguish cocktail glasses of milk laced with alcohol from saucers of plain milk—and almost invariably chose the former.

A total of 16 cats were shocked into neuroses by being badly frightened just as they were about to eat.

Six of them stuck to plain milk afterwards to form a minority temperance group. But the tipsy 10 continued to lap up milk cocktails until they recovered from the psychological effects of their fright.

The lesson for the human species in the experiment, the report says, is that the majority of heavy drinkers are seeking an escape from unpleasant feelings or emotional conflicts.

The organization is laying the groundwork for a seminar on the cure and prevention of alcoholism next March in Noordwijk, The Netherlands.

Britain's A-Defences "Woefully Weak"

LONDON (AP) — Britain's defences against atomic bomb and other attacks are woefully weak, a parliamentary committee reported today.

The report was issued by a group known as the "watch dog committee." It said there have been alarming delays in putting into effect a large program designed to shelter the population, protect railway stations, train volunteers to fight fires and set up competent forces to care for vast numbers of casualties.

It said there was serious delay in acquiring devices for measuring radio-activity.

The committee reported it was "shocked" to discover that civil defence leaders had used only a fraction of the £73,000,000 ($204,400,000) which Parliament has been made available for civil defence projects.

Kremlin Answer Brings Hope, But Some Wariness

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Diplomatic officials today said the United States will move cautiously in meeting Russia's professed readiness to talk about the Eisenhower proposal for a pool of atomic materials for peace. State Secretary Dulles, who said Monday of Moscow's reply, "this is hopeful," may comment further in a foreign policy speech today before a National Press Club luncheon. President Eisenhower, who broached the peaceful-uses atomic plan in a United Nations speech Dec. 8, had no comment on Russia's reply.

But the president had opportunity to discuss it with some of his top foreign policy, military and atomic advisers at a White House conference. The conference was scheduled before Moscow made public its note Monday.

HOPEFUL FEELING

In Washington, the consensus was hopeful but cautious. Most legislators who commented said the Kremlin response was encouraging, but that the U.S. should move with great care.

Dulles clearly foreshadowed in a formal statement Monday a move by the U.S. to provide the "necessary explanation" Russia requested about Eisenhower's proposal.

"The United States will, through the new channels which the Soviet Union now accepts, explore every possibility of securing agreement and bringing President Eisenhower's historic proposal into the realm of creative action," Dulles said.

At the same time, he emphasized Russia "seems not to have caught the spirit of the president's proposal," as shown by outspoken criticism in the Soviet note of some of Eisenhower's speech.

MOVE SLOWLY

The critical comments, actually some 90 per cent of Russia's 3,000-word reply, were the factor causing the state department to move slowly in deciding on the next step.

After careful stody of Russia's response, some ranking diplomats noted the Russians at least 20 times vigorously restated their long-standing demand for pledges of an outright ban of atomic and hydrogen weapons as part of Eisenhower's plan.

The U.S. and Russia have been at loggerheads for years on the mechanics of banning atomic weapons.

The U.S. position has been that any ban must be preceded by creation of an international inspection system to enforce the agreement. Russia has held out for outright prohibition of atomic weapons at the outset and she has resisted the inspection proposal.

NEW APPROACH

President Eisenhower, in his UN speech, proposed in effect a new approach to the problem.

"It is necessary that not some part but the whole mass of atomic material be directed completely to peaceful aims," the Soviet note said at one point.

And again it said:

"As for the Soviet Union, its position is quite clear. It consists in turning the great discovery of man's reason, not against civilization, but for civilization's all-sided progress, not for mass destruction of peoples, but for peaceful needs, for the unbounded rise in the welfare of the peoples."

The president's UN speech, Moscow contended, by-passed this objective. The note said acceptance of the president's plan "would serve to lessen the vigilance of the peoples regarding the problems of atomic weapons but would not facilitate the lessening of the real threat of atomic war."

Royal Bank Has Greater Year

MONTREAL (CP)—Royal Bank of Canada had net profit of $8,635,136 in the year ending Nov 30, compared with $7,129,085 in the preceding year.

This was after income tax provision of $8,952,000, compared with $6,325,000, and premises depreciation of $1,365,472, compared with $1,291,362.

Dividends totalled $4,900,000, compared with $4,375,000, and $3,000,000 was transferred to the reserve fund, the same amount as last year.

RESERVE INCREASED

Reserve was further increased by transfer of $12,000,000 from contingency reserves, and now stands at $70,000,000.

Assets were up $204,399,315. Deposits of $2,734,644,077 were $207,133,640 above 1952's record. Interest-bearing deposits by the public now total $1,234,844,944, a new high. Public non-interest-bearing deposits increased by $54,897,118 to $1,240,424,365, passing the billion-dollar mark for the first time.

Snow Blankets Western U.S.

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Snow and frigid temperatures gripped sections of the midwest United States and Rocky mountain area today, slowing traffic, harrassing travellers and giving some school children an early Christmas present.

A storm, arriving with the first official day of winter Monday, dumped more than half a foot of snow on Kansas and up to 17 inches in the Colorado mountains.

Trains and buses were running late in some sections and a few bus schedules were cancelled. An icy coating on streets and highways caused numerous accidents. Airlines cancelled several flights.

Some schools in Missouri and Kansas were closed, giving pupils an extra holiday just before the regular Christmas vacation begins.

Power Firm Shares Selling $1 Lower

TORONTO (CP) — Shares of Brazilian Traction, Light and Power Company today sold at $6.75, down $1 from Monday's close in forenoon and early afternoon trading on the Toronto stock exchange.

The dip followed a statement by President Vargas of Brazil that private power firms in Brazil may face expropriation if necessary to Brazil's power development.

The stock closed yesterday at $7.75. A few early sales were made at $7.12½. The price then slipped to $6.87½ and most sales were made at this price in a turnover of more than 20,000 shares. A few sales were made at $6.75 before recovery brought the price bac to $7.12½.

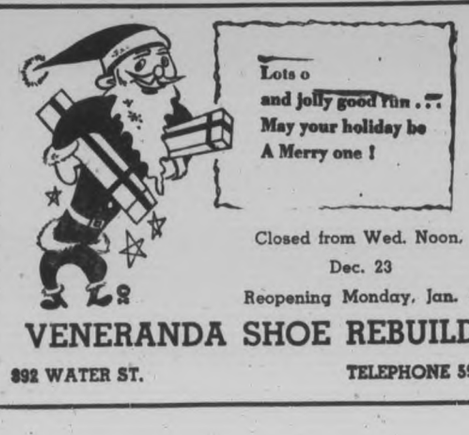
Most Price Groups Lower In Trading

TORONTO (CP) — Most price groups were lower in light early afternoon trading on today's stock market.



Banks, refining oils, steels and foods showed some strength in the industrials to balance losses by manufactures, liquors, utilities and papers. Brazilian Traction was the centre of interest as it dropped from Monday's $7.75 to $6.87½ with a volume of more than 27,000 shares.

International Nickel and United Keno Hill led the senior base metals lower with 25-cent drops.

Uraniums were down. Losses, mostly in fractions, were ahead of gains by a two-to-one margin. Bathurst-area issues were steady.

Golds were a little lower. McIntyre had a 25-cent drop.

Western oils were also down, but Peruvian was 13 cents higher in moderate trading.

Widow Follows Husband As Alberta MPP

MEDICINE HAT, Alta. (CP)—Mrs. John Lyle Robinson, widow of Alberta's former labor minister, succeeded her husband Monday as Social Credit member of the legislature for Medicine Hat less than two months after his death.

Mrs. Robinson, a 53-year-old grandmother, scored a convincing victory over her lone opponent, CCF candidate Edwin W. Horne, in the by-election to fill the vacancy created by the death Oct. 29 of Dr. Robinson, who had been Medicine Hat's legislative member since 1935.

She piled up a 4-to-1 majority in a light vote which followed an exceptionally quiet and brief campaign. Final totals gave Mrs. Robinson 2,463 votes to Mr. Horne's 644 as only about 25 per cent of the 11,964 eligible electors cast ballots.

Standings in the 61-seat legislature now is Social Credit 52; Liberals 4; CCF 2; Progressive Conservatives 2; Independent Social Credit 1.

THIRD WOMAN MEMBER

Mrs. Robinson became the third woman member of the House, joining veteran Social Credit legislators Mrs. Rose Wilkinson of Calgary and Mrs. C. L. R. Wood of Stony Plain. She also is the first woman ever elected for Medicine Hat constituency.

For 18 years prior to her marriage she was a commercial telegrapher for the Canadian Pacific Railway, which employs her opponent as a locomotive engineer.

It was the second time the 56-year-old Mr. Horne, a former labor alderman in this southeastern industrial constituency, had been defeated by a member of the Robinson family. In 1944, running as a Labor-Progressive party candidate, he was a poor fourth to Dr. Robinson.

Canada Gives More Supplies

OTTAWA (CP)—The North Atlantic Treaty Organization needs more and new equipment rather than additional manpower, Defence Minister Claxton said Monday.

Therefore, he added, Canada will spend a greater proportion of her NATO contribution next year for equipment and supplies out of new production.

There will be no increase in Canada's total contribution next year, the minister said. It will be about the same as this year's outlay—about $300,000,000. And there will be no additions to Canadian military forces in Europe.

In a 1,200-word statement reviewing decisions of the NATO council meeting in Paris, from which he returned Friday, Mr. Claxton said chief items of equipment to be supplied by Canada next year will be Sabre jet fighters, T-33 Silver Star jet trainers, minesweepers, electronic and wireless equipment, ammunition and explosives.

Canada also will train 1,200 air crew for NATO during each of the next three years. That is about the number now being trained.

Court Sentences

GUILTY ON 13 COUNTS

The five-man tribunal found Mossadegh guilty and sentenced him on 13 counts of defying Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi.

Mossadegh's co-defendant and former army chief of staff, Brig. Paghi Riadi, was sentenced to two years and ordered dismissed from the army.

When they went on trial last month, speculation was rife that both would be hanged.

MOCKS COURT

The emotional nationalist leader stood gripping the edge of a bench during the 65-minute reading of the verdict and only mocked the court when it finished.

"I thank you very much for sentencing me," he said. "The sentence has increased my historic glory."

Mossadegh was convicted on charges growing out of his defiance of the Shah's decree dismissing him last August. An uprising led by the present premier, Gen. Fazollah Zahedi, toppled the old man from office soon after and put him behind bars.

FACED DEATH SENTENCE

He could have been sentenced to death on the charges, which included illegally dissolving parliament's lower house, the Majlis, and numerous actions against the Shah and the royal dynasty.

The court said, however, that it had reduced the sentence because of a mercy appeal by the Shah. The ruler asked the court to consider the earlier services to the country of Mossadegh, who led the campaign that ended in nationalization of Iran's British-operated oil industry.

The old politician, believed to be well over 70, had hotly spurned the Shah's aid. "I've not done anything wrong to this country or to the Shah," he declared. "I need no forgiveness."

In his final plea to the court, winding up his 35-day trial, Mossadegh urged Iranians to remain neutral between East and West and to develop an economy independent of the oil resources.

$80,000 Fire Damages Ottawa School

OTTAWA (CP) — A 10-year-old boy, pulling a wire plug linked to Christmas tree lights, Monday accidentally started a two-alarm, $80,000 blaze that threatened to destroy a half-century-old school. There were no injuries.

Firemen battled the fire for more than an hour before controlling the flames that gutted the roof and top floor of the three-storey Guigues separate school on Murray street in lowertown Ottawa.

Four classrooms and their contents of school books were destroyed. Some two dozen school children, spending their lunch hour making Christmas cradles, were evacuated along with 10 teachers in the French-language school.

TREE LIGHT EXPLODES

Fire inspector Philip Larkin said the blaze started when Michael Couture, 10, pulled out an electrical wall plug. One of the lights on a third-storey classroom Christmas tree exploded, firing the tree decorations.

Following the blaze, Aime Arvisais, secretary of the separate school board, issued orders that all Christmas trees be removed from city separate schools.

Mine Sends Out Letters With Raise Offer

TORONTO (CP) — Noranda Mines Limited today confirmed that the company sent a letter to the mines' 1,600 striking employees offering a 10-cent-an-hour wage increase if they return to work.

The United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL) representing the strikers said today the letter, under the signature of C. E. Anderson, mine manager, has not yet been received.

Besides the wage proposal the letter contained a proposal for a supervised vote to determine whether striking employees wished to continue the walkout.

CREATING HARDSHIP

It said this request came from local citizens because the strike which began Aug. 21 "has been going on for four months and has created great suffering and hardship on the employees and their families and other residents of the community.

"The situation is becoming steadily worse as the strike is prolonged."

The letter said that although the wage increase would be granted, hours or other conditions of work would not be changed and the checkoff would not be accepted "directly or indirectly."

(The checkoff was one of the main demands sought by the union in calling the Noranda strike and strikes at about a dozen other mines in northern Ontario and northwestern Quebec which have left some 7,000 men idle.)

MILLARD COMMENTS

C. H. Millard, Canadian director of the steelworkers, commented on the letter in this statement today:

"In view of the discussions which have been going on between top management and top union officials, we are very much surprised at this unilateral approach which is a complete negation of collective bargaining.

"The company is well aware that the strike was called as a result of a properly-conducted secret vote. When the union has a proposal of merit, it will be presented to the membership in a secret ballot."

The Noranda spokesman said text of the letter will appear in paid advertisements in French and English in newspapers in the Noranda area today and Wednesday.

High School Teachers Vote For Mass Resignation

TORONTO (CP)—Representatives of Toronto high school teachers Monday voted in favor of a mass resignation by the teachers next May, together with suspension of all the teachers' extra-curricular activities at the schools as soon as the 1954 spring term begins.

The officials of District 7 of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers Federation announced the decision after a closed meeting.

The announcement apparently was the teachers' group's answer to a recent decision by the Toronto board of education to retain the single salary schedule for Toronto teachers.

WANT DIFFERENT SCHEDULES

Under the single salary schedule in effect more than two years, primary and secondary school teachers are paid equal amounts for equal qualifications. The federation seeks restoration of the double salary schedule whereby elementary and secondary school teachers had separate salary schedules.

The vote for resignation was made in the form of a recommendation to the entire federation, which holds its annual assembly here next week.

Cessation of extra-curricular activities would halt coaching of school teams and disrupt publication of student magazines.

Sure Any Writer Or Editor Taken In By DuPre Editor

NEW YORK (CP)—Reader's Digest in its January issue out today says its editors are convinced that "any writer or editor would have believed" the story of George DuPre.

The magazine published an explanation to its readers of an article in its November issue, a condensation of a book by Quentin Reynolds about the supposed wartime adventures in occupied France of DuPre, a Calgary business man. It turned out that DuPre had never been in France. The magazine asks:

"How did George DuPre manage to deceive not only Quentin Reynolds, Random House (Reynolds' publisher) and the Reader's Digest but also his employers, his friends and neighbors, newspaper reporters, intelligence officers, and the countless men and women who heard him speak at meetings of church, business and civic groups over a seven-year period?

USED GREAT CARE

"Reynolds is a noted war correspondent . . . in 15 books and more than 400 magazine articles he has demonstrated his ability to sift fact from fiction . . . DuPre lived in Reynold's home for six days while they worked together. Reynolds spent five days in Calgary. He checked his facts meticulously with people who knew DuPre. . . .

"The editors of the Reader's Digest are convinced, in view of all the circumstances, that any writer or editor would have believed this story. . . .

"Because his sincerity shines through the hoax, thousands of persons whom he has never met telephoned and wired him after the exposure to offer sympathy and support. The saddest part of the DuPre hoax is not that he deceived others. The saddest part is that he so deeply deceived himself."

Meanwhile, Random House reported that sales of the book, now labelled "fiction," have been "terrific" since the exposure. The publisher gave no figures but said that it had knowledge of only one case where a purchaser of the book before the story was determined to be a hoax took advantage of the publisher's offer to refund the purchase price.

Doesn't Approve Proposal To Extend Coronation Ceremony

LONDON (Reuters)—Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, Archbishop of Canterbury, today opposed suggestions for wider Commonwealth participation in the Coronation ceremony.

He said in a letter that an extended ceremony would not only tend to destroy its religious significance but also lengthen the proceedings by a couple of hours.

This would be "demanding much more of the sovereign than one has any right to demand," the Church of England Primate told the Commonwealth review, Round Table, which recently published suggestions for a revised Coronation ceremoney.

The magazine's main proposal was that the swearing of loyalty to the new monarch by bishops and peers should take place in a secular hall after the crowning with Commonwealth representatives taking part.

Fisher said the tendency would be to magnify the non-religious part of the ceremony and little by little to transfer the interest away from the abbey service.

"I would maintain that it is essential to keep the ceremony in Westminster Abbey alone and there to keep everything subordinated to the religious service," he said.

The archbishop put forward the suggestion that the homage ritual in the abbey might be followed by a simple ceremony in which the speakers (chairmen) of Commonwealth parliaments swear loyalty to the sovereign.

Obituary

MARGARET E. BRECKENRIDGE

NORWOOD (ENS)—After a long illness Miss Margaret E. Breckenridge, 52, of Norwood died Monday in a Peterborough hospital.

Miss Breckenridge lived for 35 years in Norwood and district. She was born in Warkworth and lived there for a number of years before moving to Norwood.

Her parents were the late Frederick Harold Breckenridge and Barbara Matheson Graham.

Left are her brother Jack of Whitby and her sister Bessie of Toronto.

Miss Breckenridge was a member of the United Church in Norwood.

The funeral will be 1:30 p.m. Thursday at the McConnell-Warner funeral home, Norwood, the Rev. H. K. Wright officiating, assisted by the Rev. J. Bingham. Burial will be in Warkworth cemetery.

Forgot To Put Tag On Deer, Found Guilty

Delvert Whatman, Ennismore township, who freely admitted in the magistrate's court this morning to having transported a killed deer without seal attached and yet pleaded not guilty to a resulting charge laid by the conservation department, was convicted by Magistrate W. R. Philp, QC. He reserved decision of penalty for one week.

"There is no question in my mind that this man had any intention of deliberately contravening the act, but the Crown submits that the accused's intention are not to be considered and that the act is mandatory to all hunters," said the magistrate. "It is probably hard on the accused and he has my sympathy, but I must nevertheless impose a conviction."

Senior conservation officer Gordon Buie said that on November 2 he had stopped Whatman at a road checking station at Young's Point. A killed deer had been found in the trunk of the car and lying alongside it, Whatman's license and seal.

Whatman, who conducted his own defence, said that it was the practice of hunters to drag their deer to the roadside before attaching the seal. He had intended to do this. However, Examiner photographer Nick Nickels had arrived in a car driven by taxidriver Nick Sullivan and a picture had been taken of the hunters and the deer. Nickels had interviewed him and as a result he had forgotten to attach the seal.

Whatman alleged that he had said in the presence of Nickels and Sullivan: "I must attach that seal." This was confirmed by Sullivan's testimony.

SAW ROADBLOCK

In driving towards Peterborough the department's road block could be seen some way off and Whatman stated, with conservation officer Buie's confirmation, that he had not attempted to evade the officers or the road block. It was Whatman's opinion that most hunters observed the practice of putting on the seal after dragging the deer to the road.

Officer Buie: "Regardless of what is the custom, and I'm not aware of it, the seal must be attached before the deer is transported in any form or manner."

Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw for the prosecution said he agreed that Whatman probably had nothing but innocent intent. Nevertheless, the seal was not attached as provided under the act. He told the magistrate that the conservation officers were pressing for the minimum fine of $50.

Magistrate Philp answered that his opinion, based on a number of recent cases, was that the section of the act was mandatory in that it stated the seal must be attached for transportation. He was not permitted to take into consideration the accused's intention or otherwise.

Rubattel Elected Switzerland President

BERN, Switzerland (AP)— The Swiss Parliament elected Rodolphe Rubattel to the presidency today in just over 10 minutes. As vice-president for the last year, he was by tradition in line for the post.

Parliament's two houses voted 185-4 on the first ballot for Rubattel, 57, and a former newspaper editor. Joseph Escheer, minister of communications, was elected vice-president, and thus is first in line for the presidency in 1955.

Rubattel succeeds Philipp Etter as president for a one-year term.

First Hockey Game Played In Rebuilt Cobourg Arena

COBOURG — (ENS) — Last August, fire, which started in the canteen of the Recreational Centre after a sesion of the Summer Skating School, swept at night through the huge building with such rapidity that firemen were helpless to save it. Daylight revealed a smoking ruin.

Prey to the flames was a $100,000 building. Saved was the ice-making plant. Also surviving the fire was the $10,000 floor donated by the Kinsmen club.

On September 15, contractors moved their equipment into the charred ruins and started the big job of rebuilding. For several weeks this entailed the tedious job of cleaning up the debris. It was found that the front walls of the auditorium could be salvaged.

Work progressed rapidly on reconstruction of the building. Monday night, with most of the job finished, the first hockey game of the season was played in the arena. Mayor Jack Burnet tossed the puck for the starting face-off between Cobourg and Lakefield.

Built on cement piers, the wooden seats have all been completed except to put the backs on the rows of seats at the south end. The former ground floor canteen has been converted into a referee and first aid room. The new canteen is a cement-walled enclosure just inside the rink.

Instead of the high wooden wall that separated the auditorium from the rink, and which helped spread the flames after the fire broke out in the auditorium canteen, there is a cement block wall that runs from the south tiers of seats to the roof.

UNFINISHED

The auditorium itself is not finished yet. Workmen are putting in the ceiling and sheeting the walls. The dressing rooms for the skaters are not finished nor are the hockey dressing rooms. The latter are located in a cement block building abutting the main building at the North end. These are separated from the arena by a fire wall. In the event of a fire starting in the hockey dresing rooms, it cannot reach the main building. The work yet to be completed will be finished by the end of the coming month and the formal opening will be in February.

The side walls are higher than the former ones and enable the rafters to be at a loftier height. The specially-constructed roof supports are slender but very strong and accent the height of the roof. There are three loudspeakers suspended in a line along the centre over the ice and three on each side. These can be operated in series or all at once. The lighting has been improved and prevents any glare on the ice surface.

Stock Exchange Rule Changed

MONTREAL (CP)—Members of the Canadian and Montreal stock exchanges voted Monday at special meetings to allow member firms to incorporate their businesses.

The Toronto stock exchange passed a similar amendment to its rules Thursday.

Plans for incorporation of member firms or for individual members to become shareholders in incorporated firms are subject to approval by the board of management of the Canadian stock exchange and the governing committee of the Montreal stock exchange.

Banks, investment trusts, insurance companies and securities corporations with publicly-held stock are not eligible for membership.

No partner or director is permitted to be associated with more than one firm or with a firm and a partnership at the same time. Shareholders may hold stock in more than one member corporation.

Lindsay Minor Fined For Obtaining Liquor

LINDSAY (ENS) — A 17-year-old Lindsay youth appeared in police court on Monday, after being remanded for a week on a charge of obtaining liquor under the age of 21.

The youth, William Tracey, pleaded guilty to the charge and was fined $25 by Magistrate E. A. Gee.

The charge arose out of an incident two weeks ago when PC William Moseley arrested Tracey and another minor, Herbert Madderson, after finding them behind a closed service station.

Madderson paid his fine on a similar charge a week ago.

Car-Truck Crash Results In $25 Fine

LINDSAY (ENS)—A 19-year-old Lindsayite, Ray Piche was fined $5 and $24.50 costs Monday when he was convicted of careless driving.

Piche was the driver of a small truck which allegedly failed to stop at Highway 7 and Lindsay St. last month. Another vehicle, driven by Robert Henry of Bowmanville, collided with the rear of Piche's truck, overturning it, and sending it skidding into a telephone pole, snapping it also.

Piche told the court he had stopped at the intersection to ask his passengers, Lillian Jeffries and Homer Courriere, both of Lindsay, where they wanted to go. He had looked both ways before starting out into the intersection, he said, and had seen only a car with parking lights on to his right. Assuming it was parked, he drove out and was struck.

None of the occupants of the truck were injured, but damage to Henry's late-model car, which struck the truck head-on, amounted to more than $1,000.

QUESTIONS EVIDENCE

Piche's lawyer, H. E. Richardson, questioned the testimony of Henry, who said he was within the speed limit. He pointed out that a skid mark of 29 feet led to the Henry car, and the radiator of the vehicle had been six inches into the motor.

Crown Attorney Lorne Jordan challenged Piche's statement that he had been travelling about 25 miles an hour at the time, pointing out that the truck had skidded 58 feet on its side into the telephone pole.

Magistrate E. A. Gee commented: "I think both drivers shaded their evidence to fit the circumstances, but Piche should have looked more carefully before he started across."

Piche was given until January 15 to pay the fine.

Publicity For Drunken Drivers

Elsewhere on this page we publish an article which appeared recently in the Victoria Times, as a signed column by its publisher, Stuart Keate. We think that it is of special interest because it states the policy of all reputable Canadian newspapers toward people who, for one reason or another, want to have items of news suppressed which are unfavourable to themselves or their friends. No good newspaper will, or can, lend an ear to such pleas; it must apply the same rules to all news, even though the rules may create painful situations.

* * *

There is one point on which we are not in agreement with the Times editor. We do not think that any good purpose would be served by publishing pictures of all drunken drivers, or by giving extraordinary publicity to them or their offence. Drunken driving is only one of many serious charges which may bring an otherwise reputable citizen into court. To exaggerate its significance is to create a false perspective and to slip into an attractive but exceedingly dangerous newspaper fault—moralizing, and presuming to make moral judgements, in the news columns.

* * *

A newspaper is not a sort of unofficial court, or church, which passes judgement upon what people do. The minute it assumes any such character it puts itself in a false and untenable position. Its task is to report what happens, as objectively as it can. If it has any opinions on the news, it has a page specially devoted to the expression of opinion. No citizen should feel that, when he appears before a magistrate or a judge, he is also appearing before an unofficial judge in the person of a newspaper reporter. Because his offence has become a matter of public business, it will be reported in the newspapers—but reporting does not include the expression of opinion or the expression of moral disapprobation. It is not a newspaper's job to bring any man into disgrace, or to deepen the disgrace into which he may bring himself. The newspaper's job is to report what happens—disgraceful conduct included.

* * *

Driving while drunk is a very serious offence, and deserves stern punishment. The law provides that punishment, and the newspapers report what the law has done. Let those who suffer from the severity of the law remember this, and not assume that a newspaper is moved by a desire for vengeance or sensation when it reports that they have run foul of the law. But drunken driving is only one of many severe offences, and in our zeal to control it, let us make sure that we do not lose our sense of balance.

A Word About Mrs. Traill

Last Thursday the Toronto Globe and Mail published an interesting article about an interesting book; it was The Female Emigrant's Guide, and its author was Mrs. Catherine Parr Traill. For some reason which we do not understand, the Toronto writer insists on calling her Mary Catherine Traill, though the title-page of her book says plainly "By Mrs. C. P. Traill". We have a copy of the second thousand, printed in 1854, beside us as we write. The book first appeared in 1853.

Mrs. Traill's eminently practical volume was intended to give useful advice to women whose husbands had decided to emigrate to Canada. Unlike her sister, Mrs. Susanna Moodie, it was not Mrs. Traill's desire to discourage immigration. It tells the prospective immigrant what to do from the first moment of taking the great decision—where to buy tickets, what sort of ship to choose, what clothes will be needed, what household articles to bring, and what habits and conduct will most advance the settler in the new land. She speaks well of the established settlements, but she warns the immigrant that the forest, the new clearing, and the log house present problems to the mother of a family which she should understand and consider carefully beforehand.

A good deal of space in the book is devoted to work in the pioneer kitchen, to the supplies which will be found, to specifically Canadian foods, and to cooking under makeshift conditions. Some of her recipes strike terror into the heart in 1953; hemlock tea and dandelion coffee, milk supporne, and wild rice pudding are not dishes that we should consume eagerly today, though we live right where Mrs. Traill passed in her pioneer years. And even the most ordinary cooking a century ago was surrounded by difficulties of which we know nothing now. Pioneers, and everyone else, made their own soda crackers, for instance, and we think that some of them must have been uncommonly nasty.

Mrs. Traill's book was widely popular in its day. Although it does not diminish the difficulties of pioneer life it is cheerful and optimistic in tone, suggesting that life in Canada could be a happy and rewarding experience for settlers of the right sort. But we must insist again that her name was Catherine Parr Traill, nee Strickland, for their legend of descent from the family of the last of Henry VIII's wives was dearly cherished by all of the Strickland sisters.

White, Green And Bright At The City Hall

Our new city hall is looking well; indeed, it is an attractive spectacle, especially at night. Two tall and well-formed evergreens have been put up to flank the main entrance; an even larger tree has been erected at the corner, and all three trees are effectively lit—there is not an overwhelming clutter of lights. These, together with the usual flood-lighting of the white stone facade and the newly handsome appearance of the old red brick library next to it, make a splash, a pleasing show. The town has a centre now, and is not afraid to display it, proudly and well.

We could feel even more satisfaction with the city hall were we not conscious every time we look at it that St. Catharines has the same new city hall—with a few alterations here and there of no consequence to the style. It seems that Peterborough and St. Catharines took the design out of the same book—or the architects did.

How Dangerous Are Christmas Trees?

Every year a warning is issued about the dangerous inflammability of Chrismas trees, and people are warned not to put candles on them, not to smoke near them, not to put them near heating pipes, and not to put defective electric wiring on them. Sometimes, as we read these gloomy warnings and restrictions, we wonder if it is worth while having a Christmas tree at all. Yet, when we think the matter over, we cannot recall any instances in which these dire forebodings have been justified; we have never known anyone who was burnt up because of a Christmas tree; the worst calamity from Christmas trees that we know is the falling of balsam on carpets, or the grinding of pine needles into rugs.

The Christmas tree, we are told by people who seem to know a good deal about such matters, is a lingering element of paganism in our Christmas celebration. It is a survival from the pre-Christian days in Europe when trees were considered in varying degrees—and what tree more powerfully suggests the supernatural than the tree which is green when the others are bare? Of old the trees were worshipped out of doors; bringing the tree inside is a custom of the last half-dozen centuries.

When we speak of the pre-Christian era in Europe, we do not refer to such a distant past as some of our readers might suppose. The whole Christian world did not spring into being full-grown. Indeed, as late as the year 1200 there were large non-Christian tracts in Europe, and in many lands the powerful classes were Christian, while their feudal dependents, though Christian in name, were pagan in most of their beliefs and practices. It was not uncommon for a king or a tribal chieftain to be baptized, and then to declare that all his followers were Christians as well as himself; sometimes it was many years before these same followers heard about their changed religious status.

And thus many pagan beliefs persisted, because Christianity had not made much headway against the earlier faiths, even after some centuries of nominal sway. And when we bring the Christmas tree into our houses we are still, whether we realize it or not, doing homage to the god of the Teutonic forests.

An Unwelcome Canadian

We read that Mrs. Frederick Vanderbilt Field, wife of the New York millionaire, has voluntarily left the United States and gone into Mexico, there to take up residence. She took with her her two youngest children. They, like their mother, are Canadians. Mrs. Frederick Vanderbilt Field is not a person acceptable to the United States because she is politically left—in fact, quite a strong shade of red. Her husband is a left-winger, too, but he is an American by birth.

Mrs. Field was born in Montreal in 1917. Earlier this year she was taken into custody by American immigration officials and was likely to have been deported, on the grounds that she had entered the States illegally a few years ago. Mrs. Field was formerly married to Dr. Raymond Boyer, one of those convicted in the Canadian spy-ring case in 1946. She was divorced from Dr. Boyer in 1947 and married Mr. Field in 1949.

One wonders why Mrs. Field chose to go to Mexico with her children, rather than to return to her and their native Canada? Perhaps she felt her welcome back in Canada would be something less than cordial.

A Company Of Players

By IVOR BROWN

THE COMPANY of players from the Shakespeare Memorial Theatre at Stratford-upon-Avon, now on a European visit, enjoyed in 1953 a successful repertory season; lasting from March to October, at the poet's birthplace. They then brought one of their most praised productions, "Anthony and Cleopatra," to London, where they had an exceptionally warm reception. They occupied a big theatre, the Princes, not usually associated with classic drama, and not as central as most of the mid-London theatres; yet it was continuously packed and I have rarely heard in conversation more unanimity of praise for a performance.

It must not be thought that because the company is based on Stratford it is inferior to London teams in its standard of work. At one time the Stratford productions were not illustrious. They were competent and popular, but stars of the London stage did not care to give up the larger part of the year to living and working in a small Warwickshire town, however fascinating its association with Shakespeare.

✧ ✧ ✧

BUT since the war there has been a great change. It was resolved by the Governors of the Stratford theatre, and by the directors of the acting company, that Stratford should rival London in the quality of its performance and in the magnetism of its leading members. Because stars were prevailed on to undertake a Stratford season, the audiences there increased; and because the audiences increased there was more money to spend on the cast and on the production. So quantity of support stimulated quality of performance.

All the leading London players who are interested in Shakespearean work have been to Stratford in recent years, and the theatre has enjoyed wonderful prosperity and a new and increasing esteem. It has been able to enlarge its auditorium out of income. Even so, it is often difficult to get a seat. It is worth noting that the Stratford theatre receives no subsidy from the State or the locality; the only help given is freedom from Entertainment Tax, a freedom shared with any company doing good work on a non-profit-making basis, and so not constituting a particular privilege. At the same time the theatre has been able, still without subsidy, to organize at its own risk extensive and much appreciated tours of New Zealand and Australia, and next autumn it will go to Canada and the United States.

✧ ✧ ✧

FOR THE 1953 season at Stratford its leaders were Michael Redgrave, whose career has included a wide range of important parts in modern as well as classical drama, and also some prominent film roles. With him has been Peggy Ashcroft, probably the most admired actress of her age in Britain today. She, too, has had an extensive experience of leadership in old and new plays, and just before going to Stratford she had been much praised in Terence Rattigan's sombre picture of a restless, unhappy married woman of today, "The Deep Blue Sea."

✧ ✧ ✧

AT STRATFORD during the past year, Mr. Redgrave took the roles of Lear, Shylock and Antony, while Miss Ashcroft took Portia and Cleopatra. Prominent members of the company to visit Europe are Marius Goring, who plays Octavius Caesar, and Harry Andrews, who plays Enobarbus.

But the company's reputation does not depend on its stars. Anthony Quayle, who is general director, and his colleague, Glen Byam Shaw, who has directed the current production of "Antony and Cleopatra," have achieved a fine level of character acting in all parts, large or small. They have been most anxious that there should be no gap between the primary and secondary performance, and their ambition has been achieved.

"Antony and Cleopatra" has only recently come into favour in Britain: there is no evidence that it was popular in Shakespeare's own time, and in subsequent centuries it was given far fewer performances than the familiar tragedies.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE REASONS are plain: its action sweeps across the Mediterranean world with a multitude of scenes, and in the old days of heavy and realistic scenery this made it expensive and difficult to stage. But with the simplified, all-purpose setting now in use that difficulty is avoided; and the great tragedy moves with ease and speed in the decor provided for this production by the talented artists known as "Motley."

Another handicap has been the rather complicated Roman history involved. It would be well to read the play in advance in order to comprehend the battle between Rome, represented by Octavius Caesar, and Egypt, represented by its Queen Cleopatra and her infatuated Roman lover, Marc Antony. Octavius is an austere, tight-lipped calculating man; Marc Antony is just the reverse, luxurious, sensual, lavish and impetuous. He is both allured and betrayed by Cleopatra.

✧ ✧ ✧

SHAKESPEARE'S sympathies seem to lie with the two lovers who were ready to lose all for love, letting an empire slip while they dallied in their passion. Again and again he stresses the magnitude of their love for which they abandoned so much else. They doted, they quarrelled, they doted again; and they lost all. But because their emotions are presented on so gigantic a scale, there is nothing mean or sordid in their infatuation.

Both parts are enormous and challenging. People in Britain were astonished when Miss Ashcroft undertook to play Cleopatra, because they thought sensuality outside her range. But she answered them in a rendering of this part which contains every kind of emotion.

✧ ✧ ✧

SHAKESPEARE seems to have visualized Cleopatra as dark-skinned, but she was in fact a Macedonian Greek, descended from the Ptolemies, who began as generals of Alexander the Great; and her capital, Alexandria, was then not so much an African town as the Paris of the East. That Michael Redgrave could handle the gallantry, the dissipation and the despair of the ageing adventurer Antony, was not unexpected; and he has, in the opinion of most English critics, bettered the exception.

But it is not for me to prejudge what is to be seen and heard. This, however, I will say: that the last two acts of "Antony and Cleopatra" represent Shakespeare at the summit of his powers, and contain poetry of unparalled beauty.

'Impaired' Publicity

(Stuart Keate In The Victoria Times)

AT NOON Saturday the news came over the wires from Vancouver that Arthur Laing, provincial leader of the Liberal party, had been arrested and charged with being intoxicated in a public place.

Within a few hours the telephone began to buzz with calls, some from readers who could ill conceal their delight that a prominent man had (seemingly) been brought down. Under the circumstances, it seemed futile to point out that the case had not yet come to trial and that to arrest a passenger in a car on such a charge was, to say the least, a bit unusual.

Among those who called was a friend of Mr. Laing's who asked if the incident could not be "hushed up". This is understandable, on humanitarian grounds, and certainly not unexpected in newspaper offices, where we are constantly being importuned to suppress news which might prove of an embarrassing nature.

I told the caller we could not do this, and would treat the story exactly as we would handle similar news of any other prominent public figure. In other words, the story would have to stand or fall on its merits; we could not have one set of regulations for our friends and another for people we did not know.

The man who called thought about this for a moment, sighed, and then said: "I guess the newspaper business has changed. Thirty years ago a story like this would have been hushed up. Nowadays it's different. The world changes."

If this is true—and to a large extent it is—then I suggest it is one of the most important advances newspapers have made. Recognition of duty, however belated, must surely be the touchstone of any honest journal.

But, if drinking is to be assessed on a political basis (strange thought!) consider for a moment another case which occurred a few days ago, involving a friend of mine who is a well-known member of another political party.

This man was charged with impaired driving. Within a few hours of his arrest several people called, asking that it be "played down."

The argument in such cases follows a familiar pattern. The offender usually seeks refuge behind those "who will be hurt if his name appears in the newspapers." Dear Old Lushwell. He invariably has five children, an aged mother, and a loving wife who is a pillar of the community—and "you know what it will do to them." (In such cases we always think of what it will do the children he might run down while drunk-driving.)

✧ ✧ ✧

AT ANY rate, in the case under discussion, a lawyer called and asked that the offender's name be left out altogether. Thus, when you analyze it, the lawyer is in the position of asking that you suppress valid news (which ought to be an offense, if it isn't) and eliminating the "punishment by publicity" which in many cases is harder on the victim than the mere paying of a fine.

In at least one U.S. newspaper of my knowledge, the editors make a practice of printing pictures of drunk drivers, no matter what their station in the community. In other words, they are treated like criminals. The idea has its merits.

I have gone into this at some length (and not without a certain diffidence) because I live in the eternal hope that people will stop calling me at home, asking me "to hush up" news of their friends' infractions. To all of them, I have the same answer: we won't do it, because we feel that our responsibility to the public inherent in newspaper publication is far greater than that owed by the personal ties of friendship.

If I am arrested for impaired driving—God forbid!—the standing orders are out: the news goes into The Times exactly where the managing editor decrees it should go.

Cathedral On Ice

(OTTAWA JOURNAL)

The Anglican Church at Moose Factory has holes in the floor so flood waters can come through and swirl about the pews without floating the building away and the Anglican Church at Great Whale River was moved—no doubt with some enhancement of dignity—from Little Whale River, but the flitting of the Anglican cathedral at Aklavik, soon to be undertaken, surely deserves a place in ecclesiastical history in the North.

We are in no position to debate the virtues of moving Aklavik, lock, stock and cathedral, from its present site on a mountain of ice in the Mackenzie river delta to solid earth somewhere else, but we cannot escape the conclusion that the church in the North, even if built on ice or shifting silt or eroding shoreline still is founded on a rock.

In the land of the midnight sun, the land of cold and loneliness and devotion to duty, the strength of Christianity is not in buildings or in ceremonial or in great sermons, but in the self-denial and Christian example of the missionaries of all the churches who labor there, not only in a metropolis of the North such as Aklavik but among the Eskimo igloos, the fishing encampments along the chill coasts, the tents raised near the caribou migration routes and at the tiny settlements of the fur-trade posts, where the sleds of the hunters will converge at Christmas.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Paul, an apostle of Jesus Christ by the will of God, according to the promise of life which is in Christ Jesus to Timothy, my dearly beloved son: Grace, mercy and peace, from God the Father and Christ Jesus our Lord. (II Tim. 1:1, 2.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Consider what I say; and the Lord give thee understanding in all things. (II Tim, 2:7.)

✧ ✧ ✧

This know also, that in the last days perilous times shall come . . . But continue thou in things which thou hast learned and hast been assured of, knowing of whom thou hast learned them; and that from a child thou hast known the holy scriptures, which are able to make thee unto salvation through faith which is in Jesus Christ. All scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness: that the man of God may be perfect, throughly furnished unto all good works. (II Tim. 3:1, 14-17.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Preach the word; be instant in season; reprove, rebuke, exhort with all longsuffering and doctrine . . . But watch thou in all things, endure afflictions, do the work of an evangelist, make full proof of thy ministry. (II Tim. 4:2, 5.)

Fear of Fear Fatal

(St. Thomas Times-Journal.)

A dispatch from Russia says that in making a film of animal life in the province of Tashkent, the producer put a panther and a young deer in the same cage. They expected the panther would soon chew up the deer, but their expectations were not realized. The deer did not show the slightest fear of what in ordinary circumstances would practically be a man-killing animal, but was playful toward the panther, and chased it round and round the cage until the panther dropped dead. A veterinary surgeon made a post-mortem exmaination of the panther, and found that it had a fatal heart attack from fright.

There is a moral in this for human beings. They are are afraid of this, that, and the other thing, whereas if they faced it without showing the white feather, they would find that the person, the ogre they are afraid of, is probably more afraid of them; that the situation they are afraid to tackle is easily resolved. Many a person has been happily disillusioned by boldly facing up to a challenge.

The late President Roosevelt was often quoted for saying in one of his famous wartime talks on the air that the only thing the people had to be afraid of was fear. That was said 350 years ago by the English philosopher, Sir Francis Bacon. But the majority of people still fear fear.

Let's not be afraid of fear. Let's tackle our panthers and scare the daylights out of them.

Taste of Emergency

(Sudbury Star)

A 24-inch water main burst in Toronto the other day, flooding five acres of the city and causing hundreds of thousands of dollars of damage.

The water came within six inches of flooding electrical and heating installations in one of the city's large downtown hotels, which would have meant a shutdown.

News stories of the break made thoughtful reading for the reason that they focussed attention on the dependency of a city on its water services, and the nature of the emergency that can arise in time of disaster.

As the tons of water poured out of the broken main, Toronto's civic administration probably pondered the fate of the city if there were a dozen such breaks all at once—a possibility in the event of enemy aerial action against the city.

Price Of Copper Will Soften Experts Claim

By STEVEN V. DAVID

NEW YORK (AP) — Remarkably steady copper prices, a well-sustained demand for lead and a distinct downtrend in zinc quotations marked 1953 in the non-ferrous metals markets.

The forecast for next year: lower copper prices, a moderate improvement in zinc, and a lead market in which supply and demand are about in balance.

The big surprise of the year to many metals experts was that copper prices held so well. That metal began the year at the ceiling price of 24½ cents a pound. Following decontrol in late February, prices spurted, with each producer posting a different quotation. At one time, the spread was as wide as 27½ to 32 cents a pound. In April, the three major companies settled on a price of 30 cents a pound.

A few weeks later, custom smelters dropped their quotation to 29½ cents a pound and there were predictions that lower prices were coming by mid-summer.

CHILE INFLUENCE FELT

That these predictions didn't come true was due in a large part to the fact that Chilean copper was off the world market for months. Chile had persisted in asking 36½ cents a pound for its output and as a result thousands of tons of unsold copper piled up in that country. As the year drew to a close, the United States was negotiating to buy 100,000 tons of it for stockpiling.

Taking a look ahead, the authoritative engineering and Mining Journal noted that most people "have felt that when Chilean copper again comes into the market the price will fall."

A highlight of the year was the return of trading in copper to private hands in Great Britain. Prices fell sharply when trading began Aug. 5, but subsequently made a smart recovery.

Lead was selling at 14¾ cents a pound as the year began. Heavy imports helped push the price down to a low of 12 cents in April. Then the price started a gradual rise, reaching 114 cents in late July. It later dropped one-half cent, but a decided pickup in European demand late in the year led trade sources to suggest an increase was ahead in the domestic quotation.

Lead officials don't look for large price fluctuations in 1954. Charles R. Ince, vice - president and sales manager of the No. 1 producer, St. Joseph Lead Co., says he believes supply will just about equal demand.

ALUMINUM STEADY RISER

Imports hurt the zinc industry. On Jan. 2, 1953, zinc was quoted at 13 cents a pound, East St. Louis. It had drifted down to 10 cents by September, and there it stayed. As a result, some mines closed down, others curtailed their work weeks and some smelters slashed output by as much as one-third. A renewed cry went up for a sliding scale tariff on both lead and zinc, but the industry itself was divided on the question.

Business continued to boom for aluminium. The commerce department estimated shipments to American users in 1953 would reach an all-time peak of 3,360,000,000 pounds, 700,000,000 above the 1952 total.

Nickel was deoncontrolled during the year, but supplies remained tight. Late in the year, most U.S. civilian users were getting only about 65 per cent of the amount they used before the Korean war.

Tin fell from $1.21½ a pound to around 80 cents as the Korean war came to an end. There was little sign of recovery when the year closed.

VETERAN LOCKMASTER—Lockmaster Samuel Henry Robinson, at 60, is completing 33 years with the transport department as an employee of the Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., ship canal, the world's busiest canal system. He is shown using the shore-to-ship telephone system. One of the five canals is on the Canadian side, the others on the United States side.

BUSY CANAL SYSTEM—This is an aerial view of the world's busiest canal system, which bypasses the rapids of the St. Mary's river and which in 1953 cracked its own cargo record. Four canals are on the United States side of the river and one on the Canadian. Wheat and iron ore made up the bulk of the 125,000,000 tons of cargo carried in 1953.

RESTORE OLD LOCK—The old 18th-century lock at Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., which dates back to the old Northwest Fur Company, has been restored. Built in 1797-98 for fur-laden bateaux the lock was built of timber and rock, was 28 feet long and nine feet wide. Destroyed in 1812 it has been restored. The lock has been replaced by the world's busiest canal system.

128 Million Tons Of Cargo Used Canal

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) The world's busiest canal system here, bypassing the rapids of the St. Mary's river, cracked its own cargo record in 1953.

Sleek Great Lakes freighters, averaging 112 passages a day, carried nearly 129,000,000 tons of cargo through the canal's five single locks—four on the United States side of the river and one on the Canadian side. The old record of just more than 120,000,000 tons was established in wartime 1942.

Iron ore from the Lake Superior country dominated the cargo picture. More than 93,000,000 tons moved through the key Great Lakes transportation link to feed the hungry blast furnaces and open hearths of the industrial east.

WHEAT AND ORE

Wheat ranked second in the cargo picture with more than 7,000,000 tons, about half the record total for wheat, set in 1945. Petroleum products, mostly crude oil piped from Alberta to Superior, Wis., for transhipment, was third with 3,086,875 tons—a record for this type of cargo.

The ore, wheat and oil moved east. Westbound cargoes were mainly soft coal and automobiles —more than 35,000 went to the Lakehead ports.

Giant new freighters played a part in the year's record run. Canadian vessels such as the Sir James Dunn, John O. McKellar and Scott Misener have a carrying capacity of some 13,000 gross tons or more. Inland Steel's Wilfred Sykes has a capacity of 19,500 tons and some other new U.S. vessels rank close to it.

The modern canal, in which 650-foot freighters are a common sight, presents a striking contrast to the first canal the fur traders built in the late 1700s to avoid the back-breaking portage around the then turbulent rapids. Now the rapids are quiet because of diversion of water through power canals, but their rocks are still a block to navigation.

The old Northwest Fur Company built the first lock in 1797-98, for its fur-laden bateaux. Constructed of timber and rock, it was 28 feet long and nine feet wide. A tow path was constructed along the shore for oxen to pull bateaux and canoes past the upper rapids.

American troops destroyed the old lock when they occupied Sault Ste. Marie in the war of 1812. It has since been restored in its original form.

Except for the fur company lock, movement of freight to and from Lake Superior was by portage until 1855 when the United States built its first lock. Until its construction, freight passing the two Saults by portage was estimated at about 12,690 tons a year.

The United States has the biggest of the modern locks—the MacArthur, built during the Second World War. It has a depth of 31 feet and can accommodate any vessel on the lakes.

The Canadian lock, built from 1888 to 1895, has a depth of about 22 feet.

It is estimated that some $55,000,000 has been spent by the United States and Canada on construction and upkeep of the canal system which facilitated industrial expansion in the east and development of natural resources in the west.

Urge Raising Delinquency Age

TORONTO (CP)—Raising female juvenile delinquency age to 18 years was urged on the Ontario legislature's select committee on reform institutions Monday by the Business and Professional Women's Clubs of Ontario.

In a brief presented to the committee the women's organization said that the juvenile delinquents act has not been proclaimed in 14 counties or districts of the province.

The brief suggested this should be remedied.

Establishment of juvenile courts wherever necessary to implement proclamation of the Juvenile Delinquents Act was also suggested in the brief. The organization suggested the provincial government assume all financial responsibility for juvenile courts and officials.

Motorists Warned

TORONTO (CP)—Commissioner E. V. McNeill of the Ontario Provincial Police has appealed to all motorists to exercise care and caution on streets and highways during the holiday season. "A careless thinker can be a thoughtless drinker or a reckless driver," he said. "It is the drivers who just will not behave who cause so much grief."

Tourists Set Record

TORONTO (CP)—A record 1,496,027 tourist cars were listed as entering Ontario in 1953 up to the end of November, Travel Minister Cecile said Monday. He said the figure may reach 1,500,000 before the end of the year. The total to date is 12.5 per cent more than during the same period last year.

Crash Kills One

HAMILTON (CP)—Douglas Fraser of Toronto was killed Monday night in a two-car collision on the Queen Elizabeth Way near Fruitland. Police said both cars left the road after one had struck the other from the rear.

Policeman Freed

TORONTO (CP) — A manslaughter charge laid against Police Constable Edwin Barkley after the death of a Toronto youth shot in a warehouse break-in was dismissed Monday. Testimony was that Garfield Belfon was one of three youths inside a dental supply warehouse when Constable Barkley investigated. One of the youths tipped a crate over, hitting the officer and discharging his gun. Belfon was killed.

FORMER TORONTO MAPLE LEAF, Vic Gregg, now playing coach for Orillia Pontiacs, and Petes' star Chum Fryia exchange words then blows in the first period of Monday night's game at Civic Arena. The two (top photo) still punch each other as referee Maurice Walsh (left) keeps Orillia goalie Bob Shropshire, an unidentified Orillia player, Coach Ed Redmond and Lloyd Pearsall away. Referee Jim Crombie stands close enough to keep Gus Leonard from interfering. The fight started after Gregg had racked Fryia along the boards. Gregg and Fryia had several minor flare-ups previous to the fight, one for instance is shown in the lower photo when Gregg, with his stick between Fryia's legs, twists the Pete player enough to make the pass to Toodie Greenlaw (second from left) deflect into the corner.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

A para from the St. Kitts' sheet: "Bunny Morganson reports that Denny Peterson is now living in Peterborough and will play for the OLA Trailermen next season. Unless we are mistaken, Peterson has not yet received his release from Mimico Mounties and, until he receives that valuable slip, he can not play for any other senior lacrosse club. Residence rules were thrown out last year so the fact that Peterson lives in Peterborough doesn't enter into the arguments of where he will play in 1954. Incidentally, the blond Denny is playing good hockey for the Peterborough senior 'B' team this winter." What Denny's OLA status will be next year will be dealt with when the senior clubs meet again, but you may be sure the Petes' officials will make a strong bid for his services.

There was a time when puck fans never saw a bespectacled player, but a fairish number wear specs now. However, the contact ones are proving popular and much safer in a rugged sport like hockey. Fred Shero, defenceman for Cleveland of the AHL, invested $150 in a pair of contact lenses and has scored more goals in 23 games this season than he did a year ago in 64 tilts. They seem to have done him a lot of good in spotting him net openings. Teammate Tommy Williams has also decided to discard the ordinary glasses for the contact ones. Some gridders and ball players wear this type, too.

Change 'em on Fly

Occasionally one hears a hockey coach yelling at his players: "Get a whistle!" So that he can change the forward lines and possibly the defence. We don't think should be necessary at all, and are against slowing up play by deliberately shooting offside or icing in order to have the ref toot his whistle. What's wrong with players changing on the fly, when they tire? Surely they should have sense enough to skate to their bench when tired, letting anxious teammates take over on the jump. It keeps the pace moving and gets away from the amateurish picture of deliberately drawing a whistle. You don't see the pros wearing their tongues like neckties—if they don't get a whistle when tired they change on the fly.

If the Petes can just yank out a victory tonight in Bella Villa they'll be sitting pretty in third place, one game behind Oshawa and one and a half back of Kingston. Right now they have 16 points, one less than Orillia, who the locals trimmed 6-4 here last eve. But it has been a stiff grind lately, and they'll sure appreciate a rest the balance of the week after tonight's tilt. A Quinte triumph tonight will pull Memos up to within two games of Petes, but a Belleville loss leaves 'em mired deeper in the cellar. Quite a dogfight among the five clubs right from the start of the senior "B" schedule, and it should be hot down to the finish line.

Neat Passing Plays

In the absence of Jim Ellis, Frank (Drake) Jobling took over the bench as manager last p.m., and he and Coach Eddie Redmond were happy indeed at the Petes' display. They clicked fine on passing, hustled all the way and held their own in the bumping department 'gainst the rugged Pontiacs. Chum Fryia did even better than that in beating husky Vic Grigg to the ice when the latter started fisticuffs. How he go away with a minor penalty as Chum drew a major we don't know. Lloyd Pearsall wasn't as fortunate after a high-sticking infraction but talked himself into a match misconduct as he tried to attack Ref Jim Crombie. Orillia drew 10 of the 14 penalties, and rated them all.

* * * * * *

Jim Munroe came up with a smart showing, but all the defencemen were digging last p.m. Greenlaw and Fryia led the snipers, and they're well up in the loop scoring race. Erwin Duncan of Memos leads with 29 points, Murray and McGregor of K's have 28, Ed Duncan and Fryia 27, Bowen 26, Greenlaw 25, while Hooper and Gus Leonard each have 22. Jack Donlevy was good again in goal, and Redmond solid at the blue line. Several of the others in local livery deserve mention, as well, and the whole club clicked smartly. They built up fast combination thrusts that would have looked even prettier on a larger surface. Pontiacs are tough to take, having plenty of experienced, scrappy players, and the Petes had to be good to gain that 6-4 bulge.

PORTERHOUSE, voted No. 1 colt among the 1953 two-year-olds, has resumed training at the Santa Anita race track, Arcadia, Cal. The horse, shown with jockey Joe Manzi, was injured in the recent Pimlico Futurity but is expected to be in shape for the coming meeting, including the $100,000 Santa Anita Derby. Porterhouse was picked as the two-year-old Horse of the Year by the Thoroughbred Racing Association's board of selection.

Rolls Single Of 324

In the Wednesday afternoon lasses' bowling league last week, L. Ranesbottom led with high single of 324 in her total of 603. Other good singles were V. Downer 234, L. Woods 227 and F. Kokesh 212. The better triples were: H. Bleakley and V. Downer 552 each, F. Kotsh 510 and M. Young 507. Rockets led teams with 2471 pinnage and a single of 900.

The 3-0 triumphs on the night's play were taken by Rockets over Ramblers and Whizz Bangs over Wildcats. The 2-1 victories were captured by Bombers over Eager Beavers, Happy Gang against Cisco Kids, Terrors over Dinkies and the Playfairs over Tornadoes.

THE Calvert SPORTS COLUMN

by Elmer Ferguson

"There must be a better way to make a living" complained Santa Claus as he serviced his jet-plane preparatory to his last round-up of clients for the 1953 Xmas season. "Between the high cost of living, shortages and strikes, I can't get the boys and girls what they're looking for. Why, some of the National Hockey League clubs have been writing in, asking me to provide them with a winner. One can't do that" he added regretfully.

"What," we wanted to know, "is the most important shortage?"

"I'd say common sense," retorted Santa, tugging at his lace curtains, rather irritably. "The things they ask for! For instance, I have a tear-stained request from Chicago, asking me to provide the city with another Stanley up team. I can't do that. Those Black Hawks will have to look after themselves."

Santa fished through the mail, and came up with a letter that seemed to amuse him.

"Here's one from Frank King Clancy, coach of the Toronto Maple Leafs" chuckled Santa. "He's asking for a spare throat, for he figures the one he has won't last him through the season. A great fellow, that Clancy. What you call a real hollerguy, to use a sports term. Wish I could help him.

"From a promoter of amateur boxing events, there's a letter asking me to deliver him a real amateur. He might as well ask for a baby plesiosaurus. And Frank Boucher, coach of the New York Rangers, wants a rabbit's foot. I'll see that he gets it, but he would be better advised to get a couple of tough defense players. Or another Lester Patrick to help take the load off Boucher's shoulders.

"Some letters show signs of intelligence. I have one from a boxing fan, asking that every manager of boxers should be sent a picture of Ananias, so that he could see himself as others see him. One hockey fan wants me to send a noiseless whistle to all referees and linesmen. And a pair of major-sized trouser to all football leaders, because the game is suffering from growing pains and is in fact growing out of its pants.

"I'm sending a gallon of black ink each to Conny Smythe of the Leafs, Frank Selke of the Montreal Forum and Jack Adams of the Detroit Red Wings. Those fellows never seem to require any red ink. And a cash-register to Jean Beliveau, the Canadian rookie, so he can count his money without wearing himself out. . . "

Petes Beat Pontiacs, 6-4 In Rugged Senior Fray To Creep Closer To Third

Coach Redmond's TPT Petes tore through a tough Orillia Pontiacs' crew of puckists here last night to garner a 6-4 OHA senior "B" victory before a so-so crowd. The win pulled the fourth-place Petes up to just one point back of the strong Orillia outfit, nestling in third place. Petes play in Belleville tonight and then can relax with their turkey, gifts and bills till next week. After a stiff scrap Saturday night, the Petes showed a lot of hustle against a rugged club, a hard-hitting crew which drew 10 of the 14 penalties, including a match misconduct in the first frame to Lloyd Pearsall. He tried to attack Referee Jim Crombie after drawing a high-sticking penalty. It occurred during a melee when Chum Fryia and Vic Grigg tangled, the former getting a major for fighting and Grigg a minor for retaliating.

HOW IT GOES

The official standing the senior "B" group at present is:

	W	L	T	Pts.
Kingston	10	7	1	21
Oshawa	10	7	0	20
Orillia	8	7	1	17
Petes	7	9	2	16
Belleville	5	10	0	10

Play was speedy and marked with some rugged checking, especially by the Pontiacs, who carried their sticks and elbows high throughout. It was plenty close all the way with little to choose between the clubs in every period. Petes led 3-2 in the first and it was 2-all during the middle chukker, the locals getting the insurance marker in the third.

Chum Fryia had a pair of counters for the victors, as Denny Peterson, Ted Collins, Keith Montgomery and Toodie Greenlaw each got one. Jim Munroe starred both ways, and he led in assists with three, as Greenlaw got a pair, and Rod Belisle, Bill Crowley, Bert Hill, Gus Leonard and Fryia had one apiece. Both Crowley and Hill were clobbered hard but turned in a solid chore and were fighting right to the finish. Ed Redmond played his usual heady game, and Bill McMaster swapped bodychecks with the best of them. Donlevy was good in goal.

GOT ONE EACH

The Orillia markers were by Bruno Favero, Dan MacDonald, Rusty Aikin and Vic Grigg. Big Ab Bowen had two assists, Clary Payne one and Favero one. Goalie Shropshire kicked out a lot of rubber, too, as the Petes' passing plays were clicking well most of the way to fashion sharp close-in thrusts on him. The refereeing, like the crowd, was so-so.

Shewchuk was off for a high-sticking offence when MacDonald scored in a scramble. Monty got it right back on a fast finish of a play with Greenlaw and Munroe. Greenlaw got another quickly with a back-hand flip on passes from Fryia and Leonard. Collins added another neat one from Hill and Crowley. Pearsall got the gate for elbowing, Grigg going next for tripping. They were back when Fryia and Grigg tangled, Chum knocking his rival to the ice, as Pearsall got in some high-sticking. Fryia drew a major, Grigg a minor, and Pearsall a minor and a match misconduct before the air cleared. Monty got it next for interference and Aikin scored from Bowen and Favero. As the frame finished, Redmond drew the nod for interference.

NO MISTAKE

Early in the second, Fryia broke away with Munroe's pass and made no mistake. Grigg got that back from Bowen shortly. Redmond went over again for tripping, and McLeod returned from an elbowing sentence to see Peterson score in a scramble with Belisle and Munroe in on it. Favero tallied nicely from Favero several minutes later. Bowen was chased for hooking near the close.

Shewchuk was back from a high-sticking penalty in the third when Fryia got the big goal that settled it on a neat play with Greenlaw. Bowen went over later for slashing but was back when Desroches got the official finger for high-sticking. Orillia pressed, but the Petes replied hotly to threaten, too, the rest of the way. Pontiacs pulled their goalie in the dying seconds but it did no good.

Orillia: Goal, Shropshire; defence, Pearsall and Grigg; centre, Nelson; wings, McCrone and Woods. Alts.: Bowen, MacDonald, Payne, Richardson, Aikin, Favero, McLeod, Desroches and Shewchuk.

Petes: Goal, Donlevy; defence, McMaster and Redmond; centre, Leonard; wings, Fryia and Greenlaw; Alts.: Hill, Crowley, Collins, Prentice, Belisle, Peterson, Garvey, Montgomery and Munroe.

Referees: J. Crombie and M. Walsh.

FIRST PERIOD

Orillia—MacDonald 4:22
Petes—Montgomery (Greenlaw, Munroe) 5:03
Petes—Greenlaw (Fryia, Leonard) 6:23
Petes—Collins (Hill, Crowley) 7:05
Orillia—Aikin (Bowen, Favero) 15:45
Penalties—Shewchuk, Pearsall (2), Grigg (2), Fryia, Montgomery, Redmond.

Detroit Red Wings Now Take Over Leadership In National Hockey League

MONTREAL (CP)—Christmas week burst on the National Hockey League with growls, broken hea[illegible]d blood on the ice. In a New York clash that had everything but Long John Silver and his cutlass, Montreal Canadiens bowed 3-1 to Rangers Sunday night, thereby losing the league leadership.

Meanwhile, Detroit Red Wings moved into top position with an edge of two points by hammering Boston Bruins 4-2. The New York game had the earmarks of a skirmish among pirates, and before it ended 21-year-old Ranger left-winger Ron Murphy was in hospital with a broken jaw. His head collided with the stick of Bernie Geoffrion, who himself sported a dented noggin suffered in the stick-swinging melee.

Both players received match misconducts and automatic $100 fines.

Canadiens and Rangers are scheduled to meet again the day after Christmas, at Montreal.

Red Wings, who have 44 points compared to Canadiens' 42, also have two games in hand over Montreal. They have played 32 to Canadiens' 34. Toronto Maple Leafs third with 38 points, are followed by Boston, 31 points, Rangers, 24, and Chicago Black Hawks, 17.

STANDINGS UNCHANGED

League statistics released today show there was no change in the standing of the leading eight point-getters last week.

Gordie Howe, Detroit's flash, Geoffrion and Ted Lindsay, Detroit, still hold down the top positions. Howe has 16 goals and 25 assists for 41 points. Geoffrion has 18 goals, 15 assists, 33 points, and Lindsay has 11 and 22.

Howe is the champion assist-getter, but Montreal's Maurice Richard is the foremost goal scorer, with 20, two more than his closest rival, teammate Geoffrion. Richard is fourth among the loop's top point-collectors with 20 goals and 11 assists. Red Kelly, Detroit, is next with 29. Ed Sandford, Boston and Earl Reibel, Detroit, are tied with 28 points each. Tod Sloan of Toronto has 26, while Ken Mosdell of Canadiens has 25.

Toronto Maple Leafs' Harry Lumley remains the circuit's top goaltender. In 32 games he allowed 52 goals for a 1.62 average.

Canadiens boosted their penalty time to 540 minutes this season, the most penalized team, while their star defenceman, Doug Harvey, is the league's bad man with 72 minutes.

Flowers To Play For Baltimore Colts Next Year

BALTIMORE (AP) — Baltimore Colts announced Monday night that Bernie Flowers, all-America end at Purdue in 1952 who jumped to Canadian pro football, has agreed to play for Baltimore in the National Football League next season.

The announcement was made after the 23-year-old Flowers had conferred here with Don Kellett, president of the Colts, on contract terms. Kellett said he expected to sign him next week.

Flowers confirmed the agreement and said he plans to sign his contract "after talking it over with my family and lawyer." He added in a statement to the press: "I'm looking forward to being in Baltimore with the Colts next season."

Flowers, a top-notch pass receiver who was the Colts' No. 2 draft choice last year, should give the Baltimore team an offensive spark in a department it was notably weak last season.

ALSO DEFENSIVE BACK

He was an all-league end with Ottawa Rough Riders in the Interprovincial Rugby Football Union in 1953, catching nine touchdown passes to become the loop's seventh highest scorer. He also played defensive halfback.

Flowers will be the second all-star Canadian player to return to American pro football. Two weeks ago San Francisco 49ers signed John Henry Johnson, who was voted the most valuable player in the Western Interprovincial Football Union, where he played for Calgary Stampeders.

COMES AS SURPRISE

In Ottawa, James P. McCaffrey, president of the Rough Riders, said the Baltimore report "comes as quite a surprise to us."

McCaffrey said that when he left Ottawa early in December, he told Ottawa officials that he was pleased with his treatment here and considered coach Clem Crowe the best he'd ever played under.

"More than that, he asked us to consider him as a returning player when he finished his U.S. Army period of service, which was scheduled to start this December."

McCaffrey said that under the terms of Flowers' 1953 contract, "the Ottawa club has an option of his services for 1954. If he is not in the U.S. Army, he will exercise that option if he plays football in Canada. Should he play in the United States, however, there does not seem to be much we could do about it."

Aid Injured Player

LONDON (CP) — An English hockey publication edited by Bob Giddens, formerly of Ottawa, announced its readers' fund has raised £250 for Angus Galbraith, formerly of South Porcupine, Ont. Galbraith was injured in a hockey game in Scotland and his left leg had to be amputated above the knee.

Sullivan Leads Scoring Race

NEW YORK (AP) — George (Red) Sullivan, Hershey's flashy play-maker, pulle away ahead of the field in the American Hockey League scoring race in last week's play.

League statistics today showed Sullivan with 51 points on 13 goals and 38 assists. He added seven assists during the week to increase his lead in that department as well as in over-all points.

Harry Pidhirny of Syracuse regained his goal-scoring lead with a total of 23. He's scored one-fourth of all Syracuse goals.

Jacques Plante of Buffalo continued his role as the leading goalie with an average of 2.63 on 84 goals allowed in 32 games.

Two Leagues Announces Joint Schedule

MONTREAL (CP)—The Quebec Junior Hockey League and the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A announced Monday an interlocking games schedule calling for teams in the two loops to play a home-and-home series.

Ontario teams will make one trip through Quebec, playing a game against each of the five QJHL squads, and the QJHL members will take on their eight Ontario opponents in two or three swings through the neighboring province.

The junior loops played interlocking games last season but reverted to separate schedules this year. They decided to re-unite after Quebec Citadelles, an OHA team, were sold to Quebec Frontenacs of the QJHL.

DECLARE OWN CHAMPION

Each loop will declare its own champion and issue its own standings. Games played against teams in the other league will count in the standings.

The opening schedule:

Dec. 22, Quebec at Montreal Royals.

Dec. 27, Montreal Canadiens at Montreal Royals; Quebec at Jonquiere.

Dec. 29, Toronto St. Michael's at Montreal Royals; Trois-Rivieres at Quebec.

Dec. 30, Trois-Rivieres at Montreal Canadiens; St. Michael's at Jonquiere.

Jan. 1, Jonquiere at Barrie.

Jan. 2, St. Michael's at Quebec; Jonquiere at Galt; Montreal Royals at Montreal Canadiens.

Clarence Henry Nails 10-Round Decision

BROOKLYN (AP) — Underdog Clarence Henry gave away 27 pounds Monday night and hammered Bob Baker around the ring in a savage ninth round to nail down a unanimous 10-round decision at Eastern Parkway. Henry weighed 184½, and Baker 211½.

Outboxing the hulking Pittsburgh Negro, Henry scored consistently with his left hooks and then beat off an attack by Baker in the wild ninth.

Henry, a 2-1 underdog from Los Angeles, met Baker's ninth-round barrage and forced him to give ground with his own solid counterfire.

It was the fourth defeat in the 36-bout pro career of Baker who had been knocked out by Henry in 1951. The victory gave Henry a record of 34 wins against four losses.

Boucher Strengthening Teaching Staff For Rookies

NEW YORK (CP) — New York Rangers, with the largest crop of rookies in the National Hockey League, are taking steps to expand their tutorial staff.

The Ranger line-up is studded with promising youngsters like forwards Ike Hildebrand, Camille Henry and Andy Bathgate, defencemen Ivan Irwin, Bob Chrystal and Harry Howell and goalie Johnny Bower.

Now manager-coach Frank Boucher has announced plans to bring up some of the proven masters of the game to show the kids how it should be played.

Already in Ranger livery are Leo Reise, 31-year-old defence veteran of four NHL championship clubs, and Max Bentley, still the prettiest stickhandler in the game at 32 and twice the league's scoring leader in the war years.

Aditions to the faculty will be Edgar Laprade, one-time Ranger play-making specialist who has been in retirement since 1952 except for an 11-game stretch last season, and Doug Bentley, Max's sharpshooting elder brother and left wing with Chicago during the mid-40s.

LAPRADE BACK DEC. 29

Laprade, needed to fill in for Ron Murphy who suffered a broken jaw in a stick-swinging bout with Montreal's Bernie Geoffrion Sunday night, will be available Dec. 29. He has been working out regularly at his Port Arthur home since he was denied reinstatement as an amateur at the start of the season.

Bentley, slated to return Feb. 1, will edge Boston's Woody Dumart by two months as the league's oldest player when he steps on the ice. The 37-year-old Delisle, Sask., resident has been an effective performer in the Western League as playing coach of Saskatoon Quakers.

Boucher admitted last night that he has hopes that a Bentley-Laprade-Bentley line can spark the fifth-place Rangers in the stretch drive.

"It will be a treat to watch them," he said. "Laprade starts the rushes and does the back-checking and that will free both Bentleys to go flying down the ice."

NHL President Delays Decision

MONTREAL (CP) — President Clarence Campbell of the National Hockey League said Monday night it will be three or four days before he reaches a decision on whether any action should be taken as the result of a stick-swinging duel in New York Sunday night.

Rookie Ron Murphy of New York suffered a broken jaw when Bernie Geoffrion of Montreal hit him on the side of the face with his stick.

Campbell met Monday with referee Red Storey and linesman Doug Davies to get a first-hand report of the fight. He said, however, that he would have to investigate further before a course of action is decided.

Murphy and Geoffrion were both given match misconduct penalties for their bout. They also will pay automatic $100 fines to league headquarters.

It was the second run-in of the year for Geoffrion, high scoring Canadiens right winger. He was fined $250 earlier in the season for pushing referee Frank Udvari.

Name Watson Coach Of Frontenacs

QUEBEC (CP) — Phil Watson Monday was appointed coach of Quebec Frontenacs after ironing out his differences with the Quebec Junior Hockey League.

The announcement followed a conference with Hon. Gerald Martineau, honorary president of the Frontenacs, who purchased Watson's contract when they took over Quebec Citadelles of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A division last week.

The two teams were merged, with former Citadelles players taking 14 of 17 places on the Frontenacs new roster.

Watson at the time of the merger was under a one-game suspension and had been ordered to post a $500 good-conduct bond with the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association as a result of a fracas in the Montreal Forum last spring.

SERVED SUSPENSION

He served his suspension Sunday when Frontenacs lost 2-1 to Jonquiere Marquis.

A club spokesman said Watson now must deposit $500 with the QAHA and appear before president Martin Conway today.

Frontenacs successfully pleaded his case with the QJHL which last summer adopted a resolution banning him from the league.

"We did so because Mr. Watson was in a position to convince us in the course of the last few days of his good faith. . ." a club official said.

Offers $10,000 For Big Bout

EDMONTON (CP) — Edmonton boxing promoter Jack Berry said Monday night he has offered a $10,000 guarantee to the managers of five fighters to stage a world championship elimination bout here in January or February with Canadian heavyweight champion Earl Walls. Walls lives in Toronto but boxes out of Edmonton.

The fighters are Nino Valdez, Ezzard Charles, Roland La Starza, Dan Bucceroni and Don Cockell. All, with the exception of British Empire champion Cockell, are ranked ahead of Walls.

He said a top-calibre fight would draw up to $100,000 in Edmonton.

Walls has a record of 25 knockouts in 32 fights. In his last fight here Dec. 4 he knocked out Bernie Reynolds of Fairfield, N.J., in 33 seconds of the first round of their scheduled 10-rounder.

Before you invest your NEW CAR DOLLARS...

Measure the Value the up-to-date way

Be up-to-date with a V-8

Ask yourself before you buy! Can any car be truly up-to-date without a V-8 engine? Look at the record . . . 1953 has been the greatest selling year in all V-8 history—especially for Ford of Canada V-8's! For 1954, other car makers are introducing still more V-8's. But it's still true . . . to date, ONLY Ford of Canada has succeeded in offering Canadians a V-8 in every price class . . . including the low price field!

Be sure... with a V-8 that's mature!

Again for '54, Ford of Canada steps ahead with Canada's newest V-8—by Canada's most experienced V-8 builder—in the completely new, advanced-design 161-Hp. Overhead-Valve V-8 Engine which now powers the brilliant new '54 Monarch and the superb new '54 Mercury. Back of these future-keyed power plants—back of every Ford of Canada V-8—is 21 years of V-8 leadership . . . nearly 15,000,000 Ford-built, owner-proved V-8's . . . more V-8's than have been built by all other makers combined!

Today... and Tomorrow... A V-8 costs you less to own!

Yes, thousands of Canadians are discovering it for themselves, on the used car lots and when they "trade in" . . . a Ford of Canada V-8 is worth more when you sell it, and by a substantial amount. What's true today will still be true tomorrow! Canadians are a "look-ahead" people . . . just as the automotive industry's trend is to the V-8, so Canadians are swinging their buying preference to V-8's. And that's why sales of Ford of Canada V-8's are UP 68% this year!

Judge Rejects Request For Union Shop

VICTORIA (CP) — Judge A. E. Lord has rejected a request for a union shop and compulsory dues checkoff made by the Prince George local of the International Woodworkers of America (CIO-CCL).

He was appointed by the British Columbia government to inquire into the strike of 5,000 northern interior woodworkers. The strike now is in its 13th week.

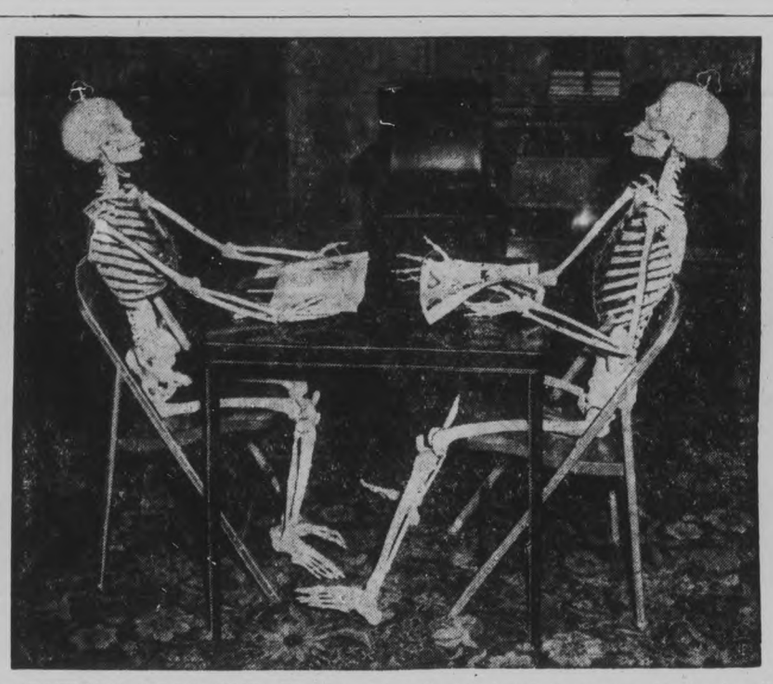
In his report, made public Monday, he said:

"To my mind, it is impossible to suggest that the union is a responsible union."

He recommended, however, an immediate 5½ cent an hour wage increase.

The IWA originally had asked for 18 cents an hour, but later agreed to a conciliation board proposal for six cents. The present basic wage is $1.29½.

UNLAWFUL ACTS



Judge Lord referred to a series of allegedly unlawful acts on the part of the union since the start of the strike, and said:

"This union must appreciate that they cannot attain their ends by unlawful acts."

The IWA had charged operators with intimidation and threats of reprisal, but Judge Lord said:

"On the evidence submitted, I can make no finding that such a condition actually exists."

Judge Lord is expected to start a similar inquiry, possibly next week, into the southern interior woodworkers' strike. Three thousand members have been on strike for 10 weeks, seeking wage increases.

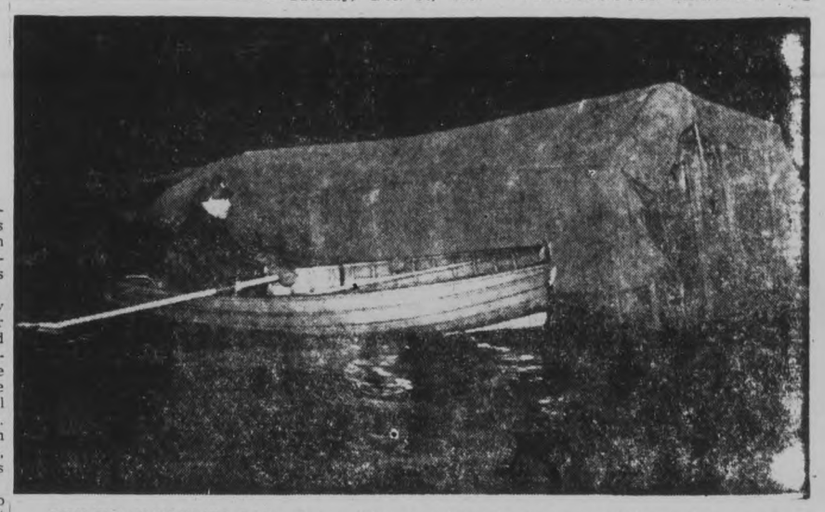
RATTLING GOOD TIME—These two chaps were found apparently boning up on their studies in a dormitory of the Case Institute of Technology in Cleveland, Ohio. Identification plates in their skulls showed that they are, left to right, Skeleton No. 6 and Skeleton No. 5. Further investigation indicated that they were transfer "students" from nearby Western Reserve Medical School. A Case Tech student, who for some reason wished to remain nameless, said it just happened that there was an unlocked door at Reserve's Medical School during the night and the skeletons were just hanging up there, kind of lonely, so . . .

Soviet Veto Threatens Mediation Plan

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The threat of Soviet veto hangs over a key part of a Western formula for mediation of the Syrian-Israeli dispute over the waters of the River Jordan.

Soviet delegate Andrei Vishinsky voiced the threat late Monday after the Reds sat quietly at the United Nations Security Council table during almost two months of debate on the issue. The veto would be Russia's 57th since the council started functioning eight years ago.

In an effort to get the Jordan question settle before Christmas, the council scheduled two meetings today.



Vishinsky objected generally to provisions of the resolution put forward last week by the United States, Britain and France. Until Monday he had been expected to abstain, but he warned that he would vote against the main provision.

TO RECONCILE INTERESTS

This clause would request the UN truce chief, Maj.-Gen. Vagn Bennike of Denmark, to try to reconcile the interests involved in the dispute "and to take such steps as he may deem appropriate to effect a reconciliation, having in view the development of the natural resources affected in a just and orderly manner for the general welfare."

Vishinsky contended this was too broad and did not deal specifically with Syria's complaint that an Israeli hydro-electric project would divert Jordan waters needed to irrigate Syrian lands.

He sought to postpone a vote on the Western proposal indefinitely, but the Western sponsors indicated they would press for a decision.

DRIVER SURVIVES DIP—Driver William Potter, 23, managed to scramble through the cab window of this truck when the vehicle plunged into icy Lake Ontario off Toronto's west-end waterfront. Potter told police he swerved the truck to miss an automobile which tried to cut in front of him and the vehicle jumped the curb. A lifeguard is shown rowing to the partially submerged tractor-trailer.

Pope Honors Franco

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Pius Monday conferred the Order of Christ upon Generalissimo Franco of Spain. The order dates back to 1319 and usually is reserved for chiefs of state. The present Pope previously has conferred the order on only three persons—to former king Umberto of Italy, former president Miklas of Austria and Prince Francesco Chigi, commander of the Noble Pontifical Guard.

Santa Claus Pays Visit To Lakefield

LAKEFIELD (ENS) — Santa Claus paid his official visit to the village Saturday afternoon.

Arriving at the Lakefield hotel, he was driven down Queen St. in a cutter, drawn by a grey horse and driven by Rudolph the red-nosed reindeer, to Memorial Hall where Chamber of Commerce president Walter A. Killoran welcomed him and presented a register containing all the names of good boys and girls in the village and district.

After giving everyone a hearty greeting, Santa presented bags of candy to all the children.

The Chamber's float was gaily decorated with trees and Christmas decorations. On it were Mickey Mouse, Dopey and a witch. Two clowns accompanied the float.

While the candy was distributed, carols were played and the children sang.

Retail chairman of the Chamber of Commerce, Ralph Beavis, was in charge of arrangements for the event, and was assisted by secretary Mrs. William O'Brien and rMs. W. A. Killoran.

All Air Traffic Halted At Paris

PARIS (AP)—A strike and a light fog drifting over Paris' two commercial airports stopped all air traffic in and out of the French capital today as Christmas holiday travel neared what should have been its peak period.

Some 2,000 control tower and radar operators struck for pay increases two days ago. With clear weather Sunday and Monday, some airlines continued to fly their passenger and freight planes in and out of Paris during daylight hours.

Fog settling over both Orly and Le bourget airports this morning put a stop to that.

French air ministry officials and strike leaders called a meeting for later today in an attempt to settle the dispute.

Navy Plane Crashes 3 People Hurt

HONG KONG (AP)—Three persons were injured today, one seriously, when a United States Navy Neptune patrol plane from the Philippines crashed while landing here.

Fourteen persons were aboard on a flight from Sangley Point naval air station to this crown colony. All got out.

The plane cracked up when it came in high and hit the runway too hard. The craft skidded 400 yards, then burst into flame.

India Holding Reds

NEW DELHI (AP)—India is holding 177 persons, mostly Communists, without trial, Home Minister K. N. Katju told Parliament Monday. Defending a motion that the Preventive Detention Act of 1950 should run its normal term until the end of next year, he said: "As long as this government continues in power, we shall never tolerate preaching violence and we will stop it to the best of our power."

St. Andrew's LA Exchange Gifts

OMEMEE (ENS) — The Ladies' Aid of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church held their December meeting at the home of Mrs. Isaac McNevin with the president, Mrs. W. Thorn, in the chair and 14 members and four visitors present.

Miss Amy Best read the scripture. A two-minute silence was observed in memory of the late Mrs. McKague.

Included in the program was a reading on the origin of Christmas by Mrs. Collingham, and "Thoughts by the way" by Miss Amy Best.

Mrs. Collingham invited the ladies to her home for the January meeting. The hostesses will be Mrs. Victor Bullock and Mrs. Mac Lachlan. The meeting concluded with singing "Away in a Manager" after which there was an exchange of gifts and a social hour with Mrs. A. Black, Mrs. R. Andrem and Mrs. A. Finney as hostesses.

TB Education Valuable

"Getting plain facts across is as much as part of TB prevention as getting money to pay for preventive services," Hugh Coleman, chairman of the Christmas seal committee, told fellow workers at a recent Northumberland-Durham Tuberculosis Association meeting.

"When the 1953 Christmas Seal campaign is over we shall be able to total up the amount of money raised and we hope it will be enough to cover the projects needed in this community. What we cannot hope to total up, either on paper or in our heads, is the number of people who have learned something about tuberculosis that they did not know before," he said.

"We won't know how many middle-aged or older men and women said to themselves, 'I always thought only the young were likely to have TB, but it seems you're never too old to get it, so I better get out with the rest for a chest X-ray'.

"Wo won't know how many women thought for the first time, 'Every expectant mother should have a chest X-ray because babies take things so easily'.

"We won't know," continued the chairman, "how many adolescents said to themselves, 'It's crazy to let your health go down hill so you're a pushover for TB germs and other germs'.

"Nor will we know how many women said to themselves, 'TB germs and a good many other germs are spread by people who don't know enough to cover their mouths and noses when they cough and sneeze. My children are going to learn to us their handkercniefs'. We won't know, and yet these things are vital to the prevention of tuberculosis. Our educational campaign should be continuous, but as we have more of the public attention at Christmas Seal sale time than we do most of the time, let us spare no effort to spread information about tuberculosis and how it can be wiped out," Mr. Coleman concluded.

Springville YPU Holds Meeting

SPRINGVILLE (ENS) — The home of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Sargent and sons Jack, Carl and Don was the place of this week's meeting of Springville Church YPU.

A New Year's Eve frolic for the Presbytery YPU was announced.

A song service of Christmas carols opened the meeting. Jack Sargent gave thoughts on "The Meditation—Love Thy Neighbor As Thyself."

Catherine Earle read a story of a painting that led to a young soldier's conversion. Then she continued the study of Citizenship begun at a previous meeting. The topics were "Your Faith In God" and "That All Men Might Be One."

Margaret Earle read an article that Bill Piercy contributed to the Bay of Quinte brodcast. Ken Fee gave a reading.

Howard Johnston moved a vote of thanks and appreciation to Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Sargent and family.

Lunch was served by Mrs. Sargent and the lunch committee.

Representing the Presbytery YPU, Lloyd Starke and Joe Whetung, of George St. Church, and Hazel McIntosh, of Springville, visited the Hiawatha YPU on Tuesday evening and were in charge of the program.

Hazel McIntosh chose the topic "God's Unspeakable Gift and Our Response To It." In the discussion period, the topic was whether our present Christmas customs do honor "God's unspeakable gift" and if not, how they might be improved. Discussions were led by Lloyd Starke and Joe Whetung. Games were played after the close of the meeting.

GOODWILL

Used Car or Truck

Sold by Your Authorized

PONTIAC-BUICK-GMC DEALER

THE PROOF IS ON OUR LOTS, RIGHT NOW! We'd like nothing better than to have you compare our cars and trucks, our price tags, with all comers! Just see if they don't add up to proof positive that it's better business for you to deal with us!

We're here to stay — we're out to earn Goodwill! We've got a big investment in our business. It takes repeat business for that kind of investment to pay off! We're proud of our good reputation in the community! We've got to make sure our deal satisfies you, so you and your friends will be back to us in the years to come.

We're New Car Dealers first and foremost — Our used units Genuine trade-ins! We get our profits from sales of new units — that means we can turn over trade-ins on a break-even basis. The result: we are in a fundamental position to give you a better deal.

Our stock comes from new-model buyers — the majority are one-owner cars and trucks. Many are very low-mileage units, most are in excellent shape even before we recondition them, because people who can buy new models can afford to give their cars and trucks the good, regular maintenance that makes them safe, sound trade-in buys!

Booming sales of new models force us to move used stock at all costs! Our sales of new units are higher than ever — so we're taking in more trade-ins than ever. We have to price our used cars and trucks low enough to sell and sell fast! That spells a better buy for you, any way you add it up! And what's more, it means we've got a constantly changing stock, of good variety — the make, the model, the year you want! And many colors to choose from!

You get Our Written Guarantee with every Goodwill unit. A GENEROUS 50-50 warranty protects you for 30 days or 1,000 miles — long enough to assure you that your GOODWILL unit has been thoroughly reconditioned — has no hidden defects at the time of sale that could lead to trouble and disappointment.

All our Goodwill units thoroughly reconditioned in our own specially equipped shops. Another plus you get by dealing with a franchised GM dealer! Big, completely equipped Service Department, capable Factory-trained mechanics, modern testing equipment — and every GOODWILL unit goes right through the shop. You get a reconditioning job such as only a new-car dealer can afford to give you!

You can buy on our low-cost Time Payment Plan. Yes, the same convenient finance plan that goes with new General Motors cars is yours on GOODWILL units. It includes insurance features! It provides terms to fit your income.

You can see what you're buying at our fine, well-lighted lots. Because we're in business to stay, and in business to please you and win your goodwill, we've provided modern facilities for your comfort and convenience. Latest lighting, smooth surfaces, modern offices — because we know buying a car or truck is important business to you, as well as to us! Look for our display lot with the Goodwill sign.

Reds' Attack On MRA Said Failure

Communists and fellow travelers have sought for a long time to discredit and undermine Moral Re-Armament—that organization founded by Frank Buchman which has been active in America, in Europe and in Asia in the interest of better relations among nations, between labor and management and particularly between individuals, Gould Lincoln writes in the Washington Star.

First they tried to tie it up with Hitler and Nazism. Since that lie was exposed, they have spread reports that MRA is basically inimical to union labor—another lie. Here and there these reports have been taken seriously — though only by very, very few.

CIO CONVENTION

Recently, at the CIO's national convention in Cleveland, an effort was made by individuals who apparently put credence in the Communist-inspired charges to have a resolution critical of MRA adopted and defeat for re-election an executive vice-president of the CIO, John V. Riffe. Mr. Riffe was a target because he is an ardent supporter of MRA.

The critics of MRA failed. Resolutions attacking MRA were turned in to the executive committee and to the resolutions committee and were stifled in both. Mr. Riffe was re-elected without opposition when the time came for voting. A resolution was adopted stating, in effect, that whenever an officer joins an organization which has not been formally indorsed by the CIO he will be obligated to say that he joined from personal choice and the act was not tied to his official duties. No mention was made of the MRA, and it is clear that it applies to other organizations. This is the interpretation placed on it by officials of the CIO.

Mr. Riffe, who is widely known and respected in organized labor circles and in others, became a deep student of MRA—which is the very antithesis of Communism. A foe of Communism and opponent of all it stands for, Mr. Riffe embraced the tenets of MRA—"absolute honesty, absolute purity, and absolute love." As an individual, Mr. Riffe adopted the principles which have worked effectively for better relations between labor and management in this country and abroad, as well as between individuals.

WAY OF LIFE

MRA is, in fact, a way of life which can successfully be brought into all human relations. So. Mr. Riffe became a target of the Communists, along with MRA and all it stands for.

One of the most recent moves by Communists and their friends to censure MRA was a report alleged to have been adopted by the International Confederation of Free Trade Unions (I.C.F.T.U.) The report was circulated in the Information Bulletin of the I.C.F.T.U. under date of September 15 last, issued from the Brussels office of the organization. The report was highly critical of MRA. MRA investigated and discovered this report was presented to the executive board for discussion at the third world congress of I.C.F.T.U. in Stockholm in July, 1953.

It was not put forward, they found, to the congress floor for discussion by the delegates. No resolution about MRA was on the agenda of the congress, no vote was asked for or taken. No congress policy was decided upon. Indeed, no official I.C.F.T.U. decision was made about MRA.

Unfounded charges of "dictatorship," "dubious sources of finance" and "anti-union activities" contained in the report paralleled charges previously levelled at MRA by Tass Agency, Pravda and Trud, official organ of the U.S.S.R. trade unions.

ORIGIN OBSCURE

Just how the report came to be compiled by the ICFTU secretariat has not been disclosed. It began, according to the Information Bulletin, with an inquiry from India made by Hind Mazdoor Sabba (Socialist Unions of India).

However, Sibnath Banerjeem, president of Hind Mazdoor Sabba, has explicitly stated that neither he nor his union nor his executive board ever authorized any inquiry into MRA.

Communist opposition to MRA is understandable. MRA has been able to invade the ranks of the Communists themselves — Communists within the ranks of labor, some of them key men, whom MRA has weaned away completely from Communist dictatorship and ideology.

One of the points of attack by opponents of MRA has been its financing. They say that the sources of MRA funds are doubtful or the very rich. Yet the world work of MRA is run on a basis of voluntary giving and sacrifices. Its finances are an open book. It is a regularly registered non-profit corporation in all the large countries of the free world, its accounts are audited and open to the public. In America its financial reports have been supplied to labor officials.

Rich Reward

FARNHAM COMMON, England (CP)—Frances Mattack two years ago patted the head of a bulldog and became friends with its owner, Hugh Dyne, former lawyer. Now he has died, bequeathing to Miss Mattack about £18,000 ($50,000).

Old Mementoes

CARMANGAY, Alta. (CP)—Curios and heirlooms exhibited by the hospital auxiliary here included a 200-year-old snuff box, and a hand-loomed plaid shawl at least 150 years old.

Backs From Driveaway Collides With Car

CAMPBELLFORD — (ENS)—Minor damage was caused when two cars collided on Highway 45 about three miles south of Norwood early Sunday evening.

Edgar Buck, 62, of R.R. 4, Norwood was travelling south on Highway 45 in a small English car when he collided with a car driven by William John Chamberlain, 17, of RR 1, Norwood.

Chamberlain was backing from a driveway, and apparently backed into the path of the Buck car. Total damage amounted to less than $40, and no one was injured.

OPP Constable Archie Eady of Campbellford investigated.

Reimburse Farmers For Dead Animals

MILLBROOK (ENS)—At the December meeting of the Cavan Township council the retiring reeve, Delbert Olan, was presented with a leather bill fold from the council, road superintendent and clerk.

The presentation was made by Lloyd Hooton, reeve-elect. Mr. Olan retired after having served as reeve for three years. In making the presentation Mr. Hooton expressed the regrets of the gathering in losing him from council.

Harold Bradburn who dropped out of council this year on account of illness in his home was also presented with a bill fold, Mr. J. H. McKnight making the presentation.

The clerk, Mrs. P. J. Bentley was presented with a sandwich tray and cream and sugar set in appreciation of her helpfulness during the year. Mr. Olan made the presentation.

During the meeting consent was given by council to the petition of the Durham county district high school board to the united counties of Northumberland and Durham to issue debentures to the amount of $610.00 for the building of a new high school in Port Hope and $430,000 for an addition to the high school in Bowmanville.

W. Bowles addressed the council about a lamb, injured by a dog. He had been able to salvage $8 for it from a packing company and asked the council for the balance of the value of the lamb. He was given $12 for that and an additional $10 for shooting a dog he found worrying the sheep.

Mr. Edwin Eagleson received $45 for the killing by dogs of one lamb valued at $20 and one ewe valued at $25. Henry Little was given $20 also for a killed lamb.

J. H. Burns, attendance officer, gave a detailed account of visits to the school, and, where it had been necessary, to the homes in connection with truancy. He congratulated the council on the work they had done during the past year.

A. V. Thorn, collector of rates, reported that current taxes to the amount of $52,448 had been collected.

The clerk reported that Mr. Salter had been in the office about getting fence viewers to inspect the line fence between his property and that of A. Dewans. Letters were written to both parties and it was hoped it would not be necessary to call in the fence viewers. If it should be so, Mr. Salter and Mr. Dewans are to pay the men.

Mr. J. Whitfield addressed the council about having been assessed for a dog when he didn't own one and was given a refund of $2.

Instruction are to be given to Mr. J. Myers to deliver the balance of the cedar which had been ordered and which he had cut under the supervision of the road superintendent. The cedar is to be used in repairing bridges.

It was decided that council should write requesting the CPR, to repair the road from the eighth line of Cavan township into Dranoel station. This road does not have a great deal of traffic. It leads into the property of Mr. Close.

Wilfred Elson, building inspector, reported he had issued 18 permits for buildings in the township of which 12 were dwellings.

A motion was passed that if the county should cut down Argue's hill and straighten the Millbrook-Cavan road, the township would agree to build a fence on the east side of Argue's hill.

Some of the large items on the sheet of expenditures were the united counties' of Northumberland and Durham levy of $21,973.68, north Cavan school area grant and levy of $10,135.18, a balance of grant and levy to south Cavan school area of $6,917.62; Millbrook Union school section No. 11, $1,221; USS No. 16, $345; USS, No. 17, $86.16; USS No. 17½, $163.14; USS No. 20, $580.37; USS No. 22 (balance), $31.02; USS No. 21 and 22 $576.00; Peterborough suburban high school board $11,025; Durham county district high school board (balance) $1,163.75; payroll and vouchers No. 11 to treasurer of roads, $2,769.92 and the Ganaraska River Conservation authority 1953 levy of $300.

FRENCH-POODLED SHEEP—It may resemble a French poodle dog, but it's only a full-coated sheep being admired by Jill and Peta Hindmarsh at the Smithfield Show in London, England. The sheep had its head and feet clipped to emphasize the woolly coat.

SS 7, Smith, Holds Christmas Party

SELWYN (ENS) — The hall was filled to capacity for the Christmas concert of SS 7, Smith, directed by the teacher, Mrs. Lorene Freeburn. The hall was decorated and the program consisted of short playlets, drills, songs, recitations and a Christmas tableau.

Piano accompanist for the evening was Mrs. Daisy Fitzgerald. Chairman was Wilbert Bullock.

At the close of the program, Mrs. Freeburn presented some of her pupils with awards, some for perfect spelling since September and others for perfect attendance.

Santa arrived and distributed gifts and candy from the tree.

Coastal Lake, River Boat Stamp Markings Valuable

VANCOUVER (CP)—A growing number of stamp collectors are finding a veritable treasure chest in the stamp markings used by coastal, lake and river steamers in British Columbia.

It is a fast-disappearing field, making the ship stamps all the more valuable from the collector's viewpoint.

Only three ship marks now are in use on the west coast. They are those of the Burrard inlet, travelling post office operated by Harbor Navigation Company on the north arm of Burrard inlet; the Prince Rupert and Prince George, both in the northern service of Canadian National Steamships.

Lake steamer, post offices went out when the office was removed from the Arrow lakes sternwheeler Minto late in 1951.

The lake steamer markings usually gave the name of the ship and quite often the destination. Some only used "way mail," the historic marking to denote that the mail was picked up by a carrier and not posted at a post office.

Probably the most interesting ship postal marking originated on the Columbia river at Golden, B.C.

In the late 1890s the colorful river boatman Capt. B. F. Armstrong operated a fleet of paddlewheelers from Golden to Fort Steele. In 1897 his company, the Upper Columbia Tramway and Navigation Company, lost the mail contract but settlers along the route continued to hand their letters to the steamer pursers.

Capt. Armstrong, irked at carrying mail for which he wasn't paid, decided to issue stamps of his own.

These "stamps" were in use for a short time until postal authorities intervened. Today the red-colored, five-cent Armstrong stamp constitutes a Canadian philatelic rarity.

Only a few specimens are known on full cover, including one owned by Bruce Ramsay of Vancouver. A number of sheets of stamps that Capt. Armstrong didn't get a chance to sell are also known to exist.

The Christmas Tree... a custom at Christmas

The Christmas tree, as we know it today, has been used in Germany since the 16th century but was not adopted in English-speaking countries until 1841, when Prince Albert set up a Christmas tree in Windsor Castle. Nowadays the family Christmas tree is one of our happiest customs.

TRENTON, Ont. (CP)—A roly-poly husky puppy arrived here after a 2,000-mile rail journey from Churchill on Hudson Bay. The dog was shipped by Pte. Fred Genereaux of the northern port to his mother here, taking five days to make the journey in a small wooden doghouse.

Auto Engine Now Built To Run Much Longer Without Overhaul

DETROIT (AP)—The 1954 automobile engine, of greater horsepower and higher compression ratio, has been built to run much longer without major overhaul.

Besides the stronger cast iron block, the engine has the advantage generally of better piston rings, smoother and tougher cylinder wall lining and improved carburetion and manifolding. Additional changes have been made in the shape of the combustion chamber on many of the new power plants.

Most of the cars will boast improved braking systems. This has been an annual claim by the auto makers. It takes on greater significance with the advent of the more powerful engines.

To get the fullest braking capacity of the new systems in the quickest possible time, more car makers will have power units in them as optional equipment at extra cost. The power braking systems have been greatly refined since they first were introduced several years ago.

Fire Kills Chicks

ANTEN MILLS (CP)—Two thousand baby chicks were destroyed Monday night in a fire which swept through a barn owned by Frank Coughlin. The fire also destroyed a supply of feed and grain and farm equipment. Loss was estimated at $20,000. Cause of the blaze is unknown.

Tried Holdup Youths Jailed

The three youths who attempted to hold-up J. H. Thirnbeck's general store on highway 7, nine miles east of the city and escaped to evade a road block and lead police a wild night chase before being finally captured, appeared for sentence before Magistrate W. R. Philp, QC, in the magistrate's court Monday morning.

Donald Clark of 1047 Monaghan Rd., and Donald Burfield of Bell St. each received 12 months definite and six months indefinite imprisonment. Cecil La France of the Royal Canadian Electrical and Mechanical Engineers, was not sentenced as Crown attorney John A. Bradshaw still awaits a report on him, due from Toronto.

The youths' attempt to hold-up the store failed when owner J. H. Thirnbeck refused to hand over any cash and in fact told them to "get the hell out of here". As he made a dive for the telephone the three had made off in a car. Later they had been arrested at gunpoint in Peterborough.

Here And There In Sports

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

U.S. SPORT CRITICIZED

MOSCOW (CP) — United States sport is criticized in the Soviet press almost as frequently and bitterly as American foreign policy.

Often American sport is denounced as professional, mercenary, brutal, murderous, degrading. And sometimes, like the game of baseball, it is called piracy of a Russian invention.

The latest Soviet criticism in Ukraine Pravda hits the game of auto polo. Many Americans here haven't even heard about it, but Soviet newspaper readers were told about it recently in a news item which proclaimed:

"United States advertises sensational new sport called auto polo. Drivers of autos fight for the ball on rough and broken field at very high speeds. Often the result of such games is victims among the spectators as well as the players."

GATE RIVALRY SEEN

MILWAUKEE (AP)—A new interleague rivalry for baseball fans seems in the cards.

The attendance battle between Baltimore Orioles of the American League and Milwaukee Braves of the National may come close to equalling interest in the world series and all-star games by next fall.

The Braves set a National League mark of 1,826,397 this summer in a 36,000-seat capacity stadium designed for major league baseball. Baltimore hopes to beat it with the transplanted Browns from St. Louis in a stadium built originally for football.

"We wish them luck," says general manager John Quinn of the Braves, "but they better be ready to hit 2,000,000."

So confident is the Braves' front office that attendance will be larger next summer that they're limiting season ticket sales to 12,000—and less than 4,000 still are available.

Demand was so great when the 1953 season ended with the Braves in second place that orders for next year flooded the ticket office.

GAMBLERS ALSO FORGET

CHICAGO (AP) — Christmas cheer note to horse-racing fans:

Did you pick a winner last year only to find you lost your parimutuel ticket, or possibly, forget to cash it?

Don't fret. You have plenty of company.

The Illinois racing board's annual report showed that in the last decade a yearly average of nearly $80,000 has been realized in revenue from uncashed parimutuel tickets at the state's six tracks.

From 1944 through 1953, uncashed tickets amounted to $798,127.05. The money was turned over to a war veterans' rehabilitation fund.

TROTS CZAR NAMED

NEW YORK (AP) — Governor Thomas E. Dewey, a Republican, has appointed Police Commissioner George P. Monaghan of New York city, a Democrat, as "czar" of state harness racing, to rule it with an iron hand" and rid it of hoodlums.

Dewey, announcing the appointment at a press conference, said Monaghan would have the interim title of "czar" of the $250,000,000-a-year operation until the post is authorized by legislation. He said he hopes the necessary laws will be passed in February.

Monaghan, present at the conference, said he would resign his $15,000-a-year post as police commissioner, effective Dec. 31. His salary as harness racing czar will be fixed by the legislature.

Cautious Optimism After Russian Reply

By REUTERS

Western Europe today saw a glimmer of hope for peace in the atomic age in Russia's agreement to talk over President Eisenhower's plan for international co-operation on atomic energy.

A current of cautious optimism ran through the old world's capitals, whose crowded millions recognize they would make easy targets in an atomic war.

Paris, London and Berlin studied the 4,000-word reply and wondered if Russia means to enter talks on Eisenhower's "atomic bank" proposals with goodwill—or if it is just another round in the propaganda struggle of the cold war.

Moscow radio, which carried the reply Monday night after it was given to the U.S. ambassador in Moscow, Charles E. Bohlen, had nothing to add today.

Tass, the official Russian news agency, said the text appeared in full in all Russian newspapers today, with special emphasis on the passage which said Russia is ready to join private talks on the U.S. plan.

Official government comment on the reply was withheld in the chief capitals of west Europe pending careful study of the document.

But in London, diplomatic sources indicated that Britain welcomes the move, though some were skeptical over the number of "ifs" and "buts" it contained. The reply's insistence that Russia's version of international atomic control—junk the A-bombs and then talk about controls—would make agreement in any talks difficult, they said.

In Paris Daniel Mayer, president of the National Assembly's foreign affairs commission, welcomed at least the resumption of contacts between Washington and the Kremlin on the subject.

At the West German capital of Bonn, where Russian proposals often meet a readier skepticism than elsewhere in Europe, government officials professed to see "a certain readiness" to accept Eisenhower's plan, though they pointed out Russia has yet to back words with action.

Curling News

By HERB MARTIN

Curlers will mourn the passing of Alex. W. Archibald. For close to 40 years he was a member of this club, and it was only in the last few years that illness forced him to retire from his favorite pastime. He belonged to the old school. He joined the club around the year 1906 and had been a very active member. He loved the game, was a keen curler, a good loser, and a gracious winner. He will be missed by the boys at the Charlotte St. curling rink. The sympathy of the club is extended to the members of his family.

We expect to have the draw for the Examiner Trophy bonspiel, Boxing Day, in tomorrow night's column.

Yanks Bolster Pitching Staff

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Yankees, who last week strengthened their pitching staff by acquiring Harry Byrd from Philadelphia, also will have the American League's earned - run leader on their roster next year.

He's Eddie Lopat. Official pitching averages for 1953 released today showed that the 35-year-old southpaw gave up 48 earned runs in 178 innings for a 2.43 average.

Lopat, with a 16-4 record, also topped the league with a .800 percentage. He is the first Yankee pitcher to lead both in earned runs and winning average since Spurgeon (Spud) Chandler of the Yanks did it in 1943.

Billy Pierce, Chicago White Sox lefthander, was runner-up to Lopat in the earned-run ratings. He had a 2.72 mark on 82 earned runs in 216 frames, Billy also had the most strikeouts, 186.

Average compiled by The Associated Press and released last October also listed Lopat as the earned-run pace-setter with 2.43 and Pierce second with 2.72.

Reds Increase Terrorism As Winter Faces Germans

By LEON DENNEN

BERLIN—(NEA)— The Red terror, like an all-devouring plague, stalks the Soviet Zone of Germany.

The Communist rulers are in mortal fear of another revolt.

After the heroic uprising of last June, Premier Otto Grotewohl promised the East Germans a better, more abundant life. He never kept his promise.

Conditions are now worse than before the uprising. The people are facing a hard winter, with a rapidly dwindling coal supply and but little bread and potatoes.

Hence, the terror. The Red puppets are trying to stifle by violence what they failed to gain through empty promises—to crush the spirit of revolt still smouldering in East Germany.

The Russian sector of Berlin, under the gray winter skies, is even sadder than when I last visited it in the summer. In August there was at least the bright sun to dispel the gloom hanging over the unhappy rump city.

There was also some hope. Stalin had just died. The new Kremlin oligarchs, obviously playing for time, talked a bit more softly—even if they acted as tough as ever.

People hoped against hope that, with the Red dictator dead and his heirs engaged in a bloody struggle for power, the free world would undertake some action to liberate the enslaved peoples behind the Iron Curtain.

Now this hope is gone. The East Germans are baffled by the West's passive attitude. Two of the leaders of the June revolt, now hiding in West Berlin, told me the East Germans now realize they will have to fight alone.

Divided Berlin is eerie. The Western sector, despite the cold and incessant rains, teems with life. The gaily-decorated and well-stacked stores on the Kurfuerstandam throng with early Christmas shoppers.

Until Hitler, Christmas was always a gay holiday in Germany. Now West Berliners seem to be in a hurry to make up for the lost years under Nazi rule.

There is an all-German textile convention in West Berlin and a music festival. Hotels, theatres and brightly-lit cafes are crowded to capacity.

But on Leipziger Strasse, in the Soviet sector, less than a city block away from the East-West boundary, all life seems to have come to a standstill. Leipziger Strasse was once Berlin's main shopping centre. Now it is deserted.

Except for the Unter den Linden, frequented by Russian officers and Red German bureaucrats,

"HANGING HILDE" Benjamin: Justice is savage.

East Berlin is like a dead city, populated by shadows.

SHABBILY DRESSED

Shabbily-dressed and haggard-looking East Berliners scurrying occasonally among the fantastic ruins and war debris seem even more desperate than they were last summer.

This time I saw no Russian soldiers in the streets. Only snappily-dressed and bemedaled Red officers strolling along the Unter den Linden. They walked in groups. Some escorted fur-clad and be-jeweled plump women. Their loud talk and laughter echoed in the dead streets.

There were more volkspolizei, tommyguns slung over their shoulders, guarding the streets and approaches to the Western sector. They seemed nervous. After the events of last June they are never secure. They eyed me suspiciously and with undisguised hatred as I crossed the East-West border on Friederich Strasse.

This time I did not try to talk with people. From the moment I entered the Eastern sector I was aware that I was being watched. It would have been dangerous for a German to be seen talking with me.

One need only read the Reds' press or listen to their frantic radio broadcasts to learn the grim facts.

"Not all the people in East Germany are satisfied with our new course," screams a front page editorial in the Soviet Neues Deutschland.

The puppet Premier Otto Grotewohl complains over the radio:

"There are farmers in almost every village who have not met their responsibilities toward the state."

The last time I saw Grotewohl in 1946, he was still a respected and beloved leader of German labor. We had a long session. Grotewohl complained that the Russians were holding a gun at his back.

"I shall never give in," he told me as we parted.

Twenty-four hours later he sold out his social democratic friends and went over to the Communists. Today Grotewohl is the most despised man in Germany.

But even the "Pemier" is not master of his own house. The real rulers in East Germany are Moscow's hired gangsters—Walter Ulbricht, the bearded German "Lenin;" "Hanging Hilde" Benjamin, the "Justice" Minister; and fat, ratty-looking Ernst Wollweber, a global Communist conspirator and saboteur recently appointed chief of the East Zone's secret police.

While "Hanging Hilde's" courts hand down savage sentences to thousands of anti-Communist fighters, Wollweber threatens:

"We will crush the enemies of our people, of our new order and of the peace."

The sinister Red, who has already outdone in savagery and cruelty even his Gestapo predecessor Himmler, is as good as his word.

According to refugees reaching West Berlin, more than 1000 East Germans were arrested in the last two weeks in November as "spies," "American agents," and WOLLWEBER: He is out-Himmlering Gestapo's Himmler.

"saboteurs." This figure is also confirmed by the organization of anti-Communist fighters known as the "June 17 Committee."

ULBRICHT: A hired gangster is Germany's "Lenin."

Death sentences against anti-Communist Germans—some with names and some nameless—are printed in the East Zone newspapers almost daily.

The brutal campaign of Ernest Wollweber's secret police is clearly designed to terrorize the East Germans into submission. But to no avail.

"We shall continue the fight until we are free or dead," Ernest Scharnowsky, Berlin's fighting trade union chief, told me.

As yet there is no sign of renewal of resistance on the scale seen on June 17. One cannot fight with bare fists against Russian tanks while the freed world remains a passive observer on the sidelines. But the East Germans showed great courage before in the face of heavy odds against them and anything is liable to happen.

Western statesmen who hope to make a deal with Soviet Premier Georgi Malenkov would do well to take these grim facts into account in their deliberations—whether at Bermuda, Washington, London or Paris.

A people's desire to be free—the very will to live—cannot be reduced to an empty and soulless diplomatic statement about peace. The Russians know it—even if some Western politicians, however well-meaning, try to ignore reality.

Persians Fear Intrigue By British

By RAWLE KNOX

TEHRAN—The Persian security forces have arrested Mustafa Fateh, a former deputy of the Majlis (Parliament) and former deputy manager of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company.

Mr. Fateh has never concealed his view that the breaking off of diplomatic relations with Britain was a mistake nor that the sooner the British returned the better. He is also one of the very few persons who understands the hard facts of the oil problem. Other arrests among those regarded by most Persians as "Anglophilas" are believed imminent.

Mr. Fateh and those who think like him, however, are always at pains to point out that they are Persians first and foremost and they only want the British back because they believe that the more foreign powers operate in this country the better chance Persia has of keeping out of war.

WANTS INTRIGUE

"If I could get six foreign powers intriguing against one another here," one of this group told me recently, "I would be happier still."

Mr. Fateh's arrest appears to be part of a window-dressing performance by the government before the British return, for the benefit of the opposition, which maintains that the incoming British diplomats will immediately begin intrigue against Persian sovereignty.

In the same manner, pro-government newspapers are explaining editorially that British scheming has gravely wounded Persia in the past and will not be tolerated from British diplomats in the future.

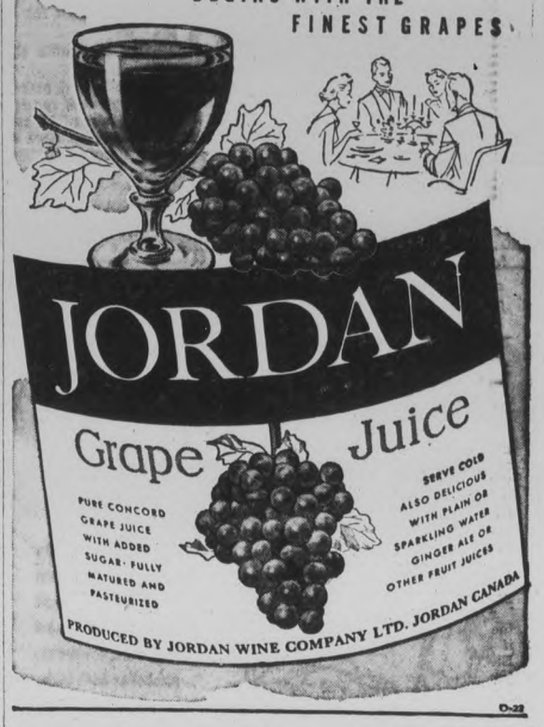
'Sacred Pact' On Liquor Only Legend

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP) — A "sacred pact" which has prevented the sale of liquor in part of New Zealand's North island has been found by an official historian to be no more than a legend.

He says it is an example of how unsound statements have been repeated so often that they have been accepted as true.

It has been commonly believed that the followers of the Maori "king" who occupied the great tract of country in the North island known as the king country made a "sacred and inviolable pact" with the government in 1884. In return for permission to build the main trunk railway through their country and other concessions, the story goes, the white man guaranteed never to permit the sale of liquor in the territories.



To this day no hotels in the king country are permitted to sell liquor. Now a large part of the population want a poll of all residents on whether liquor sales should be allowed.

Temperance and church organizations opposed the proposal, claiming that the pledge was made to the Maori people and any change would be a grave breach of faith.

The government has tested Maori opinion, but influenced by claims of the pledge obtained by their ancestors the Maoris have voted against liquor sales. It is said by those favoring liquor sale that a combined vote of European and Maori inhabitants would reverse the verdict.

Dr. A. H. McLintock, parliamentary historian, was appointed to investigate and he states that neither in the speeches of the then prime minister or the native minister, nor in newspaper and other reports at that time, is there any suggestion that the 1884 proclamation was the outcome of a pact or sacred pledge. It did not bind the government and it could be superseded by act of Parliament.

Invent New Parlor Game Sure Way To Get Rich

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Everybody is looking for a simple, inexpensive way to get rich.

Well, we've stumbled across one possible way. All you have to do is invent a new parlor game half as popular as checkers.

There is a big boom under way now in home games. And guess what is helping it along: Television, no less.

Robert B. M. Barton, president of the Toy Manufacturers of America, is happy to say a kind word for video, which has been denounced as a one-eyed viper responsible for everything wrong from the increase in adult delinquency to the rise in juvenile ulcers.

"At first we were afraid television would hurt us, but it has turned out to be a big help," said Barton. "Families stay at home more now. But they can't look at TV all the time—so they play more games."

Barton heads Parker Brothers, Inc., which regularly publishes 250 to 300 different games.

"We test up to 1,000 new games each year, of which only about two per cent are put on the market," he said. "Most of them are invented by professionals, but some of the best are the work of amateurs."

MONOPOLY A HIT

An example was Charles Darrow, an unemployed Philadelphia heating engineer, who in 1935 invented "Monopoly," one of the most popular new games of this century.

Game publishing resembles song and book publishing in many ways.

"Each game is a business gamble," said Barton. "You can spend anything from $10,000 to $150,000 marketing a new game—and lose it all. You never can be sure what the public will like.

"When it comes to this field a housewife with a fresh idea may make the oldest professional game inventor look like a beginner. She may be closer to new trends. The main thing about any game is that it must be fun."

Barton says Chess is still the most popular game in the world, but in the United States is outranked 50 to 1 by checkers.

"I wish I had the sole rights to checkers," he said, wistfully.

New Costa Rica President Wants Half Banana Profits

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica—(NEA)—Jose Figueres wants a bigger share of the banana.

Figueres is the new, bouncing, half-pint president of Costa Rica. The banana is Costa Rica's principal industry. There's also coffee, hemp and minerals — but mostly it's the millions of pale green banana shipped northward to the U.S. that Figueres wants to slice up more equitably, as he sees it, for his people.

In a small way this is the story of the Iranians, their oil and the British refiners at Abadan. The British refused to give the Iranians the division they wanted so the Iranians threw them out and nationalized the refineries.

Figueres, who is ardently anti-Red and pro-U.S., a former student at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, doesn't want to throw out United Fruit Company, the banana colossus of Central America.

What he wants now is 50 per cent of the proceeds of foreign investments here instead of the 15 per cent tax contracted for in 1949.

But eventually he wants the whole banana.

"Hemispheric policy demands the gradual withdrawal of foreign capital," he told a group of American newsmen who came here at the time of his inauguration. "But that can be done without confiscation or violence."

Eventually, he told us, he would like to see Costa Ricans handling all aspects of production down to the dock side—including the profits. There the bananas (or coffee or other products of Costa Rica's labor) would be turned over to U.S. shippers, who would make their profit on distribution rights.

Figueres is acclaimed as the last great hope of Central America by some but by others as dangerously socialistic. He's 5 feet 3, 47 years old, divorced and childless. He neither drinks nor smokes. He is a keen student of economics and fluent in English.

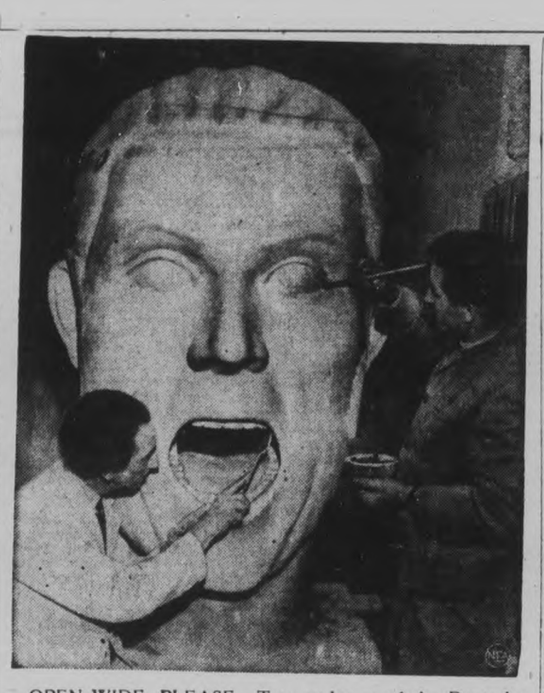
Figueres took office under the eyes of delegations from 40 nations and with the blessing of the Roman Catholic Church.

NO ABSTENTEE OWNERS

"I want to overcome the dividing of rich and powerful countries from poor countries," he said. "I favor Costa Rican ownership of its land and industries, not absentee ownership by strangling foreign capital. We can no longer tolerate having a government within a government.

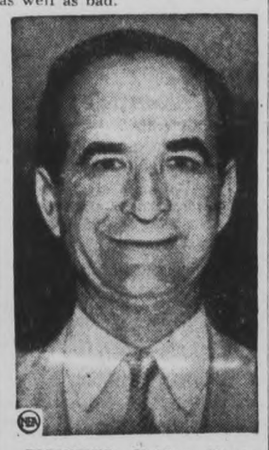
"My position is neither 'hate-the-foreigner' nor nationalistic. But I am for gradual withdrawal of economic occupation of my country."

As the boom of 21 guns saluting the new president drifted over the golf links of the nearby country club, one representative of large-scale foreign investment shook his head and lamented wryly, "I wish those cannon had been loaded with shrapnel."



Democratically elected—in the American meaning of the term—and with a heavy majority in the Legislative Assembly behind him, Figueres hopes to force through a program of social legislation. This would include better conditions for agricultural workers, housing and social security.

Bananas will pay largely for these reforms.



"The United Fruit Company should leave in our country one-half of the profits obtained here," he insisted. "And we ask the Company to abandon all discriminations, such as non-payment of custom duties and the differences in rate exchanges."

GOOD THINGS TOO

However, he admitted, United Fruit has done many good things as well as bad.

OPEN WIDE, PLEASE—Two sculptors of the Deutsche Gesundheits Museum in Cologne put the finishing touches on a giant human head. It took them nine months to complete the head and it will be used at special health exhibitions. A new plastic material was used in the cast, and the various parts of the head will be illuminated from the inside by some 50 lamps.

FIGUERES: Neither "hate-the-foreigner" nor nationalistic.

"They have created a modern, scientific banana-raising technique, opened and developed the market for our bananas, built up a transportation system and have materially contributed to the wealth of the hemisphere," he explained.

But he is determined ultimately to buy out all United Fruit holdings and sell the land to small Costa Rican farmers. He plans also to take over the services which the company is now operating, such as schools, hospitals and airports. However, he says he will ask the company to continue in perpetuity as selling and distributing agents.

"All this can be accomplished without loss to investors and without any illegality," asserted. "We hope to get the money from an Import-Export loan which we can amortize over the years as Costa Rica develops her own economy."

In the meantime, however, he wants to tax 50 per cent of the take.

700 Workers Get Five-Cent Increase

MONTREAL (CP) — A labor agreement that gives 700 workers an hourly wage increase of five cents but puts the money into a trust fund for them, was announced here Monday.

The contract, between the Montreal Locomotive Works Limited and the United Steel Workers of America (CIO-CCL) provides for a five-cent an hour increase but stipulated that $2 a week will be subject to check-off for purposes of building a savings plan. The employees work a 40-hour week.

An official said the savings fund will increase at the rate of $70,000 a year if there is constant employment at the company.

Workers will be able to borrow 95 per cent of their savings when in need of cash.

Expect Real World Peace To Remain, Remote Ideal

BY LEON DENNEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

PARIS (NEA)—Will 1954 bring the world nearer to peace? This is the key question in the calculations of the top NATO diplomats who have just reviewed the West's defence plans for the coming year.

No Western statesman, however informed, can of course predict what surprise the Russians are liable to spring next. However, enough information was available to the NATO leaders for a reasonable forecast of Soviet strategy in 1954.

One of the officials who attended the NATO sessions told me: "There will be no war in 1954—although real world peace will remain a remote ideal.

This may be a hazardous prediction. There is no evidence of a let-up in Soviet military preparations. The Russians, if anything, are tightening their grip on the satellies—despite inspiring reports to the contrary.

OPTIMISTIC VIEW

But the mildly optimistic view was also shared by some outstanding Western experts on Communism for two simple reasons:

1. The non-Communist world, led by the U.S., does not want war. It will do all humanly possible to avert another conflict.

2. The Russians, beset by growing political and economic troubles, will be in no position to wage war in 1954—regardless of whether they do or do not have the atomic weapons to launch a sneak attack on the West.

The scope of the Red empire's economic crisis, especially in agriculture, has now been admitted by Premier Georgi Malenkov and Nikita Khruschev, Secretary of the Russian Communist Party.

More important—according to qualified U.S. sources—are the internal political problems facing the Kremlin's ruling group due to the transfer of power after Stalin's death.

The stability of Malenkov's rule rests on the absolute loyalty not only of the top leaders and army marshals but also of the lesser job-holders throughout the vast state and party bureaucracy.

Stalin required nearly 10 years to "liquidate" Leon Trotsky, Gregory Zinoviev, Nikolai Bukharin and other rivals or poential rivals. It was not until he crushed all opposition that he believed he wielded absolute control.

CONTROL NOT ACHIEVED

Such control has not yet been achieved by Premier Malenkov. This is clearly shown, among other things, by the continued widespread purges of Red officials in Leningrad, Armenia, Georgia and elsewhere throughout the Soviet underworld.

To purge about 10 million entrenched bureaucrats is a more difficult process than the elimination of even as powerful a figure as Lavrenti Beria, deposed chief of the secret police.

The Kremlin oligarchs must therefore first solve their own pressing problems before embarking on new Korea-like open acts of aggression.

Also, outside the Red sphere—in the non-Communist countries—the tide of the cold war turned against Moscow at the end of 1953. In the "battle of diplomatic notes" western strategy emerged on the top—at least for the present.

The Russians have been forced on to the defensive by the growing American strength and resolution. They were manoeuvred by President Eisenhower and State Secretary John Foster Dulles into a position where they had to agree, however reluctantly, to a Four Power meeting on Germany and Austria.

President Eisenhower's historic call at the UN Assembly for an international atomic pool for once caught the Red propagandists and their neutralist "allies" completely off guard.

The proposed Four Power talks at Berlin will thus test Moscow's multi-protested desire to negotiaate with the West.

Few qualified observers in Europe have any illusions about the Berlin meeting. They realize that the immediate Soviet tactic is to delay, and the strategy is to divide.

As the London Economist said editorially, Moscow hopes that, as long as the Berlin conference is impending or in session, France will refuse to ratify the treaties that would at once:

1. Create the European Defence Community.
2. Give independence to West Germany.
3. Complete the strategic dispositions first laid down by President Eisenhower when he was Supreme Commander in Europe.

This is likely to be the Kremlin's objective for the early months of 1954. The Reds obviously hope that disagreements in the western camp and economic depresssion will eventually disintegrate the Atlantic alliance and leave a divided Germany at the mercy of Russia. They bank on France as the weakest link in the NATO structure.

Nevertheless, the three western chiefs, in an effort to preserve peace, could not but agree at Bermuda to sit down and talk with the Russians.

Eager Spacemen

LONDON (CP)—Membership of the British Interplanetary Society has increased by 20 per cent in the last year. There now are 2,419 members of the society devoted to study of space travel.

Modern Marine

STOCKHOLM (CP)—Current figures show the Swedish merchant navy now totals 1,858 ships of 2,617,000 gross tons, including 784 motorships, 473 steamers and 601 sailing ships with auxiliary engines.

While rivalries and suspicion still poison the Kremlin ruling group and the Red empire is shaken by an economic crisis, the prospect for relaxed international tension in 1954 looks brighter.

SOLD OUT OF CARDS

Peterborough's stationery stores are down to odds and ends of Christmas cards of lean intrinsic value other than their sentiment. The orderly, early shoppers picked up all the art work, leaving only the specials in endearment: "To My Dear Wife", "To the best Husband", and an attractive line of Sweetheart greetings. The record count of the postal machines must be correct, because there is little left on the holiday card counters except the post-Yule wishes for a happy and prosperous new year.

Parking Troubles

And then there's the true one about the Peterborough man who received a parking ticket Monday afternoon and made hasty tracks to pay up. He had just brought his car to a halt in one of the few parking lots left at the city hall when loud guffaws caused him to look around. Another loud laugh and he looked again. This time he saw it—"This lot reserved for mayor at all times." Exit, with more hasty tracks.

Projects for the year include local dinners in different parts of the county before the end of the winter, and encouragement of organization of township branches of the Federation to bring its affairs closer to the rural communities.

W. Wilson To Run Lindsay Fair

LINDSAY (ENS). — A former Orillia man, and a Lindsay bank manager for 11 of the past 14 years, F. W. Walter Wilson, has been appointed secretary-manager of the Lindsay Central Exhibition, to succeed B. L. McLean, it has been announced by the exhibition board.

Applications from four persons were received by the board after they advertised for a successor to the popular Mr. McLean, who died last spring after many years' association with the exhibition.

Mr. Wilson, who was manager of the Lindsay branch of the Bank of Commerce from 1939 to 1949, was formerly manager of the Orillia branch of the same bank. In 1953, he handled the financial affairs of the exhibition, which is the fourth largest annual fair in the province.

SANTA'S HELPERS—Peterborough firemen are once again acting as Santa's helpers. Several years ago the firemen repaired toys and sent them to needy families in the city. This year Norm Aldred, CHEX announcer, and the firemen attempted to collect new toys.. Although a large number of new toys were sent in, there was a number of used toys. The best used toys were painted by the firemen, such as Maurice (Moe) Fraser (top photo) who then later wrapped them. Joe Martell and Fraser (lower photo) inspect toys before sending them out. Next year Fire Chief Bill Sorrie hopes to have the original plan, collecting and fixing toys, in operation again.

Father And Two Children Hitch-Hike 100 Miles To City

Bank Staff Play Santa Claus To Family

By HARRY THEOBALD

The man from Maple Leaf who rapped on the windows of the Bank of Montreal at 3:25 last Thursday walked into the warm and sympathetic spirit of Christmas.

Maple Leaf is in the Maynooth country of North Hastings, 100 miles from Peterborough. Thursday, it should be remembered, was that recent near-zero day. That morning about 5 o'clock this man accompanied by a son and daughter, ten and eight years old respectively, set out to hitchhike to Peterborough. Friendly people along the way drove them 80 miles. They trudged the rest of the way.

It seems the man had been working here, was laid off, and had to come back for his wage cheque. He was late in arriving at the bank. They customarily close for the day at 3 p.m. But, this man needed cash, and he knocked on the window until he attracted attention and the door was opened to him.

That unusual approach led to query and explanation. The payee's name on the cheque was S. Callaghan.

Naturally the conversation led to the reason for being late at the bank. And the cold weather and the return trip to Maple Leaf prompted questions that were particularly solicitous about the two children.

BOY NEEDED COAT

The man said his daughter was warmly clothed, but he had brought the boy with him because he was in need of a heavy coat, winter weight and protective against the weather around Maynooth.

That was the preface to the story which ends today with the transport facility of the Provincial Police who were undertaking to deliver five cartons of Christmas gifts at the Callaghan home, two miles from their nearest neighbor.

FEELING AROUSED STAFF

Members of the staff began wondering Thursday about the Callaghan family back there in the north country and the prospects of Christmas in that isolated home. S. Callaghan and his two children roused a feeling story akin to anxiety, for he had mentioned in his story that there were other youngsters at home.

In no time, the staff had a fund of $60. The desire to help expanded. One of the young women of the staff who knows the north country made enquiries about the family. The quest for further information was followed by telephone calls. The man's story, and he told it only under friendly questioning, was genuine.

So the girls and the men of the bank accumulated a liberal stock of gifts: new clothing, good used clothing, and a complete Christmas dinner,—10-pound turkey, plum pudding, canned goods, all the appetizing accessories down to fruit cake.

HELPED BY PROVINCIALS

The delivery of the five large cartons, representing the expenditures finally of the fund of $72 cast up a problem. The bank people, busy and all as they have been over the weekend, were looking for truck accommodation. Then, some one suggested that maybe the Provincial Police might be glad to lend a hand as aides to Santa Claus.

Girls worked until after nine o'clock Monday night snugly packing the five boxes, and adding bright color of festive wrapping paper. With the co-operation of the Provincial Police of the several detachments between Peterborough and north Hastings the bundles should reach the remote home by dusk this evening. The bank staff and the Ontario Provincial Police combined their sympathies to the junior members of the Callaghan family that there is a Santa Claus.

Watching 'Fire' In Chain Store, Man Drives Into Occupied Parking Spot, Fined $5

LINDSAY (ENS) — A Lindsay youth's concern for the welfare of a Kent street store brought him to grief in magistrate's court Monday, when he was convicted of careless driving.

Robert Everson, 19 of Lindsay, was driving on Kent St. in the early morning of December 12, when, according to his evidence, he thought he saw a fire in the window of a local chain store. While he was watching, he said, he began to swing his car into a parking space in front of a local restaurant, but found, when he looked around, that a bread truck was already there. Damage to Everson's car was about $200, while the truck was only slightly damaged.

Magistrate Gee fined the accused $5 and $2.50 costs, commenting "that would have bought your mother a nice Christmas present."

More District Unemployed Than At Last Christmas

Unemployment is now slightly higher than in the same pre-Christmas period last year. Most of the layoffs are seasonal. But in the case of one Peterborough industry, the Western Clock Co., the slack period came a month sooner than usual. And they have also lost some overseas business because of strong competition from watch and clock-making companies in foreign countries.

Figures from the National Employment Service for this district show that in the first two weeks of December there was an increase of 141 in the number of people getting unemployment benefits.

First week, ending Dec. 5:

Unfilled vacancies available for males 14, females 24. Unplaced applicants, male 1,201, female 469. Benefits paid, 913.

Second week, ending Dec. 12:

Unfilled vacancies for males 16, females 27. Unplaced applicants, male 1,262, female 454. Benefits paid 1,054.

The district covered by these figures consists of Peterborough and Haliburton counties, Cavan township in Durham county, Percy and Seymour townships in Hastings county, and Verulam and Emily townships in Victoria county.

Village Children Attend Funeral Of James Dugan

HASTINGS (ENS). — Classes were dismissed Monday afternoon in the village so the school children could attend the funeral of 13-year-old James Dugan, who drowned Saturday in the raceway off the Trent River.

The funeral was in Trinity United Church at 3 p.m., with the Rev. Nathaniel Cole officiating. Burial was in Warkworth cemetery.

Pallbearers were York Calberry, Wilfred Chrysler, William Richardson, Fred Crate, Gordon Dunlop and Bruce Davidson.

Four of the drowned youth's schoolmates were flowerbearers: Gordon Fisher, David Mace, Melvin Smullin, and Cecil Clarke, a cousin; four others were Norwood friends, Gary Buck, Danny Hyslop, William Colby and David Cornish.

James Dugan, a Grade 6 pupil taught by Mrs. Arthur Warrington, drowned 10:30 a.m. when he and his elder brother William fell through the thin ice into the deep water. Fifteen-year-old William was saved when Bruce Walker, 18, ventured out on the ice for six feet or so and held out a Christmas tree for the struggling boy to grasp.

SANK IMMEDIATELY

William was pulled to safety, but James was too far out. He sank from sight immediately. His body was recovered half an hour later, in 13 feet of water, by W. J. Emmorey, who got him with a pikepole.

Artificial respiration was tried by seven men, taking turns: James Morrow, Boyce Orr, Bob Fairman, William Emmorey, Everitt Hess, Irvin Warner and York Calberry. They were directed by Dr. William Campbell.

Walker, who lives in Asphodel township, is an office worker at the De Laval Co. in Peterborough.

The Dugan family lost their home in a fire in Asphodel township last February.

Fire Guts Old Car In Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD— (ENS) — An old-model car was destroyed by fire on Saturday night, when flames, apparently caused by a short circuit near the battery, gutted the interior of the vehicle.

Campbellford firemen answered the call to the Forestell and Paul Concrete Products plant, where the car was parked, and quelled the flames, but not before the car was almost a total loss.

Police did not learn the name of the owner.

City Council To Wind Up '53 Business

Little City Work To Be Done As Four Bow Out

Members of the 1953 city council will assemble in the council chamber at city hall tonight for their final meeting.

They will authorize payment of accounts and consider the final reports of the various committees for the year. Apart from that, the meeting is expected to be a formal expression of farewell and thanks to those whose faces will be missing from the chamber next year.

When the 1954 council convene in the same chamber for their inaugural meeting on Monday, January 4, four of those present at tonight's meeting will not be on hand: Mayor Hugh Waddell and Aldermen Syd Black, H.S. (Stan) Longhurst and T. Douglas Miller. In their places will be Mayor-elect Norman Graham and Aldermen-elect Stan McBride, W. Gordon Powell and Mrs. Alene Holt.

ACTIVITY GOES ON

While tonight's meeting will mark the end of one era in civic politics, however, the business of the city will continue through the interim until the new council have been formally installed in office. Police will patrol their beats, firemen will stand watch, the works department will continue its several tasks of paving and repairing streets and laying sewers, garbage will be collected and—given a break in the weather—the parks department will continue their efforts to prepare outdoor skating rinks where the city's children can try out the skates their receive for Christmas.

Meanwhile, the broad decisions on policy for the city government to follow will remain in abeyance until the New Year. The several commitetes have held the last of their meetings, where the details of council policy have been discussed and hammered into shape. Tonight, council is expected to put the seal of approval on the last of their accomplishments for the year.

Turkey Dinner At 80c For CGE Employees

Few of the employees of the Canadian General Electric Company went home for dinner today.

The cafeteria was crowded from eleven o'clock until all were served in shifts beginning at 11 o'clock. This Christmas week feature with roast turkey as the main course and all the trimmings before and after for 80 cents has become an annual event. Festive crepe headwear appeared, holiday crackers popped, and the usual noon lunch took on the atmosphere of a banquet. Lunch time was the usual hour, the fare was excellent down to the plum pudding, and just about everybody was there from works manager Roy T. Bogle all along the line. The succeeding shifts made their own fun, and apparently heartily enjoyed it.

Five Soviet Ministers Get Important New Promotions

LONDON (AP)—Five Soviet ministers—including the man reputed now to be in charge of atomic energy development— have been raised to the rank of deputy premier, Moscow radio announced Monday night.

The five are: M. Z. Saburov, chairman of the state planning commission.

M. G. Pervukhin, minister of electric power stations and electric industry.

I. F. Tevosyan, minister of metallurgical industry.

A. N. Kosygin, minister of manufactured goods.

V. A. Malyshev, minister of "medium machine building."

SUCCEEDED BERIA

Malyshev, former minister of transport and heavy machine building, was named to his new and mysterious ministry after the fall of Lavrenty Beria, interior minister and secret police chief who had been boss of the Soviet atomic energy program.

Malyshev, a soldier with technical knowledge, rarely has been seen in public or mentioned in print in the Soviet Union since his new appointment. It is widely suspected among diplomatic circles in Moscow and students of the country abroad that Malyshev has succeeded Beria in the atomic post.

RANK HIGH

For Saburov and Pervukhin, the title of deputy premier gives formal recognition third high rank as members of the nine-man praesidium of the ruling Communist party, the group of leaders headed by Prime Minister Malenkov which has taken the place of the old politburo.

Kosygin formerly held the title of minister of food and light industry. Often reported in trouble under the Stalin regime, this young economic expert formerly had been a member of the ruling party politburo under Stalin. Apparently he has bounced back to importance in the Malenkov government's consumer drive, concentrating his energies on the production of manufactured goods for the consumer market.

ALSO MORE IMPORTANT

Tevosyn also has risen in importance. Under Stalin he was minister of ferrous metallurgy. He now has taken over the whole metallurgical field.

Al five appointees actually were deputy premiers before the death of Stalin. They lost the rank in the party and government streamlining and shakeup which followed the death of the Soviet leader.

Parents Hurt In Bad Quarrel

FORT ERIE (CP) — A husband and wife are in serious condition in hospital after what police describe as a domestic quarrel Monday which left the couple's home a shambles.

Robert Lowry, 38, of nearby Ridgeway, and his wife Dorothy, 37, were found unconscious in their home. Police were called by neighbors.

Both Lowry's wrists had been slashed and he suffered loss of blood. His wife's injuries were not immediately determined. Police said they had been inflicted with a blunt instrument or chair.

Officers said the couple's home was a shambles, with broken furniture and blood stains in almost every room. The Lowry's have four children who are being cared for by neighbors.

Court Told Of $20,000 Blackmail Try

TORONTO (P)—A Toronto business man told a court Monday that a blonde "lured" him into bed and then her accomplice took his picture in a $20,000 "blackmail" attempt.

Charged with attempted extortion of the money from Mr. "X", whose name was withheld at the request of Judge Robert Forsyth, were Edwin Hefner, 27, and Ursula Sheuler, 23.

Mr. "X" said he had "several dates" with Miss Sheuler who was a waitress in a restaurant where he ate lunch.

Oct. 31, she invited him to spend the evening at her apartment, he testified.

TOOK PICTURES

"After she had lured me into her bed, Hefner broke into the room with a flash camera. He took pictures which he threatened to show my wife and others if I did not pay him $20,000.

"Hefner said he would kill me if I refused," Mr. "X" testified.

He told the court he arranged to meet the pair at a restaurant two nights later, then notified police.

After the meeting, at which he said the pair offered to settle for $5,000, Hefner and Miss Sheuler were arrested.

The case is continuing.

Name 'Rocky' To New Post

OTTAWA (CP)—Appointment of Brig. J. M. Rockingham, 42, former commander of the 25th Canadian Infantry Brigade in Korea, as commander of the newly-formed 3rd Canadian Infantry Brigade, Valcartier, Que., was announced Monday by army headquarters.

Brig. Rockingham is scheduled to arrive in Canada soon from the United Kingdom where he has completed a year's course at the Imperial Defence College. He will assume his new appointment shortly after his return.

Brig. Rockingham was recalled from civilian life in 1950 to become the first commander of the 25th Brigade in Korea. For his services in the Far East, he was made a companion of the Most Honourable Order of the Bath. He returned to Canada from Korea in April 1952.

Five-Car Smash Injures One Woman

ESSEX (CP)—A five-car smash near here Sunday sent one woman to hospital with concussion and caused an estimated $2,500 damage.

Emerson Hicks of Maidstone slowed to make a right turn at an intersection. His car was struck from behind by one driven by Rosaire Parent, 16, of Chatham. Mrs. Vera Hicks, a passenger, suffered concussion.

LONDON'S SAVOY HOTEL: "It's like buying up shares of the Cunard Line to sell the Queen Mary for scrap."

Savoy Hotel Owners Caught In Stock Exchange Gamble

By TOM A. CULLEN
NEA Special Correspondent

LONDON (NEA)—The Savoy of London is "home away from home" to Bob Hope and Humphrey Bogart. Winston Churchill has patronized it for over half a century.

Caruso used to eat in its kitchen with the chef. Pavlova has danced there. Krupp once threw a party with champagne gushing from the majolica fountain in the courtyard.

Today the Savoy, with its golden memories, is fighting for its life against stock exchange gamblers.

It is the latest victim of "take over" bidding, a form of jiggery-pokery which menaces many a British enterprise.

It all began in September when a real estate syndicate started buying up Savoy shares in blocks of 10,000, sending the price soaring from $4 to $9 a share.

When the smoke cleared the syndicate owned a 37 per cent controlling interest in the $12,000,000 Savoy hotel group, which includes Claridges and the Berkeley hotels.

If the syndicate runs true to form, what follows will be "ruinous" to the Savoy group, according to its chairman, Hugh Wontner. The syndicate will sell the freehold property of the group at a handsome profit, then rent it back. The rents will be so high that the company will not survive, Wontner predicts.

Recently members of the syndicate got control of a $10,000,000 chain of 920 shoe stores, resold some of the stores to insurance companies at an $8,000,000 profit, then rented them back.

Not the least harmful effect of "take over" bid, companies have been declaring higher dividends (sometimes on decreased profits) and issuing bonus shares.

The workers, seeing the higher dividends, press their wage demands with greater vigor.

As The London Daily Mail points out: "It is useless to expect the workers to show moderation and exercise restraint if they feel that the industrial and commercial bodies are failing to do either."

The English Sewing Cotton Co., at $30,000,000 concern, recently announced that it is raising its dividend from 12½ to 20 per cent and issuing a one-for-one bonus share after heavy buying of the company's ordinary stock had sent its value rocketing by 50 per cent.

The heavy buying was accompanied by rumors that the company was about to sell its interest in the American Thread Co., a subsidiary.

Meanwhile, as the dust settles on the Savoy deal, Chairman Wontner is left with memories of the golden age.

"It's just as though somebody bought up the shares of the Cunard Line in order to sell the Queen Mary for scrap," Wontner sighs.

Limit Broadcast To 1 Frequency

OTTAWA (CP) — The transport department announced Monday that radio telephone weather broadcasting to Great Lakes shipping will be limited to one frequency to conserve radio channel time in the medium-distance frequencies.

The step was taken jointly by the transport department and the U.S. Federal Communications Commission in Washington. It followed a recommendation adopted Jan. 22, 1953, by the international joint conference of the Dominion Marine Association and the Lake Carriers Association.

The change will not reduce the transmission of weather infomation. However, all transmissions will be made on a single radio telephone frequency, 2514 kilocycles. Previously as many as three channels were used.

The change will become effective with the opening of the 1954 navigation season on the Great Lakes.

Accused Of Stealing Grandfather's Car

CAMPBELLFORD— (ENS) — Twenty-one-year-old Kenneth Clark of Warkworth was arrested and charged with theft of an automobile on Saturday after two constables from the Campbellford detachment of the OPP located the car parked in a garage.

The car was reported stolen on Friday by the owner, who is the grandfather of the man charged with the theft.

OPP Constables Eady and Rose of Campbellford handled the case.

Little Eva Not Orphan

Canadian Child's Plea Partial Hoax

SUSSEX, N.B. (CP)—Little Eva isn't an orphan.

Her father and mother confirmed this Monday. After the 12-year-old girl set off a chain of events which had telephone and telegraph wires humming from here to Philadelphia.

It was the perennial Christmas tree hoax, frowned on by Canadian and United States authorities. It began when Eva Hughes of Stewarton, Kings county, handed her father a note to pin on one of the thousands of Christmas trees being shipped to American cities.

Her father, Malcolm, pinned the note on the tree without opening the envelope. He said he didn't know that the child had written she was "a poor little orphan girl."

FELT SORRY

When the tree arrived in Philadelphia's suburban Westbrook Park, Mr. and Mrs. John D. Westhoff found Eva's note. It said:

"Dear Santa—I am a poor little orphan girl, age 12, and I would like to have for Christmas an angora hat and mitts set. Color red, if possible. Thank you, Santa. Love and kisses, Eva Hughes."

The Westhoffs started a gift-raising campaign among neighbors. Mrs. Westhoff bought the red hat and mittens. They were dismayed when the Philadelphia Better Business Bureau cautioned the whole thing might be a hoax.

WIDE INVESTIGATION

Inquiries involved United States and Canadian news services, the Better Business Bureau and the RCMP. Eva was located Monday.

Her father, an unemployed woods worker, said it is common practice to tie Santa Claus notes to Christmas trees being shipped out of the province. He said his other children sent similar notes last year and received dolls and other small gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. Hughes have nine children. Four are youngsters who live with their parents in a three-room house. One daughter is married and four older boys work in the woods, when they can find work.

Two of the boys own automobiles. But Mr. Hughes said woods work hasn't been good in his district this year and "unless things brighten up" there won't be an elaborate Christmas celebration in his home.

He said he hoped the Westhoffs might go through with their plan to send the gifts.

"We'll be very thankful if we get something," he said.

SANTA WILL ARRIVE

(Eva is going to get her gifts. Mrs. Westhoff said Monday night "We're going to play Santa. We'll collect as many gifts as we can and mail them off within a few days.

("They may not arrive at Eva's home in time for Christmas but Santa will let her know they're coming," she said at Philadelphia.)

Authorities were disturbed by the incident. In many cases, notes pinned to Christmas trees are frauds. The traffic has created what Better Business Bureau authorities term "a racket." Tree exporters and others discourage it.

LONG DISTANCE is always "rushed" at Christmas. So many people want to greet absent friends and families that delays on many calls are simply unavoidable.

Calls reach their peak Christmas Eve and Christmas Day. Then, even though every switchboard is manned to capacity and every operator is working at top speed, delays will occur.

That's why it's a good idea to call before the rush.

Please remember—
Long Distance Calls will go through much faster before Christmas Eve and after Christmas Day

If you can give your Long Distance operator the number you're calling, you'll save time. Calls can be put through faster when you "call by number".

Predict Automatic Flights At Thousand Miles An Hour

WASHINGTON — In 25 years, erhaps sooner, an airlines passenger will leave New York by jet at noon and arrive in Los Angeles —also at noon.

His plane will be flown by robot electronic brains. On arrival, a multi-engined helicopter will take hi mdown to a downtown heliport.

United States aviation, 50 years after Kitty Hawk, is about to enter this era, Emory S. Land, president of the Air Transport Association of America, writes in the December National Geographic Magazine. He predicts such a trip and gives details.

Today's scientific progress in the air foresees much more radical developments — passengers and freight travelling "several thousand miles per hour"—Hugh L. Dryden, director of the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics, says in the same issue.

The articles by Vice Admiral Land and Dr. Dryden are a timely commemorative of aviation's advance since the Wright brothers' first powered flight on December 17, 1903.

"I believe 1956 will see a jet transport introduced in domestic operation and another placed in service by a United States transatlantic carrier," Admiral Land writes. He adds that Boeing will probably test-fly a jet transport in 1954.

"In 10 to 15 years jetliners of American manufacture may replace most piston-driven aircraft on transcontinental routes . . . and big multi-engined 50-passenger helicopters will replace fixed-wing aircraft on many routes of less than 30 0miles."

Electronic advances in the last five years have made jet operation feasible, the ATA president reports. One airline already dispatches hypothetical "Paper Jets" cross-country daily as training for real jet flights.

Helicopters will be an important part of a billion-dollar air fleet to be built in the next ten years. Mid-city heliports are now being planned.

Completely automatic flight is a "distinct probability" in aviation's second half century, Admiral Land predicts. Electronic brains will take airliners off, fly them to their destinations, and land them safely and smoothly. Human pilots will ride only as monitors for the robots.

FROM SUPERSONICS TO THE MOON

Dr. Dryden cites the amazing speed records of recent months, which have now surpassed twice sound's speed, as evidence of the growing store of aeronautical knowledge. NACA guided missiles have already travelled over four times the speed of sound, he reveals.

Wind tunnels are under contruction capable of more than 3,000 m.p.h.

"Achievements up to now have stimulated the thoughts of men of vision to much more radical developments, beginning with transport of passengers and freight long distances at speeds of several thousand miles per hour," Dr. Dryden concludes.

"I am reasonably sure that travel to the moon will not occur during my lifetime, but I am sure that the technical problems are solvable with a large but finite amoutn of manpower and money.

"Experiment and more experiment, unanticipated scientific developments in apparently unrelated fields, and probably the loss of many human lives in hazardous pioneer flights will be requisite to attainment of this goal."

Say Good Books Best Way Fight Salacious Literature

FREDERICTON (CP) — Four clergymen and a women's leader here agree that competition from good books is the best way to combat the influence of salacious and offensive literature.

Polled by the Fredericton Daily Gleaner, the five gave these views:

Rev. C. T. Boyd, Roman Catholic: "The easiest way to fight this stuff is to supply good reading, written and promoted in such a way that it replaces it."

Rev. J. A. Forbes, United Church: "Censorship is wrong. . . The best way . . . is for fathers and mothers to take more interest in what their children read, and to see that they get good reading."

Rabbi David Spiro: "The only way to cure a cancer is to cut it out . . But competition by good reading shows the best chance of success."

Mrs. F. J. Toole of the Fredericton Women's Council spoke of efforts of her group to stop the flow of offensive literature and said members were watching for such books for reference to the attorney-general's department.

Rev. E. D. Wills, Church of England: "The news vendor is not forced to accept any publications sent him by the wholesale distributor."

Disease Introduced To Kill Surplus Rabbits Goes Wild

By TOM. A. CULLEN

LONDON —(NEA)—It all goes to prove that one man's stew may be another man's poison.

In Australia scientists are congratulating themselves on wiping out 90 per cent of the rabbit population with a man-made plague called myxomatosis.

In England, where the rabbit disease has made an unexpected appearance, they're busy trying to stamp it out.

As for France—zut alors!—the mild-mannered professor who introduced the disease, far from being a public hero, is regarded as an assassin.

Poor Professor Paul Armand-Delille—he was only trying to get rid of the wild rabbits on his Normandy estate by inoculating a few of them with myxomatosis.

Now the butchers blame him, because there's no cheap meat. Women howl for his scalp, because he's deprived them of cheap furs. Millions of French sportsmen have nothing left to shoot at but sparrows.

ACROSS FRANCE

Quicker than one can pronounce Armand-Delille, the virus which he let out of the bag had spread across the interior of France. French highways were strewn with dead rabbits.

It then raced through Belgium and Germany, hopped the Channel and landed squarely in southern England.

The first British outbreak occurred on a farm in Kent in October. By now it has spread to the Sussex Downs, where pest control officers are trying desperately to hold it in check.

"If the disease is not controlled by spring," warns a British ministry spokesman, "Britain's rabbits are doomed."

Myxomatosis affects only rabbits and hares. It partially paralyzes them. Their bodies swell and they drag themselves around blind, deaf and in great pain for several days before dying.

Inevitably, Britons have divided themselves into pro- and anti-rabbit factions. Due to the painful nature of the disease, animal lovers and protection societies are demanding that the rabbits be spared.

But farmers, faced with $210,000,000 worth of damage every year from rabbits, say, "Let it spread!"—meaning the rabbit disease.

"If the rabbit is to be protected, why not the rat?" argues Lord Rennell, of the anti-rabbit faction.

While Britons argue the "to be or not to be" of the rabbit dilemma, the British Health Ministry has wired-up the farms where the infection is known to exist, in an effort to keep it from spreading further.

In Australia, the problem is different. When the early settlers at Botany Bay discovered that five rabbits had survived a voyage from Britain they were jubilant. They soon found that the laugh was on them.

A pair of rabbits can produce as many as 1,000 offspring in a year. In Australia the stoat and the weasel, which controlled them in Britain, did not exist.

MILES OF FENCE

To prevent their spread, ranchers constructed 1,600 miles of fencing—the longest in the world—to no avail. The rabbits got through. Since seven rabbits eat as much as one sheep, Australian sheep were being crowded off grazing land.

In 1950, Australian scientists declared biological war on the rabbits. They introduced the fatal myxomatosis in the State of Victoria, and in little more than two years exterminated 90 per cent of its rabbit population.

Latest reports from Australia, however, are disconcerting. A new strain of rabbits—a sort of "superbunny" immune to myxamatosis—has made its appearance, according to reports, and is thumbing its nose at the scientists.

RECIPE for a Merry Christmas from your DOMINION STORE

Take the crisp cold of a December night, add two generous parts of snow, stir in air so clear it tinkles.

Into a generous heart, mix the wonder of a little girl, the sparkle of a young boy's glance, the love of parents, and set gently before the chimney side.

Add the lightest touch of a reindeer's hooves, a sprig of holly, a scent of fir.

Set the mixture to rise in the warmth of a dream of good will to men. It will be almost ready to serve when it bubbles with warmth and good feeling.

Bedeck with the light of a star set in the East, garnish with shining balls of gold, silver and red. Serve to the tune of an ancient carol in the middle of the family table.

This recipe is sufficient for all the men and women you will ever meet

With best wishes for a Merry Christmas.

RCAF Radio Opens At Base In U.K.

LANGER England (CP)—This RCAF supply base's private radio station, Radio Langar, officially took the air Monday night with a program of news, sports, drama, western songs and a recorded message from Defence Minister Claxton.

The station, built at a cost of about £100, is on a closed circuit and can be heard only by the some 300 airmen and their families here. Officials hope in the future to have programs carried by telephone cable to the nearby RCAF station at North Luffenham for rebroadcast there.

VARIED PROGRAM

Radio Langar's manager, Flt. Lt. Jack Moffat of Regina, who is the base communications officer, planned a varied opening program. It started with Canadian news specially recorded by the CBC and sports news by LAC. Ned Rainboth of Ottawa.

The half-hour opening ceremonies included recorded messages from Claxton, the RCAF's chief of air staff, Air Vice-Marshal C. R. Slemon, and the station commander, Group Capt. G. E. McCormick of Ottawa.

There was also piano music by LA. Larry Gravelle of Sudbury, and recorded CBC programs.

Radio Langar will broadcast about eight hours each day starting at 7 a. m.

LEADER AND FAMILY — Progressive Conservative Leader George Drew has chosen this family picture for his Christmas cards this year. He is shown here with his wife and two children, Edward and Sandra, in the garden of the official residence of the leader of the opposition, Stornaway House in Rockcliffe, near Ottawa. Also show is Pip, a boxer, the family pet.

Ask New Zealanders Careful Of Handshakes

WELLINGTON (CP) — Prime Minister Sidney Holland has asked New Zealanders to be "careful with your handshakes" when presented to the Queen during her visit here.

The Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh are due to arrive in New Zealand Wednesday.

Holland said: "I am sure Her Majesty will not gauge the warmth of your welcome by the vigor of your handshake. Five weeks' of handshaking could cause considerable pain and inconvenience which everyone would wish to avoid."

THATCHED CITY—HOME FOR ROK TROOPS—They may not look like much to U.S. troops, but these crude barracks house the 2nd Corps of the Republic of Korea Army. Nine soldiers live in each of the huts, which are heated by fires under the floors. The cannon-like structures on the outside of each hut are smoke pipes.

Margaret Enjoys Christmas Circus

LONDON (Reuters) — Princess Margaret had a hilarious time Monday night watching the clowns in a Christmas circus in London.

The Queen's 23-year-old sister was squired to the event by Marl Bonham-Carter.

During the intermission, two horse-riding experts came to the flower-decked royal box with two big dolls—a chimpanzee and a gaudily-dressed clown, for the princess' nephew, Prince Charles, and her niece, Princess Anne.

LET YOUNGSTERS "CHOOSE"

Horseman Albert Schumann asked the princess which doll she would give to Prince Charles and which to Princess Anne.

Princess Margaret replied: "It will be better to let them fight it out between themselves."

WI Prepare Hamper For Salvation Army

SELWYN (ENS) — The December meeting of the Women's Institute took the form of a Christmas party in the church hall.

Each member donated a gift for the hamper given to the Salvation Army in Peterborough. Bags of candy were given to every child in the community and to each person present at the party.

Holder of the lucky ticket for the goose was Mrs. Rosemary Ballantyne of New Liskeard. The quilt went to Miss Elva Sweeting. Tickets had been sold beforehand by Institute members.

The program consisted of the singing of carols with Mrs. Ivy Northey at the piano, and instrumental by the Misses Mary, Joyce and Shirley Raddon, and the Christmas Story, read by Mrs. Collins. Three reels of films were shown by Mrs. Jean McIlmoyle.

The meeting was in charge of the vice-president, Mrs. Sylvia McIlmoyl. At the January meeting the Institute will entertain the Apsley and Buckhorn branches.

Berliners Get Food

BERLIN, Germany (AP)—Maj.-Gen. Thomas S. Timberman, United States commandant in Berlin, Monday turned over 300,000 Christmas gift food parcels to the West Berlin government for distribution to needy West Berliners and refugees from the Soviet zone.

Hotel Destroyed

MONTEBELLO, Que. (CP)—Fire Monday destroyed the Commercial Hotel in this community some 70 miles northwest of Montreal. No one was injured in the three-hour blaze. Damage was estimated at $100,000.

Search Renewed For Body M. Quemeneur

PARIS (OFNS)—The Paris fog had disappeared. It was a cle sunny day. All seemed right with the world. Admittedly my French colleague had a drawn, troubled look; but he began in a confident enough voice:

"Look. It is quite simple. The police are digging over the estate of Traounez with good French spades. They are looking for the remains of M. Quemeneur. They were told where to look by M. Seznec. M. Seznec had the location of the grave from his elder daughter last week. She ought to know what she is talking about: she has been dead herself for the past eighteen years."

He stopped, and began all over again. But it was no good. However it is related, the story of the Seznec case today makes Parisians wonder whether they have strayed into the pages of some grotesquely improbable nineteenth - century thriller.

It all began in 1923, when Pierre Quemeneur, last seen travelling in a car with Guillaume Seznec, abruptly disappeared without trace. A few days later Seznec produced a stamped document as evidence that Quemeneur had sold him a property at Traounez-en-Plourivo for a very small sum; and, when told that Quemeneur could not be found, produced a telegram that, he said, he had received from him after his supposed disappearance.

The police investigated, and soon claimed that Seznec had forged the title to the Traounez estate on his own typewriter and sent the telegram to himself in Quemeneur's name. They later exhibited a suitcase belonging to Quemeneur, and gave evidence that Seznec had left it in a railway station by mistake.

No body was ever found, but Seznec was convicted of murder and served 22 years in the penal colony in French Guiana. His wife and elder daughter fought to establish his innocence, but both died during this period. A French magistrate, M. Herve, devoted the rest of his life to proving that Seznec was not guilty, and then he also died.

Seznec never ceased to proclaim his innocence and tried several times to escape, but without success. The police officer in charge of his case, Inspector Bony, unwisely linked his destiny with that of the German Gestapo during the war, and was executed when it ended.

Seznec's younger daughter, Jeanne, married the one telling witness for the defence—Francois Le Her—who swore that he had seen Quemeneur several times after his alleged death. Jeanne, however, shot him dead with a revolver in the course of a conjugal tiff (and was subsequently acquitted by the courts).

Seznec was released, and returned to Paris in 1947 at the age of sixty-nine. In 1952, French legal officials, still uneasy about the case, began to re-axmine his dossier. But no defence remained.

Then, last month, Seznec walked out of his house and was knocked down by a truck. He was taken to hospital, where for some time he was delirious. After a while he told his daughter that in a trance he had seen her dead elder sister and the real killer of Quemeneur. The woman, who died in a Jersey convent in 1935, told him that Quemeneur had been buried on the Traounez estate—with documents which could prove Seznec's innocence—"ten yards from the house itself, only about a foot under the surface of the ground."

Jeanne Le Her set off for Brittany, a small, determined woman in black, and was soon digging in the neglected underbrush of the property with a spade as big as herself. She found nothing. The police then intervened and took over the rough work. No skeleton. They went back to Seznec, who gave them a whole series of corrective instructions based on visions: "It is by the fountain." No luck. "Fifteen yards from the fountain." Fruitless. "Twelve yards from the left front corner gable of the house." And so on.

The public does not know whether this is the last act of a tragedy or the first of a grisly comedy. Either way they find it hard to beleieve that these events belong to the realm of fact.

Quebec Labor Group Asks Code Speeded

QUEBEC (CP)—Quebec's largest labor organization today asked the provincial government to speed adoption of a comprehensive labor code.

The Canadian and Catholic Confederation of Labor said the government should introduce during the current session of the legislature a draft bill prepared by the Quebec superior labor council.

The 100,000-member group said in an annual brief prepared for submission to Premier Duplessis and his cabinet the project represents "a compromise" between management and labor.

The draft was approved unanimously by the 30-member council and presented to the government last month. Its contents were not announced.

Replica Of Venice Planned For Vancouver Island Tract

PARKSVILLE, B.C. (CP) — A replica of Venice with navigable canals for yachts and roads for automobiles is planned for a 220-acre tract in this Vancouver island centre 100 miles north of Victoria.

The property has been acquired by A. F. Denton of Vancouver, former yachtsman, and developed by Norman H. Woods, architect.

The tract lies between the main island highway and the Gulf of Georgia, bounded on one side by Parksville Recreational Park and on the other by Englishman river.

The novel village was designed along modern subdivision lines to create three miles of canal and four miles of road without bridge crossings.

Pleasure craft up to 45 feet will be able to tie up at the owner's front or back yard on homesites along about one-half of the integrated canal system.

Canals will be fed by sea water from the gulf and by fresh water from either Englishman river, or springs on the tract. Main canals will be 100 feet wide, secondary canals 50 feet wide.

Mr. Denton said plans call for construction of a 400-foot circle of land in the heart of the canalways, upon which will be located a swimming pool and fish sanctuary.

Three other areas have been set aside for landscaping.

Mount Victoria at 13,200 feet is the highest peak in Australian New Guinea.

Protestant - Roman Catholic Toleration Boosted

TORONTO (CP)—Toleration between Roman Catholics and Protestants was urged Monday night at the inaugural meeting of the Alliance Canadien, an organization designed to promote better understanding between French- and English-speaking Canadians.

Abbe Arthur Maheux, history professor at Laval University, Quebec, and one of the alliance organizers, stressed the importance of "understanding rather than fearing one another's religion."

"Most religious disputes are caused by fear of being suppressed by another denomination, which is certainly far from the aims of the Roman Catholic church," he said.

"Even in a strong Catholic province such as Quebec, you never hear of Protestants complaining of being subjected."

Abbe Maheux outlined cultural and ethnic differences which the alliance would have to overcome, including a different concept of values.

VALUES DIFFERENT

"Of all the European heritages, both French and English, the English-speaking Canadians value, in order of importance, government, democracy, trade and commerce, education, language and religion. To the French-Canadian it is just the opposite."

Abbe Maheux illustrated the importance of religion in the life of French-speaking Canadians and suggested that the fundamentals of both Protestant and Catholic denominations be taught in school.

Speaking on behalf of the Protestant representatives, Dr. C. E. Silcox of Toronto, a United Church minister and author, termed the Alliance Canadien an "experiment which will make not only a new Canada but show the way to a new world."

Dr. Silcox said that in today's world, where Christendom itself is at stake, it is up to Canada to set an example in international relations by welding a united country out of two distinct cultures.

"United we may stand," he said, "but divided we will inevitably fall."

The alliance, formed in October to promote "bonne entente" between Quebec and the rest of Canada, hopes to extend from the Toronto chapter to every major city in Canada.

Dean Urges Patience With Red Acts

By WARREN ROGERS, Jr.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Arthur H. Dean, who tried vainly for seven weeks to arrange a Korean peace conference with the Reds, has urged the American people to match Communist stalling with patience and hope.

"I do believe the Chinese Communists are determined to keep North Korea politically and economically integrated into their own economy," he told a television and radio audience Monday night.

"The outlook is discouraging but by no means hopeless. There is no easy, pat solution. It will take al the brains, energy, resolution and patience at our command."

The special ambassador spoke in a report to the people on the Panmunjom talks from which he walked out 11 days ago after the Reds accused the United States of "perfidy."

He said the Communist negotiators aimed for a long-drawn-out session in the hope Americans would lose patience and, through public opinion, force a settlement on Red terms.

"The meat of the cocoanut" holding up the talks, he said, is Communist insistence on including five countries, including India and Russa, as neutrals at the proposed Korean peace conference.

NO MORE SHOOTING

He said the Reds sought to drive a wedge between the United States and India by creating an impression that the U.S. "does not like India."

Dean said he is sure that, even if no peace conference is arranged, there will be no shooting again in Korea.

The Reds did not want it because they "took a terrific beating," and both the United Nations Allies and South Korea, which had threatened to go it alone, were determined to abide by the armistice agreement.

Dean's public report came after he met at the White House with President Eisenhower and after he talked with the ambassadors of the 16 other countries which fought in Korea, including Canada's A.D.P. Heeney.

"We stopped the tide and timetable of Red aggression," was the way he summed up the results of the UN stand.

Holdup Accomplice Put On Probation

The 19-year-old Toronto youth, Gordon Norman, who with an accomplice, attempted a hold-up at Cres Sproat's clothing store on November 27, was given a two-year stuspended sentence by Magistrate W. R. Philp, QC, in the magistrate's court Monday.

For the first year Norman will be required to stay on probation, reporting monthly. Another condition is that he finds steady employment and lives for 12 months in Simcoe county.

Edward Bishop, the other partner in the hold-up was last week sentenced to three years' imprisonment.

Non-Uniformed Men Used To Enforce Traffic Bylaws

By DON MATHESON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP)—A sharp decline in traffic accidents has resulted here from a police safety drive. "Ghosts" are giving motorists and pedestrians the jitters.

When the 34th traffic fatality for 1953 was recorded Nov. 16, the 1952 total of traffic deaths was equalled. Then Chief Constable Walter H. Muligan decided on an all-out safety campaign.

The "ghosts" were increased. Police in civilian clothes now cruise the streets in unmarked cars and light trucks, nabbing traffic violators, whether drivers or pedestrians.

ACCIDENTS DECREASE

In two weeks accidents declined 33 per cent, injuries 26 per cent. Three pedestrians were killed, and another, injured earlier, died. The traffic fatality figure of 38 remained constant during the first two weeks of December.

"We will use every device and method within the bounds of our imagination and the law to apprehend and charge any individual who risks injury to himself or creates a traffic hazard," said Chief Mulligan announcing the drive.

The city is going along with the chief's methods. There has been no organized protest, although the British Columbia Automobile Association has objected to the use of non-uniformed men and a few letters protesting ghost cars have appeared in the papers.

Civic hospital records back up the campaign. The weekly average of 65 persons treated for emergency traffic injuries has dropped to 25; injuries being treated are less severe than before ghost cars were used.

TIGHT CLAMP

Regulations are stringently enforced. Speeders, even those moving one mile over the 30-mile-an-hour limit are the main target. On the first full week-end of the drive, 384 tickets were issued in 60 hours—including 125 for speeding, 45 for jay walking and 203 for offences in automobiles, such as failing to signal a turn.

The "black November" traffic death toll of nine, turned the all-out drive on pedestrian violators.

A "flying squad" of five men at downtown intersections ticketed 107 jay-walkers in 90 minutes the first day they were on duty. Most charges were for entering intersections against traffic lights.

Traffic deaths strike most sharply at the over-60 age group. Of the 38 deaths in 1953, 25 have been pedestrians, 17 over 60. Of 1952's 34 deaths, 16 of 20 pedestrians killed were over 60.

Chief Mulligan comments: "What astonishes me is the number of elderly people out at night. . . Two out of three pedestrians injured or killed when struck by autos are breaking some law at the time."

The drive will continue through the Christmas and New Year holidays. The police chief expects to assess the effectiveness of the campaign after it has been in force for a month.

Body Recovered

PARRY SOUND (CP)—The body of William Basso, 42, was found by a search party in an isolated lake in Plaxton township Sunday. Basso, a Sundridge trapper, was on a hunting trip, police said. He had planned to return Saturday.

Cab Licence Revoked

TORONTO (CP) — Because he charged Grey Cup visitor Bill Saunders of Winnipeg $3.75 for a 50-cent ride, Douglas Verity, Toronto taxi driver, had his licence revoked Monday. "Some cabbies know a stranger when they see one," said Chief Constable John Chisholm.

Papers Reflect Real Life In Russia In New Policy

LONDON (OFNS) — After years of reflecting nothing but the official line, the Soviet Press is at last opening its windows on the real life of the people.

This is an important part of a determined effort by the Prime Minister, Mr. Malenkov, to make the Soviet Union a better place to live in, and to reduce a feeling to live in, and induce a feeling ment officials and local authorities who have been cowed for so long. And in their efforts to jerk the land out of the ossification and the apathy of the Stalin years, newspaper editors are every day throwing new light on the way life is really lived, and making public admissions which a year ago would have landed them in the prison camps of Siberia.

Public opinion is being deliberately focused on the inadequacies of daily life in Russia, as in the past it was focused on shortcomings in heavy industrial production—in order to spur the people to do better. It is small exaggeration to say that the government is, in fact, seeking to encourage a new public opinion, a new exactingness on the part of the consumer, which will force the suppliers to give people what they want.

RAISE STANDARDS

This does not mean that the government feels it can suddenly turn the Soviet Union into a land flowing with milk and honey; nor does it mean that in the past he does it mean that in the past the ordinary consumer has demanded no more than the crumbs left over after the demands of heavy industry have been satisfied. What it does mean is that for the first time in decades the Kremlin has determined to raise the living standard of the people and has made available certain supplies and resources—although it is being defeated in its aim by the dead, bureaucratic habit of mind which blighted the country under Stalin.

Yet despite this dead hand from the past, there is clearly a full-scale "Socialist competition" going on among the newspapers to see which can expose most scandals. "Komsomolskaya Pravda" (the organ of the Young Communist League) has a special "flying squad" of reporters which goes about reporting on short-comings from all parts of the country—ranging from bad food in works canteens to the advertising of goods and services which do not exist.

"Trud", the trades union paper, has been running a special series of complaints from readers attacking everything under the sun, from careless damage done to parcels in the post to the charging of entrance fees to public baths where there is no running water. "Evening Moscow," the nearest thing to a popular newspaper in Russia, has been listing, in minute detail, shortages of all kinds, from tin-openers to mending wool, from safety pins to indiarubber—catalogues which resemble the frustrated shopping lists of wartime Britain. "Krokodil," the humerous weekly, has been printing more and more cartoons about domestic shortcomings, instead of supposed United States belligerence. And almost every newspaper has taken to publishing feuilletons satirising the seamy side of the worker's paradise.

A topic that keeps cropping up among these complaints is the lack of facilities for getting clothes mended and cleaned. This grievance is repeated in many different ways. This indicates that in spite of the new, mood, clothes are still items of extreme value—and shoddy manufacture. They wear out easily, and they have to be preserved.

On top of this, many Soviet women have to work, and lack the time and energy for domestic chores — to say nothing of the materials for mending and darning, or the facilities for cleaning and pressing. When Russian women have ironing boards and electric irons, cleaning spirit and detergents, mending wool and sewing thread — and the room to use them — and when clothes are cheap and well-made; then the valeting business may lose its present importance.

CHASE AFTER HOTELS

The latest move in the amenity drive is a blitz on Russian hotels. The "Literary Gazette" has lately begun a campaign about hotel accomodation whcih the Soviet Union is not encouraged.

Here is the situation in the old Volga city of Kazan. "Forty years ago there were fifteen hotels in Kazan. During the period of the Five-Year plans for the town has grown out of all recognition. Now it is the capital of an autonomous republic, a large industrial centre, and a river port; but the number of hotels has been reduced five times — there are now only three. Thirty per cent of the accomodation is occupied by permanent residents. In the Kazan hotel the actors of the local theatre alone occupy thirty-two rooms." This swallowing-up of what little hotel accomodation there is by permanent residents unable to find apartments of their own is one of the standing complaints. Again — according to "Literary Gazette" — in the Russian Federal Republic alone, 70 former hotel buildings have been entirely taken over by permanent residents. "In Yakutsk they have been clever enough to occupy part of an hotel which was completed only last year."

A quarter of the available hotel space in 14 of the largest towns of the republic have been handed over to government departments and to private residents.

Crack Down On Drunks

TORONTO (CP) — The holiday crackdown on drinking drivers and pedestrians has begun. One hundred and ten arrests involving liquor were made during the weekend. Nine were charged with driving while their ability was impaired, 82 as common drunks and 19 with minor breaches of the liquor control act.

Minor Damage As Cars Collide

STIRLING (ENS)—Two cars collided about half-a-mile from Stirling on Highway 14 Saturday.

A car driven by Clifford Cain of Stirling attempted to make a left-hand turn just as another car driven by Maurice Bell attempted to pass.

The Bell car went into the ditch and was badly damaged. The other car received minor damage. Neither driver was injured.

Say U.S. Wheat Growers May Add Big Surplus

By OVID A. MARTIN

WASHINGTON (AP)—If weather conditions for wheat are normal or better between now and harvest next summer, United States growers may add to a big wheat surplus rather than reduce it under a rigid production control program.

This possibility was indicated Monday by a U.S. agricultural department report estimating that farmers have cut their winter wheat acreage nearly 20 per cent, but that the crop volume may be down only about 14.7 per cent.

POSSIBILITIES OUTLINED

The report showed that it would be possible to produce a billion-bushel U.S. wheat crop next year. A harvest of this size would be about 50,000,000 bushels more than officials now expect the market to absorb from the 1954 crop.

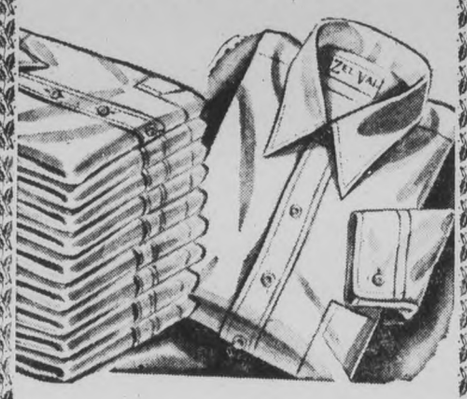
Thus, the surplus, now forecast at a record of 775,000,000 bushels at the start of the 1954 marketing year, would be boosted to 825,000,000.

Under a marketing quota program approved by growers in a referendum, the department alloted 62,000,000 acres for wheat next year. This compared with plantings of about 78,000,000 for this year's crop.

Each farm's sales quota is the volume of wheat grown on the acreage allotted it. Sales from excess would be subject to a penalty tax of about $1.10 a bushel, or slightly more than half the present farm sales price.

By comparison, this year's total U.S. wheat crop was 1,169,000,000 bushels, of which 877,000,000 was winter wheat. No forecast on spring wheat will be made until early next summer, but a crop of 250,000,000 bushels would be about average.

Unless weather conditions turn out unfavorably between now and harvest, growers will face the necessity of having to vote again next year on continuation of controls in 1955, and possibly for several years thereafter.



Liquor Store Bombed

MINTO, N.B. (CP) — A home-made bomb was tossed through a window of the New Brunswick liquor control board store Monday night, destroying most of the Christmas stock of liquor and wine. No damage estimate was given.

The front section of the brick building was wrecked. Police said sticks of dynamite tied to a rock were ignited by a fuse.

HARDLY A SUMMER SCENE on the Montreal harbor is this view of the deck of the freighter Yaffo December 16th, as she discharged her cargo of cement on the dock, marking the latest date in history a ship has entered the harbor from the sea. The Yaffo docked from Hamburg after 22 days of rough weather on the North Atlantic.

Abandon Hope Of Talks With 22 GI's

PANMUNJOM (AP)—The Allies have all but abandoned hope of face-to-face talks with 22 Americans who embraced communism, and scheduled last-minute "come home" broadcasts to the prisoners inside their compound.

Midnight Wednesday marks the end of the 90-day period for coaxing home war prisoners who rejected repatriation.

The 22 Americans who stayed with the Reds will be listed as absent without leave at that hour. Thirty days later they will be classed as deserters.

As hope virtually ended for personal interviews with the Americans, one Briton and 77 Koreans in the pro-Communist north camp, Red explainers today won back 23 of 242 Chinese prisoners in a day of quiet interviews.

Monday 250 Chinese from the same compound faced Communist explainers and 33 elected to return to Red rule.

The Communists have asked for 250 more Chinese Wednesday.

The United Nations command announced that it will make three loudspeaker broadcasts to prisoners in the north camp, one for the Americans, one for the lone Briton and a third for the 77 North Koreans.

Texts of the broadcasts were approved by the neutral nations repatriation commission and a spokesman said the commission "will make the facilities available."

He noted, however, that it is up to the prisoners "to listen or not to listen."

And Lt.-Gen. K. S. Thimayya, Indian chairman of the commission, predicted that the prisoners probably will "all join together and go to the other end of the compound."

The U.S. captives refused even to look at a 12-page letter from the UN command urging them to give careful thought to their "irrevocable" decision to remain with the Communists.

ROY PILLING

CGE Inspector For 30 Years Pilling Retires

Roy Pilling, inspector at CGE, retired Friday, after 47 years with the company. Beginning in the machine shop in 1906 he served his apprenticeship and 30 years ago became in inspector in the control department.

Born in Port Hope, Mr. Pilling moved to Peterborough while still a youngster, with his familly. He was educated at South Central school, then joined Peterborough Works when he was 15. After completing his apprenticeship, he worked at his trade for many years in machine shop, tool room and erection before commencing his career as an inspector.

After doing some work on shells during World War 1, and another three year period in erection following the conclusion of hostilities, he went into inspection work under the late Andrew McKenzie in December, 1923.

Mr. Pilling has only the highest praise for his various bosses during these years. They include the late Phil Brown, Don Hill, Art Malby, and at the time of his retirement, Doug McGregor.

The name Pilling is a familiar one in Peterborough Works. Besides Roy, there is a brother, Bob, in the Tool room; Jack, formerly of Tool room, now on pension; and two sons, Dexter in Armature and Art, who will enter the Quarter Century Club next March, in Employee Sales.

Although in his younger days baseball and hockey were Roy's favorite past-times, he is planning more relaxing hobbies in his retirement. They include fishing, travelling and care of his rose trees. Flowers have long been a favorite hobby with him.

Toronto Construction Reaches $300,000,000

TORONTO (CP)—Cost of new construction in metropolitan Toronto this year will amount to a record $300,000,000, it was announced Monday.

The figure, reached from the combined reports of 13 municipalities which make up the metropolitan city, is 50 per cent higher than last year's record.

The reports show that enough new living accommodation, consisting of 10,300 homes and 6,800 suites in 470 apartment buildings, was provided to house 60,000 people.

The greatest construction was in Toronto municipality — $80,000,000 compared to $43,000,000 last year. The increase was due mainly to the erection of several large office buildings.

Timiskaming Gets Police Radio Setup

TIMISKAMING (CP) — A police radio system in which every telephone in this northern area is connected directly to police patrol cars has been introduced here.

When Chief George Dupont or members of his four - man force leave headquarters they merely flick a switch which relays all calls directly to the patrol car. The calls are also amplified in the office of the town's police magistrate, William Irwin.

Need for the new system resulted from introduction of the dial telephone to the area. Until that changeover, telephone operators often assisted the police by taking messages and relaying them as best they could when there was no constable on station duty.

Investigate Fire

WALLACEBURG (CP) — Provincial police have started an investigation into the $4,000 fire in Our Lady of Perpetual Help Roman Catholic church here last Thursday. The fire destroyed the communion railing and caused heavy smoke damage to the interior.

MAKE MEDICAL HISTORY—Medical history in Canada was made, it is believed, when these four Winnipeg youngsters, all in one family, had at least 95 per cent of their blood replaced to correct a condition which might have meant death or subnormality. Kenny, Linda and Frankie Seepish greet the newest member of the family, Theresa Ann, 12 days old. The four suffered from a haemolitic disease of the newborn. The disease results from conflicting factors in the blood of the parents which would cause destruction of the blood of their children. Doctors said it is believed the first time four members of one family have undergone the blood change.

Choir Sings By Candlelight

COLDSPRINGS (ENS) — A very impressive candlelight service presented by the choir of St. Paul's United church was enjoyed Sunday evening.

The church was beautifully decorated with lighted Christmas trees and many lighted candles in the windows and in front of the altar.

Special music by the choir was interspersed with readings given by the Modern Maiden, (Mrs. H. McKinley). Solos were sung by Mrs. P. Harris and Miss Grace Wilton, Marlene Twik and Elaine Minifie sang a duet, and Mesdames C. Minifie, P. Harris and C. Timlin sang as a trio.

Percy Davidson, based his sermon on "The Other Wise Man."

C. Willis was responsible for the chimes and Christmas carols played before and after the service.

Name Patterson Official Greeter

NEW YORK (AP)—Mayor-elect Robert F. Wagner Jr., has confirmed reports he would drop Grover A. Whalen after 35 years as official city greeter and name Richard C. Patterson Jr., to the job.

Wagner's announcement that Patterson would succeed Whalen as chairman of the mayor's reception committee contained a tribute to Whalen's long service in the post. The job is unsalaried.

Whalen headed the reception committee since it was formed in 1918, officiating at all city welcomes for important visitors, as well as such events as the World's Fair.

Patterson served as ambassador to Yugoslavia and Guatemala, and was minister to Switzerland until last June.

RESCUE MOTHERS, BABIES—Nurses attend some of the 50 mothers and new-born babies evacuated from the fourth-floor maternity ward of Victoria Hospital, London, Ont., when a fire in a utility room filled the ward with choking smoke and heat. At right one of the mothers feeds her baby. Nurses hold some of the babies taken to an emergency ward. None of the patients was harmed by the fire.

Quebec's Race For Minerals Continues, Production Down

By RICHARD DAIGNAULT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC (CP)—The race for metals continued in the Quebec mining industry during 1953 although lower prices for some metals and a prolonged strike in northwestern Quebec's gold mines are expected to cause a fall in production.

Quebec mineral production, hovering around $92,000,000 in 1946, soared to well over $250,000,000 last year as the province's northwest and northeastern frontiers were pushed back.

Quebec department of mines this year noted interest in rarer metals like lithium, found south of Amos in northwestern Quebec, and in molybdenite, an ore used to harden steel.

NO PRODUCTION YET

Enthusiasm about possible uranium deposits continued but so far there has been no production.

Hottest spots for prospecting remained the Chibougamau region, 300 miles north of Quebec City, the northwest and the Gaspe peninsula, a vast, virtually untapped area.

Industrially, the big developments are the Iron Ore Company of Canada's gigantic project in Ungava where construction of a 360-mile railway is expected to be completed next year, and Gaspe copper mines.

ORE FOR REFINERIES

The railway will carry ore mined from open pits to Sept Iles, on the St. Lawrence river North Shore, and will go by ship to United States refineries.

Construction of a mining town in Gaspe's wilderness was well advanced during the year and production is expected to begin next year.

One big expansion was in the asbestos industry in Quebec's eastern townships where new production facilities were built and new asbestos deposits placed under development.

Sunday School Presents Concert

COLDSPRINGS (ENS) — The Christmas program of St. Paul's United Church Sunday school was held Sunday with a large attendance.

Superintendent Frank Ritchie presided. Gordon Buttars read the scripture.

The program opend with recitations by Viva Morrison and Larry McIntosh. Ronald Linton played a piano solo. Donald Harris gave a reading; Marlene Turk and Elaine Minifie sang a duet; a reading by Robin Maughan was followed by ten members of class 2 singing.

The story of Silent Night was told by Class 2, and Class 1B sang the carol, followed with prayer by Barbara Ann Maughan.

Attendance prizes were given to Faye Alderson, Ross Bull, Kathryn Harper, Robin Haughan, Jack Fields. Memory work prizes went to Viva Morrison, Larry McIntosh and Donald Harris.

Gifts were then distributed from a gaily decorated tree by Mrs. R. Timlin, and Mrs. Newton McIntosh. The superintendent gave out many bags of candy, oranges and apples to the juniors.

Blackwell, O'Carroll Avenue, will all be home for Christmas holidays: Miss Jessie of Trinity College and Miss Gwyneth of Ontario College of Art, Toronto, Walter from the Grove School, Lakefield, and Miss Elizabeth Blackwell, who is taking her dietetic internship at Montreal General Hospital, and is arriving Wednesday for over Christmas Day.

St. Andrew's Bowling Club enjoyed a lovely Christmas party after bowling last week. Members gigled about a table with Santa Claus and his reindeer as the centre and gaily wrapped gifts for each one and sang Christmas carols, with Mrs. Ray Morrow accompanying at the piano. Sandwiches and coffee, fruit, candy and cookies were served, also Christmas cake made by the treasurer, Mrs. Edith Dyer. A lucky number prize provided by Mrs. Rose Payne was won by Mrs. Margaret Weir.

135 At Swim Parties

About 135 children have attended the series of Christmas parties in the YWCA swimming pool the past week, and 32 participated in the swimming meet Thursday evening with the Senior Swim Club and life guards performing during the program. Miss Roselyn Stone arranged these parties and it was the first time that they have been truly "swimming" parties, with all the games activities right in the water.

Supper Party For Store Staff

A turkey supper with all the traditional trimmings, served in the YWCA green room, followed by a Christmas party and program, has been enjoyed by the employees of Zellers. Manager Mr. D. J. Fitzgerald at this time distributed substantial Christmas bonuses to the eligible members of the staff. Carol singing, accordion numbers, a chorus, being a takeoff on various department heads, and readings entertained. Christmas "elves" enacted a charade as a prelude to the arrival of jolly Old St. Nick to distribute the many gifts from the tree. A huge panda bear was presented to Miss Elaine Savigny, the personnel supervisor.

Sing Carols To Shut-Ins

YPU members of George Street United church assembled Monday evening early in the Sunday School and divided themselves into groups to go out and sing Christmas carols at the homes of shut-ins. Their enthusiasm for this plan was not at all dampened by the evening and they carried it out with splendid success, returning to the church about ten o'clock to enjoy sandwiches and coffee served by the social conveners, Misses Lorraine Bradfield and Jean Montgomery. The groups were led by Kelly Metcalfe, Miss Edith Walker, Miss Shirley Starke and Graydon Hadwin. Some members stayed behind to help with preparations for the Christmas pageant to be presented by groups of the church this coming Sunday evening. After the refreshments there was carol singing and a worship service was led by Miss Marion Brown.

Sumptuous Supper For Party

A sumptuous buffet supper of ham, salads, mince pies and trimmings, followed by Welsh cakes, was the highlight ending to the Christmas party of St. David's Welsh Society Monday evening at the YWCA. Twenty members were present and they exchanged their gifts by forming a circle and passing them around while Miss Margaret Flowers played a tune, each one keeping the gift in her hand when the music stopped. Miss Flowers received a gift in appreciation of her faithful services as pianist and on the program committee, presented by president Mrs. C. L. Armstrong. The evening commenced with all singing carols. Then Mrs. Armstrong sang "Away in the Manger" and Mrs. Doris Shewen and Mrs. E. A. King sang a duet "Good King Wenceslas." Mrs. Walter Flowers and Mrs. Shewen put on a comical skit, "Rudolph the red-nosed reindeer" with Mrs. King singing the song.

Turkey Supper For Class

A turkey supper prepared by Mrs. Louis Webb and Committee was enjoyed by the King's Own Bible Class at St. James' Sunday School Monday evening. Following the delicious meal, there was a short devotional period in charge of Mrs. L. Gibson. The Rev. Lloyd Shorten and Mr. Roy Heard, superintendent of the Sunday school addressed the class briefly, bringing the season's greetings. Mrs. Shorten showed two films, "When the littlest camel knelt" and "Holy Child of Bethlehem". The ladies were visited by Santa and received gifts. Mrs. Gibson dealt with some business and Mrs. Webb reported for the nominating committee with the following new slate of officers: president Mrs. A. Post; vice president, Mrs. L. Webb, Mrs. W. Downer; recording and corresponding secretary, Mrs. F. turner; treasurer, Mrs. G. Pearson; sunshine convener, Mrs. M. Hess; telephone, Mrs. C. Murduff; assistant,. Mrs. E. Morrison and Mrs. L. Hunter; envelopes, Mrs. L. Ball. It was agreed to give donations to the Mission Band, the Missionary and Maintenance fund, trustees, stewards and Sunday school and decided to use envelopes and dime cards. Mrs. Ball had charge of the program and conducted two contests.

Santa Pays Visit To School Retarded Children

A very special visit was made by Santa Claus Monday morning when he brought Christmas happiness to the class of the Peterborough and District Retarded children during the school hours at the YWCA.

A gaily decorated tree brought cries of joy and surprise from the children when lights were turned on, after they had been ushered into a darkened classroom by their teacher Mrs. J. Hamilton.

Following the usual opening of school, with repeating the Lord's Prayer and singing a hymn, all the children took part in making a flannelgraph of the Christmas story. Then paper hats and whitles were distributed and party games took the place of lessons.

It was after the lunch period that Santa, with his bag of toys and hearty laugh, came merrily into the room and greeted each child. For the girls he had bassinettes with baby dolls in handmade woollies and to the boys he gave mechanical toys. Each child also received an invisible writing slate, games and bags of fruit and candy canes.

Santa too, had a wonderful time at this party for he seldom experiences the joyous welcome of a group of children such as these, and at their first school Christmas party. Drivers and parents of the children also expressed their appreciation of his visit.

The party was made possible through the generosity of Mrs. J. McCausland in donating the slates, Mrs. J. Davidson, the dollies and bassinettes, Mrs. J. Hamilton, gifts, Otonabee Chapter, IODE, donation toward the toys, and Mrs. A. W. Nelson, the tree and decorations.

DID YOU KNOW? When making cookies, cut a sheet of "cellophane" cellulose film the same size as the cookie tin and place the cookies on the sheet. While they are baking, put another batch of cookies on another sheet of "cellophane". When the first batch is done, just lift the sheet and place the newly-filled "cellophane" sheet on the cookie tin. Keep them going in and out of the oven without delay.

Color Galore In Wrappings Turn Out Gifts To Admire

All that's Christmasy is not red and green. Not anymore, according to this year's crop of gift wrapings. Red and green papers and ribbons are still in plentiful supply for the traditional-minded, but they are gradually being crowded off the counters by more sophisticated shades and less familiar color combinations.

This year almost every color including black and brown will be used to give Christmas boxes a festive air. Some stationery and department stores have avoided traditional combinations entirely in their displays of suggested gift-wrap ideas. Instead, bright red parcels are shown festooned with sooty black pom-poms, while green packages are tied with yards of soft pink or deep blue ribbons.

A number of stationery manufacturers are offering envelopes of cellophane cellulose film, each containing enough harmonizing paper, cards and stickers for several presents. All the busy shopper had to do is select the ribbon. For those who like to give their imaginations a work-out at Yuletide there is sparkling cellophane in rich shades of red, blue, green and tangerine as well as in transparent sheets and rolls.

Professional-looking two-tone effects can be produced with a single colored sheet by overlapping part of the parcel with two thicknesses of the film. For example, if blue is used, part of the parcel will turn out bright blue, the rest a rich, royal blue. A present any recipient will admire for a long time before her curiosity gets the better of her, can be made by pleating a separate piece in a contrasting color and attaching it to part of the already-wrapped box. Hold the pleats in place with strips of the cellulose tape on the wrong side of the pleats.

Be economical when decorating by cutting the sheets to the required size with a ruler and a razor blade. The correct length can be obtained by measuring the length of the box and adding two-thirds of the depth at each end. For the width, multiply the width and the depth by two and add a small allowance for overlap at the bottom.

Glistening icy effects can be created for novel packages by crushing the sheet into a ball and smoothing it flat again. The film drapes so easily and attractively, odd shaped articles such as plants, jars, bottles and small household appliances can be dramatically parcelled with or without an opaque under-sheet of white paper. Top the whole thing off with a fiery red flare or a smokey blue pouf by cutting a square large enough to extend a full six inches above the article. To do this, hold the four corners together with one hand and with the other gather the material tight around the neck of the bottle or top of the item. Tie with ribbon and trim the flare if necessary with scissors.

Time To Enjoy Christmas If Dinner Cooked & Frozen

What housewife wouldn't enjoy Christmas more if only she could ask Santa to bring the turkey and trimmings too — precooked and ready to reheat?

Those who rent lockers, own home or farm freezers or have generous freezing sections in their refrigerators, can cook most of their Christmas dinner now. Then, they are free to enjoy the great day to the fullest with family and friends. All that's left will be just enough final preparation to put them in a real holiday spirit.

After selecting a frozen or a fresh turkey, prepare, stuff and slide into a preheated over for roasting in the usual way. Remove it about one-half to three-quarters of an hour before it is completely done. Allow the bird to cool thoroughly to room temperature and slip into a large polythene freezer bag. Any one of those polythene grocery bags housewives across the country are collecting will do, providing it is large enough and hasn't been punctured with "breathing holes" for fruits and vegetables. Close by folding the loose ends back and securing with an elastic band or a pipe cleaner.

After Santa has arrived, remove the bird from the freezer and allow it to thaw out at room temperature for several hours. Then, pop it into the oven for the remaining half to three-quarters of an hour's roasting or until it is piping hot and juicy right through to the dressing.

Cook the plum pudding and bake cookies and cakes as though they are to be consumed immediately, complete with frosting and decorations. Package the same way in a polythene bag and store in the freezer. The pudding can be easily steamed to serving temperature and the cookies and cakes require only a few minutes to thaw.

No outer wrapping is necessary when food is frozen in polythene packages because the non-toxic plastic film resists puncturing and damaging. Nor will it allow food to dry out, change color or develop "freezer-burn" since it provides the necessary moisture-vapor barrier.

CWL Of 4 Parishes Entertains Residents H. of P.

Residents of the House of Providence Sunday night enjoyed a varied program of music when the Catholic Women's League entertained them at a Christmas party, with Clare Grady acting as master of ceremonies.

Messrs. Thomas Drumm, John Gooley, Wilf Sexsmith, Frank Heath and Bert Shanque played old time music and accompanied songs by Cyril Younge and a harmonica solo by Clare Grady. Misses Patricia and Ann McDougall's songs were in the modern vein. Melodies both old and new were recalled in Mrs. F. Guilfoyle's piano numbers. Piano duet by Heribert Michel and Suzanne Martyn was on a Christmas theme and Christmas carols were sung by choristers Mrs. L. Martyn, Barbara O'Reilly, Mary Jane Hatton, Mary Conlin, Suzanne Martyn and Bert Shanque, under the direction of Heribert Michel.

Residents themselves joined in some of the songs and of special interest were the vocal solo by Mrs. Rusaw, step dancing of Mrs. Gadois, and a violin solo by Mr. Legris.

At the conclusion of the program Catholic Women's League members from the four parishes of the city served refreshments and presented a small Christmas remembrance to each of the guests.

ST. MARY'S AND ST. PETER'S

St. Mary's and St. Peter's PTA Christmas concert and meeting was held in St. Peter's boys' school

Grade 1 pupils of St. Mary's School opened the program with a rhythm band number, followed by three Christmas carols by pupils of grades 5 and 6.

Pupils of St. Peter's presented a square dance and The Christmas Story which ended with the singing of Christmas carols around the crib.

Mr. Max Glover introduced the speaker, the Rev. E. McSherry, C.S.S.R. whose subject was, "Putting Christ Back into Christmas"

Father McSherry explained the origin of the giving of gifts at Christmas, "God gave man His most wonderful gift on Christmas morning—His own Son, Who commanded that if any man wishes to save his soul, he must love his neighbor for the love of God. Therefore the giving of gifts should be a spiritual action. In other words, we should imitate the action of God in the giving of gifts. Our idea should be to help others, to make them happy. All this can be wrapped around the least gift," he said.

"Everything about the first Christmas speaks of self-sacrifice and suffering. The Son of God chose a stable when he came on earth, and put up with all the pain and suffering that went with it. Furthermore, He grew up in the midst of poverty and hardship, and finally sacrificed his life to save men and to make them happy. And why did Christ choose so much sacrifice and suffering? To teach us to choose some for ourselves. Therefore Christmas rightly understood is mainly a feast of suffering and sacrifice upon the part of God and man."

"For many, Christmas is wrapped in a lot of pious sentiment which does not go deep enough to make them want to change their lives. Christmas should make us want to do something for Christ, not merely to feel pious."

Mr. E. Ridley thanked Father McSherry.

Buffet Supper Enjoyed By Federation Group

The Federation of George Street United Church held a Christmas meeting Monday evening which commenced with a delicious buffet supper prepared by Miss Georgie Hardill and her committee of Mrs. E. Welbourne, Mrs. J. Thornton, Mrs. Donald Clark and Miss Betty Goldie.

President Mrs. George Gatfield expressed welcome to the 35 members present, and following the supper held a business session. The nominating committee reported the following officers selected for 1954:

Honorary presidents, Mrs. Arnold Mathews and Mrs. Ray Parnell; president, Mrs. Robert Hutton; 1st vice-president WA, Miss Gladys Walker; 2nd vice-president WMS, Mrs. B. Triggs; 3rd vice-president, program, Mrs. Stanley Johnston; secretary, Mrs. H. Nicholls; treasurer, Mrs. I. Drain; corresponding secretary, Miss G. Hardill.

Department secretaries are: Parsonage, Mrs. F. Thirnbeck; children and youth, Miss Myrtle McKeown; visiting and community service, Mrs. R. Skinner; press, Mrs. R. Sager; membership, Mrs. R. Vance; social, Mrs. H. Allison; telephone, Mrs. G. Douglas; sunshine, Mrs. G. Gatfield; pianist, Mrs. H. Race.

Carols were sung and scripture was read by Miss Ila Sayers, followed with prayer by Mrs. Arthur Black. Mrs. Len Slaughter sang "O Holy Night" and "Birthday of a King," accompanied by Miss Dorothy White on the piano.

Speaker was Miss Doris Horton, who told the Christmas Story beautifully. She was introduced by Miss Walker and thanked by Mrs. Race.

YW Parties Ended

YW Gym department parties concluded Monday afternoon with about 60 of the nine to 15 year olds coming in after four. The three to eight year old children had their party Saturday morning with jolly old Santa Claus again their favorite guest. About 80 were at this party and eight children from the Children's Home joined them.

On Monday there were about 20 children from St. Vincent's Orphanage as guests. Gifts for the guests were provided by senior members of the gym and the members of each class brought gifts for exchange. Entertainment was provided by the junior ballet class on Saturday, and by the senior group on Monday, with director Miss MacMillan and pianist on hand.

The gym has been decorated this year with three Christmas trees and a bank of lovely toys that the children take exceeding delight in viewing.

Director Miss Bea Pelsis arranged the parties and has been assisted by board and committee members, Mrs. L. B. Martin, Mrs. C. G. Collins, Mrs. J. G. Lewis, Mrs. L. B. Pope, Mrs. Clarence Porter, Mrs. Audrey Collins, Miss Helen Zakos, Mrs. M. J. Hardill, and the leaders who have now completed their course of training.

Varty-Cox Rites

Havelock Pentecostal Church was scene of a double ring wedding Saturday afternoon when Betty Jackson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wiliam Cox of Belleville, became the bride of Norman Varty son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Varty of Havelock. The Rev. Mr. Stevenson officiated.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a light blue taffeta and net gown with matching mitts and corsage of red rose buds, also a headdress of red roses. Attending the bride as matron of honour was Mrs. Raymond Frauts of Belleville wearing a gown of blue taffeta and net with white accesories, her corsage was pink carnations and matching headband. Little Janet Jackson was flower girl wearing a yellow nylon dress with white head band and carrying a nosegay.

The groom was attended by his cousin Mr. Raymond Frauts of Belleville. Ushers were Joseph Cox of Belleville brother of the bride and Eugene Varty of Oshawa cousin of the groom.

The reception was held at the home of the groom's parents. His mother and the bride's mother received. Guests were present from Oshawa, Peterborough, Belleville, and Havelock.

For traveling the bride wore a navy dress with red accessories. After a short trip the couple will live in Belleville.

LANG SCHOOL

The Lang Home and School Association held a Christmas party in the town hall Thursday evening with a large attendance. The hall was festive in gay Christmas decorations. The children helped to provide the program, and Charles Elliott was master of ceremonies.

The junior grades sang "Rudolph the Red-nosed Reindeer" and "Frosty the Snowman." The program ran as follows: "Toyland" was sung by three members of the junior grades, Rosemary Drimmie, Mary Gist and Kathy Gist. Mrs. William Drimmie accompanied all the singing at the piano. The film, "Santa Claus Parade of 1953," was presented, with James Brown and Barry Comrie operating the projector. Gail Edwards played a piano solo, "Silent Night." "Too Fat for the Chimney" and "I Saw Mommy Kissing Santa Claus" was sung by Donna Short and Carolie McNevin. They were accompanied at the piano by Marlene McNevin. The film, "Barbara Ann Scott," was shown. Susan Gist, Gail Edwards and Diane Richardson sang "That's What I Want for Christmas." A recitation was given by

DOROTHY DIX

Unable To Curb Tongue Regrets Hurting People

DEAR MISS DIX: Through the years I have said and done countless small, mean, crafty things which have made those I love miserably unhappy. I have made a million resolves to curb my hasty tongue and the hate that for the moment is in my heart. I never seem to hurt any but those near me. I can be most kind to neighbors and friends. The person who bears the brunt of this quirk of mine is my mother-in-law. She is a fine woman, whom I sincerely admire, and she has tried to treat me as a daughter. Yet, whenever we're together, I can't resist making cutting remarks to her. I realize, too, that while it's the mother-in-law who gets most of the blame for family troubles, actually it's the daughter-in-law who is responsible.

I really hate to be like this; how can I change?—D. I.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Confession is good for the soul, and perhaps you have benefitted by unburdening yourself, even on paper. The most difficult thing for many people to control is their tongues. Hard work doesn't bother them; long hours of study are taken in stride; their bodies are disciplined by athletics, yet the wagging tongue goes on without their controlling it. And nothing is so irrevocable as words. A poet of the last century tells us, "Never shall thy spoken word be again unsaid, unheard." These words that are "razors to my wounded heart" wound those who utter them as well as the persons to whom they are addressed. You are proving that now, in the budding realization that you are becoming the victim of your own malevolence.

MEND YOUR WAYS

For reform you need a complete realization of the harm you are doing to others and, by reflection, to yourself, and a fixed determination to mend your ways. You need humbling, since the prime cause of an attitude such as yours is arrogance. Get down on your knees, preferably in church, go often enough, and stay long enough, in concentrated prayer, to win resistance over a contemptible fault. Since your mother-in-law has borne the brunt of most of your malice, let her receive the first fruits of your reformation. Bite your tongue before you utter another unkind word.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: We live in the country. Since my husband is a truck driver and away at work most of the time, the children and I rarely see him. I am hearing very disquieting rumors about how he spends his time.—WENDY M.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Since your livelihood doesn't depend on the farm, couldn't you move into town so your husband could have more time with you and the children? It would really be the best way to preserve your marriage. Don't put much stock in idle gossip. There are more troublemakers in this world than you realize.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 19 and very fond of a young man of 20. I met him recently at a party. At first I didn't like him and wasn't too friendly. Now I know I do like him and want to get better acquainted.—ANNABELLE.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: After a wretched beginning, you'll have a hard time convincing the boy you even have manners. If you don't like someone, you shouldn't be quite so obvious about it. More graciousness in the future may improve your chances with the present, or any other young man.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

How To Manage On $60 Per Month, Family Of Six

As Told To MARY MOORE

Florence M.T.'s letter, giving us some ideas on how she manages on $60.00 per month for a family of six, brought in responses from all over.

The letters urged Florence to give more and more details of how she accomplishes this well-nigh impossible feat. I forwarded two of these letters to her and asked her if she would let us impose on her for further details, and her gracious reply follows.

Personally and publicly I want to thank Florence for taking precious time during her Christmas preparations to cooperate.

Dear Mary Moore: I am frankly flattered by the response to my Nov. 13 letter. (Although our acquaintances here still think we must have tasteless meals if we don't spend at least $100. per month on food.)

The best way I know to help is to enclose my food list for this month. (Florence's second letter is dated Dec. 2).

Cabbage: 2 or 3 large; carrots: 3 or 4 lbs.; celery: 3 or 4 large; onions: 2 lbs.; apples: 1 bushel, grade C; oranges: 4 dozen; meat: 25 to 28 lbs. brisket (see method of cooking below), hamburg, shoulder, a few weiners; assorted canned vegetables: 30 cans; assorted soups: 4 or 6 cans; assorted fruit juices: 30 cans; raisins: 2 lbs.; prunes: 2 lbs.; figs, dates: 2 lbs.; honey: 4 lbs.; eggs: 6 doz.; egg powder, 1 can; margarinne: 14 to 16 lbs.; cheese: 10 to 12 lbs. skim milk cheese or cheddar; skim milk powder: 25 lbs.; evaporated milk: 3 or 4 tall cans; canned tuna: 4 small cans; potatoes: 35 lbs. (bought in 50-lb. bag); assorted canned fruits: 8 or 10 cans; baby cereal: 2 or 3 large boxes; baby fruit and vegetables: 28 cans; white beans: 1 or 2 lbs.; macaroni: 1 or 2 lbs.; coffee: 1 large instant or 2 lbs. fresh; bulk oats: 15 lbs.; white sugar: 8 lbs. (bought in 10-lb. bag); dark brown sugar: 8 lbs.; peanut butter: 1 lb.; salt: 1 box; baking powder: 1 small double acting; yeast: 8 or 10 granulated; prepared cereal—2 large (for Sunday treat); flour: mostly whole wheat 35 to 40 lbs.; marmalade: 2 lbs.; custard powder: 1 lb.; brown rice: 1 or 2 lbs.; tea: ¼ lb.; vinegar: 1 med. bottle; catsup: 1 or 2 bottles; also detergent, kleenex, toilet tissue, soap.

I save all vegetable and meat juices for soups etc. My way of cooking meat is: 5 or 6 lbs. brisket (17 cents lb. at supermarket this week)—sprinkle with meat tenderizer the night before; next day roast in covered pan at 200 degrees for 3½ to 4 hours. This is extremely tender, juicy and sweet.

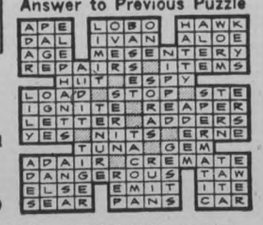
Canned vegetables are prepared by draining off liquid (to be saved) and quickly heated in 1 tablespoon margarine, and sprinkled with seasoning (tarragon, chervil, anise, etc.) My prized cook book is "Cooked To Your Taste", a vegetable cook book by Ann Williams-Heller. It contains many food and health hints as well.

My cake and cookie mix is: 1 lb. margarine, 9 cups bread flour, 1-3 cup baking powder, 1 cup skim milk powder. For cookies add to 3 cups of above mix 1 egg, 1 cup sugar and fruit such as raisins, or nuts or oats, etc. Knead well. For cake: to 2 cups of above mix add 1 egg, 1 cup sugar ½ to ¾ cup water, flavoring. Beat well for several minutes.

This mix also makes an acceptable pastry by adding to 2 cups of mix enough water to handle. Dot the rolled dough with margarine.

Bread making method: Prepare sponge the night before: 6 cups lukewarm water, 1 granulated yeast package, 3 tablespoons margarine, 3 tablespoons salt, 3 or 4 tablespoons sugar, 1 cup powdered skim milk, 6 cups bread flour (white or brown). Beat together well, and cover till morning. Next morning add about 12 cups whole wheat flour, and proceed with the usual kneading, rising, punching down called for in most recipes. I do not find a great deal of difference in kneading of white or whole wheat dough. But I do find it much easier to divide the large batch into two or three and knead separately. To make a fine-textured loaf, just before putting in the bread pans, roll each loaf with rolling pin, and roll up as you would a jelly roll, and then place in oiled pans. This recipe makes 6 loaves.

The above list looks uninspiring, but when prepared in a variety of ways plain, everyday foods can be a surprise. Of course you must have your family's cooperation. It won't work if one or more individuals refuse to eat this or that.



Sincerely Florence M.T.

ANSWER: For once, I'm speechless. A profound "Thank You" Florence from me for myself and for our other budgeting readers.

Richard Hudnut announces Spray and Stay

Glamorous new spray-on hair set makes your hair-do stay the way you want it, for as long as you want it!

Spray this finely atomized, delicately fragrant liquid on your hair, and your set stays "just so" in spite of rain, wind or icy blasts. Spray and Stay leaves your hair naturally soft and shining, and gives it the good firm body needed to hold the new hair-dos beautifully, perfectly in place. Contains vacuum purified lanolin to condition as it controls. Wonderful as a pincurl setting lotion, too!

$1.75

CHECK THIS CHART! Ask yourself these questions about the hair spray you are now using:
- ☐ Does it give hair a hard, stiff, varnished feel?
- ☐ Does it dull-coat the hair?
- ☐ Make it greasy and sticky?
- ☐ Does it "let go" in damp weather, or steamy bath?
- ☐ Does it leave wispy ends, unruly curls, coarse, artificial look?
- ☐ Does it form dry, flaky residue?
- ☐ Is it hard to comb and brush out?

Just press and spray away all these hair problems with Spray and Stay!

Specifically formulated for use in the Richard Hudnut Fifth Avenue Salons

6—In Memoriam

ADAMS: JOHNSON — In memory of J. Adams, who passed away November 22, 1944, father to Elsa Johnson and L. Johnson, who passed away December 22nd, 1944, father to Frank Johnson.
—Ever remembered by Frank, Elsa, and children.

BRADSHAW—In loving memory of our dear father Henry Joseph Bradshaw who passed away, December 22, 1952.
Always so good, unselfish and kind.
None on this earth, your equal we'll find.
Honourable and true, in all your ways,
Loving and faithful to the end of your days.
Honest and liberal every upright,
Just in your judgment, always right.
Loved by your friends and all whom you knew.
One in a million, that, father, was you.
One year has passed our hearts still sore.
As time rolls on, we miss you more;
A loving father, tender and kind,
What beautiful memories you left behind.
—Ever remembered by daughters, Courtney, Connie, Elsie, Mary and families.

BRADSHAW—In loving memory of a dear father, Henry J. Bradshaw, who passed away one year ago December 22, 1952.
God saw you getting weary,
Then did what He thought best;
He put his arms around you, Dad,
And whispered, "Come and rest."
It doesn't need a special day
To bring you to our minds:
For days that we don't think of you
Are very hard to find.
—Ever remembered by son Earl and daughter-in-law Christine.

MURRAY—In loving memory of Mrs. C. Murray who passed on December 22, 1946.
Those whom we love, go out of sight
But never out of mind.
They are cherished in the hearts of those they leave behind.
—Ever remembered by Aunt and Uncle.

VAN ALLEN—In loving memory of Thomas James Van Allen, who died December 22nd, 1952.
Heavy are our hearts today
Memory brings you back once more
To the time when you were with us,
To the happy days of yore.
—Remembered by Betty, Keith and Tommy Ellis.

WESDALE—In loving memory of a dear wife and mother who passed away, December 21, 1951.
The depths of sorrow we cannot tell
Of the loss we loved so well
And while she sleeps a peaceful sleep
Her memory we shall always keep.
—Ever rememberd by husband and family.

McFADDEN—In loving mmory of a dear mother, Abbey Jane McFadden who passed away, December 18, 1945.
—Sadly missed by her son John and his wife Violet.

8,000 Lbs. Of Supplies Dropped For Yuletide

MONTREAL (CP)—An RCAF North Star, fresh from playing Santa Claus in the bleak Canadian North, returned to Montreal's Dorval airport Monday after dropping some 8,000 pounds of supplies and Christmas mail to air force, RCMP and weather station personnel.

The North Star, one of two used in the operation, last week flew a 2,500 miles to Resolute bay with a cargo that included Christmas puddings and turkeys for men posted in the western and central Arctic regions. The other plane returned earlier.

Supplies were dropped to remote posts by parachute.

Earlier Monday, two twin-engine C-119 cargo aircraft landed at Goose Bay, Labrador, after carrying out a similar operation in the eastern Arctic.

Transmission Tests Nearing Completion

MONTREAL (CP) — Transmission tests to determine the best route for extension of the Bell Telephone Company's Toronto-Ottawa-Montreal microwave radio relay to North Bay now are nearing completion, it was announced today.

The new circuit would provide additional long distance circuits and, if required, carry television programs. A micro-wave link to Quebec City now is under construction.

Sixth Line Pupils Present Concert

CAVAN—(ENS)—Pupils of the Sixth Line School presented their annual Christmas concert Friday to a capacity audience.

Clifford Robertson acted as chairman.

The welcome recitation was given by Linda Howson. Choral recitation by six Grade II boys, John Johnston, Gordon Davis, Ralph Donaldson, Paul Donaldson, Douglas Hewie and Ralph Heron.

Three recitations were given by pupils too young to attend school, Gail Donaldson, Reta Davis and Laverne Renwick.

Four choruses were sung by school pupils. The song, "When You and I Were Young Maggie", was sung and acted by Rosemary Delong and Shirley Lang.

An acrostic "Christmas" was given by Grades I, II and III. A great deal of laughter was caused by three comic dialogues, namely: The Census Taker, Dad's Quiet Evening and A Good Impression. These dialogues were well acted by Shirley Lang, Donald Lang, Rosemary Delong, Joan Edwards, Betty Heron, Beverley Sutton Paul Sutton, Beverley Emery and Dick Chapman.

An "Alice Blue Gown" drill was given by seven girls. Ruth Davis taking the part of Alice. Recitation by Ralph Donaldson, "Pa's Complaint". Pantomine, "Silent Night," acted by six girls, as Shirley Lang sang off stage. The sacred play, "They Followed a Star", was written by teacher Mrs. Clifford Robertson and was well received by the audience. The "Good Bye" recitation was given by Linda Howson, Jane Johnston and Jim Emery.

Mrs. Fred Johnston thanked the teacher for putting on such a splendid concert.

Santa Claus arrived and after having a square dance with the children, gifts were were distributed from a well-laden tree.

Wired Home For Sound To Keep Track Of Wife

KITCHENER (CP)—A middle-aged woman told court here Monday that her husband had their home wired for sound so he could listen in on conversations going on anywhere in the house.

She was giving evidence against her husband, charged with assaulting her. She said he hit her on the face and tore out some hair.

Her husband used to sit in a booth next to the house where he had his receiver set up, she testified. When the device started buzzing, he grew angry, entered the house and struck her.

Magistrate R. P. Locke bound him over to keep the peace for six months on condition he take the listening-in system out of his house.

Apsley WA Elects Mrs. R. Fitzgerald

APSLEY (ENS)—The Women's Association of Trinity United Church held its meeting Thursday at Mrs. N. H. Nelson's home, with 12 members present.

Mrs. F. Dafoe conducted the worship and read a poem.

A letter from the Lions Club assured the association that they would hold no more bingos on nights set apart for showing of films in Apsley Central School.

M. V. Towns

Requiem mass was celebrated today for Maurice Vincent Towns, 40-year-old resident of 102 Stewart St., who died in hospital Sunday following a lengthy illness.

Funeral services were conducted from the residence at nine o'clock to Sacred Heart Church where mass was celebrated by the Rev. G. F. Sullivan. The Rt. Rev. P. P. Butler was in the sanctuary. The Rev. J. J. McCarthy conducted graveside prayers late at St. Joseph's Cemetery, Douro.

Pallbearers were Patrick Barry, Joseph Convey, William Bannon, James Lamey, Thomas Lamey and Marshall Wynn.

CONFESSIONAL GOES OUTDOORS — Three women kneel at open-air confessionals at the Sanctuary of the Divine Love near Rome, Italy. The confessionals, believed to be the only outdoor rural confession boxes, were erected near the spot where Madonna is reported to have appeared to a Roman girl in 1760.

WITH THE BOY SCOUTS

By CHARLES H. SPEARIN

During the past two weeks most of the cub packs and scout troops have entered into the spirit of the Christmas season with parties, games, refreshments and viewing of films. The 9th Parkhill group held a large party Friday evening at which more than 80 cubs, scouts, brownies, guides and their friends attended. The 1st St. John's cubs held their Christmas party last week at which time Skipper Groombridge introduced their new rector, the Rev. F. G. Ongley, to the pack.

The scout and cub Mothers' Auxiliaries of the various groups throughout the city have had a very busy time these last two weeks because it is they who generally arrange for and provide the refreshments at special parties. We are sure you will agree a large vote of thanks is due them for their time and effort spent in making these special occasions the success they are.

16th TRINITY TROOP

The 16th Trinity Scouts combined their regular meeting with an investiture ceremony and Christmas party.

Three boys were invested as boy scouts in a candlelight ceremony conducted by S. M. Dick Batten. The boys were Allan Jamieson, Leslie Mann and Alan Paton. A musical program followed, with carol singing, accompanied by Mrs. Oscar Jamieson at the piano, and instrumental solos and duets by Alan Paton, Leslie Mann, Del Smith, Brian Malcolm and David Dunham.

A lively game and the closing ceremonies ended the regular meeting, which was followed by a Christmas treat by the ladies of the scout Mothers' Auxiliary. On behalf of the troop, Donald Spearin thanked the ladies for their consideration and favors.

It was announced that the next regular meeting would be held on January 6, 1954.

7th ST. PAUL'S TROOP

In an impressive ceremony at last week's regular meeting of the 7th St. Paul's troops the following boys were invested into the brotherhood of scouting: Richard Ward, Brian Price, Phillip Dawson, beaver patrol; and Barry LeRoy, cougar patrol. Following the meeting the boys performed a collective good turn by helping the ladies set up tables for the Christmas party of the primary class of the Sunday school.

2nd ST. LUKE'S PACK

A new and different "good turn" was introduced at the St. Luke's cub pack Christmas party last week. Instead of the boys exchanging gifts among themselves, each boy invited his mother to the party and presented her with a gift. During the evening the mothers also took part in the games.

Under the leadership of Akela G. W. King and his five assistants, the St. Luke's pack of 36 cubs is one of the busiest in the city. The following tests were passed at the meeting previous to the Christmas party: Ron Perry, Richard Lee and Fred James, Union flag; Ken Starr, highway code; Garry Robinson, National Anthem; Jim McGowan, compass; Ted Fullbrook, book balancing; Kim Salonius, knots (second star); Ted Fullbrook, knots (first star). The following badges were awarded; Blair Greenly, guide badge; Ron James, team players; Art McNabb, team players; Blair Greenly, athlete's badge; David Pilley, toymaker's badge.

To the friends of scouting, to the cubs, scouts, rovers, girl guides and brownies, we wish you all a very joyous holiday season.

5TH PETERBOROUGH

Cubs and Scouts of All Saints' Church got together Thursday night for their Christmas party. Following the film, the ladies' auxiliary supplied food. Drinks were donated by a local company which sponsored the film. Each of the boys was given a present.

Four Of Quintuplets Home For Christmas

NORTH BAY (CP)—Four of the 19-year-old Dionne quintuplets will be home for Christmas. The fifth, Marie, who has entered the Holy Sacrament convent in Quebec City to become a nun, will be absent.

Yvonne and Emilie have arrived home to join their parents for Christmas. Yvonne is studying art at the Notre Dame Congregation in Montreal. Emilie is taking a domestic science course at the Institut Familial in Nicolet, Que.

They will be joined the day before Christmas by Cecile and Annette who are studying at Nicolet.

Christmas Services Held In Churches

SELWYN (ENS). — Christmastide Holy Communion was celebrated in St. Aidan's Anglican church, Young's Point, Sunday morning at 9 a.m., with the Rev. Nind of Port Hope the celebrant, assisted by Mr. Bevan Monks.

The church was beautiful in festive greens, with candles in all the windows and red poinsettias adding a gay touch of color. Red and white carnations were placed on the altar.

A carol service is planned for Christmas Eve in the church.

The service at 11 a.m. in Selwyn United Church was well attended. A junior choir of boys and girls sang "Away in a Manger," under the direction of the organist, Mrs. Ivy Northey.

"O Holy Night" wass ung as a "O Holy Night" was sung as a Familiar Christmas carols were sung throughout the service.

$350 Salary Boost For Firefighters

GUELPH (CP) — Guelph fire fighters got a welcome Christmas present today in the form of a $350 salary boost recommended by an arbitration board. The increase is retroactive to Jan. 1, 1953, and the firemen are expected to receive the amount in a lump sum before Christmas.

Firemen who have under five years' service will get seven days holidays. Those with five years or more are to receive 14 days with seven additional days pay in lieu of statutory holidays.
